

ARMY UNITS LEAVING ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Troops brought to Maxwell Air Force base two weeks ago for possible use during the Birmingham racial disturbance began pulling out Saturday for Ft. Bragg, N. C.

A base spokesman said the troops would go by motor convoy to Ft. Benning, Ga., and then fly directly to Ft. Bragg.

At Washington, a spokesman for the Department of Defense said a rifle company and a military police unit, totaling approximately 600 men, were involved.

THE SPOKESMAN said the other troops which had been sent to Ft. McClellan, Ala., are not being removed.

On May 12 President Kennedy ordered Army troops trained in riot control to move into Maxwell AFB and Ft. McClellan after a night of rioting in racially tense Birmingham. The troops were not ordered into the city.

Kennedy said he had ordered the troops to nearby Alabama bases in event local law enforcement officials were unable to cope with the situation.

A week ago Alabama Gov. George Wallace asked the U.S. Supreme Court to declare the President's move invalid on grounds that the governor had not requested any federal troops to deal with the situation.

AT THE TIME of the original troop movements, Pentagon officials said approximately 3,000 men were involved.

The Pentagon on May 13 disclosed that the units moved to Maxwell Air Force Base were elements of the 503rd Military Police Battalion and one company from the 1st Battle Group, 325th Infantry, 82nd Airborne Division, both from Ft. Bragg.

They were flown to Maxwell, about 80 miles south-east of Birmingham.

A brigade of the 2nd Infantry Division was moved by truck from Ft. McClellan, which is about 50 miles east of Birmingham.

A spokesman at Maxwell said some of the troops left Saturday in 75 support vehicles, including trucks, jeeps and ambulances, and others were flown out.

Ft. McClellan, where the bulk of the troops are still based, is about 119 miles from Tuscaloosa, home of the University of Alabama.

Two Negroes are scheduled to be enrolled at the university June 10. One will enter at Tuscaloosa and the other at a branch in Huntsville.

30 African Lands Link for Liberty

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI)—A new organization linking 30 independent African nations was born here Saturday night in a ceremony climaxing the largest gathering of heads of state ever held. The 30 African countries contain 200 million persons.

The heads of state signed a charter for an organization of African unity to replace rival blocs within the continent.

The charter was designed to weld a new force dedicated to economic development of Africa and to total liberation from colonial rule.

Signing of the charter, expected eventually to turn Africa into the largest neutralist bloc in the world, represented a victory for Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who worked for a year to bring it about.

Jail Mom as Beaten Tot Dies

A Dairyland woman, Evelyn Evon Bush, 20, of 2971 Crescent, was booked late Saturday by Orange County Sheriff's detectives on suspicion of murdering her two-year-old daughter Linda.

Detectives O. W. Waite and H. L. Mitchell said the 20-year-old mother of three confessed striking her daughter at 11 a.m. Saturday because "she was playing in the flour bin."

Officers said the mother ran out into the street at 1:30 p.m. and stopped a passing motorist saying that her daughter had stopped breathing.

The motorist took the mother and child to the Crescent fire station where resuscitator action was applied. The child was transported to Lincoln Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

An autopsy by the Orange County Coroner placed the cause of death as hematoma due to severe brain damage caused by a blow on the head. Numerous bruises and a broken arm were also revealed by the medical examination.

Sheriff's investigators said the woman, estranged from her husband, has two other children, a 3-year-old boy and 7-month-old baby.

IT ALSO signified the determination of Africa's newly independent states to wrest remaining African territories from colonial or minority white control.

The chiefs of state, weary from their long meeting here, began signing the historic document at 5:38 p.m.

Premier Ahmed ben Bella was the first to sign as the conference chamber burst into loud applause. The other heads of state followed him in alphabetical order in groups of four.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic was the last to put his signature to the charter. Neither Morocco nor Burundi signed.

SPECTATORS applauded every head of state as he took his turn in jam-packed Africa Hall, a modernistic rotunda building built by the United Nations.

The ceremonies climaxed 11 days of work by about 400 delegates that began with a conference of foreign ministers on May 15.

For millions of Africans, it was as important a meeting as the signing of the U. N. Charter in San Francisco in 1946.

Citizens Blast Litter in L.B.

By MARY ELLIS

Long Beach is long on beaches, but short on beauty.

That's the consensus voiced by 208 militant readers who responded to the L. P-T's recent "Will You Help Beautify the City?" questionnaire.

The nine-point questionnaire was run in cooperation with the civic beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce petticoat division, which Friday launched a sweeping campaign to "clean-up, paint-up, fix-up" Long Beach.

And if written response is any indication, they'll have plenty of support at the grass roots.

A resounding 88 percent who returned questionnaires answered "no" to the query: "Does Long Beach meet your qualifications for a beautiful city?"

Sixty-one included letters to say why.

Their biggest gripes: untended vacant lots; litter in streets, on sidewalks and in beach areas.

Of six beauty problems listed (most people checked more than one), the above complaint was in the forefront with 116 votes.

Next, with 92 votes, came individual owners' lack of pride in appearance of their properties.

Also cited were unrestricted use of signs and billboards, unsightly commercial and industrial areas, also inadequate city planning in regard to zoning and building restrictions.

More than half who answered the poll believed tougher, more strictly enforced antilitter laws would have the greatest effect in attaining a more beautiful Long Beach.

Next: beautification of the beach areas.

They voted, 161 strong, for beautification of downtown Long Beach. The Peace Corpsman, 26, 'Buys' African Bride

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—American Peace Corps volunteer Dan Carmody of Orange, Calif., handed over 25 pounds ($70) to his future father-in-law Saturday and became officially engaged to a Ghanaian girl.

In a traditional betrothal ceremony, Carmody also presented his bride-to-be, 23-year-old Grace Abenaa Oparebea Dei, with a ring and a Bible.

The couple plan to marry in July when the Ghanaian school at which Carmody teaches science begins the summer vacation.

The 26-year-old American, of 1520 W. Almond Ave., will be the first Peace Corps volunteer to marry a Ghanaian girl.

Carmody requested that no news pictures be taken of the betrothal ceremony.

In Orange, Carmody's mother, Mrs. Fritz Carmody, declined comment on their son's engagement.

"I don't want to give out any information," said Mrs. Carmody.

REPUBLICANS REPORT:

Brown Curses Own Party's Foes of Tax

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An assembly Republican leader accused Gov. Brown Saturday of cursing Democratic legislative leaders in an angry outburst in his office.

The charge was made before a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland. Mulford is assembly Republican caucus leader.

Mulford described a desk-pounding scene in which he said the governor's language was "disgraceful."

Mulford said the outburst was made Friday when he and Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, GOP minority leader, were summoned to the governor's office. Conrad confirmed Mulford's statement.

Mulford said they were discussing the Republican caucus agreement to stall the governor's budget until his proposed personal income-withholding tax system is killed.

SACRAMENTO — Multi-million-dollar projects on San Diego Harbor, San Gabriel River, Garden Grove and Newport freeways have been completed or are nearing final stages of construction.

That was the progress report Saturday of State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack, who revealed 400 miles of freeways and expressways have been under recent construction in California.

A Womack report on California's 2,584-mile system of multilane divided highways revealed this status on projects in the Long Beach area.

San Diego Freeway — First Orange County section advertised for bids. Freeway to be completed by mid-1964 between Long Beach Freeway and Orange County line. A 41-mile link between San Fernando and Long Beach Freeway is virtually complete.

Garden Grove Freeway — Work is in progress at the interchange of Garden Grove, Santa Ana and Orange freeways and at two other locations in Orange County. Budgeted projects will extend the freeway between San Diego Freeway and Bolsa Chica Road and for a mile in the City of Orange.

San Gabriel River Freeway — This freeway is under construction for seven miles between Whittier Boulevard and San Bernardino Freeway and the section is to be completed next year. Budgeted projects

CONFLAGRATION POTENTIAL HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Southland Facing Worst Forest Fire Season

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
L. P-T Outdoor Editor

With spring's first big holiday (Memorial Day) slated for this week, it is well to call to the attention of all outdoor lovers:

CONFLAGRATION POTENTIAL!

Watch that discarded and burning cigarette!

Watch a match that hasn't been stamped out!

Watch those youngsters who want to play with matches, fires, or even firecrackers if they can find them!

Watch out for anything that is burning! If you see a fire don't take it for granted that somebody already has reported it; report it yourself.

Already Southern California's green countryside is starting to turn brown. State politicians and representatives of chambers of commerce glamorize "brown" by calling it "golden."

But golden or brown, that dry grass is a threat to California this year such as we never have known before.

The March and April rains painted the entire state a bright green and most of us marvelled at our beautiful California.

But that's exactly where the trouble will originate. When that grass turns brown, a tiny flame can set off brush fires so violent that one would think the ground was covered with jet-aircraft fuel.

James K. Mace, Deputy State Forester for the California Division of Forestry, says:

"Once such grasses are ignited, fire will rapidly spread in wildland brush areas and it is estimated that an average 50-acre brush fire can release the same energy as a 20-kiloton atomic bomb."

You possibly are wondering why such a situation confronts California when so many late rains fell. Then read this special report from the Pacific Southwest Forest and Range Experimental Station at Berkeley:

"Conflagration potential this summer may be 6 to 100 times greater than in the drought years of the 1930s. Developments contributing to this conflagration potential are (1) past years of drought conditions; (2) dead fuels in wildland areas, and (3) people.

"California's population is growing by at least 1,600 persons per day and that means an increased use of our recreational wildland areas where conflagration potential is now threatening."

The dead fuels referred to in the above quotation mean all of that dead brush which has developed in the past several drought years.

There is a definite distinction between the United States Forest Service and the California Division of Forestry, which is a part of the Department of Conservation.

Even so, the two services, plus fire departments of

L.A.C. Says: Domestic Peace Corps a Political Machine?

There have been rumors of a domestic peace corps to help the poor people in this country—much as the present peace corps is supposed to be helping the poor people in Africa and other backward countries. But there is also concern that such a program here would result in a gigantic political machine to spread the propaganda of the party in power. The President's brother is given credit for the President's election and for his political acumen. The following editorial from the Chicago Sun-Times gives some idea of how the plan is progressing. The editorial was repeated in the Congressional Record of March 6, 1963.

The editorial says:
"If you should be in Washington with an overpowering urge to make a telephone call and you should happen to call Dunkirk 2-3961 (or you can call from here, the area code is 202—it will please Illinois Bell Telephone) you will be answered by a nice feminine voice advising you that you are connected with the Domestic Peace Corps. Should you ask for employment the pleasant voice will tell you to fill out government standard form 57, found at any post office, and mail it in with a covering letter. The man in charge of the Domestic Peace Corps is Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, who has two brothers somewhere in government."

The strange thing about this telephone call is that you are talking to a government agency that will accept your application for employment—but the agency does not exist. Congress has passed no legislation creating a Domestic Peace Corps.

But there it is. As large as life. Staffed with 25 people, all of whom are being paid. Equipped with telephones, desks, typewriters, paper, carbon paper, paper clips, waste baskets, in and out baskets and all other necessities of a functioning office. Yet they do not exist. Someone is paying for all this. Someone is paying the rent on the third floor offices of the Domestic Peace Corps at 736 Jackson Place in Washington, D.C. They may not exist but payrolls are being met, fringe benefits honored and vacations being earned. And we'll warrant there are expense accounts being honored. But the Domestic Peace Corps does not exist, as a government agency.

The Domestic Peace Corps is not an agency of the government: no enabling legislation has been offered. But in preparation for the day when it is offered there is an office, there are people, there is an organization chart, there are lobbyists—there is even a public relations program in force."

The reader may well ask if such a program is needed in this country regardless of its political implications. But if they will review the political attitude of the President's brother and campaign manager, they will have little doubt about the political use that would be made of it. It has not been approved by Congress. But apparently such approval is expected. It is a good time for all who are interested to place their views before their congressmen and senators. Without opposition from the home folk it is probable it will become one more bureaucratic-controlled political machine—paid for by all the people.—L.A.C.

17,000 Elks to Wind Up State Convention Today

The colossal, fun-filled 48th California Elks Convention entered its final day in the small hours this morning with 17,000 and lines were waiting at the registration desk. The Long Beach Lodge grossly underestimated the number who would register. SATURDAY offered Elks the typical lavish choice of events. New officers were installed in a solemn lodge ceremony. A colorful parade of 150 units from many lodges and other organizations was staged in the afternoon in Veterans Memorial Stadium. Harbor cruises, a trip to Chavez Ravine, a variety show and dancing filled out the entertainment. Thousands dined at a luau in the evening.

MRS. CHUNG HOPEFUL

Elks Chase Despair but It Lurks Nearby

By MARK CLUTTER
Perhaps the most radiant person at the very happy California Elks Convention is a gracious little Oriental woman. She glows with charm as she presides over a booth full of Korean art objects. No one, seeing her now, would guess that Mrs. Chung Han Kap was in darkest despair only three days ago. She had massive troubles then, and her troubles still are fairly mountainous. But now she lives in hope because of the kindness of others. Mrs. Chung brought her merchandise from Korea to the Long Beach International Trade Fair, hoping to sell it here and at other American events to make money for Korean orphans. Unfortunately, it did not sell very well. She was overwhelmed with the feeling she had let her friends and backers down.

THEN THE Elks heard of her plight. Much of the charity of the Elks goes to aid children—so why not aid Korean children? They set up a booth in the main lobby of the Elks Club. Mrs. Chung had a busy and happy Saturday. Elks and their wives were talking to her, admiring her merchandise and buying, all day long. She doesn't know yet whether two days of business will solve her financial problem. But she does know something more important. She knows how kind Americans are when they understand a need. "I am so grateful," she said. "I am going to write to my government to tell them

86 Love Songs Banned by Vietnamese

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—President Ngo Dinh Diem's government banned another 86 sentimental love songs Saturday, but the city's sophisticated set was said to be winking at Viet Nam's puritanical laws.

The songs banned by the latest official edict raised to 286 the number of tunes outlawed since the beginning of the year. The government says that sad and sentimental songs are detrimental to the national morale in the fight against the Communists.

Records of banned numbers were reported to be selling at a booming rate.

Party Line OKs the Twist

VIENNA (AP)—The twist, frowned upon in some Communist countries as a product of Western decadence, has been officially recommended to elderly Hungarians with rheumatism.

Said the Communist Party Daily Zalai Hirlap: "The twist is not only animating but also has a healing effect. The labor union hospital in Heviz (on Lake Balaton) applies the twist as physiotherapy. Doctors recommend it to elderly patients suffering from rheumatism because it loosens the muscles and prompts the process of healing."

$110,000,000 A-Sub Keel Laid in Yard

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—The keel of the nuclear Polaris missile-firing submarine Benjamin Franklin was laid Saturday without ceremony, marking the start of construction of the 12th big-punch sub at Electric Boat. Franklin will cost $110 million to build. It will be 425 feet long and displace 7,000 tons. A member of the Lafayette class, the Franklin will pack 16 Polaris missiles capable of hitting targets 2,500 miles away. Franklin's launching is planned for next year. LONG BEACH teams won first place in pistol-shooting and billiards. Members of the pistol team are Bob Rosebrough, Tom Maddry, Ken Carpenter and Hal Davis. The billiards team is made up of Bob Slatton, John Council and Jack Kerner. The program today includes fishing, tours and cruises, baseball game, a farewell dinner and dancing.

Three 15-minute breaks—a look at the outside world—were allowed Saturday, but at 6 p.m., the shelter was locked and plans were to keep it that way, barring a real emergency, until Sunday morning.

Most of the day Saturday was spent in lectures by civil defense leaders and most of the night was spent learning to live on cots, biscuits and water, and without television.

Do You Pay Taxes? Fires Cost Money

FORESTRY BUDGET $22 MILLION

counties such as Los Angeles, work in close cooperation.

The USFS has its own fire-control department to fight fires in the national forests, while the CDF adhere mostly to fires on private lands.

Such a setup presents a pleasant picture, but man has caused many complications. A national forest isn't just one great acreage of government-controlled land. There are miners, settlers, claim-holders and other private individuals who have changed a national forest into a crazy-quilt pattern of private and government property.

Perhaps a private piece of land is surrounded by a national forest. It is then that the USFS and the CDF have to decide which service will battle a fire.

There are times when all services have to unite to fight fires. Great blazes can be that serious. There are other times when the USFS hires the CDF to fight a fire because its men can get there sooner. The reverse also is true.

There is no breakdown on what California taxpayers paid for the services of the USFS last year, but it is costing Californians $22 million per year to maintain the Division of Forestry. And the CDF, like other state governmental agencies, says it needs even more money.

The CDF reports that statewide there were 3,023 forest and brush fires in California last year, causing an estimated damage of $1,550,000. Burned-over areas totaled 92,702 acres. Bear in mind that those figures have nothing to do with national forests.

In addition, the CDF says that there were 1,944 fires which were classified as "nonforest," meaning buildings, vehicles and the like.

Switching to Angeles National Forest in Los Angeles County, we find 90 fires that burned over 10,000 acres. Only one of those blazes was caused by lightning; humans started the other 89.

That's about par for the course, too, because the average for many years in and out of the forests has been nine out of 10 caused by humans.

Smoking, incendiarism and children playing with matches were the primary causes of all fires in Angeles National Forest in 1962.

The year also brought to an end the five-year "firebugging" of an individual in Angeles. Fortunately he is behind bars.

The Southland's main problem, as well as that for the rest of the state, is people. We who have lived in our forests and in brush country for many years have become educated to the fact that there is such danger.

But what about those

1,600 who are coming across the border daily to make this state their home? Perhaps they came from an area where they also knew the danger of brush and forest fires; perhaps not. And there are those who never learn.

Possibly they came from cities where flipping a match or cigarette out of a car window meant nothing.

The CDF is heading up a tremendous public relations program in an effort to show all citizens, particularly children in schools, what the forest-fire potential is in California.

THE CDF has set up seven conservation camps and one training center in San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and San Diego Counties in an effort to prevent fires from spreading.

The workers in those camps are volunteers from the Chino State Prison and there will be a peak number of 520 when the 1963 fire season gets into full sway. The men are carefully screened and have proved to be good workers.

Their jobs consist of fire control, construction of firebreaks (hazard reduction, it's called), insect control, nursery for trees, public campgrounds and stream improvement.

They put in 5½ million man-hours of work in 1961.

Fire Chief Keith E. Klinger, of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, just about sums it all up this way:

REMEMBER. ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FIRES!

France Will Join NATO A-Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville was understood to have assured President Kennedy Sunday that the De Gaulle government aims at eventual coordination of its independent nuclear force with other nuclear forces in the Atlantic Alliance.

This means, as the French have previously indicated, that President Charles de Gaulle is keeping the door open to nuclear cooperation and hopes to narrow the split in NATO that has grown out of his decision to build an independent nuclear force for France.

Couve de Murville and Kennedy conferred at the White House for 70 minutes at midday. Later, Couve de Murville and other French officials lunched with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and a party of State Department officials abroad the Navy cabin cruiser Patrick J.

IN THEIR wide-ranging discussion, Kennedy and Couve de Murville took up the possibility that Communist China will develop nuclear weapons, a prospect which would require a shift in the West's security arrangements.

Couve de Murville, informants said, told Kennedy that France regards the dispute over its insistence on its own nuclear force as the most important disagreement it has with the United States so far as NATO problems are concerned.

But he was reported to have made clear that in the French view this problem should be settled within the framework of the alliance, a principle leading to ultimate integration of French nuclear strategy with that of the other powers in NATO.

U.S. OFFICIALS found this to be encouraging evidence that in spite of the wide break, De Gaulle wants to limit the damage to the alliance and keep the disagreements under careful control.

Kennedy was reported to have expressed to Couve de

Murville his admiration for the way in which the De Gaulle government has been able to expand its industrial production without bringing on serious inflation in France.

This led to a discussion of the U.S. balance of payments problems. Kennedy told the foreign minister that the United States is still deeply concerned about the excess of its dollar expenditures abroad over its dollar income.

State Pushes Ahead on Nearby Freeways

will extend it southerly to 166th Street in Dairy Valley and provide a 2.4-mile link between Kazez Avenue and the San Diego Freeway in Orange County.

Newport Freeway — A 6½-mile section was completed last year, joining the Santa Ana and Riverside freeways in Orange County. Construction is to start soon on a two-mile section south of Santa Ana Freeway.

Harbor Freeway — Now open for 22 miles between the four-level interchange at Los Angeles civic center and Battery Street in San Pedro as result of a four-mile section between 208th Street and Pacific Coast Highway which was completed last October.

Vincent Thomas Bridge—This $21-million toll bridge between San Pedro and Terminal Island is to open in the autumn, and will replace a ferry service.

Los Angeles Loop—A 23-mile freeway loop, opened in 1962, skirts downtown Los Angeles. It involves portions of the Golden State and Santa Monica freeways and includes the Los Angeles interchange. It reduces congestion on the four-level interchange of the Harbor, Pasadena, Hollywood and Santa Ana freeways.

Womack credits the present 372-mile freeway system in the three counties of Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura for a $12-million reduction in accident costs and a $221-million saving in time. His estimate was that 5.8 billion miles were logged over the three-county Southland freeway system.

The state's highway engineer took an optimistic view on future congestion in spite of an expected California population increase of 30 million persons in the next 17 years. Traffic congestion will be less in 1980, he said.

California has made some of its most dramatic gains in highway mobility in the past year, he added. He also reported that the state now has adopted routes on 53 percent of its projected 12,400-mile, freeway-expressway system.

Victim of Hiccups Finds People 'Good'

"People are wonderful, and I don't know how to express my gratitude," said Robert Velkov, 25, of Artesia, whose attack of hiccups is now in its 16th day.

Many visitors have come to his home at 12029 E. 169th ave., he said.

Officials Warn Numerous County 'Special Interests' in Tax Break Try

More than $100 million in assessed valuation would be cut from Los Angeles County's tax rolls next year if "special interest" legislation now pending in the State Legislature is passed.

If this should happen, the burden would fall on other taxpayers.

This warning was sounded last week by both Supervisor Kenneth Hahn and County Assessor Philip E. Watson.

Hahn asserted the special interest bills are "chipping away at the tax base—with a sledgehammer."

Bills pending would provide tax exemptions for such industries as motion pictures, shipbuilding, fish canneries, lumber, yachts, rubber, hemp, private airports and oil and petroleum products, he said.

Hahn admitted that "each of these special interests has merit in its claims."

They argue that a tax break for them will create more jobs and stimulate trade for California, I won't dispute that.

Muslims' Jurors Resting

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An all-Caucasian jury, deliberating the fate of 14 members of the Black Muslim cult accused of assault in a riot against police, Saturday was locked up for the weekend.

Superior Court Judge David Coleman ordered the panel of 10 women and two men to return to an undisclosed downtown hotel and to return to court Monday to resume deliberations. The jurors began weighing the case earlier Saturday.

AUTHORITIES maintained a tight secrecy over the activities of the panel. They would not give the name of the hotel and would say only the jurors would "take a bus ride" today.

Judge Coleman instructed the panel and formally placed the case in its hands Friday. Then the panel was locked up in the hotel for the night.

In the street riot last April 27 outside a Muslim temple here, one sect member was shot and killed, six more were wounded and seven policemen were injured. The melee began when two officers started to question two Negroes about a load of clothing in their parked car.

THIRTEEN of the cultists face felony assault charges. The 14th, John Morris, a Black Muslim minister, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Calcolm X, the No. 2 Black Muslim official in the nation, was in the courtroom Friday when the jury received the case.

Teacher Beat Girl, 10, Pupil's Mom Says

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—A city public school teacher, accused of beating a 10-year-old girl with a paddle, was charged with assault and battery by the girl's mother Saturday.

Mrs. Marie Holzelaw, filed the complaint against Mrs. Louise Apple, alleging that her daughter, Joann, was struck with a paddle earlier in the week.

NEW DISTRICTS FOR SUPERVISORS

New boundaries for the 1st, 2nd and 4th Supervisorial Districts, effective next month are outlined above. Dash-dot lines show the old districts; the lighter dotted lines show the way boundaries have been changed to make population distribution more nearly equal. Additional changes now are being proposed.

Cities Split in Redistricting Oppose County Board's Action

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The latest proposed revisions of Los Angeles County's five supervisorial districts, to make them more nearly equal in population distribution, have drawn considerable opposition.

Last Tuesday, Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli proposed that additional portions of his district—largest of the five—be split off and given to Supervisors Ernest E. Debs and Warren M. Dorn.

BONELLI suggested that all territory north of Foothill Boulevard in the Sierra Madre-to-Glendale area be transferred to Dorn's district. Territory west of Garfield Avenue in Alhambra and Monterey Park was proposed for transfer to Debs.

These transfers, however, would involve splitting about 12 cities between two supervisorial districts, and spokesmen in the cities last week voiced opposition to such moves.

In Long Beach, portions of the city east of Cherry Ave. and north of Pacific Coast Highway are represented by Bonelli. Signal Hill and the rest of Long Beach are represented by Supervisor Burton W. Chace.

LONG BEACH officials, however, approve the two-supervisor representation because of the city's size.

The original changes ordered May 14 become effective in 30 days. Supervisors may make any additional changes until Oct. 6. The law provides such realignment must be made within one year after a general election. Because the ordinance takes 30 days to become effective, this would make Oct. 6 the deadline to make the changes legal by Nov. 6.

Episcopal Chief in Bias Fight Call

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Episcopalians to do three things:

1. "Actively support" efforts in every community, "North and South," to eliminate racial barriers in housing, employment, public accommodations and schools.
2. "Give money" to Negro organizations fighting for racial justice. "The struggle of Negro Americans for their rights is costly," he said, "and they need help."
3. Take immediate steps in every Episcopal diocese and parish to eliminate the "intolerable scandal" of "discrimination within the body of the church itself."

He said that many church-related schools and other institutions "have a considerable distance to go in bringing their practices up to the standard" of racial inclusiveness set by the church.

In this connection, he called attention to the recent action of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, D.C., which served notice that it will withdraw both moral and financial support from any church-related agency or institution which fails to eliminate segregation within the next six months.

Brown Rallies Demos for 1964

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's Democratic leaders sounded the call to the party rank and file Saturday to get going on plans for the 1964 election campaign.

Gov. Brown tabbed President Kennedy as a commanding favorite over any possible opponent to carry the big state he lost in 1960. But he said Democrats can't afford to coast.

"Let's get to work," he told the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee. "It's time to show solidarity behind the President," agreed Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, a Democratic national committeeman.

THE COMMITTEE solidly backed Kennedy and Brown in a series of resolutions capping its unruffled one-day meeting.

The committee urged Democratic majorities in both houses to support two of Gov. Brown's most controversial proposals—a fair housing act and withholding tax. It also endorsed his bills for a new $150 million beaches and parks bond issue and regulation of installment buying.

N.Y. Times Chief Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher of the New York Times, died Saturday in Columbia Presbyterian medical Center of a heart attack following a brief illness. He was 50.

He entered the hospital for rest and treatment for heart strain on April 15, less than three weeks after the end of the city's three-month newspaper strike.

His health became impaired during strenuous activity brought on by the dispute.

The Times' staff dropped from 5,000 to 900 during the strike and Dryfoos and his advisers mobilized the 900 to keep the paper's Western and European editions and its news services in operation.

In Washington, President Kennedy said that in the death of Dryfoos, "American journalism has lost one of its most distinguished figures."

Blasts Rip Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—A thunderous explosion blew a hole in the Louisiana Capitol's lawn near Sen. Huey P. Long's grave Saturday and a second blast shook the Louisiana State University campus.

Some LSU students thought the 63,000-seat football stadium had been blown up. There were no reports of injuries in either explosion and there was no damage at LSU.

But the explosion at the Capitol broke at least 40 windows, including some 26 stories up, and a big window in the basement press room. It also cracked windows in nearby apartments, and broke at least one apartment window.

Negroes Give City Respite

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Negro students called a temporary halt to their anti-segregation demonstrations Saturday night, giving civic officials the weekend to work out a solution to the city's racial crisis.

Bill Thomas, 20-year-old sociology student who has led 14 consecutive nights of demonstrations, announced that protest marches have been suspended until 4 p.m. today. He said this would give Mayor David Schenck and businessmen time to work on the problem.

Everest Yanks Struggle Down

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—Two Americans with frost-bitten feet began painfully edging their way down Mt. Everest Saturday night when pilots said they were too high to reach by helicopter, it was reported here.

The two men, William Unsoeld and Barry C. Bishop, whose feet became frostbitten during an unprecedented twin assault on the world's highest peak, were reported working their way toward some stone huts at 16,000 feet. The huts house local tribesmen who pasture their yaks there in midsummer.

Quakes Rock Denver Area

DENVER (AP)—The Denver area was shaken Saturday by the most violent earth tremor ever recorded here. There were, however, no reports of property damage or of anyone injured. The tremor was logged at 3:44 a.m. MST at Regis College Seismologic Observatory.

The tremor, one of about 300 felt in the last year, was centered at Derby, north of Denver.

Plane Glides Safely Through Underpass

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A fly after 3 p.m. on a pleasure pilot steered his faltering flight. The pilot told police that ing through an underpass as the light plane labored amid heavy traffic on Shirley highway Saturday.

The single-engine craft flown by Richard Overton Spencer of Arlington, glided down neatly between speeding cars in the northbound lane of the highway, swept under Route 7 and rolled to a stop among dumfounded motorists.

THE PILOT refused to answer any questions by reporters.

Virginia State Police reported that Spencer took off alone from a local airport feet to a stop it was towed about half a mile away short off the highway.

China Expert K's Top Man

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

The dour Marxist theoretician, now 61, appears to have moved quickly into Soviet hierarchy's No. 2 power seat, vacated by ailing Frol R. Kozlov.

Suslov has taken over many of Kozlov's duties as to be sympathetically inclined toward Chinese views. He once was described by Western Kremlinologists as a fanatical Stalinist.

Some observers here believe Moscow's restraint and stubbornly conciliatory attitude in the face of vitriolic Chinese and Albanian attacks is largely due to Suslov's influence.

SUSLOV has been Khrushchev's key adviser in the four-year-old ideological struggle with Peking's leaders. He is generally credited with mapping much of the Soviet's day-to-day strategy. Ironically, he is regarded as the most doctrinate of the Party leaders and was thought to be sympathetically inclined toward Chinese views. He once was described by Western Kremlinologists as a fanatical Stalinist.

Some observers here believe Moscow's restraint and stubbornly conciliatory attitude in the face of vitriolic Chinese and Albanian attacks is largely due to Suslov's influence.

SUSLOV flew to Peking in 1959 to placate Peking's leaders who were fuming over Khrushchev's good will tour of the United States.

The Soviet leader himself showed up a few days later, straight from Washington, to answer the Chinese criticism

Although Suslov appeared somewhat less enthusiastic than Khrushchev about the possibilities for relaxing East-West tensions by diplomacy at the Summit, he firmly backed his chief's rejection of the Chinese protests.

Since that time, Khrushchev

HEALTH CHIEF REPORTS

Birthrate in L.B.
Lowest in Decade

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach's birthrate, continuing a gradual decline, has reached the lowest figure within the last decade.

The 1962 rate was 25.3 per 1,000 population, compared with 26.2 in 1961 and 34.6 in 1952. Highest rate within 10 years was 36.8 in 1953.

But the death rate also is continuing to edge downward. It was 8.3 per 1,000 population in 1962, against 8.4 in 1961 and 9.3 in 1952. Only once in 10 years has there been a lower death rate than last year's. That was the 1955 rate of 8.2.

The figures are revealed in the annual report of the Municipal Health Department, just issued by Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer.

The 18-page summary shows progress in some respects and continuing problems in others, Dr. Litwack noted.

AMONG THE HIGH points on the bright side:

Mass use of Sabin oral vaccine has eliminated paralytic polio as a public health threat.

Most diseases for which preventive measures are available continued to decrease or have disappeared. Again in 1962 there were no reported cases of typhoid, smallpox, diphtheria or tetanus.

Environmental control measures have eliminated food-borne outbreaks from Long Beach.

Measles, epidemic in 1961, decreased to a few cases in 1962.

There has not been a case of animal rabies in Long Beach since 1956.

A new activity launched during the year, the Alcohol Rehabilitation Center, attracted wide community support. Of 218 applicants, 180 were accepted for treatment. Length of time in treatment ranged from less than one month to nine months.

ON THE UNFAVORABLE side:

The 210 infant deaths produced a rate of 23.4 per 1,000 live births, an increase over the 1961 rate of 21. The Health Department, in conjunction with community groups, is investigating the causes.

Suicide was again one of the 10 leading causes of death—63 during the year. The department hopes ultimately to establish a suicide-prevention service similar to the one in Los Angeles.

Veneral disease continued to increase. The 890 reported cases were a rise of 44.7 per cent over the 1961 record.

Fair Booster

One of the community's most effective women leaders, Mrs. George "Betsy" Taubman, is urging adoption of Proposition "A" at the June 4 election for the California World's Fair at Long Beach in 1967-68. Mrs. Taubman says the Fair will be of outstanding benefit to the city, area and the State.

"The excellent publicity to our community and the State of California from the Fair, the anticipated millions of people who will come here, and the beautiful, permanent buildings can be of great value to our city," said Mrs. Taubman.

K'S Bellicose Talk Hints Kremlin Spilt

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's strong and belligerent support of Cuba's Fidel Castro in Moscow last Thursday was taken here in Washington as further evidence that Khrushchev is hardening his foreign-policy line.

The Russian leader warned that United States interference in the affairs of Cuba could result in a situation which would be far more difficult than that which faced the world in October, 1962, during the missile-base crisis.

While Khrushchev's speech was obviously a reflection of his more blustery moods, it emphasized again that Khrushchev, at least in public, is talking less and less about "peaceful coexistence" and more and more about the clash between capitalism and communism. Thus while Khrushchev was speaking to Castro, he undoubtedly was not unaware that his ideological opponents, the Red Chinese, were listening to his words.

That Khrushchev is under irresistible pressure from the Red Chinese and from unnamed but nonetheless powerful forces within the Kremlin itself is clear. The sweetness and light with which Khrushchev once depicted the future relations of the West and East have completely disappeared. He had not so long ago publicly expressed his belief that the contest between the two systems could be waged without war and would be decided in the economic sphere. He was confident that in such a contest communism would bury capitalism. His more recent speeches, however, sound considerably more bellicose. They have tended to emphasize the physical struggle of communism versus capitalism and to play down the possibility that the two systems can exist side by side.

At the same time, Khrushchev made it clear that he wasn't backing down completely from his relatively mild stand. He declared he wasn't going to be part of the "delirious war talk," a phrase again quite obviously designed for Chinese ears. Khrushchev has named a delegation, headed by Suslov, to proceed to China where meetings will be held to try to iron out the differences in ideological thinking which are wracking the Communist world.

Khrushchev appears to be fundamentally in the position of a man who is clinging desperately to his own beliefs, but is being pushed somewhat away from them. Who or what is doing the pushing does not appear too clearly to the Russian experts here in Washington. To some degree, the Red Chinese are influencing his public utterances. They have reopened the aggressive nature of their Communist theories in Laos and things are far from quiet in nearby Thailand.

The Red Chinese alone probably would not cause a shift in Khrushchev's public posture. They are without doubt receiving important help in the Kremlin. The old hard-line Stalinists never have been completely purged from the inner councils of the Soviet Union and the guess here is that they are slaying a comeback. Unsubstantiated rumors maintain that the Soviet military is much more important in the present-day politics of Russia than it has been in recent years. These rumors are accepted here as being perfectly possible and there is no inclination to discount them. The mystery though is what position the military would take. Are they bolstering Khrushchev, who might otherwise be in danger, or are they supporting those who oppose him?

To those questions we may not know the answers for some time, but in Khrushchev's somewhat straddling posture at the moment lies more than a hint that the so-called monolithic Russian state is not at this time monolithic at all.

Asks Britons to Mend Ways

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Philip, noting reports that Britons are "malicious and intolerant" toward foreigners, said they should mend their ways.

"The general attitude of ordinary people to foreigners is very important," Queen Elizabeth's husband told The Travel and Holidays Association. "Let us make an effort to give every visitor a genuinely friendly welcome."

Diamond Jubilee Book to Be Published in August

Plans for publication of a new Press-Telegram executive book marking the growth and development of Long Beach, the International City, were announced Saturday by Al Code, president of Long Beach Diamond Jubilee Inc.

"Long Beach's 75 Years—Highlights and Anecdotes," is scheduled to go on sale in August.

Malcolm Epley, Independent Press-Telegram executive editor and chairman of the jubilee's historical division, will edit the book. Serving on Epley's editorial committee are Jess Holton, Joseph Daley, Don Kracke, Dr. Raymond Lindgren, Robert Ellis, Harry Fulton and Bill Boyd.

Tentative plans call for 75 pictures, each representing a significant event, development or a portrait of the city, to be included in the book.

Residents with information on Long Beach history and tradition are invited to furnish the material to the jubilee editorial committee which has offices at 130 Pine.

L.B. Litter, Dirt Stir Criticism

majority indicated this should be accomplished by rebuilding of rundown shopping areas, addition of parkways, flower-garden areas, fountains and benches; also by modernization of old buildings.

And who should take responsibility for cleaning up Long Beach?

Mrs. Earl Marks Jr., city-beautification-committee member who evaluated results of the poll summed it up this way:

"Most people responding indicated that the responsibility of maintaining property in a clean, litter-free manner rests with the owner, whether it is a vacant lot or building, a commercial business or a private residence.

"Respondents felt that any campaign should be in the direction of demanding that the individual owners comply."

She said the recurrent theme throughout was a feeling that Long Beach is dirty—that cleanliness is the first step to beauty.

IN APPENDED comments and accompanying letters, Long Beach residents scored many areas of the city. Most often attacked were the Pike, auditorium and rundown residential areas.

A quote from one letter: "People going to our beautiful new arena should see shrubs and flowers instead of cans, paper and parking lots."

About Long Beach Boulevard: "Its rails, broken-up cement and holes are among Long Beach's worst eyesores."

One writer had this constructive suggestion: "I would build islands in the center of Ocean Beach Boulevard from other phase of the program, Ocean to Willow and plant palm trees. Yes, palm trees, presented in several nonresidential categories.

Other suggestions: "Why not screen oil-drilling ugliness with trees and shrubs?" "Why doesn't someone do something about Marine Stadium? It should be one of our beauty spots; instead it's a disgrace."

Also: "Let's clean up the Pike, Disneyland-style" and "please count my vote for trees, trees and more trees."

ALONG WITH a series of suggested improvements for the downtown and the ocean bluff areas, a 36-year resident saw it 50 times during its points out: "Cities and hustlers are like men, they either go forward or backward. Let's go forward!"

Writes another: "For too long we have been expending the same reserved seat, our efforts trying to bring businesses and tourists to Long Beach, with no concern about how it will look to them when they get here.

"If this were a beautiful city, it would advertise itself."

STILL another comment: "We have natural surroundings for a clean, bright and lovely city—but carelessness has created ugly spots."

And from Don Foltz, administrative assistant to State Senator Thomas M. Rees: "As a life-long resident of Long Beach, I share your interest in trying to make Long Beach a more beautiful city."

"In light of the World's Fair coming to our city in a few years, we have no time to lose on many of the projects included in your poll."

MEANWHILE, the C of C city beautification committee, with Mrs. George H. Taubman Jr. as chairman, is waging war against weeds, chipped paint, litter, decadent buildings and anything unsightly in their annual "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week," May 24-31.

Also cooperating are the Long Beach city schools, Long Beach State College, the Long Beach Board of Realtors (with its "Build Long Beach Better" contest) and many other civic groups.

EIGHTY-FIVE trees will be planted on Ocean Boulevard as the final project of the beautification campaign. As an-Long Beach Boulevard from other phase of the program, Ocean to Willow and plant palm trees. Yes, palm trees, presented in several nonresidential categories.

Mrs. Lloyd P. Mallin is vice chairman of the civic beautification committee.

Chairmen of subcommittees are Mrs. Francis Merchant, Mrs. Jack Grisham, Mrs. Francis Heusel, Mrs. Gustaf Erickson, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. Earl Marks Jr. and Mrs. Dorothy Annis.

Japanese Girl Has Big Yen for Movie

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese girl was so fascinated by the American motion picture "West Side Story" that she saw it 50 times during its 511-day run at the Piccadilly Theater.

The management estimated she spent 40,000 yen ($110) for tickets, nearly always for the same reserved seat.

Russ Civilians Leaving Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Several hundred Russian men, women and children left Havana Saturday on the Soviet passenger line Maria Ulanowa, apparently bound for home.

Most of the men appeared to be middle-aged, possibly technicians or advisers to the Castro government.

Their departure was the first known exodus of Russians from Havana by sea in two months, when several hundred young Russians described as military equipment instructors left aboard the same ship.

Professor of Law Italy's New Chief

ROME (AP) — Christian Democrat leader Aldo Moro emerged Saturday from behind the scenes of Italian politics and formally was designated Italy's next premier.

He said he will try to form a center-left government faithful to the Atlantic Alliance.

Until a general election last month upset the Italian political scene, Moro was the Christian Democrats' "Mr. Inside" while Premier Amintore Fanfani was their "Mr. Outside."

ALDO MORO
Friend of NATO

THE ELECTION tarnished Fanfani's image and President Antonio Segni turned to Moro, a soft-spoken, 46-year-old Bari law professor who had been largely instrumental in forging the center-left coalition that Fanfani headed.

It was a coalition of their party, the Christian Democratic Party and the Republican and Democratic Socialist parties.

The Marxist Socialist Party of Pietro Nenni provided indirect support in parliament.

Minutes after receiving the mandate from Segni, Moro said he will try to base his government on the same parties, which control about 60 per cent of the votes in parliament.

HIS STATEMENT was vague concerning the Marxist Socialists. He said simply that they should be part of his majority. But he did not say whether they should have cabinet posts.

NO BOOM IN THIS BUSINESS

Passing Ammunition Tough Job

By WILLIAM JONES
Capt. Warren C. Hall Jr. is a naval officer with a billion-dollar problem on his lap.

As commander of the Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach, the World War II submariner has two major worries on his mind:

1. The command of 670 civilians and 300 military personnel at the station.
2. Administration of the 5,000-acre installation which supplies the Pacific Fleet with everything from 2-penny bullets to a $250,000 missile.

Real estate agents appraise the property at more than $1 billion. The government has poured $40 million into the station since it acquired it in 1944. The annual payroll is $5 million.

The executive officer, Lt. Cmdr. Daniel J. Diana, adds emphasis:

"There is $200 million worth of ammunition stored here."

THE "AMMO" is stored in mounds of earth and concrete in such a manner that a singular explosion would not endanger the second ammunition magazine or nearby communities.

Surrounding the magazine is a belt of farm land which adds extra protection because they provide a fire barrier with the green vegetation and, in addition, return rent money to the federal government.

One major problem: Land developers who lick their lips at the property bordering the sea.

Capt. Hall does not waste words with this problem. "They want the land. They see us as a wasteland."

In defense, he points out that the station is a vital ammunition supply center. Its 1,000-foot dock can accommodate two destroyers.

BUT WHAT the public sees while traveling Highway 101 is the surplus farm land and the stacks of 1,000-pound net buoys neatly arranged along the highway.

The row of these gigantic "ball bearings" results because the Navy has found no suitable buyer. Scrap-iron men disdain them because the cost of moving the bulky—yet empty centered—steel balls would eliminate a profit.

The Navy doesn't want them because the theory of submarine nets guarding a harbor entrance has been displaced by the offshore submarine which can rocket a missile from far off shore.

At Seal Beach, the average loading is a ship a day. An average destroyer takes aboard 172 tons of ammunition, which it maintains about two years during peacetime.

However, after practice runs, a Pacific Fleet ship will put into the weapons station here for more ammo. The station, also, will inspect and rework the rest of the ship's arsenal.

AVAILABLE for carting the shells and missiles to the ships at water's edge are two railroad engines and 120 train cars.

From the water's edge, the ammo can be transported to such large ships as aircraft carriers aboard one of the 24 barges at the station. Over all, the private railroad system spans 60 miles.

Capt. Hall emphasizes the safety factor. "I feel more in danger on the freeway, than here," he says. "We know the problem here, so we're careful. On the freeway, the other driver might hit you."

As if proving safety amid the ammunition mounds, he added:

"My family and I live on this ground, you know."

BLOCKS PLACED atop 5-inch illuminating projectiles secure them to platform for removal from warehouse to waiting ship.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

CREDIT L.B. municipal publicist Harry Fulton with one of the week's amusingest wisecracks.

As you may know, plans for offshore oil drilling in front of central L.B. call for some palm-sludded islands in the roadstead for drill-sites. And you may have noticed that oil millionaire Ed Pauley has been trying to keep an influential paw on the development scheme, obviously hoping to participate in the big black gold project.

So Fulton, at a Sacramento bullfest, came up with a proposed name for the islands: Pauleynesia.

INCIDENTALLY, one of the funny things about all this pillorying of L.B. at Sacramento as an oil developer is that nobody seems to give a thought to other tidelands-owning cities that have never done a thing about their oil potential.

Los Angeles, with a tidelands field right next door estimated to have a billion or so barrels of oil, hasn't touched it except for a few wells.

Santa Monica, if I recall correctly, had a tidelands oil proposal before it a while back and bluntly said nothing doing.

L.B. is the only city that has gone ahead with enterprise and vision in this field. As a result of its efforts the state, without turning a finger, has reaped a windfall of around $200 million.

Other cities have tideland grants exactly like the one at Long Beach and the state's interest is just the same.

Yet they go along doing nothing and get no lip from anybody. It seems to be something that has escaped the attention of the watchdogs at Sacramento.

SOME politicians are just Johnny-on-the-spot.

Take Councilman Bert Bond, for instance. He happened to be right close by when an odd accident occurred at Sixth and Pine in downtown Long Beach, knocking down and injuring an elderly lady.

When our photogs ran over there, who should be giving aid and comfort to the victim but Bert Bond. Subsequently, a newspaper appeared, of course showing the Councilman in action.

It was wholly coincidental, of course, that this all occurred in the middle of a campaign, but no candidate could hope to have a better public exposure. I might add that Mr. Bond didn't even know the picture was taken until it appeared in print. His good Samaritanism was wholly spontaneous and worthy.

NOTE to railroad buffs: The last steam railroad in the Far West, the tiny Roaring Camp and Big Trees Narrow Gauge Railroad at Felton, is expanding service.

A while back the little line started passenger trains on a weekend schedule to accommodate people who wanted to ride behind the last steam locomotive in regular service on a western railroad. Response has been so favorable that seven-day service is to be started on May 30.

The locomotive is an 1895 Shay and the passenger cars were built in the 'eighties. The RC&BTNGR is sometimes dubbed the nation's most backward railroad, and its officials brag about that.

Felton is 70 miles south of San Francisco and this line should not be confused with the "Skunk" train that runs between Willets and Fort Bragg, described at some length here a year or two ago. It is a diesel operation.

Luncheon Lauds LB Little Theater

Little theater in Long Beach drew plaudits from Lyle Talbot, movie, television and stage actor, speaking at the second annual Drama Day luncheon Saturday at Long Beach State College.

The Council of Living Theater, organization of Long Beach theater groups which sponsors the event, presented its annual merit award for outstanding service to George Eres, who writes the Living Theater column in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

WINNER of the award last year was Dr. David Sievers, professor of drama at State College, COLT president.

Eres, a veteran of 25 years in the newspaper business, was assistant city editor of the Independent for many years and later was elevated to a position with the Sunday Independent, Press-Telegram, which he retains in addition to writing his column.

Talbot who has appeared in numerous plays in Long Beach at Magnolia Theater paid tribute to actors he worked with here.

"THE THEATER in Long Beach is far enough away from Hollywood to be free of its influence and close enough for actors from Hollywood to appear here in a play in which they want to act.

"It is close enough for agents and casting directors to come here and see performers and they have found many fine actors in Long Beach."

He said the stage in Long Beach is "not amateur—it is non-professional" and that more people should be aware of the high calibre of performance and shows produced here.

THE DAY-LONG conference, presided over by Dr. Sievers, covered various phases of the theater at the morning session when a panel discussed the "Image and Impact of the Living Theater on Our Community."

Speakers included Kathy Davis, Herman Goodman, Marilou Kreidler and James Brittain.

The afternoon session was devoted to production of three prize-winning plays in the COLT-sponsored playwright contest.

MRS. HERMAN Ridder and actress Rosemary DeCamp presented awards to winners. First prizes $50 Savings Bonds and plaques were presented to Fred C. Wunderlich, Alicia Smith and Etta Weeks.

A Victory for Education

IMPLEMENTING STATE legislation enacted in 1961, the California State Board of Education has just put into effect a set of regulations which may prove to be exactly what Board President Thomas W. Braden calls them: "The greatest single advance California has ever made toward quality education."

The new regulations will require future teachers in this state to concentrate on subject matter in their training rather than on the courses in professional education. Majors and minors in "education"—that is, courses in how-to-teach—will no longer be acceptable. The prospective teacher will have to obtain his main credits in the academic subject he intends to teach.

THE SIGHS of relief from thousands of frustrated young people in the state colleges are almost audible at this distance. For the universal complaint of teacher trainees is: "They waste so much of my time on useless, theoretical 'education' courses that I don't really have a chance to study the subject I'm going to teach."

With the establishment of the new standards for teacher education California arrives at a point toward which it has been working since the end of World War Two when the emphasis in the state colleges was on teacher training.

In the post-war years, the scope of the state colleges widened until they were no longer looked upon as teacher training institutes or "normal schools" but as liberal arts colleges. Despite the liberalization of the colleges, the stress on "education" courses for students planning to become teachers continued. Finally, however, public and educators themselves began to realize that this policy wasted a great deal of time while reducing the effectiveness of potentially good teachers. A public outcry produced legislative changes and the new rules which have now been approved by the Board of Education.

MANY PROFESSIONAL educators are happy to see the change. Some of the less flexible, however, will hunt ways to preserve the old pattern and the empire of jargon they have built. Thus, the State Board of Education must watch closely for attempts to evade and compromise the new policy.

Meanwhile, California has established a principle whose adoption throughout the nation could exert a strongly beneficial influence on American education.

South Gave JFK Warm Reception

I, P-T Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON—President Kennedy's recent trip to the "South—to Nashville, Tenn., and Muscle Shoals and Huntsville in Alabama—proved enlightening to the Alabama congressional delegation. It had been displaying some signs of restlessness and rebellion as a result of the mild display of federal muscle in regard to the Birmingham racial struggle.

But the spontaneous and surprising reception received by the President at all of his stops did not go unnoticed by the Alabama delegation, nor by Democratic Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

If the Southern audiences were warm to the President, their congressmen were positively hot. So anxious were they to seem to be in close association with Kennedy, in fact, that the governor was put in the role of a wall-flower, a bit of casting he obviously resented.

Witnesses said Wallace seemed lonely in his spot on the speakers platforms and gazed over the audiences in search of friends to wave to. He found few.

Although the trip had been planned long before the trouble began in Birmingham, it has served to swing most of the Alabama delegation back into line in what is amounting to a steady closing of ranks, a necessity these days with the Republican campaigning to create a two-party system in the South.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS raised eyebrows this past week when the state of Pennsylvania placed advertisements in several national magazines soliciting more business for the state.

What caught the eye of the politically-oriented was the fact that the ads featured a photograph of handsome, Republican Gov. William Scranton and were signed in his handwriting "Bill Scranton."

Scranton is considered a dark-horse for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, his biggest handicap being that he is to little known throughout the country. The advertisements were construed therefore (rightly or wrongly) as a means of getting Scranton's face and name before the American reading public.

HARRY TRUMAN used to say of American politics, "If you can't stand the heat get out of the kitchen." In Arab politics, this motto could be "If you can't stand the heat get out of the desert." Here's what his political enemies in Jordan are saying over clandestine radio stations about King Hussein, "You, O hireling, are a king without a kingdom, although you still have a throne and a crown. Tomorrow when you begin stinking and when you become unbearable, your masters will replace you with others . . . may you go to Hell, O Hussein."

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY, an evangelistic speaker, recently gave the Washington press corps a demonstration of his forensic ability. Capsule comment: He's the Billy Graham of politics.

Rockefeller-Goldwater Pact Startling but Makes Sense

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — It seems strange to contemplate anything as seemingly incongruous as a Goldwater-Rockefeller alliance as a factor in the 1964 Republican convention, but it is being considered seriously here as a fait accompli, which is a toney way of saying the boys have gotten their heads together.

Possibly this information could cause some consternation, if not outright horror out on the prairies and on the West Coast, where the supporters of Rockefeller view Goldwater as a fascist and where Rockefeller, in turn, is regarded as an ultra lastically rich, this last being an element in the individualistic approach they adopt from time to time.

And as long ago as December, 1960, Goldwater told this writer that he felt quite comfortable being in the same political party as Rockefeller and, moreover, thought they were not too far apart on basic philosophy.

This was before writers here began noting a "new," more conservative Rockefeller, and seems to have been an accurate appraisal. The two men have a mutual respect and friendship. Both regard the Eisenhower years with something less than enthusiasm. And both seem to be at war against the so-called Republican presidential party, an establishment which comes to life every four years to nominate a Republican of dubious political bloodlines.

But to pursue the alliance theory, one must go further than mutual antipathies and friendship and recognize the complete political professionalism of both. They are regulars in a party whose boundaries, or wings are quite narrow in comparison with the Democratic Party. And while Goldwater clearly is to the right of center and Rockefeller possibly to the left, neither is on the edge. Compare the situation, if you will, to a party which seems to be able to contain both a Paul Douglas and a James O. Eastland.

There are, of course, wide areas of disagreement on specifics between Rockefeller and Goldwater, but while the one would protect civil rights by one method and the other by another, both would agree on the same basic philosophy. Both support Republican candidates, which is something many in the party have not yet picked up from the Democratic side.

What is the alliance for? Clearly, neither would agree to form a ticket together, but a theory that it amounts to a movement to stop Romney (and the establishment) is quite plausible. And such an alliance could more than likely dominate the convention, a most important step, beyond which neither has wished to advance at this time, there being quite a strong body of opinion which holds that whoever the candidate is he will be a sacrificial offering.

Pope John Helped Rescue Jews

WASHINGTON — One reason so many prayers have been offered for Pope John in non-Christian as well as in the non-Catholic world is a chapter in his life which many Catholics may not know about, when he helped rescue several thousand Jews from Nazi persecution in Hungary.

PEARSON

The Pope was then Cardinal Roncalli, apostolic delegate in Istanbul, and the story of the Jewish rescue is told by Ira Hirschmann, then working for the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, in his recent book, "Caution to the Winds."

Adolf Eichmann had moved into Hungary and started the mass murder of the Jewish people. And knowing the influence of the Catholic church in Hungary, Hirschmann, with Gilbert Simond, went to see Cardinal Roncalli in Istanbul. Here is how Hirschmann describes his visit with the benign man who later was to inspire both the Christian and non-Christian world:

"... Our host turned to a small cupboard from which he took a bottle of red wine. After admiring its color, he poured out three glasses and insisted on drinking to our health. Anxious about my mission, I discreetly tried to introduce the reason for my visit. But Roncalli brushed me aside, saying, 'That will come later. First we must enjoy the view, the conversation and the wine.'"

"His personality was so radiant and his conviviality so genuine that for the moment I let the purpose of my presence escape me."

Roncalli listened intently as I outlined the desperate plight of the Jews in Hungary. I cited the meager statistics available to me and the many eyewitness accounts of underground operatives. As I emphasized each salient point, he nodded sympathetically. Then he pulled his chair up closer and quietly asked, "Do you have any contact with people in Hungary who will cooperate?"

"After my affirmative reply, he hesitated a few moments before asking, 'Do you think the Jews there would be willing to undergo baptism ceremonies?'"

"He went on to say that he had reason to believe that some baptismal certificates had already been issued by nuns to Hungarian Jews. The Nazis had recognized these as credentials and had permitted their holders to leave the country."

"We agreed that we would communicate with his representatives in Hungary and that I would get in touch with our underground connections to arrange for either large-scale baptism of

Barry Cheered but Some of the Girls Still Apprehensive

Arizonans who think there are not enough Barry Goldwaters did their best last year to curb the shortage by legislation. Arizona Gov. Paul Fannin says the new law would permit Barry to run in 1964 for both the presidential nomination and for reelection to the U.S. Senate.

Fannin adds quickly that Sen. Goldwater says he will not take advantage of this license. But Arizona Republicans have a fly-by-wire back-up system for Barry's re-entry problem in the Senate if their favorite son should lose the GOP presidential nomination.

The system, Fannin confirms, is to run a stand-in—friendly to Goldwater—for Senate while Barry makes the presidential try. If he fails to get the presidential nomination, Barry would be appointed to the Senate as his stand-in stepped aside.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall might jump into the Arizona U.S. Senate contest against such a stand-in but, Gov. Fannin thinks, Udall would not run against Goldwater himself.

These considerations, all academic if Barry resists pressures toward the presidency and sticks to his Senate race, are properly raised in Fannin's view because he expects the senator to change his mind and announce for the presidential nomination in eight or nine months.

GOV. FANNIN was guest speaker of a $100 GOP grass roots dinner last Wednesday in the Hollywood Palladium. In speech and press conference he proved his allegiance to Goldwater. An otherwise dispirited audience of about 700 was galvanized to cheers also—but only—by mention of Goldwater's name.

The head table had no GOP elected officials on hand, a condition which makes a fund-raising event almost more "grass roots" in character than it needs to be to whet partisan appetites or to stir them to a party charge. The head table, dinner vice chairmen and dinner committee did represent the broadest political spectrum from liberal to moderate to Birch Society.

THIS BREAD breaking among party wingers presents a facade of felicity which is not yet the fact party leaders hope it will become by campaign time.

There was a good illustration of the party's distance yet to travel toward harmony in an almost unbelievable challenge to Goldwater's conservative credentials, a challenge which originated in a Long Beach Republican Women's organization.

The challenge was not thrown openly. But one of the women passed on to me the apprehensions of certain members of the Long Beach group over whether Goldwater might be soft on urban renewal and metropolitan government—a pair of bete noirs of the far right.

Ask Gov. Fannin if it's true, the Long Beach women suggested. Well, Gov. Fannin had no knowledge of any Goldwater defecting in these directions although Goldwater had spoken favorably of urban renewal in Phoenix with proper local controls.

THE QUESTION becomes: Whom can the conservatives trust, if not Goldwater?

The GOP ladies then unburdened themselves of another chip on their shoulders. They had just learned that one of Los Angeles County's Republican congressmen had told one of the gals back in Washington, "You ladies are too far to the right."

Cuba and South Neglected Ills

EDITOR:

I was glad to see your item recently regarding the trouble down South. I, for one, think it is terrible how the colored people are treated. They are United States citizens and have as much right to a job, good home and schools as the white trash who are causing all the trouble. Their children are no better than the colored ones and have as much right to an education as the rest of them. Seems to me the state should provide homes, schools and recreation for the colored race and let them have some comforts.

And what a disgrace for this country to allow police dogs and fire hose to scatter and abuse the colored people. Suppose they didn't have a permit to march down the street. What harm did they do?

It's about time someone in Washington does something about helping the colored people in the South. And what are they doing about Cuba? Just nothing.

Reds Hit Our Weakest Link

EDITOR:

A few months ago I had the privilege of talking to a man who had put in 16 months in a Communist prison. One thing he made clear to me was that we should have no fear of bombardment from Russia. They want to take us, but they want everything intact; not all blown apart. So their best way to take us is to stir trouble within, and the best way for them to reach that goal is to start on our weakest link, and it seems to me they have a good start.

I read in a recent paper of the Negroes trying to gain admission to a theater in South Carolina; also a cafe. Some were arrested and jailed. I would be willing to wager any Communist spy could have purchased a ticket to the theater, or purchased a meal in said cafe with no questions asked. Yet natural born citizens are turned away.

What has come over our people? Our fathers stole this land from the Indians, then put it under law of the people for the people and by the people. Now it seems a few hard heads want to ignore those same laws and weaken the strength of these United States and render us vulnerable to communism.

God, Not Man, Gives Freedom

EDITOR:

Today, there is much emphasis on civil rights, but very little is said about civic responsibility. However, this is typical of the times we are living in when the "rights" of the masses take priority over the freedom of the individual to work out his own destiny.

Fortunately, there are those stalwarts in any minority group — and in the majority, for that matter — who are their own men and reject the proffered hand of the vote-seeking politician and the hypocritical dogooder.

There is no man alive whose freedom is given to him by other than God, and the man who recognizes this truth is eternally free from every type of enslavement including that which is imposed upon the ignorant by the demagogue on the political rostrum.

As a corollary to this freedom, the Christian religion extols the dignity of the individual—yet imposes upon each one the responsibility of obtaining his own salvation. There is not a single nation, race or religious group on the face of the earth that has not produced a number of shining examples of those who have risen seemingly insurmountable obstacles because of faith and trust in a Divine power that has been with them on the quest upward.

The rest—those who dwell in self-pity, blaming their plight on society — dwell forever in their own despair, or discover their man-granted benefits to be as short-lived as the flowers in the fields; here for a season, and then gone.

Languages in the News

The recent fighting on the Plaine des Jars ("Plain of the Jars," because of the many burial jars found there, and pronounced, in French, Plaine des Jars, with the

"j" pronounced like the "s" in "pleasure") has brought up the possibility of additional American troops being sent to Thailand and, perhaps, to Laos.

The Thai language (formerly called Siamese) and Lao are related and fairly similar. Here are some simple expressions in the Thai and Lao languages:

Hearing in Kidnap Case Set

A two-time loser, ex-convict Clyde Jack Bass, 29, of Westminster will have a preliminary hearing in Los Cerritos Municipal Court Monday morning on three charges of kidnapping with attempt to rob and one charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

The assault charges stem from an incident Wednesday in which Bass allegedly shot at and pistol-whipped a 17-year-old and a 20-year-old youth in a field at Del Amo Blvd. and the San Gabriel River.

BASS also was identified Thursday as the man who took two Inglewood police officers' guns after the armed robbery of an Inglewood bar on March 12. He is accused also of kidnapping a market manager in a holdup of a supermarket at 223rd Street and Avalon Boulevard.

Questioned by Sgt. Ray Lass of the robbery detail of the Lakewood sheriff's station, the suspect admitted five armed robberies and four burglaries, according to Lass.

Bass told detectives he lived at 13763 Edwards St., Westminster, and was out on appeal bond after serving five years of a 25-year sentence in a federal penitentiary. He said he had served 23 months in a prison in Oklahoma also.

Water Budget Hearing Slated for Compton

A public hearing will be held on June 5 on a proposed $577,500 budget for operation of the Compton city water department for the forthcoming fiscal year, according to Harry Scott, city manager.

If adopted the city may be forced to raise water rates as much as 17 percent, Scott said.

The hearing is scheduled for 8:15 in the council chambers in the city hall.

The water department is operated by the city but within a separate budget not part of the general city budget, Scott pointed out.

Alligators Will Have to Go

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (AP)—Walter Cobb's alligators have become 217 growing headaches.

Cobb, a plumbing contractor, paid $619 for the alligators and brought them home.

Four of his neighbors testified that a bad smell has been noticed and one said, "It will be worse this summer."

So, the Jefferson County Zoning Board turned down Cobb's application for a clearance to establish an alligator farm. He was given 30 days in which to get rid of the 217 'gators.

Kelso Model Community

KELSO (AP)—This desert community has a very low crime rate: None. This came to light at a Board of Supervisors meeting in San Bernardino. No county official present could recall even a traffic violation in Kelso. Said Supervisor Ross Dana: "There are 22 people living together in harmony out in Kelso." The community is midway between Barstow and Needles on U.S. Highway 66.

LONG BEACH JURIST TRAVELS WIDELY

Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey Again Heads U.S. Y's 3 Million Members

By BOB SCHMIDT

Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey shed his judicial robes long enough last year to log close to 70,000 miles in his alternate capacity as leader of the nation's 3 million members of the YMCA.

And he expects to exceed that mileage considerably this year following his recent reelection to a second term in office.

The veteran jurist, who presides over the juvenile court in Department C at the Long Beach County Building, will make at least nine trips to New York between now and next May's annual convention of the YMCA National Council in Detroit.

But the real traveling will come this summer, when he climaxes a five-week official trip through Europe and the Near East by participating in the World Alliance meeting of the Y at Lake Constance, Switzerland.

JUDGE VASEY'S connection with the YMCA goes back to 1920, when he held a boy's membership in the Long Beach association. He began participating in the administration of Y work in 1946, when he was serving as legislative secretary to the then Gov. Earl Warren in Sacramento.

He served as president of the Sacramento association in 1952-53, and was chairman of the statewide committee on youth and government from 1952 to '54.

Named to the bench and assigned to Long Beach in 1953, he again joined the Long Beach Y and, in 1959, became its president.

HE FIRST became a member of the National Council in 1957, and in 1960, '61, and '62 served as chairman of the area board of the Pacific Southwest Area.

He was a delegate to the World Council meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1961, and then, a year later, heard his name placed before the National Council meeting in Cincinnati by the committee delegated to nominate a president.

He was elected, and, earlier this month, re-lected at the National Council's meeting in Cleveland.

JUDGE VASEY, obviously, is interested in America's youth, and feels that his unique dual role as a judge of the juvenile court and the titular head of the country's 1650 YMCA associations places him in an excellent position to weigh the value of agencies such as the Y.

"It's a simple matter of fact," he says. "Boys who are active in the YMCA, or some agency like the YMCA, are less likely to appear before me in court than boys who are not active in those groups."

Judge Vasey, besides believing strongly in the fundamental purpose of the Y, is especially proud of the organization's leadership in such fields as race relations, physical fitness, and the relationship between private groups and government.

AT THE National Council's recent meeting in Cleveland, over which he presided, the Council completed reports in six fields, culminating the work of several years.

The report concerned a restatement of the fundamental Christian statement of purpose of the YMCA; the place and function of the Young Adult segment of the Y; the YMCA's stand on racial justice; the principles of open discussion, within the Y, of civic, national, and world affairs; the use of Y facilities by non-YMCA organizations, and the Y's relations with social welfare planning agencies.

Tax Defeat Forces School Budget Cut

Lack of funds in the Buena Park School District resulting from the defeat of a tax override measure will cause 15 percent policy changes for the coming year, trustees have decided.

They include elimination of summer school, curtailment of student transportation and less money for teachers than other districts pay.

Trustees attributed the drastic measures to a $150,000 budgetary deficit for the coming year. They said that the cut backs taken would least affect the classroom instructional program.

THE TAX override was defeated May 14 by a vote of 693 to 562. It would have increased the basic tax rate by 85 cents to $2.15 and would have replaced a current five year tax override of 65 cents, which will expire June 30.

The decision to tighten up district expenditures was made by the trustees to balance an expenditure of $35,000 needed to employ 12 new teachers needed for the coming year.

Despite the fact that nearly 1,000 applications had been made for summer school, the district will apply the money it normally spends on the summer session to the regular school budget.

TO CUT transportation costs, children through the third grade will not ride buses to school if they live less than a mile from the school.

Ex-Reporter Due for Active Role in Court

Don Maddock, former courthouse reporter for the Press-Telegram, has been appointed as a deputy district attorney, Los Angeles County D.A. William B. McKesson has announced.

Maddock was admitted to the bar last summer after attending USC law school at night for four years. He had worked for the Press-Telegram for seven years.

Other recent appointees to the district attorney's office include Philip Madden, son of long time Long Beach attorney Joseph Madden, and George Trammell III, whose father is president of the Long Beach Bar Association. Maddock's appointment will be effective June 1.

Canadian Labor College First of Its Kind in N.A.

MONTREAL (AP)—Canada's union work behind him. Most are local union officials. The cost, $1,300 a man, is paid by individual unions.

A 7-week course, called a Labor College, will open June 3 for 90 students. Sponsors say it is the first college of the kind in North America.

The aim is to give current and future union representatives an insight into many fields connected with labor work. The course, including reading and discussion groups, will require 12-16 hours study a day. Subjects include history, economics, political science, sociology and trade unionism.

THE FIRST students range from a 22-year-old to a 52-year-old man with 34 years' experience.

Lynwood Marijuana Case Reset

Two Lynwood youths, one the son of a former city policeman, charged with possession of marijuana were granted a continuance in Los Angeles Superior Court Thursday and are scheduled to reappear on May 29.

The two youths, Carl Crow, 20, 3547 Palm St., and Robert T. Coleman, 20, of 3177 1/2 Popular Dr., were arrested after state narcotic agents searched the Crow residence and allegedly found a quantity of marijuana in a closet. Crow's father, John, an ex-policeman, was arrested also on a charge of possession of marijuana and on a charge of receiving stolen goods but was cleared of both charges last week in the Compton Municipal Court.

Pops Child's Balloon by Match, Gets 3 Mo.

WASHINGTON, England (AP)—John Nelson, 42, was sentenced to three months in jail for popping a child's balloon with a lighted match.

The balloon belonged to 3-year-old Elaine Simpson. It was filled with hydrogen. The gas exploded and singed Elaine's eyebrows.

Nelson pleaded guilty to a charge of causing the child bodily harm.

New Part-Time Rules for LBCC

Under provisions of a new state law, part-time day and evening students in the Liberal Arts Division and the Business and Technology Division of Long Beach City College must now obtain a "permit to register" before they will be allowed to enroll in any class.

According to Dr. George E. Dotson, LBCC president, the new procedure is in effect for the 1963 summer session and the 1963-64 school year. It concerns part-time students in all LAD courses and most BT-D courses but does not apply to students in the General Adult Division.

Permits will be issued only to applicants presenting proof of high school graduation or other evidence of ability to take college-level courses.

Acceptable documents include any one of the following: a transcript or other evidence of admission to a degree-granting college or university, a high school diploma or transcript, or a letter from the applicant's high school principal. Returning City College students may present transcripts or grade slips showing successful completion of any college units at LBCC.

IN LIEU OF SUCH documents, prospective students may qualify for admission with a satisfactory score on the standard matriculation test. Arrangements for testing

Lectures Set by LBCC on Art, Property

Two public lectures are scheduled this week by the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College:

MONDAY

Four Centuries of the Arts — Mary Holmes, "The Arts of the 19th Century" (illustrated), 7:30 p.m., Rogers Junior High School auditorium, Monrovia Ave. and Appleway.

TUESDAY

Effective Property Management — John L. Goddard, "Legal Notices and Unlawful Detainer," 7:30 p.m., Washington Junior High School cafeteria, 15th St. and Pacific Ave.

No Dancing While Drinking

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—Tipplers in Vermont now can stand and walk around—but they can't dance while drinking.

The State Liquor Control Board announced the change in barroom regulations which still prohibit dancers from carrying drinks. Gone is the old rule that required waitresses to transport drinks if a patron moved from one spot to another.

should be made well in advance of registration dates.

Full-time students (those enrolling for nine or more units) are required to make formal application for admission and to have transcripts and test results on file at the time of registration.

Persons planning to enroll for either summer or fall classes are advised by LBCC officials to take immediate steps to fulfill the new requirements. "Many high school and college offices are closed during the summer," Dr. Dotson points out. "Those who delay in obtaining necessary documents may not qualify in time to be enrolled."

Registration permits may be obtained daily at the admissions offices of the Liberal Arts Division, 490 E. Carson St., and the Business and Technology Division, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Community Builder for "A" Proposal

Harry Kruz, Executive Vice President of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and fireless worker for the greater development of our city and area, is vigorously pushing for the 1967-68 California World Fair at Long Beach and emphasizes the need for passage of Proposition "A" at the June 4 election.

"This is not a political measure, but is a sound, 'no taxes' proposal that will save millions of dollars in financing costs for the World's Fair which the Fair directors have pledged to invest in much needed public buildings for the use and benefit of all citizens. These will remain and serve after the Fair is over."

Cacophonies at Ojai Irk Lovers of Music

By RACHEL MORTON

OJAI—Saturday morning's concert of Ojai Music Festival in Nordhoff Auditorium began with a Sonata for Violin and Cello by Ravel, played by two excellent musicians, Stanley Plummer, violin and Howard Goff, cello.

Six songs by Anton Webern were a series of strange vocal emissions fortunately sung by a very fine high soprano, Grace-Lynne Martin, accompanied by an instrumental ensemble of four, violin, cello, clarinet and bass clarinet.

A NUMBER called "Con Buen Ayre," for flute and guitar by Gunther Becker sounded like the raucous mating calls of jungle birds, in three interminable movements.

Grace Lynne Martin's beautiful voice and expert musicianship was utterly wasted in six songs from the Chinese by Benjamin Britten to the thin accompaniment of the guitar played by Theodore Norman.

"Characters for Piano Solo" by Poussour, played by Leonard Stein was misshapen, musically abortive and affrontively offensive in extreme atonality.

WITH AN electric metro-moment of off-stage dance, none on the piano to keep music, presumably played in them within bounds, two the hall room. So much at pianists, Leonard Stein and fection on conductor Soss's Ernst Krenek played Krenek's part served only to confuse. "Basler Maasrabbit" (Mass With a violinist in an at-Labor) which should better cove and a trumpet player in have been called "Mass among the trees, the muted Slaughter."

Although he was in dammy performance of Charlesing company, Johannes's "Unanswered Question," Brahms brought us back to The aimless ambling of the normacy and a desire to live music seemed to ask the un-again with his "Trio for answered question "Is this Piano, Cello and Clarinet" in music?" —By Rachel Morton a fine performance by Leonard Stein, piano; Howard Goff, cello, and Richard Dufallo, clarinet.

It Used to Be a Music Festival

OJAI—A disgruntled audience filed out of the Ojai Festival Bowl after the opening performance Friday night of the 17th annual Ojai Festival. It used to be called the Ojai Music Festival, but since the advent of Lucas Soss as musical director, music as such, has become extinct. The program Friday night opened and closed legitimately. Two very fine artists, Eudice Shapiro, violinist and Sanford Schonbach, violist, played Mozart's "Symphonie Concertante" with beautiful tonal color and fine vitality. Their duo playing was a perfect blending of two kindred spirits in music.

FOR THE opening number, Soss dissected the orchestra to suit his strange whims. On opposite sides, under the trees, sat a bass viol player and a violinist who scraped away unintelligibly in a strange arrangement by Soss of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," more effective on the stage with the one other bass play-

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

Cooper Flight Shows Man, Not Robot, Must Whip Space

By United Press International

A number of European newspapers said editorially last week the way U. S. astronaut L. Gordon Cooper brought down his spaceship manually proved the American belief that man rather than robots must conquer space.

Morgenpost of West Berlin said, "It was a model example to refute the theory that man has become a slave of technology. . . . It was proof of the correctness of the American belief that man cannot conquer space with robots."

"Even scientists of the 20th Century have not yet found a substitute for man," said the Kronen Zeitung in Austria.

THE AUSTRIAN Die Press said the flight "showed in a world of automation, electronics and robots that man is ultimately indispensable."

The Daily Telegraph of London commented: "Thus he (Cooper) demonstrated that after a day and a half under the strange conditions of weightless revolution at all but incredible velocity . . . a trained man remained absolute master of body, mind and apparatus. . . . There is no substitute for experiment of the ability of the human frame to bear the strain."

"Cooper and his fellow astronauts have proved that the capitalist West . . . can youthfully reach for the stars and at the same time has enough safety pins," commented the Austrian Tiroler Tageszeitung.

"Only it does not need them as directly as the Soviets because a Western worker can afford a new suit despite outer space successes."

THE SWEDISH newspaper Aftonbladet said Americans privately question the value of the space race, but don't hesitate to spend billions on it.

"Questioning or criticism of the efforts to be first on the moon is regarded as unpatriotic in the States," it said. "That is the reason why the otherwise so economic Congress is silent."

The Spanish newspaper Arriba called Cooper's flight "a success in the full meaning of the word."

"The accomplishment was complete, resounding, magnificent," it said.

But Arriba, under the headline "A Black Man's Life Is a Black Life," criticized the racial situation in the United States.

"Human beings . . . once again find themselves confused, and with good reason, indignant in the face of the spectacle occurring in the country which is looked over by the Statue of Liberty," Arriba said.

THE ITALIAN newspaper Corriere Della Sera said, "In America for the time being Negroes are fighting to abolish mere symbols. But as these fall, be certain of this, we will hear news not of greater peace but of growing war."

"Peace will come the day we read that all states of the union have set up annual prizes to encourage mixed marriages," the newspaper said.

The Portuguese newspaper A Voz said the United States was "born on racial segregation" with the killing of red Indians. It said the Supreme Court is now trying to erase such a policy.

"Times have changed, desires have changed and customs have changed," it commented.

The French newspaper Le Monde said the Geneva General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs conference ended "on a positive result" but "to bring about an accord (U.S. chief negotiator Christian A.) Herter in less than 24 hours reversed his position."

"FOR THE FIRST TIME, the European Economic Community confronted the United States on the international scene, the other countries having hardly anything to do except count the blows," Le Monde continued.

Around the world in Asia the Indonesian Herald, which usually reflects the views of the foreign office, said Cooper's flight opened "greater possibilities of cooperation" between the United States and Russia in the field of space technology.

"The successful flight of Maj. Cooper is to be heartily welcomed not only as another magnificent scientific feat on the part of the United States, but also because it opens greater possibilities of cooperation between the two giant space powers," the newspaper said in Jakarta.

"Now that the United States has succeeded in demonstrating the resourcefulness of its space technology, the possibility of a space cooperation program with the Soviet Union has become easier to accomplish," the Herald said. "The two countries can now enter into serious negotiations about a joint endeavor to study what the Soviet Union has called 'the study of the laws of the universe.'"

THE MANILA TIMES expressed the belief that the Negro problem in the United States is bound to remain "long after the segregationists have furled their flags."

"What is happening today in Alabama may open more opportunities for Negroes," an editorial said. "But it will also embitter the supporters of segregation, the more so since they see in President Kennedy's intervention an abuse of state rights by federal power."

It added that the process of integration "as distinct from mere desegregation remains a difficult one and has hardly been started."

"In fact there are many Negroes who now reject integration, claiming that whites and blacks should co-exist instead, fully equal under the same cultural and social traditions. . . ."

"The issue is not over desegregation in the schools and other public places alone. The most important is the right to vote, which still is denied to many Negroes by the use of fitness tests now required of white voters. Only when this form of discrimination is abolished can the Negro problem really begin to be solved, and the solution may be more like social division than integration," the Philippine newspaper commented.

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

President Kennedy will use troops if necessary to enforce court-ordered integration of the University of Alabama, just as he did in Mississippi.

He made this starkly clear last week in a solemn warning to Alabama's white supremacy governor, George C. Wallace, who previously had filed a supreme court challenge of Kennedy's authority to send stand-by troops to racially torn Birmingham.

THE PRESIDENT said he would act reluctantly but that he was obligated to uphold the laws of the land—in this instance the Supreme Court's school desegregation and other equal rights edicts.

Wallace had threatened to "physically block" admittance of any Negro to University of Alabama in contrast to the non-violence stand of the state attorney general and the university board of trustees. The Justice Department, on Kennedy's orders, asked the federal court at Birmingham to prevent this by injunction.

The President called on Wallace to obey the law—to join the other 49 states in giving Negro students and Negroes generally their just constitutional rights as American citizens.

The Department of Justice, in answer to Wallace's Supreme Court petition, told the high bench "it was the government's constitutional duty to preserve order and safeguard individual rights if there is a breakdown in local authority."

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the challenge and urged the governor to honor the court's decision—as he said he would—what ever it may be. The court earlier had held that laws requiring segregation in public places were unconstitutional.

The rulings, reversing the conviction of 38 sit-in demonstrators in five Southern states, sent into high gear a widespread Negro drive to break down Dixie's racial barriers. And behind the clamor of racial demonstrations, some communities began taking quiet steps to upgrade their Negro citizens. Notable among these were Alexandria, Va., and Memphis, Tenn.

The President told a press conference that he was preparing to ask Congress for stronger civil rights legislation so Negroes won't have to resort to demonstrations such as rocked Birmingham.

ELSEWHERE on the racial front the American Legion cancelled New Orleans as the site of its national convention because of the city's segregated housing accommodations. Miami was chosen instead.

The President also had troubles on the farm front.

A majority of the nation's wheat farmers voted against federal planting controls on their 1964 crop. This drops the hars to all-out production. It also could mean $1-a-bushel wheat and choking surpluses to glut already bulging bins—unless Congress enacts new price supports.

The Democratic leadership was not disposed to do that. They said the farmers had made their choice. So did the President and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. But Kennedy said he would do everything possible to help the farmers maintain their income.

The referendum vote was a stinging rebuff of the President's "supply-management" plan for all major crops—a plan designed to save the taxpayers a billion dollars by curbing surplus production but guaranteeing high farm income. Wheat price supports, in the absence of congressional action, will drop next year from $2 to $1.25 a bushel. And this latter will be available only to farmers who stick to federal planting quotas.

But the farmers, backed by the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation, rebelled, making it evident they wanted out from under "government regimentation."

THE FARM bureau foresaw a worried Congress coming to the rescue but the congressional climate augured against this though Republicans began clamoring for legislation, plus Freeman's scalp. Kennedy gave the secretary a ringing endorsement.

The wheat vote carried political as well as economic implications. The administration had thrown its strength and prestige behind the President's program but it failed to muster a simple majority. A two-thirds vote was required.

On the foreign front, the NATO ministerial council met in Ottawa, Canada, pledged basic Western unity, and endorsed the President's plan for a NATO nuclear striking force. Secretary of State Dean Rusk represented the United States. He vehemently denied rumors of any backdoor American negotiations with Russia.

MOSCOW charged the nuclear force would intensify the arms race. It also called on Kennedy to withdraw Polaris missile submarines from the Mediterranean and make the area a nuclear-free zone. The State Department said the proposal would be rejected.

Russia announced meantime that it was refusing to pay United Nations costs in the Congo and the Middle East and was cutting off some other payments, further jeopardizing the peace organization's solvency. And in Moscow Premier Nikita Khrushchev personally lionized Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and again warned that an attack on Cuba would spark nuclear war.

In New York the President dedicated a memorial

Community Civic Leader Says "A" Good

A. L. Code, business executive, past president of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and ardent civic leader for area progress, urges adoption of Proposition "A" at the June 4 election.

"This proposal is not merely a downplay program, but will benefit the entire community, North, South, East and West—in fact, our whole State. It will make possible the California World's Fair at Long Beach in 1967-68. It does not call for any taxes, nor general City funds, and the Fair will be a world-wide attraction of immense benefit to everyone in our community," said Mr. Code. "Everyone should vote for Proposition 'A'."

Dodgers Fall 3 Behind

MAVERICK AND HIS POSSE

PLAYING THE COURSE for the very first time, Jim Garner (second from right) proved he's just as clever with the golf club as the cards—firing 72 to take first-round lead in World Entertainment Championship at Recreation Park Saturday. The popular star of Maverick played with Jack Ging (left), Bob Wilke and John Agar. Tournament queen Susan Hart joins happy foursome.

Maverick Rides Herd on Celeb Tee Field--72

By JERRY WYNN

Handsome Jim Garner, who stars with Doris Day in the new picture "The Thrill of It All," had a thrill of his own at Recreation Park Saturday. Despite two bogies on two of the last three holes, Garner carded an even-par 72 to take the first-round lead in the World Entertainment Golf Championship.

"I'm very happy with a 72," said the rugged, dark-haired former star of the Maverick television show. "I never played this course before, and I've been so busy making pictures, I haven't played five rounds since February."

Garner will ride a one-stroke lead into the final round of the 36-hole tournament today, but he isn't confident of capturing the title of Saturday to tie for third place, 87, Mickey Rooney 88 and Lawrence Welk 89. The low score of the day was a 71 by a guest player, advertising executive Don Schwab, a close friend of pros Julius Boros and George Bayer.

Garner, who drew the largest portion of a gallery estimated at 2,500, shot pars on every hole on the front nine for a 36. But he scrambled on the back nine (which was played in the old order of holes to accommodate television) by collecting three birdies, three bogies and three pars.

Two of the birdies came on two of the toughest holes on the course, the 432-yard 10th and the 400-yard 14th (now the 18th). Garner also birdied the short 11th, and all three of the birdie putts were from about 15 feet.

Jim bogied the easy 13th by blowing a 2 1/2-foot putt, and errant approaches cost

FRESNO THWARTS VIKES, WINS 3RD TITLE IN ROW

FRESNO (Special to I.P.T.)—Fresno City College won an unprecedented third consecutive state junior college baseball title with a hard-earned 6-4 verdict over Long Beach here Saturday.

It was perhaps the most frustrating loss of the year for the vanquished Vikings, who, after taking a 4-3 lead in the fourth and losing it two innings later, saw one late threat after another go down the drain.

Clutch relief pitching by Bix Hayden and alert defense made the difference, but just a matter of inches on several plays could have forced a third and decisive game. Fresno won Friday, 2-1.

After scoring three times in the fourth, Long Beach re-loaded the bases but was turned away, thus signaling what was to come in three of the next five innings.

In the sixth, the Vikes left two runners stranded and in the eighth filled the bases with one out only to see Gary Korsmeier's hard smash turned into a rally-killing double play.

Fresno, with single runs in the fifth, sixth and eighth innings, appeared out of trouble when the first two Vikes went out to open the bottom of the ninth (by state rule, Long Beach was the home team in the second game of the series).

Then Bob Jenkins walked and Bob Newman batted for John Gonsalves. With two strikes, he belted one to left which was hauled down on the dead run just shy of the 335-foot sign.

Errors hurt the Long Beach cause. An outfield bobbie gave Fresno its tying run in the fifth and a throwing miscue got home the go-ahead marker in the sixth.

In Long Beach's big fourth, Bruce Lowell cashed in two runs with a double and a

SAN FRANCISCO — The Giants were nimble and Podres was sick. Three gophers jumped out of the Candlestick.

Home runs by Orlando Cepeda, Willie McCovey and Ed Bailey powered San Francisco to a 6-2 victory over the Dodgers Saturday in the former "House of Hurricanes" that, for this series, has become the "House of Horoscopes."

As predicted by an anonymous astrologer in a San Francisco newspaper Friday, Johnny Podres was in for a stormy afternoon. A highly nervous condition was to upset his apparel, this condition being brought on by Messrs. Cepeda, McCovey and Bailey.

THIS SLUGGING threesome overcame a 2-0 Dodger margin fashioned against winner Billy O'Dell in the first inning and sent the southerners trudging into the clubhouse with their sixth successive defeat here.

In boosting their league lead to three games, the Giants rang up their fifth win in a row and brought their season home run meter in the 50-mark. The Dodgers have hit 27 homers in the same number of games, 43.

The 31-year-old Bailey, undoubtedly the most famous citizen of Strawberry Plains, Tenn., was most responsible for giving Podres the raspberries. He dissolved a 2-2 contest with his 10th homer in the seventh inning.

JIM DAVENPORT was on base at the time by virtue of his second infield hit. This one could have been avoided, but it didn't matter particularly. The Dodgers simply couldn't dig O'Dell, who tossed a seven-hitter for his seventh win without a loss.

Podres fielded Davenport's second chopper to the mound, but couldn't get the ball out of the webbing of his glove. Not even the webbing of the center field fence could stop Bailey's drive.

Bailey now leads the Giants in home runs with 10 and has driven in 26 runs with his 26 hits. He has accounted for 21 RBI with his homers.

HANEY SHAKES UP ANGELS

Bo Optioned to Hawaii

By ROSS NEWHAN
It is against the law to contribute to the delinquency of minors, but, nevertheless, that's exactly where the Angels have sent bad boy Bo Belmsky.

General manager Fred Haney announced the anticipated sweeping changes in personnel Saturday afternoon prior to Kansas City's 9-2 drubbing of the Angels before 10,492 disenchanting.

Only Art Fowler and Jack Spring escaped the wrath of a 12-hit A's attack against six Angel pitchers. The Angels also collected a dozen hits, but left 11 runners stranded in a vain effort to recoup from a 5-run Kansas to add "vigah" to the Angels' City first-inning explosion against Mel Nelson.

Haney's four-point program included:

1. The optioning of Belmsky and outfielder Ken Hunt to Hawaii on a 24-hour recall basis.
2. The optioning of 18-year-old catcher Ed Kirkpatrick to Nashville of the Sally League on the same terms.
3. The signing of veteran catcher Hank Foiles, a free agent.
4. The purchase of first

LBCC Wins First State Track Title

MODESTO — Long Beach City College got first-place efforts from John Rambo in the high jump and Terry Hendrix in the low hurdles here Saturday night to win its first-ever state junior college track and field championship held in conjunction with the California Relays.

Hendrix took the lows in the great time of 22.9 and Rambo leaped 6-9 3/4 to lead the Vikings' 61-point spree. Other LBCC places came from Tim Russell (4th in the 220 and 2nd in the 100), Bill Sequoias Bill Cowings who Pace (2nd in the shotput), Jeff Smith (3rd in the shotput), George Davis (3rd in the 880), John Champion (tie for 3rd in pole vault), while Russell's 4th place time was 20.9.

Kerry Wright of Cerritos was another local area winner, taking the 440 in 48.1.

Russell's 100 time was 9.6

with a 6.7 mile-an-hour wind at his back as he couldn't catch up with College of the Siskiyous Bill Cowings who was credited with a 9.5. Cowings was a double winner as he came back to take the 220 in 20.4. This time the wind read 4.33 mph.

Russell's 4th place time was 20.9.

PACE CAME up with his greatest performance ever in throwing the 16-pound ball 56-11, but it still wasn't good enough to catch Don Castle of Foothill who did 58-8 1/2. Smith's throw was 56-6.

Davis was a distant third in the half mile at 1:53.5 to El Camino's Kurt Klein who won it at 1:52.5.

Champion cleared 14-4 in the pole vault while Hendrix had a 24-1/4 broad jump without an aiding wind.

Hendrix' low hurdle time broke the meet record of 23.0 set by Willie White of Harbor. And Rambo bettered Joe Faust's record of 6-9 1/4.

George Greenwood tied the national record in the 120 yard hurdles of 14.0, but it'll be disallowed because of the wind that blew up in spurts throughout the meet.

By JERRY WYNN

The Angels have Lee and George Thomas, the Mets have Frank Thomas and the Rams had Clendon Thomas.

But the whole United States has Danny Thomas.

One of the most popular entertainers and best-liked persons in show business, Thomas also is one of Hollywood's most avid sports fans. He attends home games of the Dodgers, Angels, Rams and Lakers and is a golfing addict of long standing.

Today he may be seen chasing the birdies at Recreation Park in the final round of the World Entertainment Golf Championship.

Danny, the course record at Recreation Park is 63 by Sam Snead. Do you plan to break it today?

"Give me my 11 handicap with my score, and why not? But I haven't been playing much lately. I've just been on tour for the St. Jude Hospital Fund. I'll probably swing like a rusty gate. But I hope to have fun. That's the idea of the game."

What do you consider the strong point of your game?

"Pitching and putting have always been my forte, and how I get my pars. I used to hit a pretty fair wood shot in the fairway. I always use a 5-wood in preference to a 2- or 3-iron."

Do you enjoy playing before large galleries?

"It's funny, I never have nerves on the stage, but I do get a little buck fever on the golf course, especially when I'm playing well. In this tournament, no one should take his game too seriously. It's for fun and a good cause, the Motion Picture Relief Fund."

What is your opinion of women golfers?

"Some of them are excellent, some of them are poor. There are hackers in both sexes. It goes for everything."

Do you have a favorite among the pro golfers?

"I'm a big fan of Gary Player and Arnold Palmer. I had the privilege of playing with Sam Snead in a pro-amateur recently, and he's too much. I was so awed by how well he swings, I kept looking at him instead of my ball. And I didn't play badly either. I guess that disposes of the old theory that you have to keep your eye on the ball."

Palmer believes in attacking the ball, and Jack Nicklaus in overpowering it. What is your philosophy?

"If I swing easy, I can score. You know... gently, nicely, talk to the ball a little, wheedle it. Golf is a game of confidence. You have to believe in what you can do, and aim to accomplish just that. You can't overextend yourself."

Turning to football, Danny... now that Bob Hope is no longer an owner, do you think the Rams' problems are solved?

"You said it, you rascal, I didn't. Maybe their problems would be solved if they play Hope at quarterback. He might be a lot better than some others who have tried."

If you could change places today with any athlete, who would you choose?

"I'd like to be Willie Mays. I'm just a fan of all kinds of artistry. This man is effortless, beautiful. He floats while he works. The way Sandy Koufax has been going, I might want to be him, too."

But millions of Danny Thomas fans would be disappointed. They like him just the way he is.

RAIN WASHES OUT MEMPHIS GOLF TOURNEY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Ninety-one golfers face a gruelling 36-hole finish in the $50,000 Memphis Open today. A drenching rain killed Saturday's action.

About 40 golfers who teed-off despite the rain had their cards erased. It was the first tournament wash-out since the final round of the Phoenix Open in early February.

Tony Lema, who has placed in big money all this season but hasn't yet won a crown, held a two-stroke lead after he captured a six- below -par 67-67—134 Friday.

U.S. Rally Crushes Britain

TURNBERRY, Scotland (UPI)—The United States, led by Billy Joe Patton, Labron Harris Jr., and Charlie Coe, staged a stirring comeback Saturday to retain the Walker Cup, 12-8, crushing Britain's amateur golfers by sweeping the four foursome matches and winning five of the eight singles.

Trailing 6-3 after Friday's play, the U. S. stars played brilliantly as their game improved with weather. They won the first seven matches Saturday to clinch the Cup—the 18th time America has won it in the 19 times the international golf competition has been held.

It wasn't until the U. S. had built up an 11-6 lead Saturday that Britain was able to win a match—David Sheahan of Ireland defeating Richard Davies of Pebble Beach, Calif., 1 up.

THEN THE U. S. won another singles, halved the next, and Britain closed out the day by winning the final singles match when Ronnie Shade of Ireland defeated Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., 2 and 1.

Patton of Morgantown, N. C., and Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., started the Americans off on the right foot in the morning foursomes play when they defeated Mike Bonallack of England and Stuart Murray of Scotland, 1 up.

'Baseball Is Still King,' Insists Frick

NEW YORK (AP)—"The one thing that makes me furious," said Ford Christopher Frick, "is to read or hear somebody say that baseball is a dying sport."

"I like football. I'm an avid fan. Certainly, horse racing attracts a lot of customers. It's a year-around sport, and you can bet on it. But we shouldn't delude ourselves—baseball is still the king."

Frick is the gaunt, bushy-haired commissioner of the national pastime — young-looking for his 68 years.

Wilson Tennis Duo Earns Berth to CIF

Wilson High's Fred Waterman and Art Chapman won two doubles matches over Millikan teams Saturday at Long Beach City College to earn a bid to the CIF finals next Saturday at LBCC.

Despite 15 Whiffs, Klecker Loses 1-0

The Oxnard Merchants made it two in a row in the Western Softball Congress with a 1-0 win over the Lakewood Chiefs Saturday night at Mayfair Park.

HORSE BASHES POLICE CAR

What's Wrong? Everything!

PURCHASE, N.Y. (AP)—What went wrong at the annual Adjacent Hunts Racing Assn. meet Saturday?

Well, for openers, pari-mutuel clerks paid out $150 on the wrong horse. There was at least one fist fight. The public address system went on the blink at one stage. And, finally, an owner received a summons from the police when her horse bumped into a squad car.

Soistice finished first in the fourth race, then was placed second for interference and Iberian II declared the winner.

But before the change in placings was announced, backers of Solstice cashed in $150 worth of win tickets.

Mrs. William Riker will have to appear in court June 4 in the case of the police-car-bashing horse.

Her horse, Bantom Castle, smacked into the car in the paddock area and, according to the ticket, damaged public property.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rubin (Hurricane) Carter put on a whirlwind attack in the closing stages and scored an upset split 10-round decision over seasoned George Benton in the Madison Square Garden main event between the two middle-weight contenders Saturday night.

There were no knock-downs during the exciting slugging match that started a minor battle among some of the boxers' admirers among the crowd of 3,500 in the third round.

Wilke had three birdies, and missed his first hole-in-one by 12 inches with a 6-iron shot to the 162-yard fifth hole. Ging had birdies on the first and fourth holes, but couldn't maintain the fast pace.

Without a birdie, Danny Thomas was proud of a 3-wood fairway shot that hit the green on the 493-yard 15th.

STARS AND PARS:

Host pro George Lake was rooting for Mickey Rooney, who bought $300 worth of merchandise from Lake's pro shop before teeing off.

Max Baer Jr., a former Sacramento junior champion, hits the ball so long he used a 3-iron off the first tee instead of a driver.

Danny Thomas, wearing a jaunty golf hat and smoking a cigar, waved the microphone at the first-tee gallery and said, "Glad you're all out early for the blessing. I'm making Lutherans of all of you."

FOR THE first time in the five years of the tournament, every one of the stars showed up as expected. And as in all five years, Maurie Luxford was an incomparable first and 18 hole master of ceremonies.

When Jim Garner teed off, one woman turned to another and said, "He is really beautiful!"

POLY CINDERMEN MAY LOSE POINT--NO MORE

Poly High track and field coach Lee Forman feels his team "might lose one point, but no more" when the films of Friday night's CIF finals are reviewed on Tuesday.

The Rabbits unofficially scored 21 points to win their second crown in five years. Muir was second with 19.

Forman, after listening to observers, said James Miles could be placed fourth instead of third in the 100. Even the Muir coach said Miles couldn't have been worse than fourth.

The Poly coach said he was tired but happy after the gruelling come-from-behind win, and acknowledged thanks to his boys and assistant coaches Ed Rice, Andy Spaan and Roy Woolbright.

Miles in the 100 and low hurdles, Earl McCullough in the lows, Mary Molley in the broad jump and an 880 relay team will compete in Friday and Saturday's state meet in Berkeley.

Fishin' Around

L. B. Man Gets Large Brown

Ed Check, of 849 Stevely Ave., and his fishing buddy, Jim McNulty, of 545 Manila Ave., are back in Long Beach after a successful fishing trip to the Sierra Nevada. Check brought back a brown trout that weighed 6 pounds, 3 ounces, the largest fish taken in Grant Lake this year.

Ed got his big fish while trolling a flatfish. Both men caught other nice-size native trout in Grant as well as in Silver Lake and, later, in Crowley Lake.

Most of their fish in Silver were taken on trolled flies. Rush Creek yielded plenty of small fish on wet flies. Ed said that they caught so many fish in Grant that they had to release numbers of fish.

It's delightful to get a report like that from one of the best lakes in the June Lake Loop District. How well do I remember a day back in the late '20s when I caught a limit of trout (then 21 fish) within an hour in a hectic rainstorm! For that reason Grant has always had a big place in my memory.

Ed and Jim stayed at Fern Creek Lodge, situated between Silver and Grant Lake and now operated by Bob and Eleanor De Noon. Ed reported that the runoff is heavier now than the Sierra Nevada is getting some warm weather.

BRIDGEPORT LAKE PRODUCED a big brown that weighed 6½ pounds. Harold Novis of Pasadena caught it while trolling directly in front of the boat landing. Another Los Angeles County angler got one that weighed 5½ pounds.

Benno L. Heune, of Ken's Sporting Goods in Bridgeport, reported that the average for 50 boats last Saturday off Bridgeport Lake's Sandy Point was seven fish per angler. Weights ranged from three-fourths of a pound to 2 pounds.

Coming southward to San Diego County, we find that two lakes will be kept open for a longer period this week on account of the Memorial Day holiday period. Sutherland, which has been producing excellent bass, will be open from May 29 through June 1. San Vicente will be open from May 30 through June 1. It has been good for catfish and large crappie.

A Big Bear Lake Park District plant of 3,000 pounds of trout is being made to augment Department of Fish and Game plants of catchables in preparation for the holiday period. Big Bear has 7,000 acre feet of water and biologists are keeping a constant check on the water to keep it from developing too much algae.

Copper sulphate treatments are made at regular intervals to keep the lake fishable as long as possible this summer.

KEEPING TRACK OF SACRAMENTO, we find that the Assembly Fish and Game Committee has:

Approved a bill giving free fishing permits to mental patients residing in "family-care" homes;

Decided that nonresidents should pay $55—not $35—to hunt deer in California;

Approved a bill permitting counties to redesignate yellow-billed magpies as nonprotected birds for another two years because of crop damage;

Approved a bill to eliminate shipping tags from hunting and fishing licenses. Tags would still be available but would be provided separately and not attached to licenses. It would save the state several thousand dollars.

The Senate Fish and Game Committee has:

Approved a bill to remove the counties' veto power over antlerless or either-sex deer hunts ordered by the Fish and Game Commission at the suggestion of the Department of Fish and Game. This may pass the Senate, but has little chance in the Assembly because the original Busch Act was Assemblywoman Pauline Davis' pet.

Approved a measure to remove the bounty on mountain lions which the state has paid since 1907. This bill is strongly supported by the DFG, but opposed by the California Cattlemen's Association.

NEW BOOKS—Doubleday and Company, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y., has just placed on the market possibly the best volume for divers yet published. It is Owen Lee's "The Complete Illustrated Guide to Snorkel and Deep Diving."

Lee, a professional sailor, lifeguard and salmon fisherman, now turned author, is the only American member of Jacques-Yves Cousteau's French Office of Undersea Research. His book is a guide for beginners and experts alike. It embraces the latest information on naval safety procedures and medical criteria.

Dover Publications, Inc., 180 Varick St., New York 14, N.Y., is republishing the entire series on North American Birds, by Arthur Cleveland Bent, originally published as bulletins by the Smithsonian Institution and regarded as the most complete reference sources on all those species.

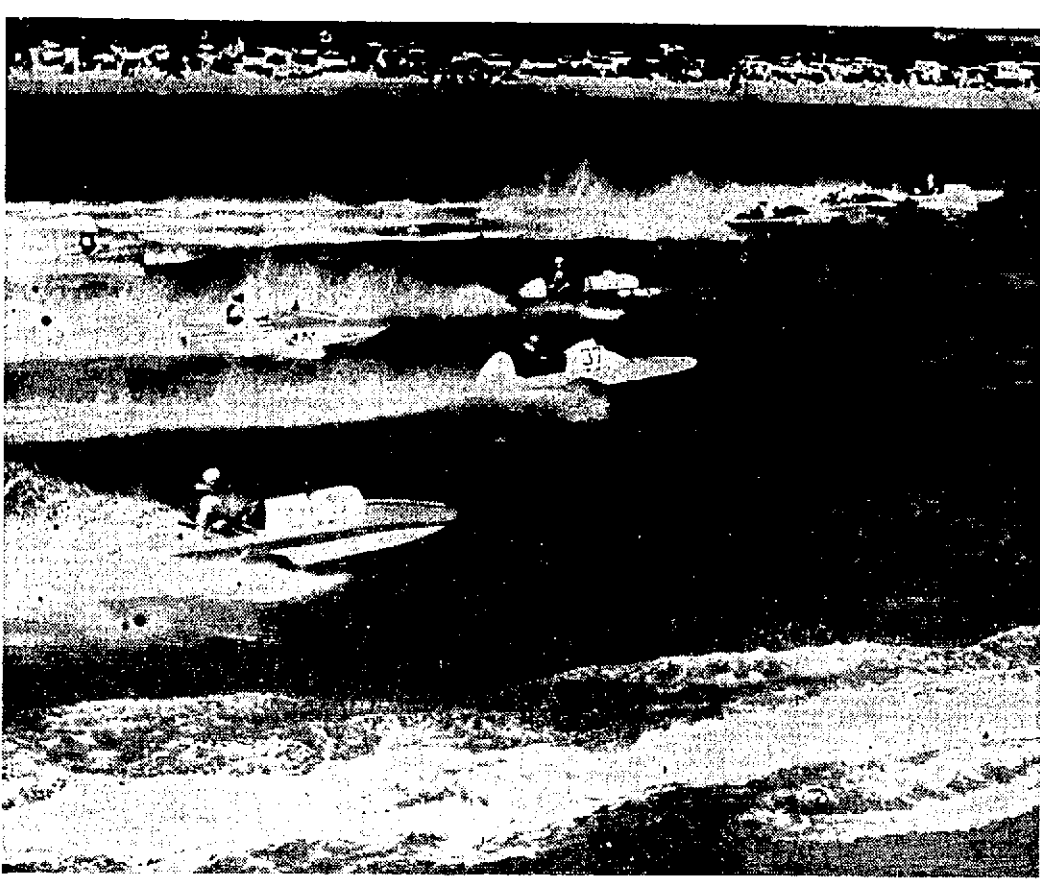

The books available now are "Life Histories of North American Birds of Prey," "Life Histories of North American Wildfowl" and "Life Histories of North American Shore Birds." Each group is in two paperback volumes at $2.35 per volume.

"Rand McNally Road Atlas," 1963 edition has just been released for those planning summer vacation trips. It is available at most book stores at $1.95. The name Rand McNally speaks for itself.

Jr. Legion Play Opens Saturday

By CHUCK MEDICK

The 19th District American Legion baseball program gets under way Saturday.

There have been many changes this year, including the switch to a double-elimination district playoff instead of sudden death, and the Wednesday night doubleheaders at Blair Field.

June 5 inaugurates the Wednesday night sessions at Blair Field. There will be doubleheaders for the first five weeks and all Harbor League teams will get a chance to perform under the lights.

AFTER THE local playoffs, the Western Regional Tournament moves into Blair Field Aug. 18-25 with eight Western states, including Hawaii represented. This marks the largest American Legion tournament ever held in Long Beach.

The district will have four leagues instead of the usual three. They are the Harbor, Pacific, Rio Hondo and Bay leagues. Many of the old rivals such as the Downey Reds and the Downey Blues will not meet this year as they will be performing in different leagues. El Segundo joins the district and will field two teams, the Reds and Blues.

It looks like a good year in all leagues.

Peterson Post has a slight edge in the Harbor League because of so many returning veterans; Gardena looks good in the Pacific League; Montebello and Bellflower may have an edge in the Rio Hondo League, while Hawthorne looks like a standout in the Bay League.

Schedules of all games can be found weekly in Tuesday's I. P.T.

THE Metropolitan Connie Mack League starts its second year in Long Beach Friday with a doubleheader at Blair Field in which both Long Beach teams will see action.

The new Long Beach Blues has been named to the 1963-3,950 registered targets, open festivities Friday at all-America trapshooting team. Among his victories were the 6:30 p.m., meeting Monrovia, by Sports Afield Magazine.

Smashy Doc Comeback Triumphantly Defeats Crazy Kid

By ERNIE MASON

Doc Jocoy made a smashing stakes comeback Saturday by running down the speedy Crazy Kid in the stretch and capturing the $55,350 Los Angeles Handicap for the sprint championship of the West at Hollywood Park.

With Willie Harnatz back in the saddle after having been flown out from New Jersey to ride the horse he drove to many notable victories, Doc Jocoy made a brilliant dash in the final eighth to score his victory by a long neck.

The defending champion in the Los Angeles, favored Winonly, never could get to the leaders and finished third while Cadiz closed a big piece of ground in the final stages to finish fourth.

In scoring his victory, Doc Jocoy raced the seven furlongs in the brilliant time of 1:20 1/2, equalling the stakes record set by Porterhouse in 1957 and duplicated in 1960 by Finnegan. The time was just four-fifths of a second off El Drag's world record.

Despite an outstanding prep victory last week, Doc Jocoy was allowed to go off at odds of slightly better than 5-1 and he returned $12.60, $6.40 and $3.40 across the board. Crazy Kid paid $11.00 and $5.20 and Winonly returned $2.60 to show.

At the start the speedy Kisco Kid, with a feathery impost of 111 pounds, broke in front and set the pace until the turn as first Sledge and then Crazy Kid tried to catch him. But Kisco Kid ran out of gas on the turn as Crazy Kid took the lead.

Harnatz kept Doc Jocoy close to the leaders but did not attempt to catch the speed in the early stages. Coming around the turn, however, Harnatz put Doc Jocoy to a drive and the 4-year-old responded gamely.

Approaching the eighth pole, Doc Jocoy had only Crazy Kid in front of him and the big Saturday crowd of 49,668 let out a roar as he gradually drew even with the leader and finally got to the front only a few yards from the wire.

Doc Jocoy had raced only three times previously this year in allowance races and won two of them. But his victory Saturday was a rich one, worth $32,850 to his owner.

RACE ROUNDUP

Firm Policy Wins as Cicada Falters

By Associated Press

NEW YORK—Firm Policy, coupled as an entry with Half Breed, returned $6.80 in the $55,200 Top Flight Handicap as Cicada faltered under 128 pounds and staggered home third before a crowd of 53,331 at Aqueduct.

Tamara was second, 2 1/2 lengths ahead of Cicada, the 7-5 favorite.

Firm Policy, unbeaten in three 1963 starts, is the miss who has been tabbed as the most likely to challenge Cicada for the filly and mare championship in the East. Cicada has been the country's top filly as a 2-year-old in 1961 and again last year as a 3-year-old.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza, who begins an enforced 10-day vacation Tuesday for interference during a race Friday, rode the buy 4-year-old daughter of Princequillo-White Cross who carried 125 pounds.

Firm Policy, second choice in the wagering, paid $5.70, $3.50 and $2.50. Tamara returned $7.60 and $3.30 and Cicada $2.50 to show.

CHICAGO—The entry of Times Roman and Editorialist finished 1-2 in the $27,350 Myrtlewood Handicap at Washington Park.

Three-quarters of a length separated the favored pair. Boston Sailor finished third, a nose behind Editorialist, in the 6 1/2 furlong sprint run before a crowd of 21,002.

The entry paid $4.60, $3.80 and $2.40 while Boston Sailor returned $4.20 to show. Times Roman earned $15,000 and was timed in 1:15 4/10.

BOSTON—Big Squeal and Pan Dancer scored surprise victories in fast times in the twin feature at Suffolk Downs.

Big Squeal was a $47.00 winner of the $7,500 Newton

Builders Told of New Rules

Long Beach contractors were notified last week of new regulations that will tighten the city's control over major electrical and plumbing installations.

Advance plan checks will be required for this construction work beginning June 14, the effective date of a recently-adopted city ordinance, the Building and Safety Department announced.

Department officials sent out letters detailing the new regulations, along with a schedule of plan check fees. The latter amount generally to 50 percent of the permit fees.

PURPOSES OF THE ordinance are not merely to assure compliance with established standards but to prevent construction delays caused by the lack of plans submitted in advance, the department said.

The legislation was recommended originally by the Advisory Economic Development Committee. It has been generally adopted by the building industry.

For electrical wiring and related work the regulations apply to such projects as theaters and hospitals; any new buildings or additions of 15,000 square feet or more; installations involving high voltage or hazardous locations; fire warning systems and lighting fixtures weighing more than 300 pounds.

PLUMBING PLAN checks are required in buildings of more than five stories or with a minimum of 180 drainage fixture units; hospitals, mortuaries, medical buildings, food processing and handling establishments, commercial laundries and restaurants.

The plan check fees are estimated to yield some $9,000 annually, enough to cover the cost of personnel assigned to review the plans.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Economy's Spotlight Falls on Sugar, Meat

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Wheat and sugar moved front and center in the drama of business and finance this week.

The spotlight fell on a variety of sugar that sold in 1961 for 2 cents a pound (unrefined) and on wheat, which accounts for little more than that in the price of a loaf of bread.

Wholesale sugar prices, climbing in recent months because of a developing pinch in supply, spurred wildly upward, setting a succession of 43-year highs. Sugar company shares moved sharply higher on the market.

Other mild effects rippled out toward far corners of the economy, reflecting in mark-ups of sugar-using items on supermarket shelves.

THE NATION'S breadbasket was jolted when farmers rebelled against administration-backed strict 1964 growing and marketing controls on wheat, agriculture's No. 1 cash crop valued at roughly $2.5 billion.

Government experts said the farm uprising, in a referendum Tuesday, threatened a steep rise in wheat plantings next year, a collapse in prices and international trade complications.

The picture was confused by political maneuvering and the possibility of congressional intercession later on that could materially change the outlook.

Meantime, the main engines of the economy hummed along, with new reports and statistics pulling up confirming horsepower not foreseen a few months ago.

WALTER W. HELLER, President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, pronounced the pickup "a notch or two" better than had been hoped for in January. Some observers then viewed administration projections as overly optimistic.

One of the few trouble spots appeared in the high-flying automobile industry, slowing a drive by automakers for a record high production year. Output fell off 4 per cent last week and seemed headed for another similar decline this week, chiefly because of a labor dispute at a Chicago Heights, Ill., Ford plant that had ramifications elsewhere.

In April, government agencies reported, all-time highs were established by housing starts, new orders for durable goods and personal income.

UP 7 PER CENT from March and 6 per cent from a year earlier, housing starts reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,627,000 units. Personal income hit an annual level of $455.7 billion, and durable goods orders an annual rate of $17.9 billion, both adjusted for seasonal factors.

Steel production, rounding out nearly four months of steady gains, set another three-year high, topping the 2.6 million tons a week mark.

The recent surge of steel ordering subsided somewhat but held at a high level.

The order surge, partly due to strike-hedging by consuming industries, also reflected the economy's faster pace, steel company executives said. They hope to avoid any work stoppage, and view prospects as reasonably encouraging.

IN WASHINGTON, the House Ways and Means Committee buckled down to writing a tax reduction and reform bill based on presidential recommendations, although it was anybody's guess how the bill might emerge.

The committee gave preliminary approval to the average.

Heat Wave Closes Schools in Moscow
MOSCOW (AP)—Schools in Moscow and other parts of the Soviet Union closed down Saturday a week early because of the heat wave.

They were scheduled to continue to May 31 but temperatures have been advancing steadily for the past week, reaching a high of 86.

Elegant Avanti Visits Colorful Kernville

By BILL EMERY
One of the most beautiful week-end drives out of Long Beach is at its colorful best right now. And what's more, you can make a circle tour and see the widest variety of scenery with a week end outing to Kernville.

We took this Motorlog last week end in America's most advanced automobile: the Avanti by Studebaker from Palmer Motors at 3300 Atlantic in Long Beach. This car was a real "crowd stopper" wherever we stopped. Sometimes it was embarrassing when the kids knew more about the car's performance than we, but it was extremely gratifying to hear their unsolicited accolades on the Avanti's high performance, its style and design.

KERN RIVER VIEW

Picture taken last weekend from the balcony of the McCambridge Lodge shows the Kern River at the top of its banks. Lodge has spacious hospitality room for groups. Some units have housekeeping units.

clusive innovations. For every considerate touch that's visible, three more are built in and reveal themselves only in the fact sheet. Safety is built into this car from bumper to bumper. This is truly a car for the discriminating!

TOUR CLOCKWISE
Heading out hiway 99 to 178 takes you to Kernville on the inside of the scenic but twisting final forty miles approaching Lake Isabella. The Avanti took these curves at least ten mph faster, and with comfort, than any vehicle we approached and overcame.

The Lake Isabella project, completed just ten years ago, has the unique distinction of being the largest body of fresh water in Southern California. Backing up the Kern river, the reservoir and river created extra dividends for fishing and recreation.

Recently added to the area is a nine-hole championship golf course (3,500 yards, par 36) with Allen Jones of Glendale as pro manager. Nearby is an airport used by planes as large as DC-3's, a ski area with two tows, horseback riding and pack trips for hunting and fishing, mineral and rock formations for the lapidary enthusiasts, a number of campsites, and probably one of the greatest attractions, river fishing on the Kern.

Jack Roof, game warden, told us trout are planted once and often twice a week thruout the 72 miles of the Kern river and its 14 tributaries and that this area is third largest in the U.S. for pounds of fish caught.

A drive up the Kern is breathtaking this time of year with all the colors. The flowers, shrubs and trees are in full bloom. Our view from the McCambridge Lodge will remain high in our list of fond memories.

Good food is often hard to come by in remote areas. Jack Ewing's restaurant will measure up with the best. The dining room looks much too large for the populated area, yet it was always filled to capacity. This was a most memorable motorlog tour.

AVANTI ATTRACTS CROWD

Famed Jack Ewing's restaurant in Kernville is gathering place for fine cuisine by townsmen, travelers and sportsmen. A warm, friendly atmosphere prevails. The Avanti was an irresistible attraction to anyone entering or leaving this busy landmark on the Kern River.

NEW GOLF COURSE

Allen Jones, pro manager of Kernville's championship 9-hole par 36 country club, takes a close-up look at the Studebaker Avanti. The club will hold an open for company tournament June 8 and 9. Fishing is just now coming into its best.

Literary Lights of 20s, 30s in 'Act I'

Five famed literary lights of the 20's and 30's—Alexander Woolcott, George Jean Nathan, Heywood Brown, Franklin P. Adams and Robert E. Sherwood—will be impersonated in "Act One," the Dore Schary motion picture production for Warner Bros. based on the best-selling autobiography of playwright Moss Hart.

Woolcott is portrayed in the film by Earl Montgomery. Nathan by Bill Desmond. Brown by Joe Dermer, F.P.A. by Drummond Erskine and Sherwood by Kenneth Moss. "Act One" co-stars George Hamilton as Hart and Jason Robards, Jr., as George S. Kaufman, with Richard Conte, Jack Klugman, Sam Levene, Ruth Ford and Bert Convy in other major roles. Schary is producing and directing the film from his own screenplay.

EDIE ADAMS . . . A Unique Combination

She's a Bit of a Brain And Bit of a Stripper

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tragedy tempers character. It can also, as in the case of Edie Adams, do the same for talent.

Edie was widowed a year ago in January when Ernie Kovacs died at the wheel of his wrecked station wagon. In the ensuing time, her career has come into full flower.

She has made four movies—"It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," "Call Me Bwana," "Under the Yum Yum Tree" and "Love With The Proper Stranger." She has starred in a number of television specials and signed for a bi-weekly series to start next fall. She has appeared in Las Vegas for top money.

SHE HAS worked almost unceasingly and with good reason. Kovacs' death found his financial affairs in a chaotic condition, with immense debts to the Federal government and other creditors. Rather than accept the offer of many star friends who wanted to stage a television spectacular to wipe out the debts, Edie assumed the burden herself.

In the meantime, necessity of hard work has broadened and sharpened her talent. The result is that she is one of the most sought-after attractions in show business today.

She is cautious about her accomplishments.

"Financially, everything is fine," she commented. "Artistically—that's another matter. Maybe it's because I have set my goals high. I see things that I have done and I cringe; I know I could have done them much better. But I'll keep trying."

SHE IS A unique combination of cerebral actress ("Why am I doing this?" she asks of directors in scenes) and honey-blond glamour girl.

The glamor side would be enough for most female stars. Edie could earn an excellent living merely by lending her appealing presence to films and night clubs. But it is part of Ernie's legacy that she must participate in the creation of material she performs.

"I don't have the sense of comedy that Ernie had; I wouldn't know how to begin to work with writers," she said. "But I do know music, and I'm going to have the say on which I'll do. There are times when I've been talked out of my own notions on musical matters; those were the times when I went wrong."

EDIE'S LIFE had turned out satisfactorily on a personal level. She weathered a custody suit brought by Kovacs' first wife over the children of that marriage, Betty, 16, and Kippie, 14. They continue to live with their stepmother, as does Edie's own daughter, Mia, 3.

"It has been hardest to explain to Mia why I have had to work so much this past year," she said. "The other two girls are old enough to understand."

"But we manage to find time to be together. With Mia, it's the bathtub. It's been a long time since I took a bath alone."

Next month, Edie will take her first vacation after a solid year of work. She'll fly to Japan and Hong Kong for hotel openings, then return to Hawaii where she'll meet the girls for an island holiday.

Metropolitan Opera's Merrill Confesses All

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Opera star Robert Merrill agreed to be the Fall Guy and play my "20 Questions" Celebrity Interview game.

He was packing to sail for Europe for three months when we met in a midtown office . . . and I turned on the tape recorder.

Q: Bob, what would be the highest pinnacle you could climb professionally?

A: To make Merrill a European career. Through my records, I'm sort of known everywhere. But people have not seen me, I must go and sing for them in person.

Q: WHICH is the better commercial market?

Q: So why don't you stay in America and not worry about Europe?

Bob's rich laugh, from down in the stomach, rang through the office.

A: It hasn't anything to do with money. If I wanted to sing in Las Vegas, I could make a great deal of money. But I've thrown that aside to launch a career in Europe.

Q: What's the most money an opera star can make?

Bob shot me a suspicious glance.

A: You want me to tell you how much I earn? Is that it? O.K. I'd say, roughly, $50,000 to $75,000 a year.

Q: Have you ever gone on stage just maybe half-intoxicated?

A: Yes! Someone opened this wonderful bottle of 30-year-old scotch backstage and I just tasted it—I had just a little shot. And I walked out and blew my lines!

Q: Are opera stars as wild in their personal lives as movie stars?

A: There's one gal who likes to faint and get her name in the papers. I don't like her.

Q: European?

A: No. American! This prima donna hadn't done too well in two previous performances. We were doing "Traviata." When I started my big duet with her, she just collapsed. We had to pull the curtain. In about 10 minutes, after the pictures had been taken of her and the publicity had gone out—and she heard there was another soprano in the house who could sing the part—she revived very fast!

Q: WOULD it be possible that a star gets to the point where he must almost worship himself?

A: Yes. To get into this business you must like yourself a great deal. You have to be conceited inwardly. When you're on stage you have to think, "Man, I'm really great."

Q: What's been your wildest TV experience?

A: Well, on the Johnny Carson show, George Jessel stepped on my lines and did not let me get to the punch line of this story. When I started singing, I got publicity. There was a very heavy

A leading Long Beach harbor cargo operation got a sizeable boost in business here with the arrival of the nation's largest railroad tank car.

The 20,000-gallon "Jumbo" car is the first of a fleet of 20 of the $18,000 tankers being built for transit between Long Beach and the Rocky Mountain area.

named vice president responsible for all trust activities in the area.

The bank, long known as a commercial banking leader in Northern California, Washington and Oregon, will open its Los Angeles headquarters at 550 South Flower St. in August.

CONTROL TECHNOLOGY, Inc., of Long Beach, a research and systems engineering concern specializing in the fields of computers, feedback control theory, operations research, man-machine relationships, computer aids to management, and automation, has announced appointment of Donald S. Smith Associates of Anaheim as public relations and advertising counsel for the corporation.

The tankers will carry tallow to the port for shipment to the Far East and coconut oil, imported from the Philippines, on the return trip.

AN OFFICIAL of Baker Commodities, Inc., with a terminal on Pier D, said the tankers will result in a 50 per cent increase in Baker's imports (now about 1,500 tons a month) and a 20 per cent increase in exports of tallow (now 60,000 tons a year).

Tallow is the port of Long Beach's ninth ranked export commodity.

Both tallow and coconut oil are used in the manufacture of soap.

The 51.2-foot long tankers are 15 feet tall and nearly 2½ times as big as the present tankers which have a capacity of 8,000 gallons.

THE BIG cars, the largest ever manufactured for the transport of vegetable oils or tallow, are equipped with roller bearings which greatly reduce the drag factor and are about as big as a tanker can go.

The Jumbo tankers are being manufactured in Pennsylvania.

When completed they will make the round-trip from Long Beach to the Rocky Mountain area, specifically Denver, every three weeks to a month.

Curb Noise Causes in 'Donnee' Apartments

The "Donnee," located at 5th Street and Lime Avenue in Long Beach, a 15-unit luxury "own-your-own" apartment, is now under construction by the Tobin Construction Co.

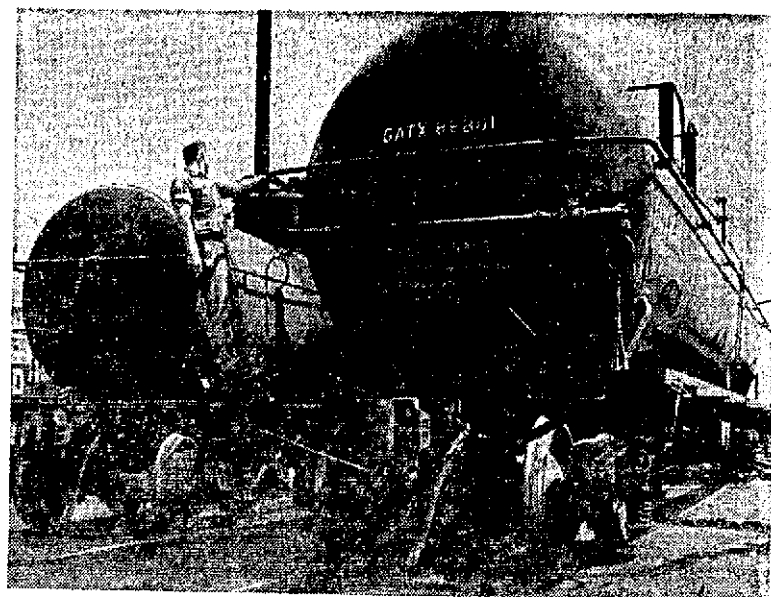

It is utilizing many new concepts in apartment construction that will eliminate many annoying noises which heretofore have been a major part of apartment living.

No two bathrooms will be back to back, which will remove one of the largest noise factors. Triple reinforcements will remove another.

Early purchasers of these one and two-bedroom apartments will be able to coordinate their own color selections in wall-to-wall all-wool carpeting laid on extra heavy padding, the sunproof draperies and the color of ceramic tile in the kitchen and bathrooms.

Jordan & Associates of Beverly Hills are supervising the overall color coordination of the complete building.

Sales personnel will be at the apartment each day starting today from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

FIRST JUMBO TANKER HERE

With a capacity of 20,000 gallons, the huge tank car at the right is the first of a fleet of 20 which will serve between the Long Beach area and the Rocky Mountains. At the left is the usual 8,000 gallon tank car.

NEW NAPLES ISLAND APARTMENT PROJECT FINISHED

Seven Story Portofino Has Boating Facilities

Residents can "sail home" planned in Long Beach and to a new marina high-rise apartment on Naples Island, completed this week by Site Development Corp.

The Portofino, a seven-story luxury rental apartment immediately adjacent to Alamitos Bay channel, has permanent slips for from 25 to 30 sail and powerboats as its "front yard."

It is the first rental high-rise apartment in the Southland to include boat slippage facilities for residents, according to Barry Taper, president of Site Development.

The building, designed by Hugh Gibbs, AIA, of Long Beach, has 60 luxury two- and three-bedroom apartments on six floors, plus two 2500-square-foot penthouse apartments.

CONSTRUCTION features include a two-foot-cement foundation, selected by Gibbs in place of pilings because of the proximity of the apartment to the Bay. The Class A building is of steel and reinforced concrete construction throughout. Two high-speed elevators carry residents from a first-level garage to their apartments.

All units are of central-hall design and all are carpeted throughout. All-electric "gold medallion" kitchens include ranges, ovens, refrigerators, dishwashers, and washer-dryers. The building is equipped with a master antenna system with television and am/fm radio antenna jacks in each apartment.

ALL APARTMENTS have sliding-glass doors and glass exterior walls and each has a 40-foot balcony overlooking the Bay and Naples Island. Recreation facilities include a spacious sundeck and pool area.

Apartment rentals will start at $375 per month.

The Portofino is the first of six high-rise apartments

Custom Selection of Kitchens Offered Hall of Fame Buyers

Hall of Fame Homes, Costa Mesa, featuring custom selection of kitchens and removable and convertible bedroom and living room walls, are more than half sold out, Dick Murray, sales director of Farrow Realty Corp., announced.

Torrance Concern Will Reactivate Silicon Plant

Purchase by B. K. K. Mining, Inc., Torrance, of the former Ward-Lee Chemical Corp. property at Dixieland, Calif., 10 miles west of El Centro on Highway 80, was announced recently.

The transaction included eight-plus acres on which there is a three-arc submerged electric furnace which, when rebuilt and reactivated, will convert silica ore to silicon metal, an item appearing on the strategic list.

There also is on the property a 20' x 60' concrete building housing an assay room, office and storage room. The B. K. K. Mining Co., according to information related to the I. V. D. A. by Paul C. Estep, B. K. K. engineer, contemplates reactivation of the plant sometime in November.

Delay in opening is due to rush work involving a subsidiary company engaged in the operations of a granite quarry in San Diego County.

Regarding the future of the plant, Estep said that they would probably install a vacuum process for crystal growth, a form of silicon used in the inertia guidance components in rockets and space flights. This strategic item sells for $375 to $380 per pound at present.

It's what's inside that counts!

We're all aware of beautiful modern-day structural engineering, but ever stop to think what makes it practical? It's what's inside that makes it practical... the plumbing, the heating, the cooling, the ventilating and the piping equipment. And who is responsible for furnishing, installing and connecting this vital "inside" portion of a building? The mechanical contractor.

The mechanical portions of a building have somewhat the same status as the heart, lungs, brain and digestive systems of a human body. They are the vital organs which enable the framework to function smoothly and efficiently.

And just as the physician is essential to the proper functioning of the human body... so is the mechanical contractor essential to the proper functioning of the mechanical portions of a building. It is he who is technically skilled and trained to know the wheres, whys and hows of today's highly complex mechanical installations. He must know and understand the principles of hydronics, physics and metallurgy. He is responsible for the installation and servicing of all that machinery and equipment whose constant use and operation is necessary for the safe and healthful occupancy of the structure by its users.

Yes... no one can deny this is a beautiful structure, but as the old saying goes... "Beauty is only skin deep... it's what's inside that counts."

And it's the mechanical contractor that makes it count.

Wherever air, oil, gas, water or any liquid under pressure is piped, there you will find the skills of the P.I.P.E. mechanical contractor and his journeyman pipefitters and plumbers.

Docteur, Doktora, Dokter, Doctor!

Words Different, Meaning Same

... 'Hospitalese' Translated in 17 Languages

By MARY ELLIS

Ich mochte jemand sprechen der meine sprache versteht!

Quiero ver a alguno que hable mi lenguaje!
Ja cheem sie rozmowic w mojem jezyku!

Now don't run for the phone to call the newspaper. Those aren't so many words jumbled by the linotype.

Instead, they're the German, Spanish and Polish way (in that order) to say: I want to see someone who speaks my language!

It's the most-of repeated request among non-English speaking patients admitted at Memorial Hospital.

IRISH COLLEEN Doreen Fox, medical records clerk at hospital, is in strategic position to help carry out International Club's program of service to non-English-speaking patients. When foreign patients are admitted, she notifies hospital employees who are of same nationality. They visit patient, help orient him to hospital surroundings and translate his needs to attendants. A native of Dublin County, Ireland, Miss Fox has been in U. S. five years.

And international city that we are, there are from eight to ten a month!

MOST USUALLY they're emergency cases from aboard ships. Sometimes they're tourists, other times visitors.

Very often they can't speak a word of English. And that's pretty frustrating—even if you're just trying to buy a bag of peanuts.

But when one is desperately ill, can't parleyvoo Americanese, doesn't know how to call for sestru bolnicarku (Yugoslavian for the nurse) or tell someone he's fazom (Hungarian for cold)—well . . .

"It can be frightening for the patient," says hospital Chaplain Robert Gunter, a stocky, black-haired dedicated Alabaman who, as he says, "can speak only Southern."

Lack of communication can be confusing, says he, for everyone concerned—the patient, the nurse, the doctor, the dietician, the technician or whomever.

RECOGNIZING THE great need, Chaplain Gunter set about breaking down language barriers shortly after he joined the staff three years ago.

Through his efforts, with the help of the hospital's two-year-old International Club and its many foreign employees, Memorial now has a unique two-way communication system for foreign patients and hospital staffers.

Gunter compiled a list of personal, medical and special needs—the things most often asked by patients.

Examples: I want a bath, I want some writing material, I am too hot, I want something for pain, I am hungry, I want to see my doctor, ditto my nurse.

There are 45 in all, including this one: please have someone explain the bedside panel to me . . . which must be requested often, since ultra-modern Memorial's bedside panel looks about as electronic as a jet airliner's cockpit.

GUNTER AND HIS aides have completed some 15 worksheets, each listing the various needs in a given language. Opposite each is the English translation.

The patient (from Indonesia, Norway, Guam or wherever) looks down the list, finds the request in his own familiar tongue, points to it—and, presto, his needs are translated on the spot.

The hospitalese language guides have been completed in Italian, Spanish, Dutch, Indonesian, French, Polish, German, Latvian, Malayan, Tagalog (Philippines), Norwegian, Soendanees (Guam), Greek, Swedish and Japanese.

In the hopper: Turkish and Hungarian.

And Gunter hasn't had to go far to find his linguists. Memorial's staff of 912 includes 86 foreign-borns representing 19 nationalities who speak 27 different languages.

THE LANGUAGE guides have been such a boon to hospital efficiency—and such a comfort to foreign-born patients—that the 30 members of the hospital's International Club have taken up the cause.

Members, through a doughnut sale at morning coffee break in the employees' cafeteria, have, to date, contributed $120 toward publication of the worksheets into a bound dictionary.

Gunter believe it's the first such publication for any hospital.

While race and nationality conflicts are popping up all over the world—in the South, in Vietnam, in Cuba and Haiti—19 different nationalities are working peacefully side-by-side at international-minded Memorial Hospital.

And, now—even language is becoming less of a barrier.

FROM DIFFERENT SIDES OF WORLD—Chaplain Robert Gunter (left) of Memorial Hospital and Ignacio A. Torre, native of Guam and president of hospital's International Club, speak same language when it comes to "hospitalese." They're pooling efforts to publish unique International Language Guide for non-English-speaking patients. Torre, who works in hospital's admitting and accounting offices, is studying in U. S. on grant from Guam government; after completion of studies will return home "to help my people." He speaks four languages.

INDEPENDENT-Press-Telegram Women

GERMAN-BORN NURSE, Mrs. Erma Hight, speaks right language to premature babies in hospital nursery. Many parents have commented: "If it hadn't been for her loving care, our baby would not be alive today." She has been on staff of hospital since 1957, speaks fluent German.

AMONG 19 NATIONALITIES represented on staff at Memorial are (from left) Christine and Pauline Latuperissa, sisters from Indonesia, and Soledad Ruiz-Asprin from the Philippines, all pharmacists' assistants. The Latuperissa sisters were born in Indonesia, where their father was an official with the Dutch government. They've lived, also, in Holland and Dutch Guinea; speak English, Indonesian, Dutch, French and German. Active in hospital's International Club, Christine is treasurer, Pauline is membership chairman.

A NATIVE OF PHILIPPINES, Gabino (George) Fontanillo is orderly in central services. He has been corporal in U.S. Army, a wheelman in Merchant Marines; speaks Tagalog and English. Among foreign-born staffers who hold key positions at hospital are Jim Cook, Canadian, administrative assistant; Dr. George X. Trimble, Canadian, director of medical education; Erwin Oplatha, Austrian, director of food services; Mrs. Enid Hogg, British, associate director of food services.

Proving Men Are Good Scouts—and Other Tales

GIRL SCOUTS will honor the "men in their lives," (next to their dads, of course), when the council pays tribute to the men in scouting—fellas who often go above and beyond the call of duty, even after their own daughters have graduated, to help the good cause. Men will hear their praises sung at a dinner in their honor Wednesday at Cerritos College in Norwalk.

Typical of the affection the little gals feel for their heroes is expressed in accompanying picture of Dr. Francis Flynn (left) and Norb Dean, getting hug of approval from Brownie Sandy Tosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tosh. Francis will be speaker at Wednesday's dinner. Dean of development at LBSC, he has been active in scouting through the interest of his daughter, Nancy, for the past 10 years, including providing transportation for seniors to the Colorado River and being a big promoter of cookie and calendar sales.

Scout men—second best to Dad himself!

Norb is a member of the finance committee for the Greater L. B. Council and has three daughters in scouting, Bonnie, Kerry and Wendy, in addition to a host of other community activities.

About 50 or more men will be specially honored. To name a few—Max Durham, Darryl Neighbors, Lt. Vic Miller of the Lifeguards, Dick Mars, Paul Frizzell and Bob Brimmore (of Bellflower).

HAD A cheery luncheon date with Junior Leaguers Liz Wallace, Sue Brunner and Phyllis Miller to plot publicity for good causes through the year. Poor Sue, legal pilot of discussion as publicity chairman, had a heckuva time keeping us on the topic.

For reasons like Liz telling how fascinated she was with the Rocky Mountain News in Denver, particularly a specific story she remembered on how to keep your husband happy. It had 26 points in all and was a reprint from a book (I think) by Virgil Damon.

Point No. 1 and again Point No. 26 advised wives not to serve their husbands martinis which, he claimed, acted as a catalytic agent for argumentative trouble. He said, "they make shrews out of nice women and fools out of smart men." Ah, come now, Virg!

MERRY moments on the bayfront last Sunday as Sally and Don Graham bid friends to a christening for their newly acquired Cal-24 sailboat at its dock in front of Faye and Harold Mulhollen's home. The Mulhollens graciously loaned their front yard so the crowd could spill out onto the lawn, as needed, for elbow room as they toasted the new craft. What REALLY got christened was the new ice box, made especially for the Grahams by Ray Smith!

... had a blast and a half

HAD THE usual blast and a half at the annual golfing weekend at Gilman Hot Springs for themselves, did local attorneys and spouses. Sterling Clayton emerged this year's champ, with a low gross of 76, while Penny Shriver won again, to remain the gals champ for the second year.

Saturday some of the wives took pity on the golfers, rented a cart and toted cool refreshments to them on the sunny course. Drivers and purveyors of liquids included Loraine Ackerman, Ruth Grisham, Cynthia Blakey and Jim Baker. By natural gravitational pull, or because golf was too hard for him that day, he decided to join the cart brigade. Weather good. Banquet on Friday, a luau on Saturday and a weary ride home (that's editorializing, but bet it's true) on Sunday.

AS ED SULLIVAN would say, "It was a rilly, rilly open house—rilly open!" That was when Ida and Herb Buehler had open house at their new, still unfinished house, in Huntington Harbour. The exterior has no doors, only cement floors, in date, and no furniture. The bar was stacked lumber and it was well utilized from 4 to 6 p. m.

Ida and Herb have sold their Naples bayfront home and are "camping" in an apartment until home is finished—hopefully by July 1. Among guests who stood a lot (what else?) enjoyed a lot (what else?) were Dolores and Bob Burl, Alice and Bill Gehrke, Marian Jellender, John Williams, Marti Olsen, Helen and Phil Hahn and Martha and Joe Schelblaur.

ON GLORIA it looks good.

This is a pix of Mrs. George Deukmejian, wife of our good assemblyman, at a recent Pals Club luncheon in Sacramento. She was a model during a "History of Millinery" hat fashion parade.

Pals is a club composed of wives of members of the State Legislature and constitutional officers. Maybe in self defense, because their husbands are so busy, they meet once a week and every once in a while have a hi-jinks like the hat parade.

HEAVENLY release to get away from the little ones for four days at Warners Hot Springs—and, as any parent knows, heavenly in its own way to get back to the warm-armed hugs and moist kisses of little ones was nice experience for Diane and Art (Duke) Guy.

ONE THING for sure, Vivian Clevenger is making no promises about a definite return date as she jets off for Hawaii today on a "dream come true" trip.

She's been in and out of hospitals for the past two years due to after-effects of an auto accident and hasn't been able to work or pursue her art interests, so this will be the change of scenery she's longing for.

She'll go island hopping (try and locate an old college chum but she isn't sure which island she lives on so this could parlay into an interesting search), visit friends in Honolulu; stay at some of the most famous resorts; be on Kauai for its annual state fair; naturally attend a native luau. Well! No wonder she won't promise a thing about a return date. Who would, under the circumstances?

DARN THE luck. We missed Netha and Vic Eckland, who were in town over last weekend from home near San Francisco, guests of Bobbie and George Boedecker on their yacht, "Jubilado." Vic is public relations director of P&O Lines and is en route to Florida to greet the liner, Oronsay, in addition to being guest speaker for a gang of p.r. officials in the transportation field.

1919 Model and on Her it Looks Good

IT WAS a wonderful wrap-up to the California State Division of American Association of University Women, hosted by the Long Beach group, especially because our own Ann (Mrs. Ray W.) Townsend was showered with honors. She retires July 1, after eight years as South Pacific Regional vice president, and this was everyone's chance to give her the recognition she deserves.

Ann was recipient of gifts from local, state and national board level. She received a gorgeous silver tray, lovely silver bowl, traveling case and a money gift so she can buy something special for herself when she goes on an around-the-world tour planned for next year.

Perhaps her biggest thrill was that the state will present a $5,000 fellowship to an African teacher in name of Ann Townsend. She also found out that little Nevada (in population, anyway) is giving a $500 fellowship in her name, too. Her many years couldn't have been more happily recognized from her standpoint.

GYRO CLUB members will be gyrotating toward Monterey, come Memorial Day, to attend district convention. Chuck Chandler, he's district gov. and better be on his way, will go accompanied by Naomi. Others packing the trunks of cars to overflowing with golf clubs, party and sports clothes, and travel paraphernalia (it'll take lots, after all they'll be gone four days!) will be Carl and Mary Brooks (he's new pres. of L. B. chapter), Bea and Gih Millie, Ginny and Bob (he's veeep) Hall, Dorothy and Walt Strawinski and Shirley and Bill Gillis—with a maybe for the Gillises to date.

They're planning to go up, a la motorcade style, with well placed exclamation point stops to keep the travel less tedious.

Gyro's Robert Hall, Carl Brooks demonstrate how to pack for trip. Wait'll their wives add theirs!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Rules of a Wise Woman

DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day I sat down and wrote myself a letter. In it were some pertinent rules, and on the outside of the envelope I wrote, "To be opened on the day I go to live with my daughter, heaven forbid." I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for six years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go to live with my oldest daughter. I've opened that letter and I think your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here they are:

ABBY

1. Give what you can toward your keep. Any budget will stretch just so far.
2. Keep yourself clean and neat.
3. Remember, it is THEIR home. Be specially considerate of HIM. He allowed her to bring you here.
4. Give them privacy at every opportunity.
5. If they want to go away on a vacation, but are hesitant because of you, offer to visit another relative or friend so they will be free to go.
6. Don't offer any advice or express any opinions unless asked.
7. Volunteer information that they might be too embarrassed to ask for, such as arrangements for your burial, hospitalization, etc.

These rules were written over 20 years ago. I read them often and am determined to keep them. Sincerely,—WIDOW X

DEAR ABBY: Whoever started that stupid rule of courtesy, stating that ladies should leave an elevator first? I am always annoyed with gentlemen who stand rooted to the floor of an elevator and refuse to get out ahead of women who are in the rear of the elevator, struggling to get out. If those stupid men would just step out of the elevator ahead of the women it would be so much simpler for everyone.—"ANNOYED"

DEAR ANNOYED: "Women and children first" is the rule when abandoning a stricken ship, but common sense should prevail when leaving an elevator.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BENNY: No, I am not a "nut" on the subject, but I still think that anyone who smokes is advertising the fact that he has money to burn.

Yes, Abby will send you a personal reply if you send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your problem.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Alice Schweitzer

IT'S BARE-BACK NEWS—a criss-cross wrap—that turns this supple sheath into an exciting fashion. Make it casual or play up its drama via your fabric choice—for instance, hot orange linen or pale blue crepe, black pique or silk surah scroll design. Printed Pattern M339 by Alice Schweitzer is basically simple with few pattern parts. Note how ties come from the side to sash the waist casually in front. The slight fabric extension suggests the flattery of sleeves above a smart, square armhole.

Printed Pattern M339 is available in Misses' Sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch fabric.

Raisins: Delicious Product of the Sun

A "mistake" of nature in 1873 led to the booming raisin industry in San Joaquin Valley, which always produces more of the dried, sweet grapes than all the rest of the world combined.

It was just before September grape harvest time in 1873 that an unexpected, unusually hot spell baked the valley and dried all grapes on the vine before growers could pick them.

In those days, few people had heard of raisins, but one dauntless grower packed his "dried grapes" off to a grocer friend in San Francisco, where a ship had just arrived from Peru.

The raisins were labeled "Peruvian delicacies" and sold immediately to people who clamored for more.

TODAY, about a million tons of grapes are harvested in the valley in late summer or early fall to produce 250,000 tons of raisins, for it takes four pounds of grapes to make one of raisins.

The grapes are picked by hand and spread on paper trays between the rows of vines to dry in the sun.

Ninety-four per cent of the raisins are from Thompson seedless grapes, with Muscat, Sultanina and currants making up the rest.

Golden raisins are Thompsons, too, but undergo a sulphur processing to produce the golden color.

ALL RAISINS are checked for moisture, sugar, quality and cleanliness by inspectors from the United States Department of Agriculture. Raisins are not packaged as they come into the packing plant. They are sealed and stored while they equalize in moisture, letting those that are too dry absorb from those that are too moist.

As demands from buyers come in, the raisins are thoroughly cleaned and packaged, ready to add their sun-dried goodness to breads, pies, mincemeat, fruit cakes—or to be eaten plain for their tangy sweetness.

GIRLS WILL BE BOYISH
The Short Cut to Fashion

By MARY ELLIS
P.T. Fashion Editor

And now it's the Little Boy bit.

Sounds like an acting assignment? Actually it's a fashion look, but in a sense there's a relationship.

It's a look inspired by the haircuts of scampish characters in the Broadway musical, "Oliver," a show that makes you want to go out and get your hair cut.

THE SMASH HIT, which set the style for tomboy suits for women this spring, now has inspired the most charming raggle-taggle coil of the season — a short, round, capped crown to frame a wistful and wide-eyed, waifish and worldly face.

It also is described as being "nibbled at the edges like romaine lettuce."

Actually, the hair is cut so there's a tumble of bangs shaking down on the forehead; hair at the sides is swept toward the face, wispy at the edges.

TRUE, IN BOTH hairstyling and fashion, the soft trend seems to predominate this season. But there are strong signs that another borrowing — from the boys trend is biding for popularity.

LITTLE BOY LOOK . . . created for women by the big boys in fashion and hairstyling threatens to sweep the country. His and her urchinlike cuts (above) were inspired by waifish-looking Oliver, star of smash Broadway hit. Many ladies' fashions (tomboy suit, shirt look, bowler hats) are Oliver-inspired.

Fashion gets into the act with the bowler hat, the white organdie cravat, the shirt look in everything from tailored suits to evening gowns.

IN HAIRSTYLING there's also a revival of the Buster Brown look of 30 years ago — bowl-shaped and short banged, Dutch boy style.

The 1963-ism is feminized, has a softer look with waves over the forehead. It, like the Oliver, calls for soft makeup which is light in color.

Subtle and sophisticated, both are terribly young. They're even cutting wigs the "Oliver!" way.

WHY GROW OLD?
Extra Pounds Generally
Land Where Not Needed

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Extra pounds always seem to land where we least want them. Why can't they be more considerate? Why can't they fill out a bony neck or a small bust? And if they cannot do that, why can't they hide underneath the insteps? But no! They cling to the waistline, perch on the hips and pile up on the abdomen!

Of course, every woman has her own individual weight distribution. Some have a small bust and large hips. Some have a large bust and practically no hips. Some have large thighs and others find that all the excess poundage seems to land on the tummy.

As a general rule, any extra pounds land where you least want them! That's life for you, and a gay challenge it gives you. It is gay because you can somewhat control the distribution of your weight with exercise.

problem for many but I believe that a protruding abdomen and a thick waistline are more usual figure faults. So today, let me give you an effective exercise for each.

For a protruding abdomen: Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Keep your arms in this position. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen. Straighten your legs (not toward the ceiling) and bring your heels close to the floor but do not touch the floor. Continue bending and straightening the legs. At first, you may have to touch the heels to the floor between bends. Later on, it will not be necessary.

For the waistline: Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms overhead, one arm by each ear. Keep your arms in this position while you rotate your trunk. Make the circles complete and as large as comfortable. Rest. Repeat.

Old Stocks Good For Wallpaper

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

If you have stock certificates that you found in the bottom of an old trunk or in cleaning the attic when Great Aunt Minnie went into the nursing home, don't start planning your trip to Europe.

According to Thomas J. Fagan, resident manager of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, (who has a drawer full) his firm has never found one of these obscure securities of any value at all.

The majority of questionable certificates brought in hopefully to the Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis office have been issued by small companies that have been unsuccessful.

Many stocks issued in the late 20s and early 30s during a rapid growth period when many new companies were started have found their way to the bottom of the drawer.

Some early oil companies in Long Beach and Nevada mining companies were once very popular stocks and now are good for wall-papering only.

For information concerning unlisted stocks of uncertain value, Fagan suggests writing to the state capital where the company was incorporated and ask the corporation commission if the company is still in existence.

"WOMEN, DAY BY DAY, grow more intelligent about the stock market," said Fagan.

Sixty per cent of those attending a series of lectures offered by Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis on investments were women. Among topics included were "How Economics Affect the Market," "How Stocks Are Bought and Sold," and "How to Read the Financial Page."

Many of these women have never invested in the stock market. However, about one third of the accounts of the firm are women investors. Over half of the nation's stockholders are women.

Five or six women attend Paine, Webber daily, out of about 55 persons, to watch the activity on the board. Many friendships have developed with this common interest.

The morning this reporter stopped in, there was a very elegantly dressed grey haired woman in a handsome black hat sitting in the front row avidly watching the changes on the board, eating a strawberry ice cream cone.

Ace Discard Assures Set

Here is a hand that comes from the fertile brain of the late Ely Culbertson.

Ely loved sensational plays, especially one that could be based entirely on sound bridge reasoning.

There are so many ways for South to get to four spades, but probably the best is just to bid it right over the club opening.

West might double, but a pass is more discreet. East probably considers a further bid, but the vulnerability situation should deter him.

There is no problem about the opening lead. East wins the trick with the queen of clubs and continues the suit and right here is where West must produce his sensational play.

West must discard his queen of hearts on the second club and his ace of hearts on the third club.

THIS IS the only way to beat the four spade contract and it is perfectly sound bridge. West wants to find the play most likely to defeat the contract and this is it.

It might cost West the second trick of a potential two trick set, but West's only real interest is to set the hand something.

Could Be a Case of Subtle Subterfuge

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am a bachelor of 40 although I look younger. I have a number of friends around town, and I made the mistake of introducing them to a girl I have dated on and off for years. It's nothing serious, but a pleasant, platonic association.

But these friends all feel that she would make a good wife for me. Every time I am invited to a party or dinner at any one of the friend's houses I am told that so-and-so will be waiting to be picked up. And every time I'm seen with her it strengthens everyone's conviction (except those of the girl and I) that we make a perfect team.

How do I break this steady two-some bit? —BAITED.

Dear Molly Mayfield that until this came up he never caused either of us a day's concern.

He has no desire to go on with anything. He has no set reason for being depressed, but he is. We are afraid to leave him alone and worry every time he is out. We can't go on like this.

—AFRAID.

DEAR AFRAID:

This is strictly a problem for your doctor to handle. He may suggest psychiatric care. Your son is sick and needs help that only trained personnel can give. Teen-agers live in a troubled world not of their making. As one noted doctor said in a recent talk before a P.T.A. group: "Your children face more temptations in an hour than many of you faced in all of your growing up years."—M. M.

L. P. T. Music Critic

On Sunday, June 30, 1957, I wrote my first Major & Minor Notes column for the Independent Press-Telegram. In the six years which have followed, I have not missed a Sunday—not even during vacation time. But now I am needing a "breather." On June 3 I am flying to Hawaii for a much needed rest and change. It will be a time for refreshment and for new ideas for you, my faithful readers. I will have a month away from my desk—and from the concert halls.

During these six years of strenuous effort, I have filled six scrapbooks with my writings. These books represent many hours of time, energy and concentration.

FEW PEOPLE realize the arduous effort involved in covering a concert. The job begins when leaving the house at 7:30 p.m. Two hours of keenest concentration follow the program. At midnight or later one arrives home, and it usually takes one hour to write the review, for if it is a bad concert, the words come slowly; if it is a good concert, there is so much to say. So by the time one is ready for bed it is 2 a.m.

And the end is not yet! At 6 a.m. I must rouse myself to go over my notes and 7 a.m. is the deadline for telephoning in the copy.

IT WOULD be nice if I might spend the rest of the day in bed, but I also am a vocal teacher, and the promising and talented pupils take up most of my days.

And so—I am playing "hooky" for the month of June! What of importance have I accomplished during these past six years? I am astounded how many great celebrities of the musical world I have personally interviewed and introduced to my readers through Major & Minor Notes.

Major and Minor Notes

THESE ARE some of the famous ones I have personally interviewed: Singers: Joan Sutherland, John Charles Thomas, Lauritz Melchior, Galli-Curci, Dorothy Kirsten, Rosa Raisa, Leonard Warren, Lily Pons, Mary Costa, Richard Tucker, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, Richard Lewis, Lisa Della Casa, Giorgio Tozzi, Renata Cioni, Sandor Konya and Geraint Evans.

Instrumentalists: Piatigorsky, Jascha Heifetz, Josef Szigeti, William Primrose, Leonard Pennario; conductors: Zubin Mehta, the late Dr. Bruno Walter, Igor Mar-ketvitch, Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt, Georg Solti, Sir John Barbirolli, Eugene Ormandy and Erich Leinsdorf.

My reviews of concerts are too many to count. Have I not earned a vacation?

Concert to End Festival

"Four Centuries of Choral Music," concluding program of the Long Beach Music Council's month-long "Four Centuries Festival," will be presented by the combined choral groups of Long Beach City College and Long Beach State College at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the LBCC auditorium. There is no admission charge.

Participating groups are the A Cappella Choir of Long Beach State College, directed by Frank Pooler, and the Schola Cantorum and College Choir of Long Beach City College, directed by Wayne B. Gard.

Featured will be the premiere of "An Ascription of Praise" by Leland B. Sateren, a work commissioned for this festival concert. The composition is based on a poem from T. E. Eliot's "The Rock."

Storm Bull

300 Young Pianists Start National Auditions Tuesday

Storm Bull, professor of music and head of the piano division at the University of Colorado, will adjudicate the National Piano Playing Auditions Tuesday through June 12 in the YWCA Auditorium, Sixth Street and Pacific Avenue.

The auditions, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, has been an annual event in Long Beach since 1950 when 18 young pianists were judged on their year's achievements. Today, the students number approximately 300.

They are among 60,000 young pianists in 600 centers throughout the 50 states who take part in the non-competitive auditions.

FOUNDED in 1929, the non-profit guild has made possible cash awards, scholarships, annual report card certificates and membership in the National Fraternity of Musicians.

It sponsored the first Van Cliburn International Pianists Competition in Fort Worth, Tex., in September with top award of $10,000 going to Ralph Votapek of Milwaukee. Other famous young guild students include Van Cliburn, John Browning, Ivan Davis and Daniel Pollock.

BULL, member of a famous musical family which included Ole Bull and Edward Grieg, has been acclaimed in Europe and America as a concert pianist. He was one of two private students accepted by the great Hungarian composer-pianist Bela Bartok. Following duty with the U.S. Navy in 1945, he retired from the concert stage to devote his time to teaching, lecturing and research.

Royal Ballet to Open in Los Angeles

After an absence of almost three years, the Royal Ballet (formerly Sadler's Wells Ballet) will return to Los Angeles for 10 performances beginning June 28.

For this engagement, the famed British troupe will divide its stay between Shrine Auditorium and Hollywood Bowl.

The company of 150 will appear at the Shrine June 28 through July 3, and at the Bowl on July 5, 6 and 7. This will be its first appearance at the Bowl.

Dame Margot Fonteyn will again head the roster of principals.

Rudolf Nureyev, the sensational Siberian-born dancer, will make his Los Angeles debut as guest artist.

THE COMPANY will present three popular full-length ballets — "The Sleeping Beauty," "Swan Lake," and "Giselle." Shorter works will include "Facade," "Les Sylphides" and "Le Corsaire" pas de deux.

In addition, the company will present five new ballets

LBCC Art Faculty Show of High Quality

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Drawings and paintings by the Art Faculty of Long Beach City College will continue on display at Ruth Bach Library, Bellflower Boulevard at Carson Street, until June 1. The quality of these 13 works helps to account for the high caliber of instruction in this area available through our public school system.

Of the four exhibiting artists, Elsa Warner is probably of the greatest stature. Her works intrigue one into thoughtful viewing, both from a distance and, later, from close up, as they do not release their magic at one glance. These are abstract works which, mysteriously, penetrate space with unknown forms and volumes. Unfortunately, none of the works in the show bears a title, so it is difficult to refer to any one of them specifically.

OF THE THREE Warner oils, I was most drawn to a large vertical one on the left wall as one enters the gallery. There is oil painting, as well as pasted papers which were textured by crumpling, all highly glazed. The palette is dominated by mustard, red-brown, and medium blue giving the effect to me of an enchanted hilly landscape with strange light.

Joseph Donat is also represented by three paintings. His involvement is in the area of decorative composition. The most successful is of black, gray, orange, green and yellow floating blobs which seem to vacillate back and forth delightfully.

JIM CONGELL'S best work here is a large ink drawing of seven girls who have the quality of empty-headed dolls (not, surely, CC coeds?) who emerge from marvelous areas of rich wash. He has also, "Crying Girl" whose strong drawing is marred by implausibly caricatured bare feet.

The fourth exhibitor, Donald Dame, shows drawings of bulb plants, geraniums, and weeds for which he is establishing a reputation of excellence through recent local shows.

Best hours for catching this show are Mondays, 6 p.m.; Thursdays, noon until 9 p.m.; and Saturdays from noon to 5 p.m.

Bach Festival

Single tickets for the 26th annual Bach Festival in Carmel go on sale June 1. Subscription tickets have been processed and there is limited good seating remaining.

The festival will begin July 19 and end July 28. A complete brochure of the program can be obtained by writing P. O. Box 503, Carmel.

Jean Kuhns

19th Century Music Billed

Jean Kuhns, piano soloist, and Henny Warner, lieder singer, will be featured today in a program of 19th century music. They will be assisted by Charles Ruitzsch, pianist and Duane Gurnee, clarinetist.

The recital, to be given at 3 p.m. in the choral room at Long Beach State College, is sponsored by the Long Beach Branch of the Music Teachers Association of California as a part of the Four Centuries Festival.

Reducing News As Told By National Figure Authority

Miss Pat Walker Talks about Reducing

I am often asked if I enjoy my work as the National Figure authority for the Stauffer System Salons. The answer is very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones no one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methods of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her. She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratifying it is to see that same woman in a salon a few short weeks after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you—thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been responsible for re-making over 5 million women's figures.

Actually there's no guess work to reducing today. Any woman can buy her figure just as she would buy clothes, carpets, furniture or anything else. The only difference is that it is a service and unfortunately it cannot be mailed to her. All she has to do is to pick up the phone and make an appointment for a courtesy treatment and a figure analysis. We offer it to her without obligation.

We pride ourselves in making reducing perfectly painless. We do this by giving wonderful service in pleasant surroundings. The response of the women here has been so great that even though we had a large salon in Long Beach it has been necessary to open a salon in Lakewood also.

From the analysis we determine where she needs to lose, how long it will take and the exact cost of her correction. From there it is up to her to make her decision of whether she wants to continue to struggle the lonely and frustrating battle of reducing or turn over her problems to us, and let it be our responsibility. The response of the women here has been so great that even though we had an extremely large salon at an early age and who comes to us to take care of it.

What Others Say:

Here are a few quotations from the hundreds of grateful letters received from women who have taken the Pat Walker's Stauffer System treatments:

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit. I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulky. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. — Mrs. Jackie Stevens, Long Beach.

My husband was all for my going — after all he's like every man who admires a pretty figure. My husband says I'm looking younger and prettier by the day. But what's really great is that I'm losing it where I need to lose it. — Mrs. Catherine Bevert, Long Beach.

I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with her system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked. My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed. — Mrs. Lillian Polak, Long Beach.

For the convenience of women who work or have baby sitting problems, we remain open in the evenings until 9 o'clock. I want to thank all of the women who write to me letters of gratitude for what we are doing for them, and also, to all of the women who write asking what can be done for their particular problems.

Many people have asked me if the figure problems in Southern California are different from anywhere else? The answer is no. Women are women, no matter where they are from. But each individual case is different and has to be treated as such but with our program the end product is the same perfect figure.

Questions and Answers By Miss Pat Walker

QUESTION: How much does it cost to reduce? Mrs. H.H.
Treatments are $2 per treatment and from a figure analysis we can determine exactly the number of treatments you need to regain your figure.

QUESTION: Everytime I try to reduce I look haggard, old and get so nervous. D.G.
With our program you not only lose where you need to lose but you look younger and more vibrant and it does not age you in any sense of the word.

QUESTION: How long does it take to reduce? I get so discouraged when I try on my own. Mrs. P.M.

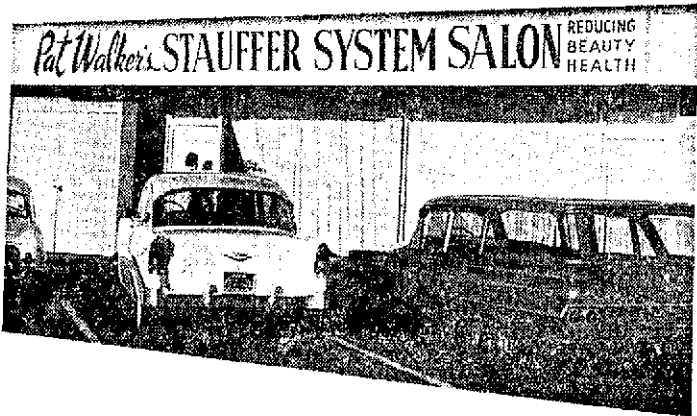

Every woman is an individual with her own special problems, so therefore one woman needs less than another woman.

QUESTION: My husband says the only answer to reducing is to push yourself away from the table and exercise. L.R.
Cutting your caloric intake and exercising is easier said than done and is a frustrating, never-ending battle. We make reducing pleasant, interesting and enjoyable. Besides, we produce results.

QUESTION: Your ads sound too good to be true? Mrs. B.F.
The people that you read about in our ads are real people who have used our system and are women many of whom you know personally.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Sharp at Welfare, Good Fare, Too!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

Their children are blessed with a lineage of endurance. Their paternal grandparents started from Nova Scotia and never stopped short of Spokane, Wash., while their maternal grandparents matched that record, having taken-off from the State of Maine.

Today's Chef of the Week, George M. Logan and his wife met while both were doing graduate work at Washington State University, Pullman, Wash. They have two daughters and one son. Colleen will graduate this year from Long Beach State College; Patricia, from Wilson High, while Mark is a sophomore at Millikan High. Mrs. Logan, who graduated from the University of Puget Sound, presently teaches English.

Head of the Long Beach County Welfare Council, Logan backgrounds his qualifications with a masters degree in sociology from Washington State, and graduate study in social service work at the University of Washington, Seattle. He was born in Spokane.

WITH A basic interest in human problems and their solving, he likens the council to a chamber of commerce. What the chamber is to business, the council is to health, welfare, youth and civic activities. It is composed of 85 private and public agencies, all interested in like endeavors.

Much has been accomplished under Logan's tutelage. The council has been able to get a State Mental Health Clinic and State Alcoholic Treatment for Long Beach. It studied hospital necessities before the last bond election was put to a vote; and by its insistence, brought about the passage of a city ordinance calling for better enforcement of charity drives, a reckoning of how the money was spent, etc.

Before coming to Long Beach in 1954, Logan had worked for a time with the Public Welfare Administration at both county level and for the State of Washington, and in both Pasadena and Glendale.

With the advent of World War II, Logan joined the Navy and was assigned to the Naval Welfare Service, Red Cross. Being based for two years at Port Hueneme, and a liking for Southern California prompted his locating here.

A MEMBER of the National Association of Social Workers, life, for him, is just one big committee meeting.

He finds a game of tennis the best un-winder in the world—and plays like a madman. Being absolutely concrete about not liking crab grass in his flower beds, he's become expert in the use of concrete.

Unlike most men — he likes casseroles. He never questions them. There are a few foods he thoroughly dislikes—but it's usually because of some youthful association.

OUR "CHEF" enjoys, and will, quite often, whip-up a real sassy foreign dish for supper, but when it comes to breakfast... that meal is completely regulated. One day, it's pancakes—the next, French toast — the next, scrambled eggs (occasionally one may appear "sunny-side-up" or "easy-over"). Come Friday, however, it's time to begin to relax for the weekend, so the menu entree is dry cereal. (One gets a choice, of course.) Saturday is SD-Day (slow down day), and you get the works, eggs, and/or ham, bacon and coffee. Sunday speeds up again. His recipe today is for East Indian Curry.

EAST INDIAN CURRY

- 3 lbs. breast of lamb
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 5 ripe tomatoes, cooked, or one #2½ can
- 2 cups meat stock, from lamb
- 1 or more tbsps. curry
- 3 tbsps. flour
- ½ cup cream

Simmer lamb until tender. Remove meat from bones and cut into bite size pieces. Cool in its stock, and skim off fat. Cook onion in fat until tender, but not brown. Add tomatoes and simmer until tomatoes are thoroughly cooked. Thicken with flour, diluted in cold water. Add curry and stock. Strain, add meat. Just before serving, add cream. Serve in ring of hot rice. Serves 6-8.

Worrywarts Get a Lift From Jewelry

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK — Worrywarts are causing cheer in the jewelry trade.

Trinkets to help the worrier worry are making the jeweler's cash register ring they ring the worrier in smiles.

The worry objects include worry beads, fidget stones and worry birds.

THE WORRY BEADS — 16 in a circle—help pessimists meditate on their problems. You touch a bead and think of a problem. Then you move on to the next bead — and the next problem.

If you have more than 16 problems, do another lap. Keep going in circles with the beads until you've enervated your worry wells. Make them run dry for the moment, that is.

Worry beads, however are mostly for females. Imagine the worry if a husband took to the beads without letting his wife know—and she found the strange things one night while going through his pockets!

BETTER FOR MALES: The fidget stone, it's a beautiful, smooth piece of jade, suitable for slipping into a pocket. Jade's supposed to be lucky.

The modus operandi for fidget stone carriers: rub the rock in moments of stress.

Don't laugh at worry beads or fidget stones. They've stood the test of time. The ancient Greeks are credited with thinking up worry beads. The fidget stone's been popular in China for centuries.

JEWELER Betty Fleishman, of Marchal's in New York, said the activity in worry trinkets probably stems from the fact that these are worrisome times and people are searching for instant relaxation.

"It's the poor man's psycho-therapy—with a sense of humor," she said.

Mrs. Fleishman takes credit for introducing the worry bird, it's an incredible, ridiculous, red-eyed gold bird absolutely incapable of getting off the ground.

He knows he's going to hang—as all charms must: "His one goal in life is to take on your worries," Mrs. Fleishman said.

The disc he squats on is engraved—"who's worried?" The funny and foolish, scantily-feathered friend convinces you at first look that he's prepared to have your burdens shift to his narrow shoulders. Or laugh at you—and them. Or have you get rid of your rage by chortling at him.

THEN THERE is the "alarm clock" charm for precision worriers. It's a gold band with a string tied around the index finger.

The finger points to a disc which carries the name of a pill you're supposed to take—or a date that's unpleasant to remember.

Another worry charm: a "happy Buddha" in jade. The smiling figure invites you to "touch me for luck." Rub the jade on its tummy and you may just wind up feeling all is well. Who knows?

"The whole trend," Mrs. Fleishman said, "shows that we have troubles—but we don't intend to stop laughing."

Wins Award

Mrs. Faith Banks, 4155 Cedar Ave., won the Glen Lukens Award in advance ceramics at the University of Southern California. She was one of 11 fine arts students honored with awards at the annual exhibit of student work in the Upstairs Gallery on campus.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained—so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

No, I'm going to live while I can."

The BIG RED PUSH in LATIN AMERICA

AND WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

by ED KIESTER

RIO DE JANEIRO.

"Cu-ba! Cu-ba! Cu-ba!"

All around me frenzied demonstrators, clapping, stamping and snake-dancing, howled the name of Fidel Castro's Communist island. Swilling beer and waving banners, they bellowed their support of the first Red bastion in the Western Hemisphere.

This was the "International Solidarity with Cuba" rally. A thousand persons—pretty young women, sun-burned men, farmers, professionals, even a self-professed "delegate from Occupied California"—had come from all over the Americas to express their admiration of Castro and their hatred for the U.S.

I watched with disquiet as they performed and paraded. Speaker after speaker harangued them with fiery Marxist catch-phrases. Each ignited an explosion of emotion.

"Revolucionarios!" a speaker would cry, and his listeners would go wild.

"Imperialismo yanqui," the Cuban delegate would

snaps, and the crowd would rumble and boom.

At last Francisco Julião, the frizzy-haired, mild-appearing Brazilian congressman who is Castro's No. 1 henchman in Brazil, got up and trumpeted a call for violent revolution. The rally dissolved into a sea of screaming, waving, dancing maniacs. It was as though someone had just scored the winning touchdown in the closing seconds of a Rose Bowl game.

"God!" said another reporter to me. "If only we had a political party to export!"

That is the way an American feels, all too often, in Latin America today. All around him he sees a big Red push to win this continent. All around he sees evidence of a powerful Communist drive that makes Uncle Sam's counter-efforts seem weak and feeble.

He gets a sinking feeling that all Latin America will soon be united into one huge hostile camp, poised like a pistol at Uncle Sam's back and ready to go off at any moment.

Traveling up and down this continent, I heard tale after alarming tale of stepped-up Red pressure and continent-wide gains. Venezuela, I learned, is torn by guerrilla fighting, sabotage and terrorism. Peru has had to put down peasant uprisings and Cuban-directed sabotage. Chile threatens to vote itself Communist in 1964. Central America is under steady propaganda bombardment and danger from Cuba-based landing parties. Brazil—largest, richest, most populous and most strategically located of all Latin nations—is under attack from all directions.

The Red push is spearheaded by local Communists with plentiful aid, guidance and cash from Soviets, Chinese, East Europeans and particularly Cubans. And it is helped by conditions here.

Brazil, for instance, has stinking slums in the cities, appalling poverty in the country, rampant inflation, a disease rate that kills one child in two before his first birthday, an average income of $300 a year, wealth and property severely concentrated in the hands of a few and a population growth rate that can only be classed as explosive. The Brazilians themselves have called for drastic social revolution.

Yet the Reds are not meeting with unqualified success. The Solidarity with Cuba rally is a case in point. When I attended it, I could delude myself that an invincible Red juggernaut was about to sweep "Yankee imperialism" into the sea. But the rally actually was a first-class dud. The Reds had hoped for a giant demonstration and for the tacit blessing of the left-wing government. Instead, many of the speakers backed out, and the government erected obstacles and delays. On the last night, police cordoned off a huge area around the hall, ostensibly because of an auto accident. To attend, we had to walk a mile.

However, it would be a mistake to think this daunted the Reds. They simply moved ahead on other fronts. Here is a communiqué on the Red war in Latin America today:

Guerrilla warfare: The theme of the Red drive of 1963 is violence; its spearhead the guerrilla. Castro sounded the keynote recently when he said that if he had waited for legitimate means to topple Batista, he would still be in the Sierra Maestra.

Guerrilla fighting already has broken out in Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and the Central American nations. Six training camps are believed operating in backland Brazil.

Lucky accidents have helped Brazil thwart guerrilla activity. First, documents were found on the body of a Cuban diplomat, an air crash victim, pinpointing all guerrilla camps in Brazil. Later, in a routine traffic arrest, police corralled guerrilla leader Clodomir de los Santos Moraes as he was running guns to a camp. His arrest uncovered the camp and also revealed that he was stealing funds provided by Cuba.

Propaganda. No one knows how much propaganda the Reds pour into Latin America. But the government of Panama alone intercepts 12 tons a month.

Radio Havana and Prensa Latina, the Cuban news service, led the propaganda onslaught. Radio Havana now broadcasts 88 hours a week to South America. Cuban embassies, where they exist, flood countries with Red posters, leaflets, folders—and Ché Guevara's handbook on guerrilla warfare.

To the Reds, no group is too small or insignificant for attention. Recently, for example, the membership of Brazil's Esperanto clubs, which advocate adoption of a one-world language, were startled to receive letters from the Esperanto clubs of Cuba. "Dear friend," the letters read, "please come to Cuba and see what progress we are making in our revolution."

Infiltration: Reds, Castristas and associates have burrowed into many Latin governments. Some have even attained high position. Of more importance, though, may be infiltration in the lower echelons of government. Many civil servants are conceded to be pro-Red and pro-Castro. And a recent leftist campaign in Brazil aims at winning over the sergeants—who in a showdown would have most control over troops.

Young people: Two-thirds of Latin America's population is under 25, and here is where the Reds have scored their greatest gains. University students comprise the backbone of Red and pro-Castro movements. The University of Caracas has been the Red guerrilla staging area. In Rio the students first offered a meeting hall for the Solidarity rally.

The Reds dangle juicy bait—free scholarships to Russia, China, Czechoslovakia and Poland. One estimate says $4 million in scholarships has gone to Brazilians alone.

Castroism and nationalism: A favorite joke in Latin America today goes: "What is the largest country in the world?" Answer: "Cuba. Its people are in Florida and its government is in Moscow."

The sardonic gag reflects the tarnished image of Fidel Castro, dating from his open embrace of Communism. "We feel cheated," a Chilean newspaperman told me. "We thought he was a home-grown revolutionary and he turned out to be just another puppet."

The occurrence taught the Reds a lesson, too. They still play up Castro, but now they stress his "independence" and soft-pedal his Communist links.

Peasants and workers: In the best tradition of Mao, the Reds have been agitating among Latin peasants. They have organized rural syndicates and even staged small revolutions in which mobs have seized control of plantations. Most of these have taken place in northeastern Brazil, but others have occurred in Chile, Peru and Ecuador. Meanwhile, the Reds continue their traditional drive in trade unions.

So much for the Red offensive. How well are the U.S. and its free-world allies doing against it?

Unhappily, not well. Chief weapon of the U.S. is President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress, a comprehensive co-operative plan to bring about a continent-wide social revolution. But the program is stalled on dead center. Its showcase effort, a $131 million "emergency" plan for northeast Brazil, has been in the works for two years. But when I wanted to visit the region, Alliance officials discouraged me. "You won't see enough to make it worthwhile," one said.

However, the U.S. may be gaining ground in other areas. Officials report students more receptive to U.S. views than in the past, point to a new pro-American enclave at the University of Caracas. And the Latins themselves have scored some successes over the Reds. For instance, Catholic groups have just won control of all the student federations in Chile.

Many think the Latins will determine their own course free of both the Reds and Uncle Sam. And others hope the Reds will lose out because of the Soviet-Chinese ideological split. In this connection, they recall the day the Soviet ambassador, Andrei Fromin, and Brazil's pro Chinese Francisco Julião met at the Rio airport. In scenes reminiscent of comic opera, each abruptly changed direction and dodged off another way. But around the corner they came face to face again. Then, for 20 minutes, while onlookers fidgeted, they played hide-and-seek around the building. Finally their planes arrived and each left—still without acknowledging the other's presence.

"Let us hope," said the man who told me the story, "that this is a good sign for Latin America." ■

How to stop an ambush

Latin-American soldiers practice antiguerrilla tactics at Fort Gulick, Canal Zone, getting ready for anticipated increase in Red uprisings. Twelve-week course under U.S. Army instructors stresses weapons, demolition, escape and how to win friends among the peasantry. Hand-picked men from 20 Latin nations attend.

How to breed a Communist

Slums like these in Rio de Janeiro provide Reds' best ammunition in their big drive to win Latin America. Shack colonies have sprung up around every major Latin city, are shot through with disease, filth, poverty, crime. More than half of Latins live in squalid housing.

A LESSON I LEARNED FROM LIFE

Actress Mitzi Gaynor relaxes in her Hollywood home. She says that everyone must take a stand in life in order to find true happiness.

BY MITZI GAYNOR

IT IS A SAD FACT OF LIFE that many of us today are totally uncommitted to anything—to a way of life, to a philosophy, to a religion.

We're content to go along with the stream of conformity, accepting someone else's word for a fact, letting George do it.

This attitude is a particular source of concern to me—because a woman with a career is in danger of becoming a vegetable. She doesn't want to offend any segment of the public. She has a "spokesman" for every phase of her activities, professional and personal. She "belongs" to everyone and everything without really being a part of it—if she isn't careful.

I was at a chic cocktail party last year at the home of producer Ross Hunter, when I suddenly awakened to my own conversation. The clichés I was mouthing were those of someone else. I had heard a similar discussion about a political situation the day before and I found myself saying the safe things proposed by someone I trusted. But were these ideas really mine? Had I bothered to learn the facts and interpret them myself? I felt I was floundering.

I listened to the murmur of chitchat around me. I wondered if I were alone in this fearful negligence.

You Have to Belong

You cannot stay "alive" without belonging to something. Civilizations have died for the want of commitment. Individuals wither. You've got to make a decision for a way of life, a set of standards, and refer to those standards regularly—or you will never be a whole person.

So many people I know are afraid to give of themselves. There is no other way to receive anything—contentment, respect, love—than to give of yourself. Philosophers, theologians, psychologists have expounded this by-product of commitment—you can prove it to yourself.

So many people I know are afraid to express themselves. Don't hesitate to speak up, even if it is to admit you know nothing of the subject under discussion.

In our President's book, Profiles in Courage, everyone singled out was a man with a commitment, someone who knew what he stood for, who resisted pressure to alter his standards.

We are all learning to live with pressure, the drive that swallows time. We must take periodic refresher courses, to re-study ourselves, to re-dedicate ourselves.

You will never have peace of mind until you know who you are, what you represent and where you're going—this is a lesson I've already learned from life.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Lenny Kent

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lenny Kent, a native New Yorker, entered show business when he was 12 by singing and dancing in Bronx clubhouses on weekends. Lenny won several dance contests and might have made it as a hooper had he not joined Jackie Miles in a comedy duo. Kent spent 6 years with Miles and after the team split up in 1937 wrote a song called Hold Tight which became a best-seller recorded by the Andrews Sisters.

Since those early days, Lenny has played all the top nightspots in the nation. He is best known for his quick ad-lib wit and rapid-fire delivery. At the moment Kent is single, lives in Hollywood, hosts various TV shows such as Around Town and many others, on which he tells such jokes as these:

Joseph Kennedy has a new record album out. It's called My Sons—The Government.

President Kennedy says that if one more comedian does an album about him it will be the first case of a President shooting an actor from the balcony.

I like money as well as the next guy, but can you really tell me what's the good of being rich? A man with one watch knows what time it is. A man with two watches is never sure.

I used to wonder why they never have women for after-dinner speakers...but now I know. It's because no woman can wait until after dinner to say what she has to say.

Be kind to your friends...if it weren't for them, you'd be a stranger.

The girl's mother opened the door and spoke gently to the young man: "Doris was sorry to break the date. But the truth is she wasn't feeling very well, so she decided to go out with a young doctor instead."

Some people bring happiness wherever they go. Some, whenever they go.

That income tax I had to pay a little while ago was really rough. Some people have a monkey on their back. I think I've got an eagle on mine.

Definition of love: A lot of dame foolishness.

Ever been to Beverly Hills? What a town! They have people out there who make a living just selling maps to all the movie stars' homes. And I've finally discovered who buys all those maps—burglars... Another thing about Beverly Hills. It's the only city on the world where the mailmen carry alligator mailbags.

I haven't heard anything about the Mona Lisa for some time, but that's show business. You don't work for a few weeks and everybody forgets you. It's no wonder the Mona Lisa was so popular while she was here a few months ago. She was the only thing from France that's smiled at us in years.

Everybody has something witty to say about money. For example, they say that you can't take it with you. True enough. But these days where can you go without it?

A stirring article for Memorial Day:

'The price of freedom...'

WASHINGTON, D.C.

JUST AFTER THE NUCLEAR SUBMARINE Thresher was lost, Mrs. Edmond Kaluza, whose son Edmond, Jr., was among the 129 men who went down with the ship, went to her mailbox and found a letter. It was in a vellum envelope with a return address printed in blue, and the postmark read "Washington, D.C." Mrs. Kaluza tore it open.

"Dear Mrs. Kaluza," the letter read. "Mrs. Kennedy and I want to express our very deepest sympathy in the loss of your son aboard the USS Thresher . . .

"It is a sad fact of history that the price of freedom must be paid again and again by our best young men in each generation. Your son has joined the other defenders of this nation who have given their lives for their country. . . ."

That morning, 128 other letters to families of Thresher crew members were arriving at homes all over the U.S. Like Mrs. Kaluza's, each was sent and signed by the President of the United States. For President Kennedy makes a point of writing a personal letter of sympathy to the next of kin of all members of the armed forces lost in action or in training. And in each he sounds the message that servicemen who die in peacetime give their lives for freedom just as much as those who die in war.

This Memorial Day, as we pay tribute to the dead of American wars, this Presidential correspondence, with its message of homage to the casualties of peace, is being revealed for the first time. And with it are many brave and courageous letters written in reply to the Presidential letters of sympathy.

Mrs. Wedemeyer

Capt. Wedemeyer

One of the most inspirational of these letters came recently from Mrs. Henry C. Wedemeyer, Jr., of Poplar Bluff, Mo., whose Air Force career officer husband was killed last November while practicing touch-and-go landings with a C-130 at Seward AFB, Tenn. One month after her husband's death, Mrs. Wedemeyer gave birth to their second child.

"My husband," she wrote the President, "put his love of country above love of life. He was ready and willing to lay down his life for his country. Thus, I can say that he happily made the supreme sacrifice.

"In your inaugural address you said words to this effect: 'Ask not what your country can do for you, but, rather, what you can do for your country.' Preparing himself to defend his country was what my husband did, and he did that well.

"I am very proud of my husband and want someday for his 2-year-old son and 10-day-old daughter to know what a fine man he was. Your letter will help me show them when they are old enough to understand."

Mrs. Knighten

Cmdr. Knighten

A similar theme of dedication and love of country was sounded by Mrs. Lenora B. Knighten of Charlotte, N.C., whose husband, a Naval Air Reserve flier, was a "weekend warrior." Lt. Cmdr. Arthur W. Knighten died heroically with eight others when he piloted his crippled aircraft into an ammunition dump near Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, Calif., rather than hit a housing development full of children.

"I have two children, a son, Arthur William, Jr., 12, and a daughter, Nancy Lee, 10," Mrs. Knighten wrote the President after receiving his expression of sympathy. "They both have a sense of patriotism that their father instilled in them long before his death. I think this was evident when Artie went to school and raised the flag just a few hours after he learned of his dad's death."

And Mrs. John F. Hamel, Jr., of Tenafly, N.J., whose husband died in a helicopter accident near Fort Devens, Mass., wrote:

"My only comfort is that he died doing what he loved most. I was very proud of his being a career Army officer and know he felt deeply the responsibilities he assumed in the service of his country.

"Your letter means a great deal to me, and will, someday, help my three young children to know how meaningful their father's life was."

One of the most difficult letters the President had to write went last summer to Maj. Gen. William F. Train, Jr., the commandant of the Army War College, Carlisle, Pa., when his son, William III, a brilliant young officer, was killed in ambush in Vietnam.

General Train replied:

"We are so anxious that our nation remember him not just as another casualty

The White House has made public letters from relatives of persons killed because they represent a sad but heartening reminder of the strong love of country in the American people. This article also serves as a reminder of the hazards of military life in the 1960s. The authors of the letters have in each case given PARADE permission to publish their letters.

of the cold war, nor even as our only son, but rather as a loss to the Army and to the nation, of one of its promising, courageous young officers. We buried him at West Point on 9 July in the hallowed ground of the military academy whose motto of 'duty, honor, country' he lived during his brief life."

Not long ago, the President received one of the most agonizing letters of all. It came from Mrs. Bobbie Lou Pendergrass, of Santa Ana, Calif., whose brother, Spec. 5 James D. McAndrew, had been killed in the helicopter war in Vietnam.

"Please," Mrs. Pendergrass wrote, "I am only a housewife who doesn't even claim to know all about the international situation, but we have felt so bitter over this—can the small number of our boys over in Vietnam possibly be doing enough good to justify the awful number of casualties? It seems to me that if we are going to have our boys there, we should send enough to have a chance—or else stay home."

In reply, the President wrote a two-page letter. In it he traced the whole situation in Vietnam, back through the Eisenhower Administration to its beginnings in French colonialism. He tried to explain why we are there, and expounded a little of his philosophy of why men must die in time of peace.

"If Vietnam should fall," the President wrote, "it will indicate to the people of Southeast Asia that complete Communist domination of their part of the world is almost inevitable. Your brother was in Vietnam because the threat to the Vietnamese people is, in the long run, a threat to the Free World community, and ultimately a threat to us also. For when freedom is destroyed in one country, it is threatened throughout the world. . . .

"I believe if you can see this as he [James McAndrew] must have seen it, you will believe as he must have believed that he did not die in vain. Forty-five American soldiers [as of March 6, 1963, when the letter was dated], including your brother, have given their lives in Vietnam. In their sacrifice they have earned the eternal gratitude of this nation and other free men throughout the world.

"Sincerely, John F. Kennedy."

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

EASY DOLLARS. Of all the world's currencies, easiest to counterfeit is the U.S. dollar. That's the opinion of Marcel Sicut, secretary-general of Interpol, the international police organization. This is why most counterfeiters throughout the world concentrate on turning out fake dollars. Most difficult currency to copy is the French banknote.

EUROPE'S WORST. Worst drivers in Europe are the Germans. Last year 14,000 of them were killed. Says the German magazine, Quick: "The German driver is aggressive, ruthless and always thinks he is in the right -- even at the risk of collision."

REVEALING. Know how to tell a man's nationality? Watch him examine an automobile. According to the organizers of the International Auto Show in New York, if a man feels the upholstery first, he's British. If he looks at the engine first, he's German. If he first sounds the horn, he's Italian. And if he starts arguing right off about the price, he's American.

TEMPTING DOMESTICS. The British have launched a plan to revive a declining feature of traditional British life -- the domestic servant. Most Britishers refuse to enter domestic service. Nowadays they consider it beneath them. The result is that currently the largest percentage of the domestics in the United Kingdom is Italian.

Employment agencies are advertising in Scotland and northern England, where there is a high rate of unemployment, for young men and women to enter domestic work. The idea is to give British domestic labor a "new and acceptable image."

HEALTH FOOD. An apple a day does keep the doctor away. More than a thousand students at Michigan State have been munching apples for the past three years with beneficial results. They have fewer colds and altogether fewer respiratory ailments. In fact they enjoy better general health than students who don't eat apples.

ARCHERY LANES. Making a determined bid for a slice of the American recreation dollar are the new automated indoor archery lanes. A dozen such centers have opened throughout the country recently. Archery lanes are laid out like bowling alleys, with automatic moving targets. Equipment manufacturers hope to make the sport as popular as bowling.

BONANZA. Moviegoers in Mexico City generally cannot be charged more than 4 pesos (32 cents) to see any movie. This is one reason why the Mexican motion picture industry is in the doldrums. Another is that the Latin-American market has dried up -- too many revolutions, too much inflation.

He's a one-man 'fire department'

MOHAWK, ORE.

WHEN A PICKUP TRUCK with a siren and flashing red lights is heard racing down the roads of this timber-growing town, people drop everything and give chase. They know it's Ralph Keeney off to another fire—and he might need help.

Mohawk, unincorporated and with only 500 citizens, has no organized fire protection, volunteer or professional. Keeney is all there is—but that's more than enough. With no official standing, no tax money and no training as a fire-fighter (he learned from a fireman friend who helped him build a kitchen once), he's put out some 15 fires in the past few years, saved thousands of dollars in property and won the gratitude of neighbors for miles around.

Fires are a special hazard in forest country. Keeney himself owns a 400-acre tree farm, and it was to protect this investment that, 8 years ago, he purchased his truck, mounted a 200-gallon tank, pump and 500 feet of hose on it and turned it into a fire engine. He used it to put out a few small fires on his property. When the news got around, people began calling him whenever they had fires.

Today Keeney maintains citizens-band two-way radios for emergency calls. They go where he goes, are turned on 24 hours a day. He can also be reached by phone. If he goes on vacation, he turns the truck over to a responsible neighbor to stand the vigil.

WHEN AN ALARM DOES COME, Keeney moves fast. His truck is always close by, its water tank full, its equipment in order. He jams on a steel helmet, swings behind the wheel, starts the siren and lights and roars off. Other cars pull out of driveways in his wake—neighbors anxious to see where the fire is and whether they can help.

Keeney's toughest fight came when a farmhouse caught fire. The farmer and his family were away, and by the time the alarm was sounded, the farmhouse was all but gone. Keeney's quick arrival and determined struggle kept the fire, whipped by the wind, from eating into the surrounding forest.

Another time Keeney spotted a brush fire on the near-by Union Pacific railroad tracks and raced to the scene. Railway workers moved some flatcars so Keeney could get his hose to where the blaze was, and the fire was promptly extinguished. A railroad fire truck had also been summoned to the site—arriving three hours after the fire was out.

"Fire fighting is like first aid," Keeney says. "It's mostly knowing what not to do." Undisturbed by his lack of formal training, he has no desire to expand his "fire department" or put it on a professional basis.

He just plans to go on putting out fires.

—SID ROSS

Walkie-talkie (above) mounted on truck enables Keeney to answer distress calls even when out working on his 400-acre tree farm. This call reported brush fire; Keeney raced to scene (below), quashed the spreading flames.

Shouldering into lumber-jacket, Keeney gets hurried description of a fire on kitchen phone as wife watches.

SOUTHLAND'S LARGEST BEDDING MANUFACTURER SAYS LOWER PRODUCTION COST TO CUT MATTRESS PRICES!

Progress in the field of quality mattress manufacture has been rapid during this past year, according to Mr. Marion Wyatt, owner of the Acme Mattress Factory in Long Beach. Over $60,000 worth of highly complicated mattress-making machinery has been installed, making this factory one of the best equipped plants in the entire Southland area. One machine, used solely in the making of the increasingly popular King Size sets is valued at over $10,000. "You have to sell a lot of King Size beds to pay for a machine like that," say Mr. Wyatt. Evidently, they do just that—Acme is the leading sales preference in the area, and has sold over 500,000 mattresses since opening the plant at 3415 E. Anaheim St., in 1932.

TREND TO KING SIZE BEDS INDICATED

The standard double-bed is giving way to the larger and more comfortable King Size style, which is seven feet long and six feet wide, actually as wide as conventional beds are long. "Since we are able to build a high quality mattress for an extremely low cost we are selling King Size mattresses at sometimes $100.00 lower than furniture stores are advertising," states an Acme salesman. Although the factory does a large business in contract and custom-made bedding for industry, individuals who want to deal direct with the factory make up a large share of sales.

Number One in Sales Preference in Long Beach Area

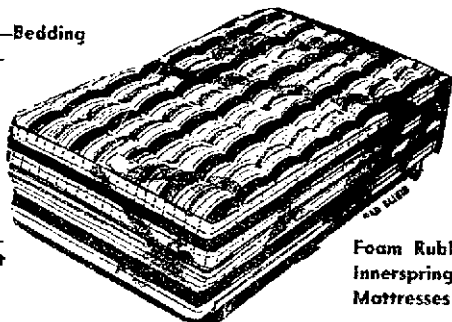

As indicated by a recent survey, (January, 1963), the ACME Mattress Factory presently surpasses all retail furniture, bedding, sales outlets, and discount stores, in addition to all nationally known and widely advertised brands sold by large department stores of both local and national origin. Small wonder. Bigger production savings afforded by Acme's modern factory enables the buyer to purchase direct from the factory at savings of 50% and more from standard retail prices offered by furniture and department stores. Emphasis on high quality from all Acme-made products demand much hand-made production in addition to precision machined products. Special attention is paid to small detail work in every Acme product. Trained detail technicians (see photo) inspect bedding for perfection in construction and workmanship.

Custom Made Mattress Trends to Rise This Year

Greater demand for custom bedding, such as that used for Mobile Homes, Trailers, Boats, Campers, and Station Wagons, as well as custom-made mattresses for the home is expected to be increased during the coming months. Special equipment and large factory staff maintain large scale savings on this specialized market according to the Acme Mattress Factory in Long Beach. Round Beds, Horseshoe Beds, and custom-made beds and mattresses of many shapes and sizes are already popular and gaining in popularity. Jayne Mansfield and other Hollywood movie stars are reputed to have purchased heart-shaped beds. "We haven't manufactured any heart-shaped beds so far" says an Acme spokesman, "But we'll make anything the buyer wants." In addition to custom-made bedding and mattresses, the factory has a complete custom re-upholstery department where the buyer can save up to 50% of the cost of new chairs, sofas, or various upholstered products.

NEW IDEAS IN SOFA BEDS, CUSTOM DESIGNED SLEEPERS AND SOFAS

In keeping with latest trends in modern bedding such as dual sleepers, fold-away sofas and convertible beds of all types. Acme's mattress and bedding designers have come up with some of the most exciting designs of the season. One of these most popular items is an Acme sofa-bed converter which converts any standard twin size mattress into a luxurious sofa-bed. Price is just $9.95 with covers and bolsters optional.

Ten thousand square dancers, you'll have to admit, would add up to a crowd on any floor. That's why seven locations have been selected in Long Beach to accommodate the 10,000 expected for the 10th annual California Square Dance convention next weekend. They'll parade and they'll dance, but mostly they'll dance in their gay costumes, just as the convention chairmen are twirling and

High Week

Frank E. Cook, 92, of Long Beach, is one of the last of the old timers hereabouts who trekked westward in a covered wagon. Though only three years old at the time, he can recall some of the details of that memorable trip. He remembers well coming to Southern California in 1882. Next week, in Southland, he tells how he helped to build Willmore City, the town that became Long Beach.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to LaReina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy. for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on ARMSTRONG — D. A., Garden Grove.

D. A.: ARMSTRONG was a celebrated, highly honored Scotch clan name. This family protected the border between Scotland and England for centuries, until hostilities ended between the two countries. In medieval years they built Castles Garry and Iver. Their name meaning is obvious, "strong of arm in battle." The spectacular Armstrong coat-of-arms has a symbolic "arm" clothed in red, grasping a broken green tree trunk, centered on a silver shield. The clan motto "Invictus maneo" translates as "I remain unvanquished."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze LOESCHEN. — Mrs. L. P., Artesia.

L. P.: LOESCHEN is an American form of the German surname Loschen. Two sources for this name were found through extensive research. One was "Loschener" meaning "Processor and seller of fine buckskin or deerskin." The other origin was "Loschen-kohl" indicating "Burning-heap," applied to a maker and seller of charcoal.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of CRIST.—Mrs. E. C., Santa Ana.

E. C.: CRIST is a German surname. The origin was an ancestor baptized Christianus, meaning "Christian." This name was simplified to Christin, then to Cristin and Crist. No coat-of-arms is recorded for Crist.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on HEYDENREICH.—J. H., Long Beach.

J. H.: HEYDENREICH originated in Germany. This name, formerly "Heyden-Reich," means "owner of fallow, brush-covered property." The Heydenreich lineage were granted a coat-of-arms, a shield divided into four sections, two black and two gold. In the center is a man wearing a plumed cap, his right hand holding three silver flowers; his left hand gripping an arrow, point up. The sections of the man overlying the black background are colored gold; those over the gold part of the backing are tinted black.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze ASTON.—H. A., Long Beach; C. C., Torrance.

H. A., C. C.: ASTON began as "East-tun," calling attention to the "east farmstead" in 12th century England. William Aston was a proud Yorkshire land owner in 1379. The Astons of Cheshire, descended from Gilbert de Aston who lived from 1150 to 1190, were granted a coat-of-arms. Their shield is divided in half by a chevron, the upper part black, the lower, silver. The Aston motto "Pret d'accomplir" translates from French as "Ready to Achieve."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the meaning of GUARINELLO.—D. S., Long Beach.

D. S.: GUARINELLO is Italian, derived however from the Old French "Guarin," meaning "guardian, watchman." To "Guarin," the Italian nickname ending "ello" was added. The resultant "Guarin-ello" indicated "little guardian."

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of MALONE.—J. T., Westminster.

J. T.: MALONE is from the Gaelic Irish clan name O'Maol-Eoin meanings "sons of the Adherent of St. John." The original Malone home was at Clonmacnoise on the River Shannon. The Malones were created Barons Sunderland in 1785. Their shield is red, decorated with a rampant silver lion between three silver stars. The clan motto "Fidelis ad urnam" means "Faithful unto death." Ancestors include Luke Malone of Dover, N.H., 1667.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on CASTELLANO.—P. C., Garden Grove.

P. C.: CASTELLANO is an unusual Italian name for "man from Castile." This family's ancestor migrated from Spanish Castile into Italy in the early Middle Ages. After his establishment in Italy, he was nicknamed for his place of origin.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please identify GROSS and GROHS.—A. B., Bellflower; A. E. G., Long Beach; L. B., Lomita.

GROSS and GROHS are old German, mainly from "gross" meaning "large and stout." Grohs additionally is from the ancient German "grau" meaning "gray-haired." These are surname evidence of ancestral physical descriptions. The Gross shield from Nurnberg has a green linden tree branch on a green mound centered on a silver background. No shield is accessible for Grohs.

DEAR MISS RULE: Is MARGIOTTA connected with the early Italian artist's name GIOTTO?—F. S., Huntington Beach.

F. S.: MARGIOTTA is basically an Italian surname which traces to a female ancestor called Margarita meaning "pearl." Margarita was shortened to Margi which was eventually enlarged with the nickname ending "otta." GIOTTO is from Angiotto or "little angel."

Olympic Musician

By Ellen Saunders

WHEN JAPAN plays host to the Olympic Games in 1964 chances are good that her band will march to music coordinated by John T. Boudreau, musical director for the Los Angeles Rams, Lakers, Blades, Dodgers and Angels.

"I got a letter from the Japanese government recently asking me to come over and act as their adviser," Boudreau said, "but I haven't quite made up my mind."

Should Boudreau accept the job it will be the second time he has directed music for the Olympic Games.

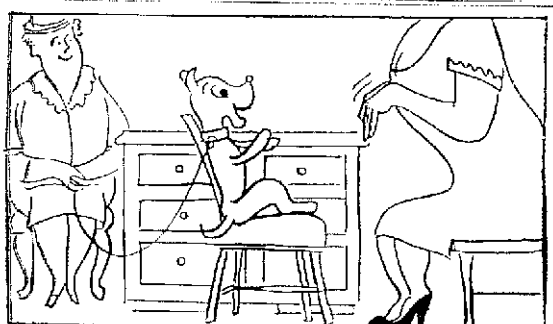

The first time was in 1932 when the Olympics were held in Los Angeles. Boudreau, then a music instructor at his alma mater, USC, did the job so well that it catapulted him into a career as a top-flight band leader, composer and director of half-time entertainment for a half dozen professional sports clubs.

AS A COMPOSER, Boudreau has written more than 100 musical compositions many of them completed during the 25 years he headed Loyola University's music department.

An associate of Dimitri Tiomkin for the past eight years, Boudreau has coordinated musical scores for numerous pictures including "Around the World in Eighty Days" and "Mutiny on the Bounty" and such TV shows as "The Outlaw."

Currently he's writing a motion picture, which will go into production shortly. "Most of the music is already on the market and the theme song, 'We had the Best Band There,' is doing all right," said Boudreau.

Working with Boudreau and his 43-piece Ram band is a Long Beach girl, Rita Lynch, director of 40 high stepping Ramettes.

"Rita has been with us for six years," said Boudreau, "and she's one of the best."

AS MUSICAL director for the Rams since 1946, Boudreau introduced many innovations in half time entertainment which are taken for granted at football games today. He dismisses such achievements with a shrug.

"There are just two things I'm really proud of in my career. One is the fact that our band was the first to play the 'Star Spangled Banner' at football games and the other that, in a small way, I had something to do with the making of a president of the United States.

"Every hand plays our national anthem at football games today, but I always thought it a bit strange that it should take a naturalized Canadian like myself to be the first to think of it.

"In 1960, I was musical director for the Democratic Convention and in addition, I was in charge of the demonstration for Kennedy.

"The spontaneous outburst that followed the placing of his name in nomination was actually the result of 30 days of secret meetings on our part to insure perfect timing and coordination."

10,000 square dancers invade
Long Beach next weekend . . .

'Twirl Your Girl!'

By Vera Williams

Important to square dancing is the caller. This is Travis Snodgrass, a caller and also dance adviser for the state square dance convention.

"DANCE BY the Sea in '63."

That's the slogan for the 10th annual California Square Dance convention May 31-June 2 in the Long Beach Arena, the Municipal Auditorium, the Recreation Center, the Lafayette Hotel, the Breakers International, the Cinderella Ballroom and the National Guard Armory.

Ten thousand dancers are expected.

That's right—10,000 square dancers. They'll come from every part of the state and quite a few other states. Dancers even are expected from foreign countries.

And it will be a swank affair. Square dancing has gone society. Women's full-skirted square dance dresses cost folding money, and the hems of many of the petticoats glitter with sequins. Men wear white shirts and ties. For all the gaiety of square dancing, drinking is strictly taboo. Liquor isn't permitted on the floor and anyone noticeably under the influence is asked to leave.

CONVENTION HOST will be the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs, Inc., formed with five clubs in the immediate Long Beach area in 1949.

Now it has grown to 67 clubs.

Members say there are 250,000 square dancers in California — upwards of 25,000 in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

Bill and Jean Munson are president (a couple holds one office in the association) and Bill and May Tickell are general chairman (not chairmen) of this convention. Norm and Joan Holloway are co-chairman. Stan and Clarine Piotrowski are secretary, and Wes and Judy Hicks are treasurer.

THE CONVENTION will open May 31 for an afternoon of square dance workshops and clinics in the Municipal Auditorium and panels in the Lafayette Hotel. Simultaneously, there will be round dance workshops in the Cinderella Ballroom. In the evening there will be square dancing in the Arena and in the Exhibition Hall of the Auditorium. The Convention Hall of the Auditorium and the Municipal Recreation Center will have round dancing.

"Show Time of '63," exhibition group entertainment, is slated for the Concert Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. May 31 and the afternoon and evening of June 1.

A parade is slated for 1:30 p.m. June 1 on Ocean Boulevard from Pacific Coast Club to Pine Avenue, south on Pine around Rainbow Pier to the Arena. State and city officials will have a prominent place in the parade, and there will be bands, floats, and marching units. Floats will be displayed in the municipal parking lot.

A nautical theme will provide atmosphere for the banquet at 6 p.m. June 1 in the Lafayette Hotel grand ballroom. Will Meng will be emcee. Wilma Hastings will direct a fashion show.

THAT NIGHT swirling dancers and callers will take over the Arena. Teen-agers will dance in the Convention Hall, and there will be round dancing in the National Guard Armory. After-parties are slated for both square and round dancers. The grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel will be the scene of a Polynesian party for square dancers; round dancers will have a buffet supper in the National Guard Armory and teen-agers will have a party at the Breakers International.

June 2 will see a wind up round dance party in the Cinderella and "hot hash" sessions in the Auditorium.

Long Beach will welcome the 13th national square dance convention in July 1964. Upwards of 20,000 dancers are expected then. Bill and May Tickell will be general chairman.

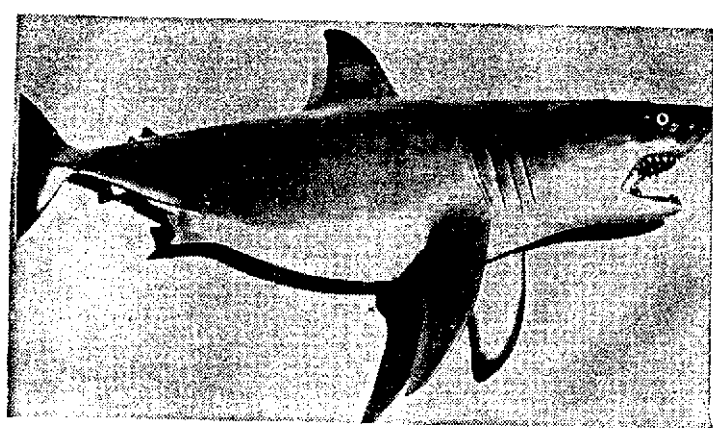

Square dancers go well identified, as badges of Roland Smock indicate here.

Shark Bait!

Great white sharks, like the specimen above, attain a length of 50 feet and are known to have launched unprovoked attacks upon human swimmers.

By Lou Jobst

IT'S A SAFE BET that between now and autumn many Southland swimmers or surfers may spot dorsal fins slicing through the sea—some for the first time.

Their first reaction to spotting a shark is likely to range from transfixed fascination to open panic.

Advice to remain calm and not "get shook" will be about as useful as a shout to a falling man: "Don't worry. You'll be all right."

"No other creature, unless it is the snake, excites in man such a primitive feeling of revulsion and terror as the shark," says shark expert Jules M. Black.

"Men throughout the ages have told and retold all kinds of incredible stories about the shark. The shark has come to epitomize the mystery of the sea and the awe man feels for its vastness."

THESE TALES, many of which are still in circulation, attribute the shark with almost supernatural powers and cunning—he will relentlessly track an intended victim with fanatical determination (remember Captain Hook in "Peter Pan"?), can detect the presence of a drop of human blood in the water at more than one mile away—is virtually indestructible, a pack hunter, voracious and indefatigable.

Generally speaking, these stories are not true. Of the more than 300 varieties of sharks—about 20 of which inhabit Southland waters—only one carcharodon, the white shark, is a known "maneater."

As a group the shark ranges from varieties no larger than the average game fish to the whale-sized basking shark (one weighing 6,200 pounds was recently landed off Newport Beach). And he is generally a docile, dull-witted and often cowardly creature who many seafaring peoples consider the oceanic version of the vulture with the discerning palate of a goat.

SHARKS, scientists have found, will literally eat anything, including gunny sacks of coal, alarm clocks, bundles of old newspapers, tin cans and in one more-or-less unnerving instance—bricks of shark repellent.

As a breed the shark is a traveling stomach—a scavenger who will travel 30,000 miles in a single year to satiate his appetite.

Often his foraging brings him to man, whom he occasionally makes into a meal.

At least one authority, author Thomas Helm, believes the shark may be developing an appetite for mankind.

"It is entirely possible that certain sharks have learned to depend upon the plentiful abundance of human bathers to assuage their appetites while cruising the waters around the United States," says Helm.

THE RECORD doesn't seem to support this theory. In the past 50 years there have been 50—more or less—proven unprovoked attacks by a shark upon man in U.S. waters.

Four persons have been killed by sharks in California since 1959—one as recently as last October off Catalina Island.

Local newspaper accounts carry sensational instances of purported shark attacks:

In 1955, four men and a young woman vanished at sea off Newport Beach. The only clues to their disappearance was an overturned boat and the half-eaten corpse of one man. The outcry was shark attack. However, it is reasonable to believe the quintet drowned and then were attacked by sharks or scavenger fish, quite possibly barracuda.

IN 1952, the Santa Monica charter boat, Spare Time, carrying 12 men, exploded and sank 11 miles offshore. Three men survived. All that was found of the remainder were bloodstained lifejackets. It is likely to suppose the injured men were attacked by sharks, drawn to the scene by blood.

It seems reasonable to assume that injuries have something to do with the attacks because literally hundreds of uninjured persons have fallen from ships into waters where sharks are present and have not been attacked.

An injury was involved in the most recent claim of shark death when a woman fell overboard last fall off Catalina. She was badly cut by the boat's propellers before the sharks launched an attack.

Most expert swimmers and shark authorities warn persons with wounds or cuts to stay out of the water.

WHAT IF YOU are caught in the water in the presence of sharks?

Don't panic, say the experts. Sharks are attracted by sudden movement and might mistake thrashing around for a wounded fish. Set out for shore with even, methodical strokes.

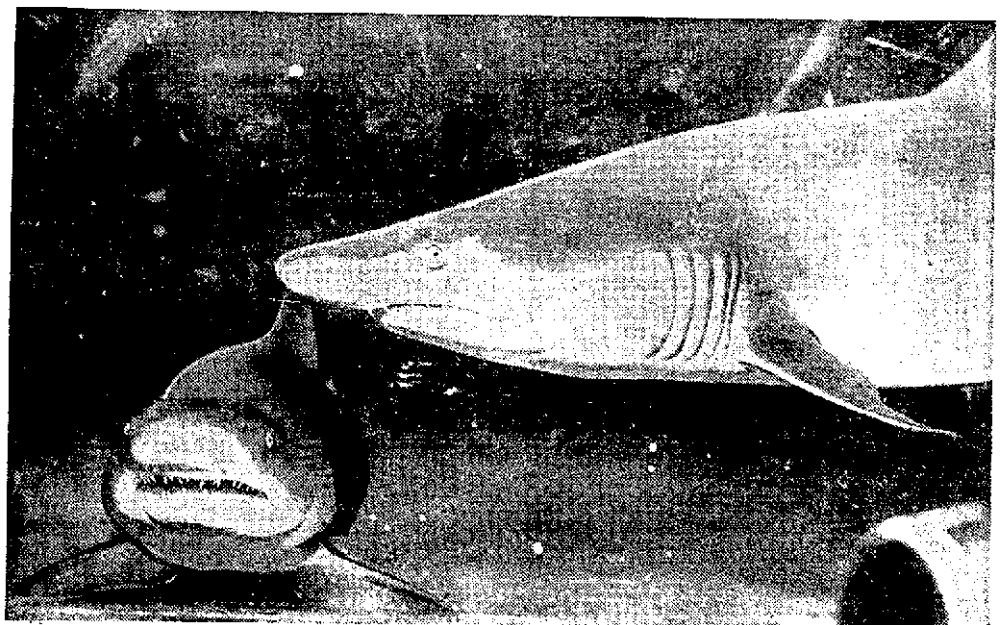

Better yet, stay out of water over your head in the presence of sharks and don't swim at dark or in murky waters.

The shark is naturally cautious and wary if not in a frenzy from the scent of blood.

There are many authenticated cases in which bold skin-divers have literally frightened a nosy shark away by staring him down or banging him on the nose.

Suzanne Theriot, above, of Santa Cruz, lost a leg in a shark attack in 1960.

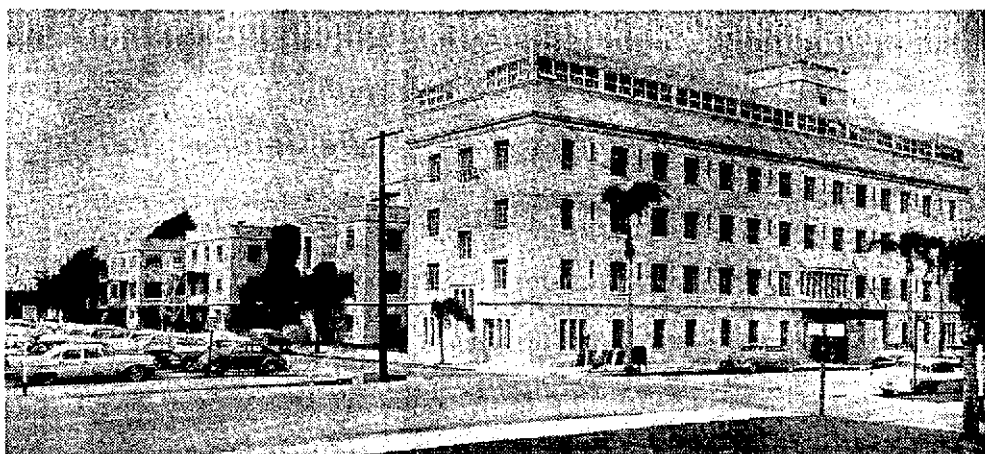

Sand sharks, such as this pair in a San Francisco aquarium, are more formidable looking than they are ferocious. They are among the many varieties of sharks with no proven records of their having launched attacks on mankind.

Seaside, the Hospital That Didn't Just Happen

Seaside Memorial Hospital as it is today. Los Angeles County is refitting the installation for new uses and will reopen it under a new name, but it will remain in local memory as the first major hospital here.

By Fred B. Clarke, M.D.

LOS ANGELES County will call it "El Cerrito" (Little Hill) when it opens next Jan. 1 for the care of chronic, long-term county patients.

But the old building at 1401 Chestnut Ave. will keep right on being "Seaside Hospital" to many of us. It is part of our heritage.

That hospital didn't just happen—it came about through the foresight and hard work of many men over many years.

Dr. A. C. Sellery, a graduate of McGill University in Toronto in 1906, having had a training in surgery, located in Long Beach, a town of about 11,000 population. Since he was a surgeon, he naturally was interested in having a hospital equipped for surgery.

Shortly after arriving in Long Beach, he invited the 10 doctors in the town to his home at 1601 E. 2nd St. to discuss raising of funds for a hospital. Only two doctors (Harvey and Bales) attended. Sellery placed a check for $1,000 on the table and suggested that the two men contribute. There was no response.

ONE WEEK LATER he called a meeting at his office. Drs. Harvey, Bales and Wood attended, and each contributed $200. Some time later, in addition to these three, Drs. Hammond, Hill, Newman, Sweet and Waterman made contributions. After a few months, others contributed; and a large frame building at the northeast corner of Broadway and Junipero was leased for a period of seven years. This was the first Seaside Hospital—18 beds.

In the meantime $7,000 was raised, and a search for a hospital site began. The corner of Linden Avenue and 10th Street was selected; but a few property owners protested to the City Council and a permit was refused.

A Mr. Townsend, who owned the land on which the Seaside Hospital was built, agreed to deed the site for a hospital and take a percentage interest in the earnings. The first unit consisted of 32 beds at a cost of $11,000.

The hospital was inadequate due to the increase in population, and the first unit of what was to become the largest hospital in Long Beach was completed in 1913, with a capacity of 250 beds and 55 bassinets.

At first the hospital was operated on a partnership basis, but it soon became apparent that a stock company would have to be organized to facilitate the management. Each individual received stock in proportion to his contribution.

AFTER WORLD WAR I the city began a rapid growth, and many doctors came to Long Beach. They were told that in order to have the privilege of using the hospital, they must purchase stock. The amount necessary to be a member of the staff was $2,500. Not all the newcomers had that amount of cash, and smaller amounts were accepted.

Finally, the taxes became so large due to the increased value of the property that it became necessary to organize the hospital on a non-profit basis. This was done with each owner of stock receiving bonds for the amount of stock he owned. Most of these bonds were cashed for about 25 cents on the dollar. At this time the name of the hospital was changed to the Seaside Memorial Hospital.

During the 1920s many doctors located in Long Beach, providing excellent surgical and medical service. All made their contribution to the success of the hospital.

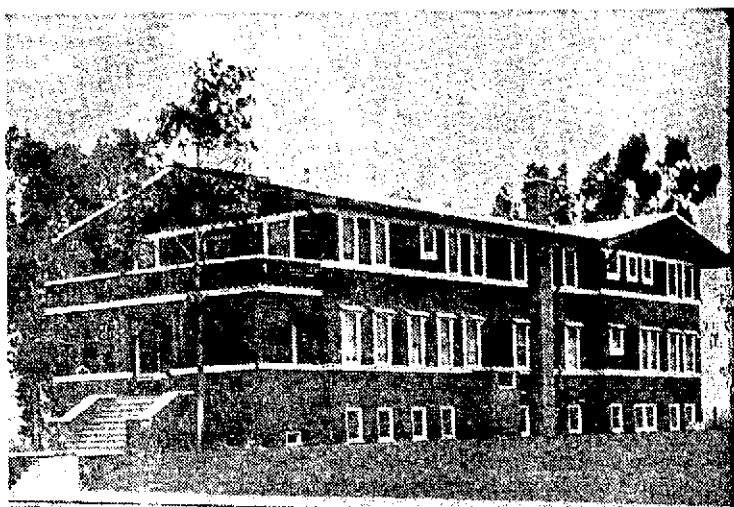

It wasn't long before additional room was needed, and plans to build the "A" wing were drawn up. When the plans were submitted to the staff, there was a great deal of objection to the small size of the rooms. I well remember a statement made by Dr. Sellery: "Yes, the rooms are small, but making them small gives us four additional rooms, which means an additional income of $1,200 each month to pay off interest and the $50,000 which we will have to borrow." Sellery's idea was accepted.

THE NEW UNIT contained 142 beds and was completed in 1929, increasing the number of hospital beds to 392.

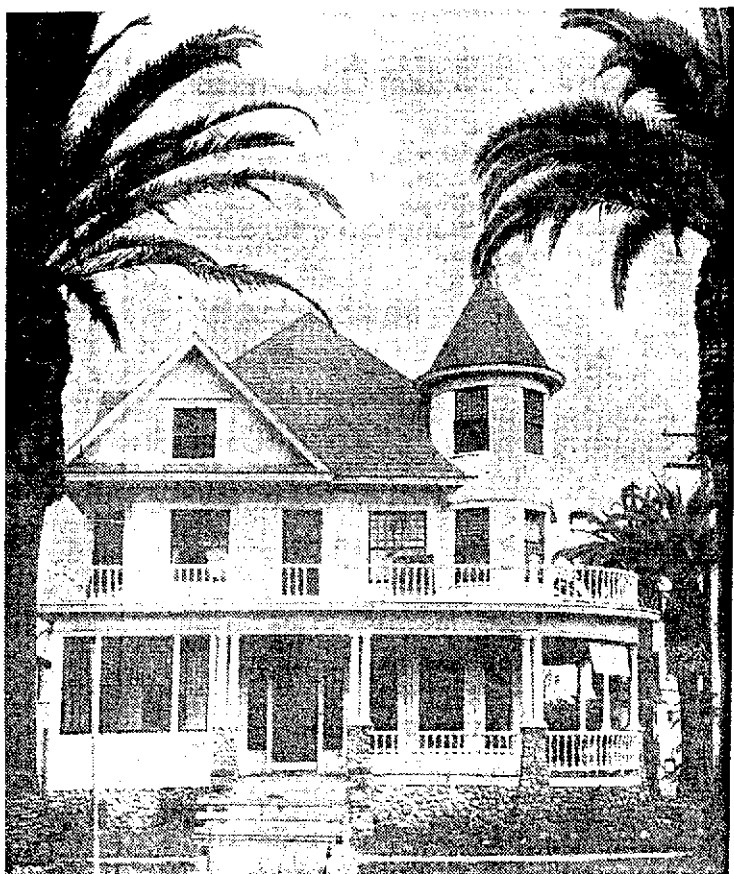

In 1924, deep X ray and radium were being used in the treatment of cancer. The hospital lacked funds to purchase them. Dr. Sellery purchased X-ray equipment for deep therapy (costing $12,000) and 15 mg of radium (costing $15,000)—a total of $27,000 to which he retained ownership but which he made available to any patient in the hospital.

The hospital met two major emergencies. The first was the earthquake in 1933. Within a short time after the shock, 12 bodies were brought to the hospital. Due to lack of room they were wrapped in sheets and placed on the wide concrete walk near the entrance. Many injured were brought in and patients assigned to rooms and floors; and then relatives filled the halls. To add to the trouble, the elevators would not work, and many patients were carried on stretchers to the second, third, and fourth floors. In addition some of the water pipes were broken, and there was trouble in the boilerroom, limiting hot water. For 36 hours there was little rest for the doctors.

Seaside's "D" wing at 14th Street and Magnolia Avenue as it appeared in 1911. Hospital was tribute to work of early group of Long Beach doctors.

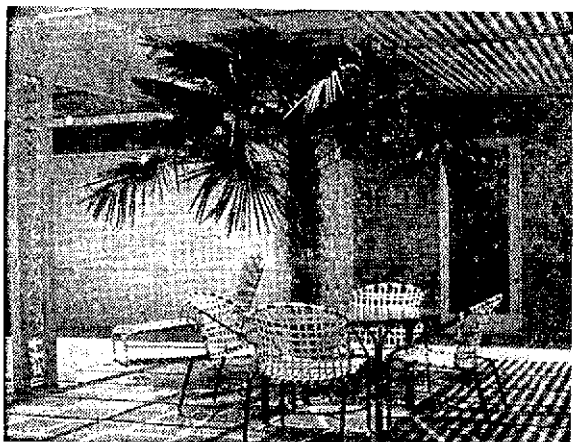

Birth of a hospital: This structure housed the first Seaside activity, located at Broadway and Junipero Avenue. It was an 18-bed institution.

Auto Racing's Revolutionists

By Jerome Hall

DOWN a dusty Long Beach sidestreet there's a tune-up shop where the mechanics can't be disturbed. On the front door hangs a sign telling customers to go away.

Inside they're preparing for the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race at Indianapolis. Not this week's race—next year's.

They're the technicians at Mickey Thompson Enterprises, 1401 Cota Ave. And Thompson and his mechanics have brought the auto racing world to the edge of revolution. What Thompson's Long Beach-built cars do in the big race this week may change the face of racing.

But win, lose or cracked cylinder block, the boyish-looking Long Beach speed merchant already has had more influence on the big time of auto racing than anyone since Fred Offenhauser.

THE CONVENTIONAL off-engine roadsters have held a headlock on the Indianapolis race for decades, but this year Mickey's influence has opened the door to the entry of 15 renegades—hopped-up passenger car-engined machines. Mickey had five of them among the 70 cars competing for the 33 starting positions.

"Mickey's cars have created consternation among the racing fraternity," says a reporter for an Indianapolis newspaper who himself has been captivated by the unusual machines.

All the racing men seem in agreement that Mickey's machines are as advanced in engineering as has been seen at Indianapolis since Peter DePaolo, a Long Beach man, broke the 100-mile-per-hour barrier in a Dusenbergs in 1925.

"I FIGURE we have to do something new every year," says Thompson, who entered the "500" for the first time last year after establishing himself as the world's premier hot-rodder. He is semi-retired from competitive driving now. But he hasn't slowed down. During the course of his usual 18-hour work day he oversees operations at the Long Beach Lions drag strip and often takes a spin over to Riverside Raceway to make a test run in one of his racers.

Mickey's "something new" a year ago was to hop up a Buick engine and put it on the rear of what looked to veteran Indianapolis men more like a go-cart than a "500" machine. But the Thompson machine was in a challenging position when a 25-cent part broke midway through the race, forcing it out.

Said A. J. Watson, known as "the man who builds the Indy winners," after the '62 race: "I can see right now my next car will have to be lighter."

That was the Mickey Thompson influence. He builds his Indianapolis cars with "the exotic metals." He uses magnesium and beryllium and the result is a car that's perhaps only half the weight of the one it's trying to pass on the straightaway.

THE GRIN is a common expression for Mickey these days. He gives the impression he's laughing at the world.

"This is the only race car that has been designed around the wheels," he told a collection of newsmen at a cocktail party before heading for Indianapolis. Mickey had trouble suppressing a laugh as they tilted their ears forward.

"We drew up plans for the wheels, sent them to Fire- (Continued on Page 34)

Plays a Leading Role

In the atmosphere of a friendly kitchen there is provision for a neighborly cup of coffee and family meals.

rest of the floor in the kitchen.

ATTRACTIVE shutter doors (which are visible from the living room) hide a service area which includes a large pantry plus laundry facilities. In the center of the kitchen (where there was once a solid wall) is an outsized dining bar which doubles as an excellent work area for food preparation. It is covered with a synthetic material resembling marble, a key to the color scheme of the kitchen which is done in black and white. The stove is recessed in one end of the bar.

Cupboards are white with black handles and hinges and work area around the sink is similar to the bar. There is a built-in desk at the far end of the room with a special file-size drawer for household accounts and business. There is ample room for a small round dining table and four chairs.

The attractive curtains, made by Mrs. Edmunds, are a gay print. Matching padded cornices above add to the custom look.

FURNITURE and accessories combine to lend warmth and charm to the living room.

A long couch is a rich peacock blue-green. Above the couch are two paintings which were done by Mrs. Edmunds. A low, black, Oriental table is in front of the couch. An occasional table across the room has a floor-length felt cloth of avocado hue which blends with the couch. A family treasure is displayed on one wall, very much at home in its modern environment: a clock that was made in the early 1800s. Windows on either side of the fireplace look out into the rear garden. Wallpaper in the entry matches the curtains in the kitchen, another fine custom decorating idea.

The powder room has been decorated with the same cultured marble used in the kitchen; white and gold vinyl on the floor, and ornate gold fixtures.

BEDROOMS are gay. The master bedroom is done in pale pink and green with cherry furniture; one boy's room has a burlap wall that doubles as a bulletin board; and the third bedroom is pale blue and red. The second bathroom is black, white and orange.

The restrained use of bright colors helps to add to the illusion of space.

The Edmunds' home looks interesting enough from the front exterior, but its interior holds extra charm.

Spy Chaser's Test

Stepping from a hot bath after hard day of spy-chasing in the film, "From Russia, With Love," Sean Connery finds Daniela Bianchi in his bed.

By Betty DeWeese

THE ART of Bondmanship may provide the answer to the Cold War—at least between the sexes.

As the 30,000,000 readers of Ian Fleming's popular spy thrillers already know, James Bond (British Secret Service Agent 007), is at his deadliest with women. His cherished "00" rating, designating his license to kill, applies to the ladies as well. While he might lose a skirmish in the alley, he never fails in milady's boudoir.

In "From Russia, With Love," now being filmed in Technicolor at Pinewood Studios in London, the handsome British agent portrayed by Scottish actor Sean Connery, is facing his greatest test as a lover. After a hard day's spy-chasing through the streets of Istanbul, he enters his hotel room to find a lovely Russian girl in his bed, wearing only a pair of black stockings and a black ribbon around her throat. Bond's dilemma; although he suspects the girl is there to lure him into a death trap, how can he possibly ignore her obvious charms?

This provocative scene is not only the basis for the title of the new James Bond film. It is also the introduction of a new international star—Daniela Bianchi, the 21-year-old Italian actress who was selected by the producers from a field of more than 200 to play the tantalizing young Russian girl who serves herself up to agent Bond, believing that it is the patriotic thing to do.

THE ONLY DAUGHTER of an Italian army officer, Daniela has only appeared in three previous films. But she proved her qualifications for this exceptional screen opportunity in 1960 when, after winning the European elimination contest as Miss Italy, she became the runner-up in the Miss Universe contest in Miami Beach.

Actually, Miss Bianchi's first professional meeting with her co-star, Sean Connery, was staged on an ornate Turkish bed at Pinewood Studios. It was a perfectly proper meeting, in spite of that, because their love-making took place before a full production crew and 14 press photographers on hand for this warmed-up version of the Cold War.

Following their torrid first scene together, Connery and his new leading lady were assigned the next 12 weeks to recreate their thrilling escape through the Iron Curtain countries to the freedom of the West. Next week, the entire company will leave for five weeks of location filming in Istanbul, utilizing the real-life backgrounds of best-selling Fleming novel.

"From Russia, With Love," starring Sean Connery with Daniela Bianchi, Pedro Armendariz, Lotte Lenya and Robert Shaw, is an Eon Production for United Artists release.

He Mines for Precious Water

By James E. Saunders

PIPES ARE their pokes as a group of hardrock men mine in the San Bernardino Mountains area . . . for water!

Men who farm the semi-arid agricultural fringe lands regard water as precious as gold, and these are the men the miners serve.

Abandoning the time-honored method of drilling down into the ground for water, these miners punch holes into a hill or mountain until it flows like a giant fountain.

One of the miners, Flint Brown, has more than 100 mined wells in operation within a radius of 200 miles of San Bernardino, some of them flowing as much as 11,600 gallons per hour.

Most of Brown's efforts are to supplement the meager supply of 1120 to ranchers who work the outlying sections of Southern California. However, he has successfully mined wells that are the only source of water to others who husband the dry land in more remote areas.

"THE METHOD I use may be unusual, but it isn't original," said Brown. "Indians and pioneers often dug holes into the side of hills in search of water. In fact all up and down the slopes of California are caves these people dug looking for water."

"I've often discovered they were right in the locations they chose. Of course, they didn't have modern equipment or the scientific knowhow we possess, and often missed a good pool of water by just a few feet."

Brown told of an instance where he developed a "good well" in an old cave in the San Bernardino Mountains. A cave that had been dug many years ago.

"The cavern was about 600 feet deep and seemed to wind around like a snake hole. The old-timer who dug it must have followed every bit of evidence of moisture he found. It seemed to me that every time he spotted a little water he took off that way."

"I don't know if the poor devil ever got enough water," he continued, "but I was able to drill a well within 100 feet of the mouth of the cave. The last time I checked this well it was producing about 190 gallons of water per minute."

Just turn a valve and a mountain flows water . . . that is, after Flint Brown (above) has drilled a mine.

ducting about 190 gallons of water per minute."

BROWN, an ex-cowboy from South Dakota, is familiar with the old-fashioned water well, but believed his system of obtaining water, especially where a hill exists, is more efficient.

"My father owned a large ranch and we had many vertical wells," he said. "We had to pump water up to a tank or watering trough. At least once a year we had to disassemble the pumping mechanisms and overhaul them. It was a back-breaking and time-consuming job, whereas with a horizontal well you don't need a pump. When you want water just turn a valve and the pressure inside the hill or mountain will push the water out."

Brown said several men were using his method of mining water and believed most of them based their operations on his theory, which he describes:

As the earth was forming and the mountains were pushed up, cracks or fissures were made under the surface. As moisture fell, water seeped into the ground and eventually filled these faults. Then the water ran down into the lowlands seeking out and making new underground crevices as the amount of water increased in the mountains. Eventually underground reservoirs were formed.

"IT'S SOMETHING like tapping the mouth of a river before it flows down into the lowlands," said Brown. "I haven't tapped an underground river as yet," he smiled, "but I have hopes."

When engaged to mine a well, Brown said he obtains aerial photos of the ground and sometimes engages a geologist to help choose the right place to drill.

"I then study the lay strata of the land watching for fault lines or cracks in the surface. I also watch for vegetation. If there are fault lines and vegetation there is bound to be water."

Like all miners who search the earth for its hidden treasures, Brown hits what he calls a "dry hole" every now and then, but said his method of mining water is 70 per cent successful.

Brown and his drilling rig pierce a mountain in quest of water. He is about 70 per cent successful.

Clock of Many Faces

Watchmaker and machinist, the late Andrew Dreger Sr., above, built a handmade clock that is now at Knott's Berry Farm.

By Rochelle Frank

A MONUMENT to one man's pride in his own careful craftsmanship is a massive electric clock which stands like a many-faced sentry in the Ghost Town Rose Garden at Knott's Berry Farm, a few miles east of Long Beach on Highway 39. It was moved there shortly after the death of Andrew Dreger Sr., a Long Beach man who hand-made every one of the clock's precise parts using only his own skills and some simple machinery.

Dreger was a watchmaker and machinist by trade, and the impressive four-sided clock was his masterpiece.

During the last 20 years of his life the clock stood in front of the Dreger residence at 836 E. Anaheim St., where he watched over it like a doting father.

Dreger's huge timepiece, with its 18 separate clock faces, is a complex piece of machinery.

Keeping perfect time for a dozen major cities of the world, 12 small dials surround a large clock face which indicates local time. The miniature clock faces, each six inches in diameter, tell the exact solar time in Tokyo, New York, Mexico City, Liverpool, Petrograd (Leningrad), Melbourne, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Hong Kong and Rome.

OPPOSITE this "international side" other dials give passersby the day of the week, the date, the month, and even the phase of the moon—as well as the hour in our time zone. A third side is simply one large dial with 16 and 18-inch hands giving the correct local time. Dreger installed no dials in the fourth side which faced his house. A painting depicting the four seasons has since Flowers like these can be made from tin cans, cut, twisted and decorated.

Tin-Can Flowers Make Party Topics

By Lorena Fleissig

TIN-CAN FLOWERS make conversation pieces at a party. Imagination and metal cans of all sizes plus a good tinsnips that fits the hand, will promote examples (see illustration). A round-nose pincer will be a help in curling the ends.

Small empty cans are delimited by placing them horizontally in the can opener. Narrow strips are cut down to the base of the can. These are bent outward. Again, fine cuts are made in the strip ends and these are curled with the pincers.

The flowers are spray painted in white or colors and then decorations are added. Beads, wire tablet binders, gold cord and glitter make the flowers sparkle.

They are planted in styrofoam balls which are cut in half, then glued to colored cardboard.

The flower stems are the seam portion of the can which is left long for that purpose. Leaves and smaller flowers may be cut from can lids. These flowers are fun to make.

Pineapple Pastries

Pineapple Melba
Cream Tarts

2 (15-ounce) cans pineapple slices
2 (3 1/4-ounce) packages vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
2 cups thin cream or milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons rum extract
1 cup whipping cream
8 large baked tart shells (about 4 inches in diameter, 1 1/4 inches deep)
Melba Glaze

Drain pineapple, saving syrup. Blend 1 cup pineapple syrup with pudding mix, thin cream and salt. Cook over moderate heat, stirring, until mixture comes to a full boil.
Remove from heat, add rum extract; cover and cool. When pudding is cold, whip cream until stiff. Fold into pudding to set. Spoon Melba Glaze over each tart and top with pineapple slices. Makes 8 large tarts.

TART SHELLS:

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening (half butter, if desired)
4 or 5 tablespoons cold milk or water

Sift flour and salt together into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until in fine pieces.
Add just enough liquid to hold dough together. Divide dough into 8 equal-size pieces. Roll each piece to fit fluted tart pans (about 4 inches diameter). Prick surface with tines of a fork. Bake in very hot oven (475 degrees F.)
about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool before filling.

MELBA GLAZE:

1 (10-ounce) package frozen raspberries
1/2 cup red currant jelly
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
Pinch salt

Combine all ingredients.
Heat, stirring now and then,
until berries are defrosted.
Cook and stir until mixture thickens and becomes clear.
Strain through a sieve, if desired, to remove seeds. Cover and chill before using.

Custard Puffs Supreme

2 (9-ounce) cans pineapple tidbits
2 (3 1/4-ounce) packages lemon pudding and pie filling mix
1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks, beaten
2 cups water
Few grains salt
1 cup whipping cream

Stir undrained pineapple and lemon filling mix together in saucepan. Add sugar, beaten egg yolks and water. Cook, stirring, until mixture boils and thickens. Remove from heat; cover and cool. Beat cream until stiff with salt and lemon peel; fold into cold pudding. Spoon generously into baked shells. Dust with powdered sugar, if desired.
Makes 1 dozen large puffs.

CREAM PUFF OR ECLAIR SHELLS:

1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
4 eggs

Heat water and butter together to boiling in heavy saucepan. Add flour, stirring constantly until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball. Remove from heat and cool. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until mixture becomes smooth and velvety. For cream puffs, drop in mounds onto baking sheet, about 3 inches apart. For eclairs, shape with a spatula or back of spoon into fingers about 4 inches long, 1 inch wide.
Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until puffed and golden brown and shells are dry, about 45 to 50 minutes. Cool slowly, away from drafts.
Cut off tops and remove any filaments of soft dough. Fill and replace tops.

When it's time to go a-picnicking—or just to dine out in the back yard—a Picnic Tote-Table is just the thing.

By Bill Meyerrieks

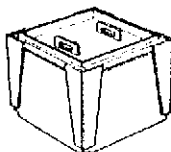

WITH THE weather right and the shady spots beckoning, it's time to spread a blanket and have a picnic—in the hills or just on the back lawn. Today's home shop project is just the ticket to help you enjoy this relaxing pastime.

It's the Picnic Tote-Table, a unique arrangement of a box unit and table frame made primarily of exterior plywood. The good-sized box, 17 inches square by 11 inches deep, serves two functions. It stores the picnic goodies when closed and its hinged sides lower to become four table settings. The frame does double duty, too. This sits over the closed box to hold it firm and protect it, then lifts off to use as the table legs. These legs put the table more than a foot high, away from any chance of friendly ants joining in the fun. An accessory tray sits between the upright handles where the usual picnic accessories can be reached easily by everyone.

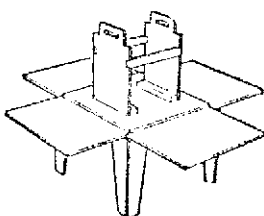

An intriguing part of why you'll want to build and use this handy table is how it will become so adaptable to your leisure fun. Each actual use will bring out another way to store, to use and enjoy. Because of its shape when opened, for instance, a netting over the top will protect the food while the family and friends take time out for a swim or game. Its sides, with one down and three up, form a built-in windbreaker toward the food.

TO ORDER, specify Picnic Tote-Table Plan S-109 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

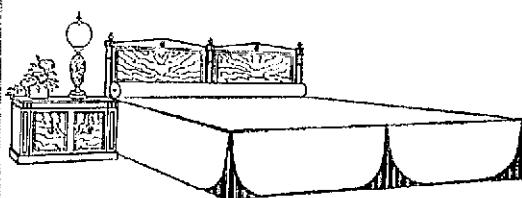

Closed, with food and picnic equipment inside, Tote-Table is compact for carrying and storing in car. Opened, box doors are tables; food and equipment go in the middle.

Ultrasound for Diagnoses?

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

ULTRASOUND promises to play a big role in medical diagnosis in the future, says Dr. Joseph H. Holmes of University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Even now the use of high-frequency sound waves to diagnose disease is in a stage comparable to early X-ray usage, he says.

He adds: "Eventually it will serve to supplement X-ray examinations of many parts of the body and permit visualization of pathological processes and structures not readily visualized by X-ray."

At present, ultrasound is being used successfully to locate cysts, abscesses, foreign bodies, gallstones, diseased muscle, certain cancers and abnormal collections of fluid. The technique also can show the condition of heart valves.

Mass screening of the breast for the presence of tumor is seen as one potential for ultrasound.

The ultrasound technique employs a device called a somascope—a combination of radar and sonar. It sends out waves that bounce back from body organs, to depict them on a screen.

THE DEATH RATE among premature newborns can be lowered significantly by a delay in the cutting of the umbilical cord at time of birth.

The report is that of British physicians in the journal Lancet.

A delay in cutting the cord results in more blood traveling through the cord from the placenta (afterbirth), the spongy structure that nourishes the fetus during pregnancy.

Babies that get that extra blood right after delivery are less likely to develop a potentially fatal condition called hyaline membrane disease, the researchers say. The condition is marked by breathing distress.

The researchers recommend a delay of three to five minutes before the cord is cut.

BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS should never be given just to "play it safe," a group of doctors has told the International College of Surgeons. Transfusions can be an unnecessary hazard.

One speaker, Dr. Max M. Simon of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., said there are more deaths in the U.S. annually from blood transfusions than from appendicitis.

Annual death rate from the three major complications of transfusions: 16,500. The three major complications are hepatitis (liver inflammation), overloading the circulation with too much blood and reactions between donated blood and the patient's blood.

The report is in the New York State Journal of Medicine.

USE OF CHEMICALS to remove wrinkles from aging skin has stood the test of time, reports a Florida doctor in Journal of the American Geriatrics Society.

Dr. Perry A. Sperber of Daytona Beach says the process, called chemexfoliation or chemical peeling, sometimes results in the patient looking 10 to 20 years younger. Cosmetic improvement may last for five years or more, he adds.

Dr. Sperber, who has performed 1,500 peeling operations, uses a phenol solution. A few days after the solution is applied to the face, skin begins to peel off. The peeling usually is complete within eight to 12 days after application of the chemical.

The procedure, he says, may not add years to life but it adds life to the years. A psychologic uplift follows the operation, he explains.

A NOTED PHYSICIAN warns of the dangers involved in prescribing a drug over the back fence to a neighbor.

Dr. Helen B. Taussig of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, Baltimore, says in a report in the journal Circulation:

"We must all learn not to clamor for new and more potent drugs. Furthermore, people must learn not to prescribe glibly to one another and not to take drugs over the back fence. What is good for one is not necessarily good for another."

Women should abstain from drugs during pregnancy in an effort to prevent damage to the unborn child, she says.

Men, too, should be cautious about drugs. Medicines may yet be developed that will injure the male germ cell, she explains.

Recipe of the Week

SOMETHING for a sweet tooth wins this week's $5 prize for best recipe, submitted by Mrs. George Struthers, 100 Atlantic Ave., Long Beach 2. The recipe:

Macaroon Whip

- |                      |                                  |
|----------------------|----------------------------------|
| Custard:             | 3 egg whites                     |
| 1 tablespoon gelatin | 2 tblsp. powdered sugar          |
| 1/4 cup cold milk    | Add:                             |
| 2 cups milk, scalded | 12 crushed real almond macaroons |
| 3 egg yolks          | 1 tsp. vanilla                   |
| 1/4 cup sugar        | 1/2 tsp. almond extract          |
| 1/8 tsp. salt        |                                  |

Soak the gelatine in the 1/4 cup of cold milk for 20 minutes. In top of a double boiler, make the custard of the 2 cups of milk, scalded, the egg yolks, sugar and salt. Add the softened gelatine, stir until well blended. Add the crushed almond macaroons, vanilla and almond extract. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in meringue made of the 3 egg whites and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar. When blended, turn into a mold which has been dipped in cold water. Let harden.

THE NATION has been tilted westward in the last two decades by "the largest migration in the history of the world" — with results both good and bad—points out Neil Morgan, San Diego newspaperman, in "WESTWARD TILT" (Random House, $6.95).

"The West seethes with the spirit of 'Why not?'" he relates. "It is young and eager, cocky and eternally hopeful."

Morgan, San Diego Evening Tribune columnist whose syndicated column appears in 40 newspapers, surveys the political, social, economic and cultural forces of the 11 Western States. Most of the material he gleaned firsthand on a 40,000-mile tour of the region.

The modern West, he relates, is more urban, more literate, more prosperous and alas, more criminal than the rest of the nation.

Los Angeles has overtaken San Francisco as the great city of the West, he says, and he adds that Seattle is the newest major city in the land.

He quotes Dr. Frank Baxter as saying he once saw three Nobel prize winners push their carts through a Los Angeles supermarket.

James Michener wrote the forward.

YELLOW WOLF, a simple Indian, nephew of Chief Joseph, voices, in "THE LAST

STAND OF THE NEZ PERCE (Twayne, $5) as eloquent an indictment of the white people and of oppression as one will ever read:

"Nobody to help us tell our side. Told if to please themselves. Told much that is not true."

The destruction of the Nez Perce as a people in the shameful Nez Perce war of 1877 is one of the chapters of our history over which gives us no cause to be proud. Harvey Chalmers II records each step in the obliteration of the Nez Perce nation (twice—once as straight history, and again from the Indians' side. Yellow Wolf is the Nez Perces' spokesman; he recalls the battles and the brave deeds of his tribesmen against an army more powerful and bent on wresting the Nez Perces' Oregon homeland for land-greedy whites.

Against howitzers and Gatling guns the Nez Perce fought like demons, but they were doomed from the start. Chalmers' book goes a long way to make amends on Yellow Wolf's behalf.

Joseph L. Morrison reminds us that away back before World War I there was a fighting liberal editor in the South who thundered forth on issues both political and social without fear. In "JOSEPHUS DANIELS SAYS . . ." (Univ. of North Carolina Press, $7.50) he tells us of a forerunner of some of the hard-hitting Southern men of intellect and principle who today are helping to pave the way to a new South. Daniels was so far ahead of his times that Wilson chose him for his Cabinet as secretary of the Navy.

AN ANGRY young man who wouldn't despair, but whose anger makes him fight the hunger of Sicily's poor battles for truth, is the "LUKE BENEDICT" (Vanguard, $3.95) whose odyssey is told by Mark Oliver. It is an odyssey that includes a disastrous marriage and a fighting career as an Anglican priest. A fine novel.

MOLLY PICON, queen of the Yiddish stage for half a century and starring this season in her first Broadway role, "Milk and Honey," apparently came naturally by her charm and sparkling wit.

"SO LAUGH A LITTLE" as told to Eth Clifford Rosenberg (Messner, $3) is the old-country humor and philosophy of Molly's grandmother, Sarah Ostrow, who came from Russia and helped raise her from the age of five years and stayed on through Molly's marriage and theatrical success.

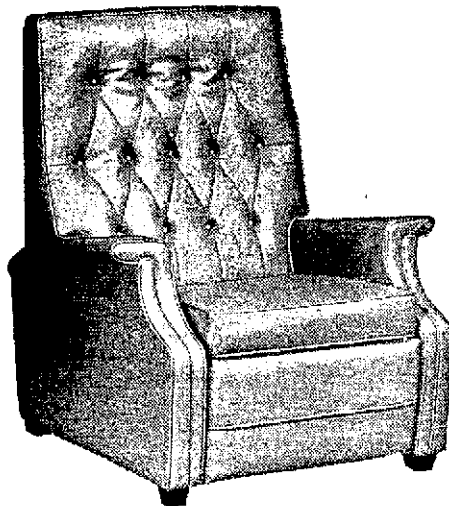

The laughs are there, although the range of readership appeal is necessarily limited.

Do Your Knees Show?

By Eleanor Avery Price

YOU OBTAIN a little puppy. You cradle him in your arms, let him kiss your face, make a big fuss over him. And he loves every minute of it.

Then one day he is larger. He wants the same constant love, but he puts his feet in his drinking water, runs through dirt, then jumps up against you.

So you read up on obedience training and learn that the approved correction is for you quickly to bring up a knee to strike him in the chest, thus knocking him off balance, then you stand there unconcerned as though nothing had happened. The idea is that he is supposed to think he pulled a boner and you are in no way involved. You repeat the lesson over and over, and you ask all others to give your dog the same treatment so he will learn that jumping up is not a game in which he can indulge with anyone.

YOUR DOG isn't supposed to see the knee come up. But many times he does. He may be a small breed, and the knee may hit him in the face. He is then definitely rebuffed and knows it—make no mistake about it. His security begins to crumble. If he is very sensitive, he may shy away from you, or he may run up to you, squat and puddle, and a discouraging habit is born.

The overly sensitive dog may show his sensitiveness sooner or later. He may shrink away or puddle when you speak crossly or loudly in fear as when you find him chewing on an electric cord. But should you rebuff him with a knee when up until now you have loved him so lavishly? It doesn't seem fair.

If you search for other means of correction, you learn that another method is to grab the dog's front feet and step on his hind toes. This is cruel and almost always makes a dog shy away. Another method is the "strong arm"—bring the palm of your hand up and strike him on the nose hard enough to topple him over backward. Another: rap him sharply across the nose. Another: flip a folded magazine or newspaper in his face. How unkind can one get?

THE MOST humane method is to teach your dog to "Sit." Then when he dashes up to you, you can say, "Sit," and he will keep his feet on the ground. You can gently push him into sitting positions over and over again while you say "Sit." Or you can teach him to "Sit" with no shoving or pushing whatsoever. Walk with him on a leash held in your left hand, stop and instantly pass the index finger of your right hand from the front to a point low over the dog's head. As the dog's eyes follow your finger, his head goes up, and almost always his backside goes down. Say "Sit" as he goes into a sitting position. Repeat until he learns the lesson.

Now and then get down to the dog's level so he can be near your face. He used to kiss you, remember?

Clock of Many Faces

Barton that he intends to correct that oversight

MRS. BARTON remembers well how proud her father was of his clock.

"In fact," she says, "Dad was always working on it," noting that even after it was mounted on its tall pedestal beside the house, her father would sometimes partially dismantle the clock to make adjustments.

"Until just a few weeks before his death at the age of 84, Dad regularly climbed a ladder to inspect the works of his clock and to wash its three glass faces," she recalls. "He always kept the clock running perfectly."

But the machinery of recognition seemed to revolve 10 times more slowly than the hand of Dreger's clock which indicated the month of the year, for the plaque which stands in front of the timepiece has always identified its maker only as "a fine German watchmaker."

Dreger was born in a German village and came to California in 1897, moving to Long Beach seven years later. Shortly thereafter he began building his two-story wood frame apartment house on Anaheim Street where he lived for almost 50 years.

Mrs. Barton says that her father made an earlier version of the big clock, finishing it in time to be exhibited at the 1928 Pacific Southwest Exposition held in Long Beach. As Mrs. Barton remembers it, this smaller timepiece was pendulum driven. But Dreger, anxious to perfect his idea of a multi-faced clock, started on the electric model as soon as the first one was completed—and worked for five years before perfecting his grand work.

Today, thousands of visitors to Knott's Berry Farm have stopped to study the clock's many dials and to compare them with their own watches.

This is Dreger's clock of many faces, soon to receive a plaque with maker's name.

Since the clock was moved to Knott's, one of its most admiring visitors has been Mrs. Lucile Barton, of 1644 Poppy St., Long Beach, who is a daughter of Dreger. Although the clock bears no nameplate recognizing its maker, Walter Knott, owner of the farm, has assured Mrs.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

COZUMEL Island, a drop of an island in the Caribbean, off the east coast of the Yucatan peninsula, was the first place that Cortez landed in Mexico. And until recently hardly anyone else bothered, with the exception of a few people like Jean Lafitte and Henry Morgan.

Like Yucatan, Cozumel is hot and bushy, and not a tropical paradise. But it seems like it. The image is projected more than a little by the most incredibly colored ocean water between here and wherever else you may find it.

As in other places where the ocean abandons bland blue and seasick green in favor of the rainbow, colors mean reefs. Reefs mean shipwrecks, and shipwrecks mean legends of pirate booty and all that jazz. The odd part is that mostly it is true. Many a hulk lies beneath these waters, and many a serious diver has spent many years here, often fruitfully.

But to the esthetic tourist these reefs mean the bluest, greenest, mauvest, and rosiest of waters, an incredible pattern of colors daubed by the day and the light in shifting striations that run from the soft beaches to the horizon. They trick the eye by the hour and by the mile with endless change, and for this sheer novelty, there is likely

JEANNE McREYNOLDS

Appointment of Jeanne Hobgood McReynolds as public relations manager, West Coast at Los Angeles, for Scandinavian Airlines System, is announced. She succeeds Lois Gaines, now public relations director at Property Research.

no place quite so fascinating in the world.

ACCOMMODATIONS still are on the primitive side here. The best promises to be Barbachano's Cozumel Caribe Hotel, a half-opened pseudo-motel where there were still no upstairs railings and we felt sorry for anyone who came home from Dennis' Restaurant with too much tequila under his belt.

Also for anyone who came home from Dennis' with too much Xnipek under his belt. Dennis' is an excellent Yucatan restaurant in the island's only village, San Miguel, and Xnipek is a Mayan hot sauce which makes tabasco seem bland by comparison.

Cozumel has an informal, homey ambience which no doubt will disappear as soon as it becomes more fashionable. Presently, everyone gets acquainted with everyone else, even at neighboring hotels. "Downtown" San Miguel is closed most of the time and grass grows in the streets.

Will you go to Europe this year and make one of these 7 mistakes?

1 GO WITHOUT HOTEL RESERVATIONS?

Every year, thousands arrive in the more popular centers—London, Paris, Rome and Copenhagen, for example—without reservations. If you chance it, too, you'll risk frustration and flat feet finding accommodations.

2 MISS YOUR EXTRA CITIES PRIVILEGES?

The Extra City plan gives you the opportunity of seeing a whole lot of places for the fare to just one. For instance, if you buy an SAS round-trip ticket to Rome, you can drop in on any or all of 19 other cities, and make a grand tour of it without paying a penny extra in fare. You have a wide choice, for SAS serves more cities in Europe than any other transpolar or transatlantic airline.

3 TRY TO SEE AND DO TOO MUCH?

You can fall into this trap very easily, particularly when you start poring over maps which show you how the SAS Extra City plan works. "I wish we had a few more days here" is something almost every American vacationer says at one point or another on his trip. How much should you try to do in two, three, four or five weeks? Read where to find the answer, further on.

4 PASS UP THE GREAT SHOPPING BARGAINS?

You're not sure whether you can bring them home? U.S. customs regulations have changed, but not so drastically as some people seem to think. You are still allowed $100 worth of general purchases duty-free, and since this is based on wholesale values, you can count on up to $125 worth at retail prices. If you wish, you can still bring in a gallon of liquor per person, as part of your total purchases. In addition, you can still mail gift parcels to your friends up to $10 each in value. (And it's still amazing how far your dollars go at the famous Copenhagen Gateway Tax-Free Store.)

5 DO THE SPENDTHRIFT TOUR OF EUROPE?

If you throw caution to the winds, you'll probably have a wonderful time. But don't overlook the possibility of spending comparatively little, and enjoying yourself just as well. There's an ingenious folder called the SAS Travel Planner which shows you at a glance how economical the trip you want can be. And don't forget that the experience of your SAS travel agent can save you money in dozens of ways. It's his business to fit Europe to your budget.

6 LEAVE OUT COPENHAGEN?

Perish the thought! People call it "wonderful, wonderful Copenhagen", "Europe's friendliest city" and "the Paris of the north". Danes retort that Paris is the Copenhagen of the south. Anyway, it's one of the most charming old cities anywhere, with something for everyone. American visitors rave about it. What's more, travel writers (the old hands who've been everywhere, done everything) all say "don't miss it". It's as neat as a pin, with superb restaurants, lively night life and marvelous shopping. Many travelers in the know make it their last stop in Europe, and do all their shopping in Copenhagen's tempting stores.

7 DON'T BOTHER ABOUT A TRAVEL AGENT?

You can do it all yourself. Run around to find out about passports, "shots" and airline reservations. Puzzle out what money you'll need. Write for hotel reservations to places you've never heard of. In a week or two you can have so much paperwork going, you might as well be in the business.

This is the biggest mistake of all. Because if you make your plans with your SAS travel agent, you automatically avoid all the other mistakes. He has all the answers, knows how you can get the biggest value and the most fun for your money.

Here's a suggestion. Mail the coupon and we'll send you a free travel planning kit. With it, you can work out roughly the kind of trip you're interested in. Then take your ideas to your SAS travel agent. He'll look after everything from there on in, and get you off on a wonderful vacation. No mistakes, and nothing to do but enjoy yourself.

"What do the travel ads mean when they say 'see 16 extra cities at no added cost'?"

THE STRUCTURE of airline fares is as complicated as the income tax. Roughly, the airline must drop you in cities they fly over, even if they have to put you on another line.

For example, My round trip ticket, San Francisco to Rome, is $900. I can fly directly there and directly back. Or I can stop at all kinds of places—Rome being the best point to buy your ticket for this.

The ticket is on TWA. I'm flying the polar route to Paris. I want to go to Barcelona but TWA has no stop there. So they write me a ticket on Iberia. From there I go Iberia to Rome. From Rome I can fly to Geneva. To Zurich. To Frankfurt. To Copenhagen. To London. To Shannon. To New York. To Chicago. To Phoenix and Los Angeles.

There are variations of this. You fly on the airline's ticket when they have service between cities. On other lines—on the same ticket—when the original line has no service.

Sometimes you can add a leg for very little. On a round-trip ticket to London last year, I sent my daughter home via Bermuda for an additional $16. Round-the-world passengers going through Bangkok are entitled to fly up to Moscow en route. A good travel agent figures these things out for you.

"I am a 51-year-old woman with a small income, thinking of moving to Mexico. Do you have suggestions? I don't mind a small village. . . ."

THERE'S AN AMERICAN colony at Ajijic, just out of Guadalajara. Another at San Miguel de Allende, near Queretaro. Trouble with small villages is they're not geared to American demands. (The two above are.)

You think of a small village as an American small town. The small Mexican village has no drugstore; no market such as you know—the food is spread on cloths on the street. Housing is pretty primitive.

However, there are fine towns with good climate and cheap prices. People who are living in some of these places are doing it for $200 to $300 for two with good houses.

I would go down—drive your car if you can. Go on a tourist card and try a few towns. Stay in hotels before you decide. Some people take foreign life well. I get homesick after a few months.

"Do you have any ideas for places for retired people in Europe? Cheap enough to live on a small income and warm."

PORTUGAL, south of Lisbon, looked good to me. Warm beach towns with Moorish castles guarding hill and harbor. Houses looked good. I saw one well-furnished with a private beach for $12,000. Probably rents for $100 monthly. Local estimates were $300 a month for two people. For all expenses.

I'd stay within an hour's drive of Lisbon. These country towns are scenic but you want to get into town once in awhile. Again, try a hotel first.

"Is there a way to find out about vacations on ranches or farms?"

Domestic Travel Goes All-Out

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

SOME 98 million Americans will take off on domestic vacations this year, and while away will spend an unprecedented $26 billion—an all-time high in the history of gadding.

The reliable American Express, which announced these figures after a poll of state tourist offices, chambers of commerce, city visitors bureaus and transportation companies, says approximately two-thirds of this spending will come from out-of-state tourists who are venturing farther and farther from home on holiday.

Several factors account for the steadily growing surge (domestic travel climbed from $15 billion in 1956 to $24.9 billion in 1962).

FIRST, OF COURSE, is the desire to see America, followed by freedom to go where one wishes, constantly growing networks of transcontinental highways, hundreds of new motor hotels (many with roof-top pools and other resort luxuries), flexible air, rail and bus package trips, family plan air fares, and finally, the spirit of adventure which is an inherent American characteristic.

While hundreds of parents are traveling overseas to broaden their children's education, hundreds of thousands will roam America to expand their children's knowledge of United States history.

Major tourist objectives, the survey points out, will be the national parks in the West ($8 million visitors in 1962). Foremost in popularity are the national parks in California — Yosemite, Sequoia and others — followed by those in Nevada, Grand Canyon, Colorado, New Mexico and the Pacific Northwest.

POPULAR, TOO, will be the many historic sites and restorations. Such spots as Colonial National Historic Park, Va., Independence Hall, Philadelphia, each chalk up millions of out-of-staters each year.

But the primary reason for vacations, of course, is that Americans are finding such trips a tonic from year-round cares and tensions.

Domestic travel is being pushed by transportation companies. Several airlines, in cooperation with tour operators, sightseeing services and hotels, are intensively promoting domestic tours in the West. Rail tours, both escorted and package, of the West are very popular with family groups, teenagers, teachers, retired people and "Western buffs." The same is true with bus lines. Still another vacation booster is the fly-drive combination.

All this travel has whetted competition for tourism. States will spend $15 million this year in out-of-state advertising and promotion with some budgets increasing as much as 300 per cent.

Meanwhile, new air-conditioned luxury motels are springing up throughout the country. Older hotels, to meet the competition, are face lifting. Off-highway motels are using king-size highway signs to syphon off traffic from freeways and expressways.

These vacations are beginning now, with the closing of school in many localities throughout the country.

HIGHWAYS are becoming more and more complex on this continent. That's why vacationists planning to travel within the United States, Canada and Mexico should take with them the 1963 "Rand McNally Road Atlas," probably the most complete guide of its kind published at any price ($1.95).

The new edition, incorporating 15,000 changes to bring it up-to-date, includes complete information on turnpikes, toll roads and all highways, and 170 large scale city maps to guide drivers in and out of towns. The interstate highway system is shown in its entirety, whether complete, proposed or under construction. Toll roads in yellow, free expressways in green, and the traditional red and blue roads make the large size maps easy to read and understand.

YOUR GARDEN

Lilies Are Old Favorites

By A. C. McLeod

THERE was a time, several centuries ago, when lilies were valued mainly because their bulbs were considered a valuable source for food. Today, of course, they are one of the most spectacular of all garden subjects. One or two plants will highlight your garden in a way not possible with the general run of ornamentals.

The lily has enjoyed a long and interesting history. There are definite records that lilies were known almost 40 centuries ago. The ancient Greeks praised the lily both as a flower and for its medicinal value. Throughout the ages the lily, more than any other plant, has figured largely in painting sculpture and other forms of art. The Easter lily, lilium candidum, is possibly one of the best known flowers in the world.

LILIES are not difficult to grow if certain basic rules are followed. Good drainage is one of the most important. While the plants are known as heavy drinkers, they cannot tolerate having wet feet. Land that has a slight slope usually makes an ideal situation for lilies.

Soils of medium texture will prove satisfactory. A sandy loam enriched with plenty of humus is excellent. A well prepared and deep planting area is recommended. The roots often attain a length of from two to three feet, a factor that provides a clue to the proper environment. Shallow soils cannot support healthy root growth, and this will lead to improper development above the ground. Hardpans lying close to the surface should be broken up and replaced, if necessary, with new topsoil.

Be very careful about using manure, either fresh or decomposed. Peat will take its place and minimize the possibility of burning. In addition, it is felt that manures often lead to the development of basal rot. Lily experts disagree on whether an acid or alkaline soil is best. But this seems to be due, in some part, to the fact that certain varieties have an acid preference, others do not. Generally speaking, the addition of humus aids in building up the right kind of growing medium.

FEEDING lily plants is not much different from other subjects. A well balanced food will be found productive. It is interesting to note, however, that during the early stages nitrogen and phosphorous seem most important; later on the plant apparently requires less of this kind of food but more of potash. At any rate, make certain that all three are applied during the season. A deficiency will dwarf the plant, cause the leaves to drop and discolor the flowers.

Be careful about cutting the blooms. The maturing of the bulb for next season depends on the green leaves and stems. If these members are removed with the flowers, then the bulbs will not mature properly. The bulbs may then require a full year to recover. If possible, when cutting the flowers, leave about from 12 to 18 inches of stem.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Feed fuchsias with liquid fish fertilizer and pinch the new shoots back occasionally to make the plants bushier and full of bloom.

Plant late blooming rhododendrons this month while you can shop for them in bloom.

Newly planted lawns are especially vulnerable to drought. They must always be damp. Water them regularly if you would enjoy their cool companionship this summer.

Plant citrus and other evergreen fruit trees such as avocados this month before the hottest weather sets in.

Buy pots full of your favorite cooking herbs and place them at strategic points—near the kitchen or near the barbecue area.

Seaside Hospital

THE SECOND emergency was World War II in 1941. There were 28,000 men building ships in the harbor, and more room was needed in the hospital. A decision was reached that the nurses' home should be utilized. The auditorium of the home was changed into a ward of 65 beds, and the floor above had a bed capacity of 38, making the total number of beds 495. In addition, many times it became necessary to put beds in the halls.

During the war, the government gave permission to the Medical Department of Civilian Defense to buy equipment for a blood bank for the Seaside Memorial Hospital. This was the second such blood bank in the State of California.

The taxpayers of Long Beach should be proud of the new Seaside Memorial Hospital (which was built by their money), but they can be proud as well of the first and largest hospital in the city built by the planning and effort of a group of men who had to depend upon their own resources, planning, and hard work.

Dr. Sellery, who died in 1944, was a dictatorial individual. Many did not care for him, but he had the vision and confidence to direct the building of the first Seaside Memorial Hospital.

PETUNIAS

No rags to riches story could be more dramatic than the success story of the lowly petunia. A few years ago they were a nondescript, single flower on a rather straggly plant, but they have now been improved and are available at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY in several varieties and range in color from white to dark red and purple.

Petunias are usually considered to be annuals but in So. California they are somewhat perennial. When pinched back they bloom again throughout the summer.

They will do well in any soil either in full sun or in light shade. They need little care other than feeding with Ortho-Gro once a month until the blooming season. The only pest that bothers them is the snail, which can be controlled by the use of Lightning Snail ex. They need frequent watering, especially during the hot weather.

Their cut flowers are different, too, in that they continue to develop blooms after they have been cut and brought into the house.

We have a large selection of these colorful plants at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bellflower Blvd.), in Long Beach, ph. HA 5-1362.

By Joe Littlefield

FOR MORE cut flowers and more color in the garden, a number of perennial plants are of interest.

Gloriosa daisies in single and double form flowers, shades of yellow, and bronze, bloom all summer long. The plants grow to around 18 to 24 inches tall. Plant three of them, at least, and you'll have color and cut flowers to spare.

Tulbaghia violacea, "society garlic" with lavender-blue color, bell-like flowers, provide flowers from May into October. The quarter-inch, green-gray foliage has a strong onion-garlic odor when damp. Young foliage may be chopped fine and added to a salad. The husky 18-inch tall plants add some needed blue

Still Mum Time

May is not too late to plant Chrysanthemums. Nurserymen still have young rooted cuttings in plant bands or pots and these can be started on their way toward fall bloom.

One of the easiest and most satisfactory ways to grow new chrysanthemums, however, is to buy blooming plants from your local C.A.N. nursery and enjoy their bloom until it fades. When this happens, simply set the plants out in the garden, cut them back to about six inches and they will form new tops which can be grown for a second bloom in fall.

In the Interests of More Color

flower color in the sunny flower bed.

Hybrid gazanias with single daisy-like flowers from white, pink, shades of orange, yellows, to deep mahogany tones, flower throughout most of the year any day there's lots of sun. The blossoms close at night, do not make good cut flowers. Keep plants on dry side, be stingy with fertilizer, and the plants will flower abundantly.

REMONTANT IRIS, "tear-peat bloomers," flower twice a year in spring and late fall. Some blossom several times a year. There are about 14 varieties of remount iris.

Two most dependable winter blooming perennials are saxifrage and helleborus the lenten rose.

Saxifrage with leaves like water lilies and clusters of cup-shaped pink flowers add a bright touch of winter color in the shade garden or even in sun in milder areas. Overall height of the plants is about a foot. They are good edging plants along a flower bed, walk, or patio and do well in pots, too.

LENTEN ROSE, with single anemone-like flowers in colors of white, pink and shades of rose to deep purplish tones, tolerate lots of cold, but don't like much sun. Plant them where they'll get about an hour of early morning, or late afternoon sun. They'll stand filtered shade and sun off and on throughout the day.

They need a prepared soil, such as pre-moistened peat moss, leaf mold, or compost soil, two parts of it with three parts of soil dug out to make holes for the plants.

Water them as you would azaleas during the summer, feed them about four times, and you'll have mature plants that provide continual new crops of flowers for four months, usually starting to bloom in late December.

JIM HAMMOND
Toys for Youngsters

WOULD YOU like to see your child jump around as happily as a kangaroo who's just been named king of Australia?

Simply announce that you're taking him to dinner at Clifton's Cafeteria, a giant, palace-like structure at 5006 Pepperwood Ave., Lakewood
Center. Manager Jim Hammond and his large staff are child-lovers who give the youngsters bonuses with their
"treasure tray" dinners. The bonuses include candy and small toys chosen from pirate treasure chests. The treasure trays, for children under 12, are 39 cents and 59 cents on Sunday.

Clifton's is equally generous toward adults. Its deluxe dinner, served Sundays from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., offers a great spread of items for $1.77, complete. Among the entrees are baked ham, chicken, pot roast of beef, roast turkey with cranberry sauce and sea foods. Included is a choice of one of 50 beautiful, delicious salads; whipped potatoes, vegetable of the day, bread or roll and butter, dessert from 30 selections and beverage. Second and third coffee refills are served at the tables by gracious waitresses.
Prime rib au jus, tender and appealing, is 30 cents extra on that big dinner; for 10 cents extra you can enjoy rich strawberry shortcake.

The deluxe dinner is so popular—and served so efficiently—that the cafeteria was thronged last Mother's Day with 3,400 patrons. Throughout the week, other interesting values are offered, including a number of $1 dinners,
with entrees changed daily.
Among them are chopped
steak au jus, pork cutlet and baked ham. On Saturdays the feature is fried half-chicken,
$1.20, with salad, potatoes,
roll and beverage.

MAE CLARKE, A GRAPEFRUIT AND JAMES CAGNEY

Wants to Forget Grapefruit Scene

By VERNON SCOTT
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Remember Mae Clarke?

She is the pretty blonde who was belted in the kisser by a half of grapefruit at the hands of Jimmy Cagney back in 1931 for a picture titled "Public Enemy."

Well, Mae can be seen almost daily in a new daytime television series playing a nurse. But there was a time when Mae's name in Hollywood was almost synonymous with grapefruit.

Things like that happen to people in movietown—even with the great ones. Clark Gable will always be remembered for taking off his shirt in "It Happened One Night" to reveal a bare chest and no undershirt.

George Raft will forever be recalled flipping a 50 cent piece, and Bette Davis can hardly escape being associated with the nervous tapping of a cigarette all the while crying, "Petah!"

and the camaraderie of the crew.

AFTER HER famous grapefruit scene she went on to appear in 80 movies and has some 36 television shows to her credit. But had she known what a furor the grapefruit would cause, Miss Clarke would have skipped "Public Enemy" altogether.

"I hated that scene," she said, reaching back more than 30 years in her memory.

"The grapefruit in the face was dreamed up on the spot. It wasn't even in the script."

WELL, WITH Mae Clarke it's grapefruit.

Mae, who happily admits to being in her 53rd year, denies that she has suffered a trauma about grapefruit, although there is evidence to the contrary.

She has become an excellent painter and one of her works is a still-life including seven different varieties of fruit with one glaring omission—a certain spheroid citrus fruit, yellow in color and larger than an orange. You with it?

"Just the same, I enjoy grapefruit on the breakfast table," said Miss Clarke, a slender, sprightly little actress who chatters about almost any subject without restraint.

As a nurse in ABC-TV's "General Hospital," she is delighted with the steady work

MAE CLARKE
 No Grapefruit

In those days it was fun to put together little gags strictly for projection-room laughs.

"I never believed for a minute it would be kept in the film."

"When the picture was released women's clubs all over the country objected to a female being treated like that on the screen. It was so shocking that audiences forgot that they were seeing something else for the first time on the screen."

"It showed an unmarried girl (me) having breakfast with a man in his pajamas (Cagney). That was the real shocker. Nowadays a situation like that on the screen is almost commonplace."

Miss Clarke would like to forget the entire episode and have people remember instead that during World War II she was a nurse's aide, and thus eminently qualified for her role in "General Hospital."

No 'Tonight' Jitters for Johnny Carson

May 26, 1963

JOHNNY CARSON had to re-schedule his "Tonight" show so Ida Lupino (left) and Zsa Zsa Gabor wouldn't be on together. The pair of actresses aren't speaking to each other. Johnny, who would have been caught between, didn't want anyone to be at a loss for words.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Johnny Carson, the nice guy who replaced Jack (The Weeper) Paar on the "Tonight" show, brought his troupe to movietown for a few weeks to give and take with the stars.

Bob Hope, (11:15 p.m. Wednesday, Channel 4), Milton Berle, Kirk Douglas, Edie Adams and Marion Brando were among his scheduled guests.

Carson himself had a long fling at Hollywood with little success before flying off to New York and stardom. This is perhaps the only thing he has in common with his two predecessors on the show, Paar and Steve Allen.

They, too, bombed the tinsel town before hitting it large in Big Town-on-the-Hudson.

But that is where most similarities end. Carson's ego is miniscule compared with Paar's and his intellect and proclivity for causes falls somewhat short of Allen's.

STILL, Johnny has racked up higher ratings than either. After eight months on his late-night show, Carson has not fallen victim to the jitters that finally caused both Allen and Paar to flee the man-killing show.

"I enjoy the program," Johnny said over a platter of bacon-and-eggs. "I try not to let the pressure build up by taking a week off every two or three months."

"If you have a bad night on the air you just have to forget about it because you can't go back and do anything to improve it."

"The law of averages is what saves you. Some of the shows are good and some are bad. You just hope for the best and take each day as it comes."

SOME days are worse than others. For instance, Johnny recently arranged to have Zsa Zsa Gabor and Ida Lupino on the same show, only to discover the girls weren't on speaking terms. He had to separate their appearances to eliminate the possibility of a chance meeting backstage as well as on camera.

Granny Clampett Likes Being Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Old Granny Clampett polished off a noonday martini and allowed as how "The Beverly Hillbillies" beats mule-skinning as a way of making a living.

Granny, of course, is Irene Ryan, an actress some 100 years younger than the role she plays in the popular television series. A nominee for an Emmy, she will also serve as a trophy presenter during tonight's ceremonies.

The hillbilly show lifted Irene, a San Francisco girl, from hard-working but obscure character actress to the dazzling heights of stardom on the country's top-rated series.

"A year ago I was a sad gal," Irene admitted.

"I couldn't get a guest shot downs in Hollywood for years. The secret to finally getting to the top is that an actor has to be 'of' show business, not just 'in' it."

Now what in the devil did she mean by that?

"The difference is this: When your luck is down and work is hard to find you've gotta go along with it. Stay in there. Keep trying. That's being 'of' show biz. The people who get discouraged and take other jobs are just 'in' it. Well, I'm 'of' it."

NEW VISTAS have opened to the diminutive actress, best known in the past for her quivering-lipped portrayal of terrified little maids, nurses and secretaries.

This summer, while the show takes a vacation, Irene will make personal appearances that will bring her more money than she is paid for co-starring on the CBS-TV smash hit.

Such places as Tulsa, Baton Rouge and Battle Creek are in for visits from Granny. Some of her appearances will be with Max Baer Jr. and Donna Douglas, who play the slightly demented young folk in the series.

Pan and Fan Mail

It was wonderful, magnificent, stupendous!

And two hours of it, uninterrupted with NO commercials!

I'm talking about "That Midnight Kiss" Sunday evening on channel 11.

Please pass the word on to Riviera and ask them to please, please, please do it again.

I mean the two hours of NO commercials.

Mrs. Frances J. Heath, Wilmington

If there were no commercials, how did you know Riviera sponsored the movie?

In the newspaper recently there was a picture of Richard Egan saying someone called him their "dreamboat."

I think he is the greatest and "dreamboat" is a good title for him.

I have a dozen pictures of him.

I saw "A Summer Place" four times just to watch that dreamboat act.

I will be watching "Empire" re-runs and waiting for "Redigo" to begin.

Vera Olson, Long Beach
Just keep dreaming, Vera, and someday your boat may come in.

What happened to Dorothy Gardiner's show on channel 5?

Mrs. William Powder, Long Beach

After 15 years of working for the station, channel 5 found its new format didn't leave room for Dorothy.

Could you tell me the address of the Steve Allen Television Playhouse? How can we get tickets to see his show? What is Johnny's last name—the gentleman who helps Steve put his clothes on, carries the mike around, etc.?

Nydia Hatch, Lakewood

La Mirada Ave. and Vine St., Hollywood 28. Write the "Ticket Department," in care of the playhouse. Johnny-on-the-spot Jacobs.

Could you please give me the birth dates of Dick Chamberlain and Vince Edwards?

Theresa De Mello, Artesia

Dr. Kildare was born March 31 and he's 28 years old. Ben Casey was born July 26 and he's 34 years old, although I've noticed in some fan-magazine stories that he's getting younger lately.

CAROL LAWRENCE sings on "The Garry Moore Show" at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

I am not sure what makes a professional television viewer. But I suppose it's getting paid to watch TV. Since, in a sense, I am financially compensated for doing what I would be doing for free anyway, I feel a certain obligation.

It is an obligation which I face with hesitancy, although I have met it in the past with a certain amount of modest success.

It is the obligation of predicting the Emmy winners. How the predictions tally with the results can be checked out by you when the Emmy Awards show airs at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4.

There is one major element that the amateur and the professional television viewer have in common in predicting Emmy winners.

Neither has seen all of the nominated performances. It is a condition, I'm sure, which mutually applies to the 6,000 members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

It is they who vote the winners.

BASED ON MY EXPERIENCE, I would guess that most of the TV Academy members probably watch less television than you and I.

By the time most of them have finished their day's work on their own productions, they've had enough TV without dashing home to turn on their sets.

In addition, most of them are early-to-bedders because they have to beat the rooster up for the next morning's call back to work.

In actual practice, my predictions or your predictions or the TV Academy member's vote must be based on what we've seen.

Thus invoking the "unseen" limitation, I hereby submit my Emmy choices:

Best series actress—Lucille Ball.

Best series actor—Dick Van Dyke.

Best actress in a single performance—Kim Stanley for her role in the "Ben Casey" series as a narcotic-addicted lawyer.

Best actor in a single performance—Joseph Schildkraut for his portrayal of a rabbi in the "Sam Benedict" series.

Best supporting actress—Glenda Farrell for her role as a suffering mother in the "Ben Casey" series.

Best supporting actor—Tim Conway for his portrayal of Ensign Parker in "McHales Navy."

Best single program of the year—"The Tunnel," a documentary on Berlin.

Best humor program—"The Beverly Hillbillies."

Best dramatic series—"The Defenders."

Best musical program—"The Lively Ones."

Best variety show—"Carol (Burnett) and Co."

Best documentary—"The Tunnel."

Best musical-variety performance—Carol Burnett.

Best children's program—"Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color."

Best public affairs program—"CBS Reports."

ARMY UNITS LEAVING ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Troops brought to Maxwell Air Force base two weeks ago for possible use during the Birmingham racial disturbance began pulling out Saturday for Ft. Bragg, N. C.

A base spokesman said the troops would go by motor convoy to Ft. Benning, Ga., and then fly directly to Ft. Bragg. At Washington, a spokesman for the Department of Defense said a rifle company and a military police unit, totaling approximately 600 men, were involved.

THE SPOKESMAN said the other troops which had been sent to Ft. McClellan, Ala., are not being removed. On May 12 President Kennedy ordered Army troops trained in riot control to move into Maxwell AFB and Ft. McClellan after a night of rioting in racially tense Birmingham. The troops were not ordered into the city.

Kennedy said he had ordered the troops to nearby

Alabama bases in event local law enforcement officials were unable to cope with the situation.

A week ago Alabama Gov. George Wallace asked the U.S. Supreme Court to declare the President's move invalid on grounds that the governor had not requested any federal troops to deal with the situation.

AT THE TIME of the original troop movements, Pentagon officials said approximately 3,000 men were involved.

The Pentagon on May 13 disclosed that the units moved to Maxwell Air Force Base were elements of the 503rd Military Police Battalion and one company from the 1st Battle Group, 325th Infantry, 82nd Airborne Division, both from Ft. Bragg.

They were flown to Maxwell, about 60 miles south-east of Birmingham.

A brigade of the 2nd

Infantry Division was moved by truck from Ft. McClellan, which is about 50 miles east of Birmingham.

A spokesman at Maxwell said some of the troops left Saturday in 75 support vehicles, including trucks, jeeps and ambulances, and others were flown out.

Ft. McClellan, where the bulk of the troops are still based, is about 119 miles from Tuscaloosa, home of the University of Alabama.

Two Negroes are scheduled to be enrolled at the university June 10. One will enter at Tuscaloosa and the other at a branch in Huntsville.

30 African Lands Link for Liberty

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI)—A new organization linking 30 independent African nations was born here Saturday night in a ceremony climaxing the largest gathering of heads of state ever held. The 30 African countries contain 200 million persons.

The heads of state signed a charter for an organization of African unity to replace rival blocs within the continent.

Jail Mom as Beaten Tot Dies

A Dairyland woman, Evelyn Evon Bush, 20, of 2971 Crescent, was booked late Saturday by Orange County Sheriff's detectives on suspicion of murdering her two-year-old daughter Linda.

Detectives O. W. Waite and H. L. Mitchell said the 20-year-old mother of three confessed striking her daughter at 11 a.m. Saturday because "she was playing in the flour bin."

Officers said the mother ran out into the street at 1:30 p.m. and stopped a passing motorist saying that her daughter had stopped breathing.

The motorist took the mother and child to the Crescent fire station where resuscitator action was applied. The child was transported to Lincoln Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

An autopsy by the Orange County Coroner placed the cause of death as hematoma due to severe brain damage caused by a blow on the head. Numerous bruises and a broken arm were also revealed by the medical examination.

Sheriff's investigators said the woman, estranged from her husband, has two other children, a 3-year-old boy and 7-month-old baby.

The charter was designed to weld a new force dedicated to economic development of Africa and to total liberation from colonial rule.

Signing of the charter, expected eventually to turn Africa into the largest neutralist bloc in the world, represented a victory for Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who worked for a year to bring it about.

IT ALSO signified the determination of Africa's newly independent states to wrest remaining African territories from colonial or minority white control.

The chiefs of state, weary from their long meeting here, began signing the historic document at 5:38 p.m.

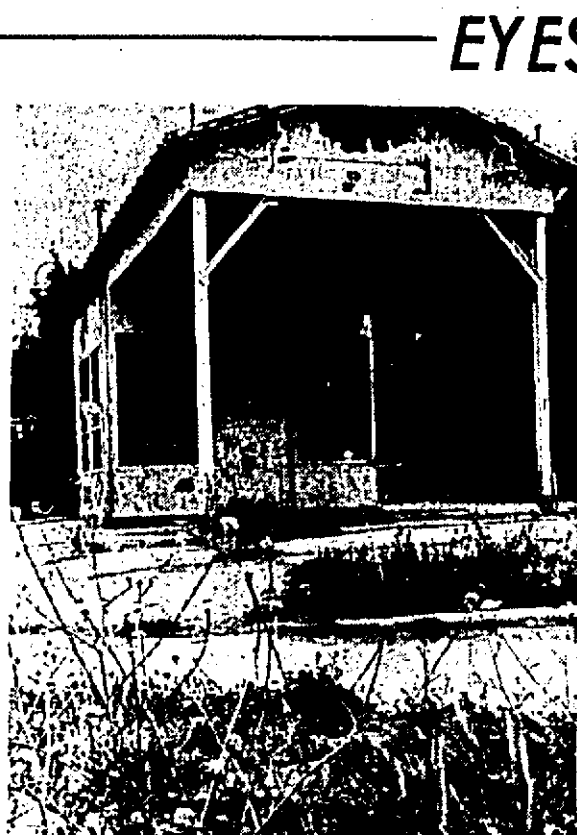

Premier Ahmed ben Bella was the first to sign as the conference chamber burst into loud applause. The other heads of state followed him in alphabetical order in groups of four.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic was the last to put his signature to the charter. Neither Morocco nor Burundi signed.

SPECTATORS applauded every head of state as he took his turn in jam-packed Africa Hall, a modernistic rotunda building built by the United Nations.

The ceremonies climaxed 11 days of work by about 400 delegates that began with a conference of foreign ministers on May 15.

For millions of Africans, it was as important a meeting as the signing of the U. N. Charter in San Francisco in 1946.

NOBODY CARES and everybody suffers when an eyesore like this abandoned service station rots away in a neighborhood.

RUNAWAY WEEDS hanging over the curb in Long Beach are an example of the kind of neglect that fights against a "city beautiful" image.

Citizens Blast Litter in L.B.

By MARY ELLIS

— Long Beach is long on beaches, but short on beauty.

That's the consensus voiced by 208 militant readers who responded to the I. P. T.'s recent "Will You Help Beautify the City?" questionnaire.

The nine-point questionnaire was run in cooperation with the civic beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce petticoat division, which Friday launched a sweeping campaign to "clean-up, paint-up, fix-up" Long Beach.

And if written response is any indication, they'll have plenty of support at the grass roots.

A resounding 68 percent who returned questionnaires answered "no" to the query: "Does Long Beach meet your qualifications for a beautiful city?"

Sixty-one included letters to say why. Their biggest gripes: untended vacant lots; litter in streets, on sidewalks and in beach areas.

Of six beauty problems listed (most people checked more than one), the above complaint was in the forefront with 116 votes.

Next, with 92 votes, came individual owners' lack of pride in appearance of their properties.

Also cited were unrestricted use of signs and billboards, unsightly commercial and industrial areas, also inadequate city planning in regard to zoning and building restrictions.

More than half who answered the poll believed tougher, more strictly enforced antilitter laws would have the greatest effect in attaining a more beautiful Long Beach. Next: beautification of the beach areas.

They voted, 161 strong, for beautification of downtown Long Beach. The

Peace Corpsman, 26, 'Buys' African Bride

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—American Peace Corps volunteer Dan Carmody of Orange, Calif., handed over 25 pounds ($70) to his future father-in-law Saturday and became officially engaged to a Ghanaian girl.

In a traditional betrothal ceremony, Carmody also presented his bride-to-be, 23-year-old Grace Abenaa Oparehea Dei, with a ring and a Bible.

The couple plan to marry in July when the Ghanaian school at which Carmody teaches science begins the summer vacation.

The 26-year-old American, of 1520 W. Almond Ave., will be the first Peace Corps volunteer to marry a Ghanaian girl.

Carmody requested that no news pictures be taken of the betrothal ceremony.

In Orange, Carmody's mother, Mrs. Fritz Carmody, declined comment on her son's engagement.

"I don't want to give out any information," said Mrs. Carmody.

REPUBLICANS REPORT:

Brown Curses Own Party's Foes of Tax

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An assembly Republican leader accused Gov. Brown Saturday of cursing Democratic legislative leaders in an angry outburst in his office.

The charge was made before a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee by Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland. Mulford is assembly Republican caucus leader.

Mulford described a desk-pounding scene in which he said the governor's language was "disgraceful."

Mulford said the outburst was made Friday when he and Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, GOP minority leader, were summoned to the governor's office. Conrad confirmed Mulford's statement.

Mulford said they were discussing the Republican caucus agreement to stall the governor's budget until his proposed personal income-withholding tax system is killed.

CONFLAGRATION POTENTIAL HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Southland Facing Worst Forest Fire Season

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Southland's forest-fire hazard this year will be the greatest in history. Outdoor Editor Donnell Culpepper has made a lengthy study of the situation. This is the first of several articles on the subject which will appear periodically.)

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
I. P. T. Outdoor Editor

With spring's first big holiday (Memorial Day) slated for this week, it is well to call to the attention of all outdoor lovers:

CONFLAGRATION POTENTIAL!

Watch that discarded and burning cigarette! Watch a match that hasn't been stamped out! Watch those youngsters who want to play with matches, fires, or even firecrackers if they can find them! Watch out for anything that is burning! If you see a fire don't take it for granted that somebody already has reported it; report it yourself.

Already Southern California's green countryside is starting to turn brown. State politicians and representatives of chambers of commerce glamorize "brown" by calling it "golden."

But golden or brown, that dry grass is a threat to California this year such as we never have known before.

The March and April rains painted the entire state a bright green and most of us marvelled at our beautiful California.

But that's exactly where the trouble will originate. When that grass turns brown, a tiny flame can set off brush fires so violent that one would think the ground was covered with jet-aircraft fuel.

James K. Mace, Deputy State Forester for the California Division of Forestry, says:

"Once such grasses are ignited, fire will rapidly spread in wildland brush areas and it is estimated that an average 50-acre brush fire can release the same energy as a 20-kiloton atomic bomb."

You possibly are wondering why such a situation confronts California when so many late rains fell. Then read this special report from the Pacific Southwest Forest and Range Experimental Station at Berkeley:

"Conflagration potential this summer may be 6 to 100 times greater than in the drought years of the 1930s. Developments contributing to this conflagration potential are (1) past years of drought conditions; (2) dead fuels in wildland areas, and (3) people.

"California's population is growing by at least 1,600 persons per day and that means an increased use of our recreational wildland areas where conflagration potential is now threatening."

The dead fuels referred to in the above quotation mean all of that dead brush which has developed in the past several drought years.

There is a definite distinction between the United States Forest Service and the California Division of Forestry, which is a part of the Department of Conservation.

Even so, the two services, plus fire departments of

Do You Pay Taxes? Fires Cost Money

FORESTRY BUDGET $22 MILLION

counties such as Los Angeles, work in close cooperation.

The USFS has its own fire-control department to fight fires in the national forests, while the CDF adhere mostly to fires on private lands.

Such a setup presents a pleasant picture, but man has caused many complications. A national forest isn't just one great acreage of government-controlled land. There are miners, settlers, claim-holders and other private individuals who have changed a national forest into a crazy-quilt pattern of private and government property.

Perhaps a private piece of land is surrounded by a national forest. It is then that the USFS and the CDF have to decide which service will battle a fire.

There are times when all services have to unite to fight fires. Great blazes can be that serious. There are other times when the USFS hires the CDF to fight a fire because its men can get there sooner. The reverse also is true.

There is no breakdown on what California taxpayers paid for the services of the USFS last year, but it is costing Californians $22 million per year to maintain the Division of Forestry. And the CDF, like other state governmental agencies, says it needs even more money.

The CDF reports that statewide there were 3,023 forest and brush fires in California last year, causing an estimated damage of $1,550,000. Burned-over areas totalled 92,702 acres. Bear in mind that those figures have nothing to do with national forests.

In addition, the CDF says that there were 1,914 fires which were classified as "nonforest," meaning buildings, vehicles and the like.

Switching to Angeles National Forest in Los Angeles County, we find 90 fires that burned over 10,000 acres. Only one of those blazes was caused by lightning; humans started the other 89.

That's about par for the course, too, because the average for many years in and out of the forests has been nine out of 10 caused by humans.

Smoking, incendiarism and children playing with matches were the primary causes of all fires in Angeles National Forest in 1962.

The year also brought to an end the five-year "firebugging" of an individual in Angeles. Fortunately he is behind bars.

The Southland's main problem, as well as that for the rest of the state, is people. We who have lived in our forests and in brush country for many years have become educated to the fact that there is such danger.

But what about those

1,600 who are coming across the border daily to make this state their home? Perhaps they came from an area where they also knew the danger of brush and forest fires; perhaps not. And there are those who never learn.

Possibly they came from cities where flipping a match or cigarette out of a car window meant nothing.

The CDF is heading up a tremendous public relations program in an effort to show all citizens, particularly children in schools, what the forest-fire potential is in California.

THE CDF has set up seven conservation camps and one training center in San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and San Diego Counties in an effort to prevent fires from spreading.

The workers in those camps are volunteers from the Chino State Prison and there will be a peak number of 520 when the 1963 fire season gets into full sway. The men are carefully screened and have proved to be good workers.

Their jobs consist of fire control, construction of firebreaks (hazard reduction, it's called), insect control, nursery for trees, public campgrounds and stream improvement.

They put in 5½ million man-hours of work in 1961.

Fire Chief Keith E. Klinger, of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, just about sums it all up this way:

REMEMBER, ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FIRES!

France Will Join NATO A-Force

WASHINGTON, May 11 — French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville was understood to have assured President Kennedy Sunday that the De Gaulle government aims at eventual coordination of its independent nuclear force with other nuclear forces in the Atlantic Alliance.

This means, as the French have previously indicated, that President Charles de Gaulle is keeping the door open to nuclear cooperation and hopes to narrow the split in NATO that has grown out of his decision to build an independent nuclear force for France.

Couve de Murville and Kennedy conferred at the White House for 70 minutes at midday. Later, Couve de Murville and other French officials lunched with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and a party of State Department officials aboard the Navy cabin cruiser Patrick J.

IN THEIR wide-ranging discussion, Kennedy and Couve de Murville took up the possibility that Communist China will develop nuclear weapons, a prospect which would require a shift in the West's security arrangements.

Couve de Murville, informants said, told Kennedy that France regards the dispute over its insistence on its own nuclear force as the most important disagreement it has with the United States so far as NATO problems are concerned.

But he was reported to have made clear that in the French view this problem should be settled within the framework of the alliance, a principle leading to ultimate integration of French nuclear strategy with that of the other powers in NATO.

U.S. OFFICIALS found this to be encouraging evidence that in spite of the wide break, De Gaulle wants to limit the damage to the alliance and keep the disagreements under careful control.

Kennedy was reported to have expressed to Couve de

Murville his admiration for the way in which the De Gaulle government has been able to expand its industrial production without bringing on serious inflation in France.

This led to a discussion of the U.S. balance of payments problems, Kennedy told the foreign minister that the United States is still deeply concerned about the excess of its dollar expenditures abroad over its dollar income.

will extend it southerly to 160th Street in Dairy Valley and provide a 2.4-mile link between Katella Avenue and the San Diego Freeway in Orange County.

Newport Freeway — A 6½-mile section was completed last year, joining the Santa Ana and Riverside freeways in Orange County. Construction is to start soon on a two-mile section south of Santa Ana Freeway.

Harbor Freeway — Now open for 22 miles between the four-level interchange at Los Angeles Civic center and Battery Street in San Pedro as result of a four-mile section between 205th Street and Pacific Coast Highway which was completed last October.

Vincent Thomas Bridge— This $21-million toll bridge between San Pedro and Terminal Island is to open in the autumn, and will replace a ferry service.

Los Angeles Loop—A 23-mile freeway loop, opened in 1962, skirts downtown Los Angeles. It involves portions of the Golden State and Santa Monica freeways and includes the Los Angeles interchange. It reduces congestion on the four-level interchange of the Harbor, Pasadena, Hollywood and Santa Ana freeways.

Womack credits the present 372-mile freeway system in the three counties of Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura for a $12-million reduction in accident costs and a $221-million saving in time. His estimate was that 5.8 billion miles were logged over the three-county Southland freeway system.

The state's highway engineer took an optimistic view on future congestion in spite of an expected California population increase of 30 million persons in the next 17 years. Traffic congestion will be less in 1980, he said.

California has made some of its most dramatic gains in highway mobility in the past year, he added. He also reported that the state now has adopted routes on 53 percent of its projected 12,400-mile, freeway-expressway system.

Victim of Hiccups Finds People 'Good'

"People are wonderful, and I don't know how to express my gratitude," said Robert Velkov, 25, of Artesia, whose attack of hiccups is now in its 11th day.

Many visitors have come to his home at 12029 E. 169th St., and he has had hundreds of letters, telephone calls and telegrams.

"I used to take a dim view of human beings. I thought the world was dog-eat-dog. Until this happened, I never realized how good people are," he said.

OFFICIALS WARN

Numerous County 'Special Interests' in Tax Break Try

More than $100 million in assessed valuation would be cut from Los Angeles County's tax rolls next year if "special interest" legislation now pending in the State Legislature is passed.

If this should happen, the burden would fall on other taxpayers.

This warning was sounded last week by both Supervisor Kenneth Hahn and County Assessor Philip F. Watson.

Hahn asserted the special-interest bills are "chipping away at the tax base—with a sledgehammer."

Bills pending would provide tax exemptions for such industries as motion pictures, shipbuilding, fish canneries, lumber, yachts, rubber, hemp, private airports and oil and petroleum products, he said.

Hahn admitted that "each of these special interests has merit in its claims."

They argue that a tax break for them will create more jobs and stimulate trade for California. I won't dispute that.

Muslims' Jurors Resting

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An all-Caucasian jury, deliberating the fate of 14 members of the Black Muslim cult accused of assault in a riot against police, Saturday was locked up for the weekend.

Superior Court Judge David Coleman ordered the panel of 10 women and two men to return to an undisclosed downtown hotel and to return to court Monday to resume deliberations. The jurors began weighing the case earlier Saturday.

AUTHORITIES maintained a tight secrecy over the activities of the panel. They would not give the name of the hotel and would say only the jurors would "take a bus ride" today.

Judge Coleman instructed the panel and formally placed the case in its hands Friday. Then the panel was locked up in the hotel for the night.

In the street riot last April 27 outside a Muslim temple here, one sect member was shot and killed, six more were wounded and seven policemen were injured. The melee began when two officers started to question two Negroes about a load of clothing in their parked car.

THIRTEEN of the cultists face felony assault charges. The 14th, John Morris, a Black Muslim minister, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Calvin X, the No. 2 Black Muslim official in the nation, was in the courtroom Friday when the jury received the case.

NEW DISTRICTS FOR SUPERVISORS

New boundaries for the 1st, 2nd and 4th Supervisorial Districts, effective next month are outlined above. Dash-dot lines show the old districts; the lighter dotted lines show the way boundaries have been changed to make population distribution more nearly equal. Additional changes now are being proposed.

Cities Split in Redistricting Oppose County Board's Action

L. P. T. Los Angeles Bureau

Latest proposed revisions of Los Angeles County's five supervisorial districts, to make them more nearly even in population distribution, have drawn considerable opposition.

Last Tuesday, Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli proposed that additional portions of his district—largest of the five—be split off and given to Supervisors Ernest E. Debs and Warren M. Dorn.

BONELLI suggested that all territory north of Foothill Boulevard in the Sierra Madre-to-Glendale area be transferred to Dorn's district. Territory west of Garfield Avenue in Alhambra and Monterey Park was proposed for transfer to Debs.

These transfers, however, would involve splitting about 12 cities between two supervisorial districts, and spokesmen in the cities last week voiced opposition to such moves.

In Long Beach, portions of the city east of Cherry Ave. and north of Pacific Coast Highway are represented by Bonelli. Signal Hill and the rest of Long Beach are represented by Supervisor Burton W. Chace.

LONG BEACH officials, however, approve the two-supervisor representation because of the city's size.

The original changes ordered May 14 become effective in 30 days. Supervisors may make any additional changes until Oct. 6. The law provides such realignment must be made within one year after a general election. Because the ordinance takes 30 days to become effective, this would make Oct. 6 the deadline to make the changes legal by Nov. 6.

N.Y. Neo-Nazi Group Mobbed

NEW YORK (AP)—An angry crowd pelted speakers at a neo-Nazi rally with fists, eggs and tomatoes Saturday in the Yorkville section of Manhattan.

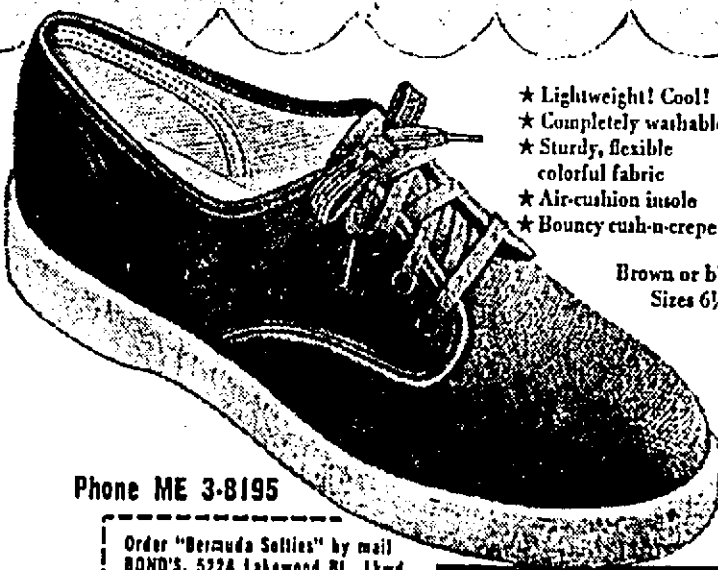

The speakers' platform was knocked over in the clash. A surging throng of about 4,000 spectators also felled police barricades in the melee.

Men dressed in brown uniforms resembling those of stormtroopers wielded flagstaffs like clubs in their efforts to repel jeering on-lookers. More than 60 policemen broke up the melee.

Episcopal Chief in Bias Fight Call

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Episcopalians to do three things: 1. "Actively support" efforts in every community, "North and South," to eliminate racial barriers in housing, employment, public accommodations and schools.

2. "Give money" to Negro organizations fighting for racial justice. "The struggle of Negro Americans for their rights is costly," he said, "and they need help."

3. Take immediate steps in every Episcopal diocese and parish to eliminate the "intolerable scandal" of "discrimination within the body of the church itself."

He said that many church-related schools and other institutions "have a considerable distance to go in bringing their practices up to the standard" of racial inclusiveness set by the church.

In this connection, he called attention to the recent action of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, D.C., which served notice that it will withdraw both moral and financial support from any church-related agency or institution which fails to eliminate segregation within the next six months.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Brown Rallies Demos for 1964

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's Democratic leaders sounded the call to the party rank and file Saturday to get going on plans for the 1964 election campaign.

Gov. Brown tabbed President Kennedy as a commanding favorite over any possible opponent to carry the big state he lost in 1960. But he said Democrats can't afford to coast.

"Let's get to work," he told the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee. "It's time to show solidarity behind the President," agreed Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, a Democratic national committeeman.

THE COMMITTEE solidly backed Kennedy and Brown in a series of resolutions capping its unruffled one-day meeting.

The committee urged Democratic majorities in both houses to support two of Gov. Brown's most controversial proposals—a fair housing act and withholding tax. It also endorsed his bills for a new $150 million beaches and parks bond issue and regulation of installment buying.

N.Y. Times Chief Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Orvil E. Dryfoos, president and publisher of the New York Times, died Saturday in Columbia Presbyterian medical center of a heart attack following a brief illness. He was 50.

He entered the hospital for rest and treatment for heart strain on April 15, less than three weeks after the end of the city's three-month newspaper strike.

His health became impaired during strenuous activity brought on by the dispute.

The Times' staff dropped from 5,000 to 900 during the strike and Dryfoos and his advisers mobilized the 900 to keep the paper's Western and European editions and its news services in operation.

In Washington, President Kennedy said that in the death of Dryfoos, "American journalism has lost one of its most distinguished figures."

Blasts Rip Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—A thunderous explosion blew a hole in the Louisiana Capitol's lawn near Sen. Huey P. Long's grave Saturday and a second blast shook the Louisiana State University campus.

Some LSU students thought the 63,000-seat football stadium had been blown up. There were no reports of injuries in either explosion and there was no damage at LSU.

But the explosion at the Capitol broke at least 40 windows, including some 26 stories up, and a big window in the basement press room. It also cracked windows in nearby apartments, and broke at least one apartment window.

Negroes Give City Respite

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Negro students called a temporary halt to their anti-segregation demonstrations Saturday night, giving civic officials the weekend to work out a solution to the city's racial crisis.

Bill Thomas, 20-year-old sociology student who has led 14 consecutive nights of demonstrations, announced that protest marches have been suspended until 4 p.m. today. He said this would give Mayor David Schenck and businessmen time to work on the problem.

Everest Yanks Struggle Down

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—Two Americans with frost-bitten feet began painfully edging their way down Mt. Everest Saturday night when pilots said they were too high to reach by helicopter, it was reported here.

The two men, William Unsöld and Barry C. Bishop, whose feet became frostbitten during an unprecedented twin assault on the world's highest peak, were reported working their way toward some stone huts at 16,000 feet. The huts house local tribesmen who pasture their yaks there in midsummer.

Quakes Rock Denver Area

DENVER (AP)—The Denver area was shaken Saturday by the most violent earth tremor ever recorded here. There were, however, no reports of property damage or of anyone injured. The tremor was logged at 3:44 a.m. MST at Regis College Seismologic Observatory.

The tremor, one of about 300 felt in the last year, was centered at Derby, north of Denver.

Plane Glides Safely Through Underpass

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A pilot after 3 p.m. on a pleasure flight steered his faltering private plane to a safe landing through an underpass amid heavy traffic on Shirley Highway Saturday.

The single-engine craft flown by Richard Overton Spencer of Arlington, glided down neatly between speeding cars in the northbound lane of the highway, swept under Route 7 and rolled to a stop among dumfounded motorists.

THE PILOT refused to answer any questions by reporters.

Virginia State Police reported that Spencer took off alone from a local airport about half a mile away shortly after 3 p.m. on a pleasure flight. The pilot told police that as the light plane labored toward cruising altitude its engine began to lose power.

SPENCER banked to return to the field but then realized he was losing altitude too rapidly to reach it. So he set his sights on Shirley Highway, a divided four-lane highway which is the main route between Washington and Richmond.

State police said a driver of a car spotted what was above him and slowed down in time to give the plane a little room.

After the plane rolled 300 feet to a stop it was towed off the highway.

China Expert K's Top Man

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—The lanky, unsmiling figure most frequently seen at Premier Khrushchev's elbow these days is the Kremlin's little-known "Red Professor," Mikhail Andreyevich Suslov.

The dour Marxist theoretician, now 61, appears to have moved quietly into Soviet hierarchy's No. 2 power seat vacated by ailing Frol R. Kozlov.

Suslov has taken over many of Kozlov's duties as Khrushchev's overseer of the massive Party apparatus. He faces one of the toughest assignments of the Kremlin's docket—handling negotiations starting July 5 with the Communist Chinese.

SUSLOV has been Khrushchev's key adviser in the four-year-old ideological struggle with Peking's leaders. He is generally credited with mapping much of the Soviet's day-to-day strategy.

Ironically, he is regarded as the most doctrinate of the Party leaders and was thought to be sympathetically inclined toward Chinese views. He once was described by Western Kremlinologists as a fanatic Stalinist.

Some observers here believe Moscow's restraint and stubbornly conciliatory attitude in the face of vitriolic Chinese and Albanian attacks is largely due to Suslov's influence.

SUSLOV flew to Peking in 1959 to placate Peking's leaders who were fuming over Khrushchev's good will tour of the United States.

The Soviet leader himself showed up a few days later, straight from Washington, to answer the Chinese criticism of his talks with President Eisenhower.

Although Suslov appeared somewhat less enthusiastic than Khrushchev about the possibilities for relaxing East-West tensions by diplomacy at the Summit, he firmly backed his chief's rejection of the Chinese protests.

Since that time, Khrushchev

HEALTH CHIEF REPORTS

Birthrate in L.B. Lowest in Decade

By GEORGE WEEKS

Long Beach's birthrate, continuing a gradual decline, has reached the lowest figure within the last decade.

The 1962 rate was 25.3 per 1,000 population, compared with 26.2 in 1961 and 34.6 in 1952. Highest rate within 10 years was 36.6 in 1953.

But the death rate also is continuing to edge downward. It was 8.3 per 1,000 population in 1962, against 8.4 in 1961 and 9.3 in 1952. Only once in 10 years has there been a lower death rate than last year's. That was the 1955 rate of 8.2.

The figures are revealed in the annual report of the Municipal Health Department, just issued by Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer.

The 18-page summary shows progress in some respects and continuing problems in others, Dr. Litwack noted.

AMONG THE HIGH points on the bright side: Mass use of Sabin oral vaccine has eliminated paralytic polio as a public health threat.

Most diseases for which preventive measures are available continued to decrease or have disappeared. Again in 1962 there were no reported cases of typhoid, smallpox, diphtheria or tetanus.

Environmental control measures have eliminated food-borne outbreaks from Long Beach.

Measles, epidemic in 1961, decreased to a few cases in 1962.

There has not been a case of animal rabies in Long Beach since 1956.

A new activity launched during the year, the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, attracted wide community support. Of 216 applicants, 160 were accepted for treatment. Length of time in treatment ranged from less than one month to nine months.

ON THE UNFAVORABLE side: The 210 infant deaths produced a rate of 23.4 per 1,000 live births, an increase over the 1961 rate of 21. The Health Department, in conjunction with community groups, is investigating the causes.

Suicide was again one of the 10 leading causes of death—65 during the year. The department hopes ultimately to establish a suicide-prevention service similar to the one in Los Angeles.

Veneral disease continued to increase. The 890 reported cases were a rise of 44.7 per cent over the 1961 record.

MRS. BETSY TAUBMAN

Active Lady Leader Is Fair Booster

One of the community's most effective women leaders, Mrs. George "Betsy" Taubman, is urging adoption of Proposition "A" at the June 4 election for the California World's Fair at Long Beach in 1967-68. Mrs. Taubman says the Fair will be of outstanding benefit to the city, area and the State.

"The excellent publicity to our community and the State of California from the Fair, the anticipated millions of people who will come here, and the beautiful, permanent buildings can be of great value to our city," said Mrs. Taubman.

Diamond Jubilee Book to Be Published in August

Plans for publication of a book marking the growth and development of Long Beach, the International City, were announced Saturday by Al Epley's editorial committee.

Code, president of Long Beach Diamond Jubilee Inc. "Long Beach's 75 Years—Highlights and Anecdotes," is scheduled to go on sale in August.

Malcolm Epley, Independent Press-Telegram executive editor and chairman of the Jubilee's historical division, will edit the book. Serving on Epley's editorial committee are Jess Holton, Joseph Daley, Don Kracke, Dr. Raymond Lindgren, Robert Ellis, Harry Fulton and Bill Boyd.

Tentative plans call for 75 pictures, each representing a significant event, development or a portrait of the city, to be included in the book.

Residents with information on Long Beach history and tradition are invited to furnish the material to the Jubilee editorial committee which has offices at 130 Pine.

RINGS AGAIN Clock Silenced; Just Too Quiet

PORTSOY, Scotland (AP)—After being silenced for a month, the 70-year-old town clock has started ringing again.

It was hushed because tourists complained it interfered with their sleep, chiming every quarter hour.

When the clock had been silent for almost a month of nights, 1,720 residents—just about the entire population of Portsoy—signed a petition and sent it to the council. They said they'd become so accustomed to the clock's chiming that they couldn't sleep because of the silence.

K'S Bellicose Talk Hints Kremlin Spilt

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, L.P.T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's strong and belligerent support of Cuba's Fidel Castro in Moscow last Thursday was taken here in Washington as further evidence that Khrushchev is hardening his foreign-policy line.

The Russian leader warned that United States interference in the affairs of Cuba could result in a situation which would be far more difficult than that which faced the world in October, 1962, during the missile-base crisis.

While Khrushchev's speech was obviously a reflection of his more blustery moods, it emphasized again that Khrushchev, at least in public, is talking less and less about "peaceful coexistence" and more and more about the clash between capitalism and communism.

That Khrushchev is under irresistible pressure from the Red Chinese and from unnamed but nonetheless powerful forces within the Kremlin itself is clear. The sweetness and light with which Khrushchev once depicted the future relations of the West and East have completely disappeared. He had not so long ago publicly expressed his belief that the contest between the two systems could be waged without war and would be decided in the economic sphere. He was confident that in such a contest communism would bury capitalism. His more recent speeches, however, sound considerably more bellicose. They have tended to emphasize the physical struggle of communism versus capitalism and to play down the possibility that the two systems can exist side by side.

At the same time, Khrushchev made it clear that he wasn't backing down completely from his relatively mild stand. He declared he wasn't going to be part of the "delirious war talk," a phrase again quite obviously designed for Chinese ears. Khrushchev has named a delegation, headed by Suslov, to proceed to China where meetings will be held to try to iron out the differences in ideological thinking which are wracking the Communist world.

Khrushchev appears to be fundamentally in the position of a man who is clinging desperately to his own beliefs, but is being pushed somewhat away from them. Who or what is doing the pushing does not appear too clearly to the Russian experts here in Washington. To some degree, the Red Chinese are influencing his public utterances. They have reopened the aggressive nature of their Communist theories in Laos

Asks Britons to Mend Ways

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Philip, noting reports that Britons are "malicious and intolerant" toward foreigners, said they should mend their ways.

"The general attitude of ordinary people to foreigners is very important," Queen Elizabeth's husband told The Travel and Holidays Association. "Let us make an effort to give every visitor a genuinely friendly welcome."

Ministry Aid Named

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Henry Hardman, 38, permanent secretary to the aviation ministry, will take over as civil service chief at the air ministry this fall when Sir Robert Scott retires.

majority indicated this should be accomplished by rebuilding of rundown shopping areas; addition of parkways, flower-garden areas, fountains and benches; also by modernization of old buildings.

And who should take responsibility for cleaning up Long Beach?

Mrs. Earl Marks Jr., city-beautification-committee member who evaluated results of the poll summed it up this way:

"Most people responding indicated that the responsibility of maintaining property in a clean, litter-free manner rests with the owner, whether it is a vacant lot or building, a commercial business or a private residence.

"Respondents felt that any campaign should be in the direction of demanding that the individual owners comply."

She said the recurrent theme throughout was a feeling that Long Beach is dirty—that cleanliness is the first step to beauty.

IN APPENDED comments and accompanying letters, Long Beach residents scored many areas of the city. Most often attacked were the Pike, auditorium and rundown residential areas.

A quote from one letter: "People going to our beautiful new arena should see shrubs and flowers instead of cans, paper and parking lots."

About Long Beach Boulevard: "Its rails, broken-up cement and holes are among Long Beach's worst eyesores."

One writer had this concrete suggestion: "I would build islands in the center of Long Beach Boulevard from Ocean to Willow and plant palm trees. Yes, palm trees! This is Southern California. Too many cities, including Long Beach, are becoming asphalt jungles."

Other suggestions: "Why not screen oil-drilling ugliness with trees and shrubs?" "Why doesn't someone do something about Marine Stadium? It should be one of our beauty spots; instead it's a disgrace."

Also: "Let's clean up the Pike, Disneyland-style" and "please count my vote for trees, trees and more trees."

ALONG WITH a series of suggested improvements for the downtown and the ocean-bluff areas, a 36-year resident points out: "Cities and businesses are like men, they either go forward or backward. Let's go forward!"

Writes another: "For too long we have been expending our efforts trying to bring businesses and tourists to Long Beach, with no concern about how it will look to them when they get here.

"If this were a beautiful city, it would advertise itself."

STILL another comment: "We have natural surroundings for a clean, bright and lovely city—but carelessness has created ugly spots."

And from Don Foltz, administrative assistant to State Senator Thomas M. Rees: "As a life-long resident of Long Beach, I share your interest in trying to make Long Beach a more beautiful city."

"In light of the World's Fair coming to our city in a few years, we have no time to lose on many of the projects included in your poll."

MEANWHILE, the C of C city beautification committee, with Mrs. George H. Taubman Jr. as chairman, is waging war against weeds, chipped paint, litter, decadent buildings and anything unsightly in their annual "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week," May 24-31.

Also cooperating are the Long Beach city schools, Long Beach State College, the Long Beach Board of Realtors (with its "Build Long Beach Better" contest) and many other civic groups.

EIGHTY-FIVE trees will be planted on Ocean Boulevard as the final project of the Los Angeles County tree-planting campaign. As another phase of the program, beautification awards will be presented in several nonresidential categories.

Mrs. Lloyd P. Mallin is vice chairman of the civic beautification committee.

Chairmen of subcommittees are Mrs. Francis Merchant, Mrs. Jack Grisham, Mrs. Francis Heusel, Mrs. Gustaf Erickson, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. Earl Marks Jr. and Mrs. Dorothy Annis.

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese girl was so fascinated by the American motion picture "West Side Story" that she saw it 50 times during its 511-day run at the Piccadilly Theater.

The management estimated she spent 40,000 yen ($110) for tickets, nearly always for the same reserved seat.

Russ Civilians Leaving Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Several hundred Russian men, women and children left Havana Saturday on the Soviet passenger line Maria Ulianova, apparently bound for home.

Most of the men appeared to be middle-aged, possibly technicians or advisers to the Castro government.

Their departure was the first known exodus of Russians from Havana by sea in two months, when several hundred young Russians described as military equipment instructors left aboard the same ship.

Professor of Law Italy's New Chief

ROME (AP)—Christian Democrat leader Aldo Moro emerged Saturday from behind the scenes of Italian politics and formally was designated Italy's next premier.

He said he will try to form a center-left government faithful to the Atlantic Alliance.

Until a general election last month upset the Italian political scene, Moro was the Christian Democrats' "Mr. Inside" while Premier Amintore Fanfani was their "Mr. Outside."

THE ELECTION tarnished Fanfani's image and President Antonio Segni turned to Moro, a soft-spoken, 46-year-old Bari law professor who had been largely instrumental in forging the center-left coalition that Fanfani headed. It was a coalition of their Christian Democratic Party and the Republican and Democratic Socialist parties.

The Marxist Socialist Party of Pietro Nenni provided indirect support in parliament. Minutes after receiving the mandate from Segni, Moro said he will try to base his government on the same par- ties, which control about 60 per cent of the votes in parliament.

His STATEMENT was vague concerning the Marxist Socialists. He said simply that they should be part of his majority. But he did not say whether they should have cabinet posts.

NO BOOM IN THIS BUSINESS

Passing Ammunition Tough Job

By WILLIAM JONES
Capt. Warren C. Hall Jr. is a naval officer with a billion-dollar problem on his lap.

As commander of the Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach, the World War II submariner has two major worries on his mind:

1. The command of 670 civilians and 300 military personnel at the station.

2. Administration of the 5,000-acre installation which supplies the Pacific Fleet with everything from 2-penny bullets to a $250,000 missile.

Real estate agents appraise the property at more than $1 billion. The government has poured $40 million into the station since it acquired it in 1944. The annual payroll is $5 million.

The executive officer, Lt. Cmdr. Daniel J. Diana, adds emphasis: "There is $200 million worth of ammunition stored here."

THE "AMMO" is stored in mounds of earth and concrete in such a manner that a singular explosion would not endanger the second ammunition magazine or nearby communities.

Surrounding the magazine is a belt of farm land which adds extra protection because they provide a fire barrier with the green vegetation and, in addition, return rent money to the federal government.

One major problem: Land developers who lick their lips at the property bordering the sea.

Capt. Hall does not waste words with this problem. "They want the land. They see us as a wasteland."

In defense, he points out that the station is a vital ammunition supply center. Its 1,000-foot dock can accommodate two destroyers.

BUT WHAT the public sees while traveling Highway 101 is the surplus farm land and the stacks of 1,000-pound net buoys neatly arranged along the highway.

The row of these gigantic "ball bearings" results because the Navy has found no suitable buyer. Scrap-iron men disdain them because the cost of moving the bulky—yet empty—centered—steel balls would eliminate a profit.

The Navy doesn't want them because the theory of submarine nets guarding a harbor entrance has been displaced by the offshore submarine which can rocket a missile from far off shore.

At Seal Beach, the average loading is a ship a day. An average destroyer takes aboard 172 tons of ammunition, which it maintains about two years during peacetime.

However, after practice runs, a Pacific Fleet ship will put into the weapons station here for more ammo. The station, also, will inspect and rework the rest of the ship's arsenal.

AVAILABLE for carting the shells and missiles to the ships at water's edge are two railroad engines and 120 train cars.

From the water's edge, the ammo can be transported to such large ships as aircraft carriers aboard one of the 24 barges at the station. Over all, the private railroad system spans 60 miles.

Capt. Hall emphasizes the safety factor. "I feel more in danger on the freeway, than here," he says. "We know the problem here, so we're careful. On the freeway, the other driver might hit you."

As if proving safety amid the ammunition mounds, he added:

"My family and I live on this ground, you know."

CIVILIAN CHEMIST Henry Seaman sets up extractor to separate an explosive into ingredients for test in station laboratory.

BLOCKS PLACED atop 5-inch illuminating projectiles secure them to platform for removal from warehouse to waiting ship.

Beach Combing

CREDIT L.B. municipal publicist Harry Fulton with one of the week's amusingest wisecracks.

As you may know, plans for offshore oil drilling in front of central L.B. call for some palm-studded islands in the roadstead for drill-sites. And you may have noticed that oil millionaire Ed Pauley has been trying to keep an influential paw on the development scheme, obviously hoping to participate in the big black gold project.

So Fulton, at a Sacramento bullfest, came up with a proposed name for the islands: Pauleynesia.

INCIDENTALLY, one of the funny things about all this pillorying of L.B. at Sacramento as an oil developer is that nobody seems to give a thought to other tideland-owning cities that have never done a thing about their oil potential.

Los Angeles, with a tideland field right next door estimated to have a billion or so barrels of oil, hasn't touched it except for a few wells.

Santa Monica, if I recall correctly, had a tideland oil proposal before it a while back and bluntly said nothing doing.

L.B. is the only city that has gone ahead with enterprise and vision in this field. As a result of its efforts the state, without turning a finger, has reaped a windfall of around $200 million.

Other cities have tideland grants exactly like the one at Long Beach and the state's interest is just the same.

Yet they go along doing nothing and get no lip from anybody. It seems to be something that has escaped the attention of the watchdogs at Sacramento.

SOME politicians are just Johnny-on-the-spot.

Take Councilman Bert Bond, for instance. He happened to be right close by when an odd accident occurred at Sixth and Pine in downtown Long Beach, knocking down and injuring an elderly lady.

When our photogs ran over there, who should be giving aid and comfort to the victim but Bert Bond. Subsequently, a newspaper appeared, of course showing the Councilman in action.

It was wholly coincidental, of course, that this all occurred in the middle of a campaign, but no candidate could hope to have a better public exposure. I might add that Mr. Bond didn't even know the picture was taken until it appeared in print. His good Samaritanism was wholly spontaneous and worthy.

NOTE to railroad buffs: The last steam railroad in the Far West, the tiny Roaring Camp and Big Trees Narrow Gauge Railroad at Felton, is expanding service.

A while back the little line started passenger trains on a weekend schedule to accommodate people who wanted to ride behind the last steam locomotive in regular service on a western railroad. Response has been so favorable that seven-day service is to be started on May 30.

The locomotive is an 1895 Shay and the passenger cars were built in the 'eighties.

The RC&BTNGR is sometimes dubbed the nation's most backward railroad, and its officials brag about that. Felton is 70 miles south of San Francisco and this line should not be confused with the "Skunk" train that runs between Willets and Fort Bragg, described at some length here a year or two ago. It is a diesel operation.

Luncheon Lauds LB Little Theater

Little theater in Long Beach drew plaudits from Lyle Talbot, movie, television and stage actor, speaking at the second annual Drama Day luncheon Saturday at Long Beach State College.

The Council of Living Theater, organization of Long Beach theater groups which sponsors the event, presented its annual merit award for outstanding service to George Eres, who writes the Living Theater column in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

WINNER of the award last year was Dr. David Sievers, professor of drama at State College, COLT president.

Eres, a veteran of 25 years in the newspaper business, was assistant city editor of the Independent for many years and later was elevated to a position with the Sunday Independent, Press-Telegram, which he retains in addition to writing his column.

Talbot who has appeared in numerous plays in Long Beach at Magnolia Theater paid tribute to actors he worked with here.

"THE THEATER in Long Beach is far enough away from Hollywood to be free of its influence and close enough for actors from Hollywood to appear here in a play in which they want to act.

"It is close enough for agents and casting directors to come here and see performers and they have found many fine actors in Long Beach."

He said the stage in Long Beach is "not amateur—it is non-professional" and that more people should be aware of the high calibre of performance and shows produced here.

THE DAY-LONG conference, presided over by Dr. Sievers, covered various phases of the theater at the morning session when a panel discussed the "Image and Impact of the Living Theater on Our Community."

Speakers included Kathy Davis, Herman Goodman, Marilouise Kreidler and James Brittain.

The afternoon session was devoted to production of three prize-winning plays in the COLT-sponsored playwright contest.

MRS. HERMAN Ridder and actress Rosemary DeCamp presented awards to winners. First prizes $50 Savings Bonds and plaques were presented to Fred C. Wunderlich, Alicia Smith and Etta Weeks.

A Victory for Education

IMPLEMENTING STATE legislation enacted in 1961, the California State Board of Education has just put into effect a set of regulations which may prove to be exactly what Board President Thomas W. Bragden calls them: "the greatest single advance California has ever made toward quality education."

The new regulations will require future teachers in this state to concentrate on subject matter in their training rather than on the courses in professional education. Majors and minors in "education"—that is, courses in how-to-teach—will no longer be acceptable. The prospective teacher will have to obtain his main credits in the academic subject he intends to teach.

THE SIGNS of relief from thousands of frustrated young people in the state colleges are almost audible at this distance. For the universal complaint of teacher trainees is: "They waste so much of my time on useless, theoretical 'education' courses that I don't really have a chance to study the subject I'm going to teach."

With the establishment of the new standards for teacher education California arrives at a point toward which it has been working since the end of World War Two when the emphasis in the state colleges was on teacher training.

In the post-war years, the scope of the state colleges widened until they were no longer looked upon as teacher training institutes or "normal schools" but as liberal arts colleges. Despite the liberalization of the colleges, the stress on "education" courses for students planning to become teachers continued. Finally, however, public and educators themselves began to realize that this policy wasted a great deal of time while reducing the effectiveness of potentially good teachers. A public outcry produced legislative changes and the new rules which have now been approved by the Board of Education.

MANY PROFESSIONAL educators are happy to see the change. Some of the less flexible, however, will hunt ways to preserve the old pattern and the empire of jargon they have built. Thus, the State Board of Education must watch closely for attempts to evade and compromise the new policy.

Meanwhile, California has established a principle whose adoption throughout the nation could exert a strongly beneficial influence on American education.

South Gave JFK Warm Reception

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy's recent trip to the South—to Nashville, Tenn., and Muscle Shoals and Huntsville in Alabama—proved enlightening to the Alabama congressional delegation. It had been displaying some signs of restlessness and rebellion as a result of the mild display of federal muscle in regard to the Birmingham racial struggle.

But the spontaneous and surprising reception received by the President at all of his stops did not go unnoticed by the Alabama delegation, nor by Democratic Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

If the Southern audiences were warm to the President, their congressmen were positively hot. So anxious were they to seem to be in close association with Kennedy, in fact, that the governor was put in the role of a wallflower, a bit of casting he obviously resented.

Witnesses said Wallace seemed lonely in his spot on the speakers platforms and gazed over the audiences in search of friends to wave to. He found few.

Although the trip had been planned long before the trouble began in Birmingham, it has served to swing most of the Alabama delegation back into line in what is amounting to a steady closing of ranks, a necessity these days with the Republican campaigning to create a two-party system in the South.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS raised eyebrows this past week when the state of Pennsylvania placed advertisements in several national magazines soliciting more business for the state.

What caught the eye of the politically-oriented was the fact that the ads featured a photograph of handsome, Republican Gov. William Scranton and were signed in his handwriting "Bill Scranton."

Scranton is considered a dark-horse for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, his biggest handicap being that he is little known throughout the country. The advertisements were construed therefore (rightly or wrongly) as a means of getting Scranton's face and name before the American reading public.

HARRY TRUMAN used to say of American politics, "If you can't stand the heat get out of the kitchen." In Arab politics, this motto could be "If you can't stand the heat get out of the desert." Here's what his political enemies in Jordan are saying over clandestine radio stations about King Hussein, "You, O hireling, are a king without a kingdom, although you still have a throne and a crown. Tomorrow when you begin stinking and when you become unbearable, your masters will replace you with others... may you go to Hell, O Hussein."

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY, an evangelistic speaker, recently gave the Washington press corps a demonstration of his forensic ability. Capsule comment: He's the Billy Graham of politics.

Rockefeller-Goldwater Pact Startling but Makes Sense

I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — It seems strange to contemplate anything as seemingly incongruous as a Goldwater-Rockefeller alliance as a factor in the 1964 Republican convention, but it is being considered seriously here as a fait accompli, which is a toney way of saying the boys have gotten their heads together.

Possibly this information could cause some consternation, if not outright horror out on the prairies and on the West Coast, where the supporters of Rockefeller view Goldwater as a fascist and where Rockefeller, in turn, is regarded as an ultra-tastically rich, this last being an element in the individualistic approach they adopt from time to time.

And as long ago as December, 1960, Goldwater told this writer that he felt quite comfortable being in the same political party as Rockefeller and, moreover, thought they were not too far apart on basic philosophy.

This was before writers here began noting a "new," more conservative Rockefeller, and seems to have been an accurate appraisal. The two men have a mutual respect and friendship. Both regard the Eisenhower years with something less than enthusiasm. And both seem to be at war against the so-called Republican presidential party, an establishment which comes to life every four years to nominate a Republican of dubious political bloodlines.

But to pursue the alliance theory, one must go further than mutual antipathies and friendship and recognize the complete political professionalism of both. They are regulars in a party whose boundaries, or wings are quite narrow in comparison with the Democratic Party.

And while Goldwater clearly is to the right of center and Rockefeller possibly to the left, neither is on the edge. Compare the situation, if you will, to a party which seems to be able to contain both a Paul Douglas and a James O. Eastland.

There are, of course, wide areas of disagreement on specifics between Rockefeller and Goldwater, but while the one would protect civil rights by one method and the other by another, both would agree on the same basic philosophy. Both support Republican candidates, which is something many in the party have not yet picked up from the Democratic side.

What is the alliance for? Clearly, neither would agree to form a ticket together, but a theory that it amounts to a movement to stop Romney (and the establishment) is quite plausible. And such an alliance could more than likely dominate the convention, a most important step, beyond which neither has wished to advance at this time, there being quite a strong body of opinion which holds that whoever the candidate is he will be a sacrificial offering.

Pope John Helped Rescue Jews

WASHINGTON — One reason so many prayers have been offered for Pope John in non-Christian as well as in the non-Catholic world is a chapter in his life which many Catholics may not know about, when he helped rescue several thousand Jews from Nazi persecution in Hungary.

PEARSON

The Pope was then Cardinal Roncalli, apostolic delegate in Istanbul, and the story of the Jewish rescue is told by Ira Hirschmann, then working for the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, in his recent book, "Cautions to the Winds."

Adolf Eichmann had moved into Hungary and started the mass murder of the Jewish people. And knowing the influence of the Catholic church in Hungary, Hirschmann, with Gilbert Simond, went to see Cardinal Roncalli in Istanbul. Here is how Hirschmann describes his visit with the benign man who later was to inspire both the Christian and non-Christian world:

"... Our host turned to a small cupboard from which he took a bottle of red wine. After admiring its color, he poured out three glasses and insisted on drinking to our health. Anxious about my mission, I discreetly tried to introduce the reason for my visit. But Roncalli brushed me aside, saying, 'That will come later. First we must enjoy the view, the conversation and the wine.'"

"His personality was so radiant and his conviviality so genuine that for the moment I let the purpose of my presence escape me. ... Roncalli listened intently as I outlined the desperate plight of the Jews in Hungary. I cited the meager statistics available to me and the many eyewitness accounts of underground operations. As I emphasized each salient point, he nodded sympathetically. Then he pulled his chair up closer and quietly asked, 'Do you have any contact with people in Hungary who will cooperate?'

"After my affirmative reply, he hesitated a few moments before asking, 'Do you think the Jews there would be willing to undergo baptism ceremonies?'

"He went on to say that he had reason to believe that some baptismal certificates had already been issued by nuns to Hungarian Jews. The Nazis had recognized these as credentials and had permitted their holders to leave the country. 'We agreed that we would communicate with his representatives in Hungary and that I would get in touch with our underground connections to arrange for either large-scale baptism of

Barry Cheered but Some of the Girls Still Apprehensive

Arizonans who think there are not enough Barry Goldwaters did their best last year to curb the shortage by legislation. Arizona Gov. Paul Fannin says the new law would permit Barry to run in 1964 for both the presidential nomination and for reelection to the U.S. Senate.

Fannin adds quickly that Sen. Goldwater says he will not take advantage of this license. But Arizona Republicans have a fly-by-wire back-up system for Barry's re-entry problem in the Senate if their favorite son should lose the GOP presidential nomination.

The system, Fannin confirms, is to run a stand-in—friendly to Goldwater—for Senate while Barry makes the presidential try. If he fails to get the presidential nomination, Barry would be appointed to the Senate as his stand-in stepped aside.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall might jump into the Arizona U.S. Senate contest against such a stand-in but, Gov. Fannin thinks, Udall would not run against Goldwater himself.

These considerations, all academic if Barry resists pressures toward the presidency and sticks to his Senate race, are properly raised in Fannin's view because he expects the senator to change his mind and announce for the presidential nomination in eight or nine months.

GOV. FANNIN was guest speaker of a $100 GOP grass roots dinner last Wednesday in the Hollywood Palladium. In speech and press conference he proved his allegiance to Goldwater. An otherwise dispirited audience of about 700 was galvanized to cheers also—but only—by mention of Goldwater's name.

The head table had no GOP elected officials on hand, a condition which makes a fund-raising event almost more "grass roots" in character than it needs to be to whet partisan appetites or to stir them to a party charge. The head table, dinner vice chairmen and dinner committee did represent the broadest political spectrum from liberal to moderate to Birch Society.

THIS BREAD breaking among party wingers presents a facade of felicity which is not yet the fact party leaders hope it will become by campaign time.

There was a good illustration of the party's distance yet to travel toward harmony in an almost unbelievable challenge to Goldwater's conservative credentials, a challenge which originated in a Long Beach Republican Women's organization.

The challenge was not thrown openly. But one of the women passed on to me the apprehensions of certain members of the Long Beach group over whether Goldwater might be soft on urban renewal and metropolitan government—a pair of bete noirs of the far right.

THE QUESTION becomes: Whom can the conservatives trust, if not Goldwater? The GOP ladies then unburdened themselves of another chip on their shoulders. They had just learned that one of Los Angeles County's Republican congressmen had told one of the gals back in Washington, "You ladies are too far to the right."

Police Need More Support

EDITOR: One has to feel sorry for those people who cry about police brutality. They are the same ones who knock old people down and rob them. We need to give the police more support to handle these characters.

Cuba and South Neglected Ills

EDITOR: I was glad to see your item recently regarding the trouble down South. I, for one, think it is terrible how the colored people are treated. They are United States citizens and have as much right to a job, good home and schools as the white trash who are causing all the trouble. Their children are no better than the colored ones and have as much right to an education as the rest of them. Seems to me the state should provide homes, schools and recreation for the colored race and let them have some comforts.

And what a disgrace for this country to allow police dogs and fire hose to scatter and abuse the colored people. Suppose they didn't have a permit to march down the street. What harm did they do?

It's about time someone in Washington does something about helping the colored people in the South. And what are they doing about Cuba? Just nothing.

Reds Hit Our Weakest Link

EDITOR: A few months ago I had the privilege of talking to a man who had put in 16 months in a Communist prison. One thing he made clear to me was that we should have no fear of bombardment from Russia. They want to take us, but they best way to take us is to stir trouble within, and the best way for them to reach that goal is to start on our weakest link, and it seems to me they have a good start.

I read in a recent paper of the Negroes trying to gain admission to a theater in South Carolina; also a cafe. Some were arrested and jailed. I would be willing to wager any Communist spy could have purchased a ticket to the theater, or purchased a meal in said cafe with no questions asked. Yet natural born citizens are turned away.

What has come over our people? Our fathers stole this land from the Indians, then put it under law of the people for the people and by the people. Now it seems a few hard heads want to ignore those same laws and weaken the strength of these United States and render us vulnerable to communism.

God, Not Man, Gives Freedom

EDITOR: Today, there is much emphasis on civil rights, but very little is said about civic responsibility. However, this is typical of the times we are living in when the "rights" of the masses take priority over the freedom of the individual to work out his own destiny.

Fortunately, there are those stalwarts in any minority group — and in the majority, for that matter — who are their own men and reject the proffered hand of the vote-seeking politician and the hypocritical do-gooder.

There is no man alive whose freedom is given to him by other than God, and the man who recognizes this truth is eternally free from every type of enslavement including that which is imposed upon the ignorant by the demagogue on the political rostrum.

As a corollary to this freedom, the Christian religion extols the dignity of the individual—yet imposes upon each one the responsibility of obtaining his own salvation. There is not a single nation, race or religious group on the face of the earth that has not produced a number of shining examples of those who have risen seemingly insurmountable obstacles because of faith and trust in a Divine power that has been with them on the quest upward.

The rest—those who dwell in self-pity, blaming their plight on society—dwell forever in their own despair, or discover their man-granted benefits to be as short-lived as the flowers in the fields; here for a season, and then gone.

Languages in the News

By Charles F. Smith and Robert Simpson-Davis

The recent fighting on the Plaine des Jarres ("Plain of the Jars," because of the many burial jars found there, and pronounced, in French, Plaine des Jarrs, with the

"J" pronounced like the "s" in "pleasure") has brought up the possibility of additional American troops being sent to Thailand and, perhaps, to Laos.

The Thai language (formerly called Siamese) and Lao are related and fairly similar. Here are some simple expressions in the Thai and Lao languages:

Thai	Lao

Cacophonies at Ojai Irk Lovers of Music

By RACHEL MORTON

OJAI — Saturday morning's concert of Ojai Music Festival in Nordhoff Auditorium began with a Sonata for Violin and Cello by Ravel, played by two excellent musicians, Stanley Plummer, violin and Howard Colf, cello.

Six songs by Anton Webern were a series of strange vocal emissions fortunately sung by a very fine high soprano, Grace-Lynne Martin, accompanied by an instrumental ensemble of four, violin, cello, clarinet and bass clarinet.

A NUMBER called "Con Buen Ayre," for flute and guitar by Gunther Becker sounded like the raucous mating calls of jungle birds, in three interminable movements.

Grace Lynne Martin's beautiful voice and expert musicianship was utterly wasted in six songs from the Chinese by Benjamin Britten in the thin accompaniment of the guitar played by Theodore Norman.

"Characters for Piano Solo" by Pousseur, played by Leonard Stein was mishapen, musically abortive and affrontively offensive in extreme atonality.

WITH AN electric metronome on the piano to keep music, presumably played in their within bounds, two the hall room. So much as pianists, Leonard Stein and Sanford Schonbach, violist, played Mozart's "Symphonie Concertante" with beautiful tonal color and fine vitality. Their duo playing was a perfect blending of two kindred spirits in music.

FOR THE opening number, Soss dissected the orchestra to suit his strange whims. On opposite sides, under the trees, sat a bass viol player and a violinist who scraped away unintelligibly in a strange arrangement by Soss of Mozart's "Don Giovanni." They would have been much more effective on the stage with the one other bass player.

The unmasking scene in the opera is to the accompaniment of off-stage dance none on the piano to keep music, presumably played in their within bounds, two the hall room. So much as pianists, Leonard Stein and Sanford Schonbach, violist, played Mozart's "Symphonie Concertante" with beautiful tonal color and fine vitality.

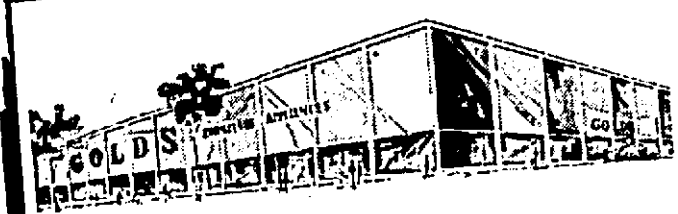

With a violinist in an al-Labor) which should better, and a trumpet player in the been called "Mass among the trees, the muted Slaughter."

Although he was in damn-ery performance of Charles Ing company, "Johanna's Lives" "Unanswered Question." Brahms brought us back to The aimless ambly of the normalcy and a desire to live music seemed to ask the un-again with his "Trio for answered question "Is this Piano, Cello and Clarinet" in Music?" —By Rachel Morton

Cooper Flight Shows Man, Not Robot, Must Whip Space

By United Press International

A number of European newspapers said editorially last week the way U. S. astronaut L. Gordon Cooper brought down his spaceship manually proved the American belief that man rather than robots must conquer space.

Morgenpost of West Berlin said, "It was a model example to refute the theory that man has become a slave of technology. . . . It was proof of the correctness of the American belief that man cannot conquer space with robots."

"Even scientists of the 20th Century have not yet found a substitute for man," said the Kronen Zeitung in Austria.

THE AUSTRIAN Die Press said the flight "showed in a world of automation, electronics and robots that man is ultimately indispensable."

The Daily Telegraph of London commented: "Thus he (Cooper) demonstrated that after a day and a half under the strange conditions of weightless revolution at all but incredible velocity . . . a trained man remained absolute master of body, mind and apparatus. . . . There is no substitute for experiment of the ability of the human frame to bear the strain."

"Cooper and his fellow astronauts have proved that the capitalist West . . . can youthfully reach for the stars and at the same time has enough safety pins," commented the Austrian Tiroler Tageszeitung. "Only it does not need them as directly as the Soviets because a Western worker can afford a new suit despite outer space successes."

THE SWEDISH newspaper Aftonbladet said Americans privately question the value of the space race, but don't hesitate to spend billions on it.

"Questioning or criticism of the efforts to be first on the moon is regarded as unpatriotic in the States," it said. "That is the reason why the otherwise so economic Congress is silent."

The Spanish newspaper Arriba called Cooper's flight "a success in the full meaning of the word."

"The accomplishment was complete, resounding, magnificent," it said.

But Arriba, under the headline "A Black Man's Life Is a Black Life," criticized the racial situation in the United States.

"Human beings . . . once again find themselves confused, and with good reason, indignant in the face of the spectacle occurring in the country which is looked over by the Statue of Liberty," Arriba said.

THE ITALIAN newspaper Corriere Della Sera said, "In America for the time being Negroes are fighting to abolish mere symbols. But as these fall, be certain of this, we will hear news not of greater peace but of growing war."

"Peace will come the day we read that all states of the union have set up annual prizes to encourage mixed marriages," the newspaper said.

The Portuguese newspaper A Voz said the United States was "born on racial segregation" with the killing of red Indians. It said the Supreme Court is now trying to erase such a policy.

"Times have changed, desires have changed and customs have changed," it commented.

The French newspaper Le Monde said the Geneva General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs conference ended "on a positive result" but "to bring about an accord (U.S. chief negotiator Christian A.) Herter in less than 24 hours reversed his position."

"FOR THE FIRST TIME, the European Economic Community confronted the United States on the international scene, the other countries having hardly anything to do except count the blows," Le Monde continued.

Around the world in Asia the Indonesian Herald, which usually reflects the views of the foreign office, said Cooper's flight opened "greater possibilities of cooperation" between the United States and Russia in the field of space technology.

"The successful flight of Maj. Cooper is to be heartily welcomed not only as another magnificent scientific feat on the part of the United States, but also because it opens greater possibilities of cooperation between the two giant space powers," the newspaper said in Jakarta.

"Now that the United States has succeeded in demonstrating the resourcefulness of its space technology, the possibility of a space cooperation program with the Soviet Union has become easier to accomplish," the Herald said. "The two countries can now enter into serious negotiations about a joint endeavor to study what the Soviet Union has called 'the study of the laws of the universe'."

THE MANILA TIMES expressed the belief that the Negro problem in the United States is bound to remain "long after the segregationists have furled their flags."

"What is happening today in Alabama may open more opportunities for Negroes," an editorial said. "But it will also embitter the supporters of segregation, the more so since they see in President Kennedy's intervention an abuse of state rights by federal power." It added that the process of integration "as distinct from mere desegregation remains a difficult one and has hardly been started."

"In fact there are many Negroes who now reject integration, claiming that whites and blacks should co-exist instead, fully equal under the same cultural and social traditions. . . ."

"The issue is not over desegregation in the schools and other public places alone. The most important is the right to vote, which still is denied to many Negroes by the use of fitness tests now required of white voters. Only when this form of discrimination is abolished can the Negro problem really begin to be solved, and the solution may be more like social division than integration," the Philippine newspaper commented.

Alabama University--Another Ole Miss?

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

President Kennedy will use troops if necessary to enforce court-ordered integration of the University of Alabama, just as he did in Mississippi.

He made this starkly clear last week in a solemn warning to Alabama's white supremacy governor, George C. Wallace, who previously had filed a supreme court challenge of Kennedy's authority to send stand-by troops to racially torn Birmingham.

THE PRESIDENT said he would act reluctantly but that he was obligated to uphold the laws of the land—in this instance the Supreme Court's school desegregation and other equal rights edicts.

Wallace had threatened to "physically block" admittance of any Negro to University of Alabama in contrast to the non-violence stand of the state attorney general and the university board of trustees. The Justice Department, on Kennedy's orders, asked the federal court at Birmingham to prevent this by injunction.

The President called on Wallace to obey the law—to join the other 49 states in giving Negro students and Negroes generally their just constitutional rights as American citizens.

The Department of Justice, in answer to Wallace's Supreme Court petition, told the high bench "it was the government's constitutional duty to preserve order and safeguard individual rights if there is a breakdown in local authority."

THE PRESIDENT welcomed the challenge and urged the governor to honor the court's decision—as he said he would—what ever it may be. The court earlier had held that laws requiring segregation in public places were unconstitutional.

The rulings, reversing the conviction of 38 sit-in demonstrators in five Southern states, sent into high gear a widespread Negro drive to break down Dixie's racial barriers. And behind the clamor of racial demonstrations, some communities began taking quiet steps to upgrade their Negro citizens. Notable among these were Alexandria, Va., and Memphis, Tenn.

The President told a press conference that he was preparing to ask Congress for stronger civil rights legislation so Negroes won't have to resort to demonstrations such as rocked Birmingham.

ELSEWHERE on the racial front the American Legion cancelled New Orleans as the site of its national convention because of the city's segregated housing accommodations. Miami was chosen instead.

The President also had troubles on the farm front. A majority of the nation's wheat farmers voted against federal planting controls on their 1964 crop. This drops the bars to all-out production. It also could mean $1-a-bushel wheat and choking surpluses to glut already bulging bins—unless Congress enacts new price supports.

The Democratic leadership was not disposed to do that. They said the farmers had made their choice. So did the President and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. But Kennedy said he would do everything possible to help the farmers maintain their income.

The referendum vote was a stinging rebuff of the President's "supply-management" plan for all major crops—a plan designed to save the taxpayers a billion dollars by curbing surplus production but guaranteeing high farm income. Wheat price supports, in the absence of congressional action, will drop next year from $2 to $1.25 a bushel. And this latter will be available only to farmers who stick to federal planting quotas.

But the farmers, backed by the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation, rebelled, making it evident they wanted out from under "government regimentation."

THE FARM bureau foresaw a worried Congress coming to the rescue but the congressional climate augured against this though Republicans began clamoring for legislation, plus Freeman's scalp. Kennedy gave the secretary a ringing endorsement.

The wheat vote carried political as well as economic implications. The administration had thrown its strength and prestige behind the President's program but it failed to muster a simple majority. A two-thirds vote was required.

On the foreign front, the NATO ministerial council met in Ottawa, Canada, pledged basic Western unity, and endorsed the President's plan for a NATO nuclear striking force. Secretary of State Dean Rusk represented the United States. He vehemently denied rumors of any backdoor American negotiations with Russia.

MOSCOW charged the nuclear force would intensify the arms race. It also called on Kennedy to withdraw Polaris missile submarines from the Mediterranean and make the area a nuclear-free zone. The State Department said the proposal would be rejected.

Russia announced meantime that it was refusing to pay United Nations costs in the Congo and the Middle East and was cutting off some other payments, further jeopardizing the peace organization's solvency. And in Moscow Premier Nikita Khrushchev personally lionized Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and again warned that an attack on Cuba would spark nuclear war.

In New York the President dedicated a memorial

Community Civic Leader Says "A" Good

A. L. Code, business executive, past president of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and ardent civic leader for area progress, urged adoption of Proposition "A" at the June 4 election.

"This proposal is not merely a downtown program, but will benefit the entire community, North, South, East and West—in fact, our whole State. It will make possible the California World's Fair at Long Beach in 1967-68. It does not call for any taxes, nor a general City funds, and the Fair will be a worldwide attraction of immense benefit to everyone in our community," said Mr. Code. "Everyone should vote for Proposition 'A'."

to World War II servicemen who died in the Atlantic and called on all Americans to be prepared to "play their part" to protect liberty. He also got a star-spangled birthday salute from New York Democrats at a $1,000-a-plate party fund-raising dinner. Kennedy will be 46 Wednesday.

Senate and House committees prepared to investigate sky-rocketing sugar prices though supplies are ample. Prices jumped as high as 89 cents for five pounds in some areas. The government tried to discourage housewives from hoarding.

Senate and House passed similar bills that would grant women equal pay with men when both sexes do the same work. Kennedy requested the legislation.

Two American climbing teams, each using a different route, scaled the peak of Mt. Everest in an unprecedented assault on the world's highest mountain.

Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper was given roaring receptions in Washington, New York and Houston for orbiting the earth 22 times.

The President agreed to split up his $5.3 billion one-package aid-to-education bill in hopes of getting some parts of it through Congress.

The United States recalled its ambassador from Haiti in protest against Dictator Francois Duvalier re-electing himself to a new six-year term as president. Relations were not formally broken, however.

The Catholic world watched the Vatican where Pope John XXIII was suffering from recurrent gastric trouble complicated by a bleeding lesion of the stomach. The 81-year-old pontiff was tired and drawn.

RFK, Top Negroes in 'Tragic' Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's unannounced conference here Saturday on racial discrimination in the North was described Sunday by novelist James Baldwin as "the beginning of a dialogue — not a failure," but another conference called it "tragic."

The attorney general, accompanied by Burke Marshall, chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division, met with about a dozen Negroes and whites.

AMONG those who attended the conference were entertainers Lena Horne and Harry Belafonte, and Clarence B. Jones, counsel to the Gandhi Society, headed by the Rev. Martin Luther King.

Baldwin, at a news conference, said the attorney general did not "understand the full extent of the growing racial strife" in the North.

THE MEETING was called "tragic" by Dr. Kenneth Clark, a psychologist whose research was one of the main bases for the 1954 Supreme Court decision on school segregation.

"We were unable to communicate clearly and skillfully that this was not a group of Negroes begging the white power structure to be nice to Negroes," he said. "We were trying to say that this was an emergency for our country, as Americans."

"This never got over," he said. The psychologist said the attorney general "was in an extremely difficult position. This in no way tempered the sense of urgency and desperation which everyone was communicating to him."

Portugal Roundup Nets 10 Communists

LISBON, Portugal, Sunday (AP)—Eight men and two women have been arrested in a roundup of Communist underground members, Portuguese police announced today.

The announcement said propaganda material on Portugal's colonies was seized in the raids.

WE WERE a little shocked at the extent of his naivete," Baldwin said, adding: "I am not prepared to say it was a failure. No one can afford to look on it as a failure. It has got to be looked at as the beginning of a dialogue."

Kennedy feels, in part, justified that his administration has made some steps in civil rights that no previous administration made, Baldwin said.

"But as one of the students (at the conference) said to him: 'If this is the best you can do, the best is not enough.' The record of the Justice Department is totally inadequate," Baldwin added.

Executive Sports Editor

Blades Again Block L. B.

Long Beach's entrance into the Western Hockey League was blocked again about a week ago—and even the people as far north as Seattle are wondering why.

In his Seattle Times' column, Hy Zimmerman commented thusly about the Long Beach freeze-out:

"Realities produce strange quirks in sport. Though Long Beach pleads for a franchise, its 13,000 seats will stand empty while the Western Hockey League waits on San Diego and/or Oakland to build their structures, which may seat less than that."

The reason why Long Beach was vetoed a second straight year is simple and one that has been stated here numerous times: Dan Reeves' Los Angeles Blades invoked the league's 50-mile territorial rule (no two franchises within 50 miles of each other unless the original team waives the regulation)—and that was that!

Long Beach's petitioner, Art Edwards, who successfully ran the semi-pro Gulls here last season, attended the league meeting

In Seattle and will be on hand for the second session Wednesday in the same city.

"I don't know why I should go to Seattle a second time," Edwards said here the other day, "but I guess I'll be there just as a matter of habit. You know, it is easier to get out of the Western Hockey League than into it."

Edwards should know. This latest was his fourth attempt at a Western League franchise. He tried originally with L. A. businessman Jack Dempsey—but the path to Los Angeles already was marked for another operator, Jim Piggott, who ultimately aligned with Reeves.

Art tried again the next year—but Piggott and Reeves were given the L.A. franchise.

He hustled for the Long Beach franchise last year when our Arena was completed and was blocked by the 50-mile rule.

It's simple to get out of the league, too, as Edwards learned last week when Calgary and Edmonton were bumped because the Canadian prairie cities didn't fit into the new "big time" scheme of L. A., San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

EDWARDS TOLD the Seattle writer he intended to make further tries for a Long Beach pro hockey franchise. "I enjoy these hockey meetings," commented Edwards. "Who knows—some day..."

Zimmerman then reported: "And the meetings enjoy Edwards. Despite his position of weakness in regard to a franchise, he is personally well-respected, well liked. He attends many hockey functions, the league all-star games and knows most of the personnel around the league cities."

"And he has a fairly good argument in behalf of Long Beach. He says:

"Since I have my semi-pro team in Long Beach, I have to submit a bid for the franchise. So they don't want Long Beach. Why not? What's wrong with having another rink in the league to seat 13,000?"

"They keep saying Long Beach won't mean anything in Los Angeles. But there ARE 7,000,000 people in the area."

"And as far as Long Beach being only a suburb and hurting the Blades, did the Brooklyn Dodgers ever hurt the New York Giants? No, they helped."

"And what was your best rivalry in the old Pacific Coast League? Los Angeles against Hollywood."

"I feel we would help the Blades, not hurt them."

★ ★ ★
THE SEATTLE WRITER asked Edwards if he would be willing to let the Western League come into Long Beach as a stop-gap measure, while a rink were built in San Diego or Oakland.

"Certainly. Why not?" replied Edwards. "I don't think they will, though. If they come in, they might find they want to stay."

(And, by the way, I wonder about the difference in attitude between the San Francisco owners and the L. A. operators. Oakland, you'll recall, is certainly within San Francisco's 50-mile area. There are many, many more people in the Los Angeles-Long Beach area than in the Bay area!)

Anyway, Edwards intends to continue with his Gulls in the California League... but he's having problems there, too. Two shows—auto and boat—already are booked solid back-to-back during January, leaving the hockey club with nary a home date during that important month.

If he ever gets a Western League franchise, Edwards hopes he can be notified a year in advance.

"With a year's notice, I may be able to work out proper home dates," he explained. "The Arena's just too darned popular to get dates less than a year in advance."

And pro hockey's too popular to keep out of Long Beach much longer.

Hodges Still Without Win as Yanks Topple Nats, 5-1

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clete Johnson Senators Saturday together a walk three dou-Boyer's seventh-inning double hind Ralph Terry's seven-hit bles, and an error to fashion their fifth consecutive vic-tory.

The defeat was the sixth in a row for the Senators, their third straight under new manager Gil Hodges, and their 13th the last 14 games. Cheney, charged with his fifth successive loss after winning his first four games of the season, held the Yankees scoreless on four hits until two were out in the seventh.

Hector Lopez then drew a walk and Boyer followed with a line double that barely eluded Breeding's frantic grasp and scored Lopez. An error by first baseman Larry Osborne on Terry's soft pop-up in front of the plate allowed Boyer to score all the way from second and opened the door for three unearned runs when Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson followed with doubles.

The series concludes this afternoon with Don Drysdale (5-4) facing Jack Sanford (7-3) in a rematch. Drysdale was a 2-1 winner at Dodger Stadium, launching an eight-inning game Dodger winning streak.

Drysdale's horoscope says history will not repeat. The series concludes this afternoon with Don Drysdale (5-4) facing Jack Sanford (7-3) in a rematch. Drysdale was a 2-1 winner at Dodger Stadium, launching an eight-inning game Dodger winning streak.

DAVIS WAS the only Dodger to solve O'Dell's tricky breaking assortment. He brought his season average to .300 with a 3-for-4 afternoon, including a double.

Tommy drove home the Dodgers' first run after Nate Oliver and Jim Gilliam opened the game with singles.

The next and last Dodger run was a painful one. After O'Dell walked Bill Skowron to fill the bases, he hit John Roseboro on the left hand to make it a 2-0 game.

The Dodgers didn't get another hit until Davis doubled in the sixth inning and they advanced only one more man to second base.

STILL, O'DELL was unable to finish. That is manager Al Dark didn't let him finish.

VAN BLOM WINS NATIONAL TITLE

John Van Blom of Wil-son High won the single sculls Regatta in Princeton, N. J., Saturday by a lopsided margin of seven lengths.

Van Blom was representing the Long Beach Rowing Association and was accompanied by coach Paul Manning. Van Blom may next compete at Hendley-on-the-Thames in England.

Errors Help Orioles Win 6th in Row, 6-4

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The league-leading Baltimore Orioles scored three runs in the top of the ninth inning Saturday with the help of three fielding misplays to beat the Cleveland Indians, 6-4, for their sixth straight victory.

Throwing errors by third baseman Max Alvis and relief pitcher Jerry Walker and a too-late throw by pitcher Bob Allen all figured in the Orioles' scoring that broke a 3-3 tie.

The Indians came back with a single run in the last of the ninth inning on a walk to Tony Martinez and a triple by Vic Davalillo, but relief pitcher Stu Miller struck out Al Luplow and got Joe Ad-

Independent, Press-Telegram baseball writer Ross Newhan will appear on the ABC-TV show, Press Conference, this afternoon at 4 p.m. on channel 7.

CIF BASEBALL FINAL SITE UNDECIDED

The site and time of Poly High's CIF baseball final game with Western of Anaheim may not be made known until Monday afternoon.

Cerritos College at 4 o'clock is the most likely site and time for the Tuesday final, but Blair Field and LaPalma Park in Anaheim are possibilities.

The game is supposed to be staged on a neutral field, but Blair (Poly's home) and LaPalma (Western's home) are nevertheless being considered because they can hold larger crowds.

Spencer on Spree, Nuxhall Halts Phils

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Daryl Spencer hit four singles and Joe Nuxhall fired a six-hitter Saturday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

It was the fourth victory in six decisions for the 34-year-old southpaw and his fifth consecutive complete game.

Spencer, acquired recently by the Reds as a free agent after being released by the Dodgers, batted in two runs and scored what proved to be

Cards' Sadecki Decisions Mets

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals collected 12 hits Saturday in rolling to their third consecutive victory, 6-3 over the New York Mets, with Ray Sadecki picking up his first win of the season against four defeats.

Sadecki needed help from rookie Harry Fanok, who came on in the seventh to turn back a New York rally.

The Cardinals used a three-run second inning off starter-losers Al Jackson to take a lead which they never gave up. Curt Flood's two-run double was the key blow. He scored on a line single by Bill White.

Pascual Hurls 2-Hitter, Whiffs 8 in 6-0 Victory

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Camilo Pascual hurled a two-hit shutout Saturday to lead the Minnesota Twins to their sixth consecutive victory, a 6-0 win over the Chicago White Sox.

Pascual, who gained his sixth victory in 10 decisions, struck out eight to tie Washington's Tom Cheney for the league-lead at 62.

The Cuban curve-baller was touched for a double by Pete Ward in the third which glanced off Wally Post's glove, and a single by Floyd Robinson in the ninth.

Minnesota's eight-hit attack off White Sox starter Juan Pizarro and Joel Horlen was highlighted by the solo homers by Post and Rich Rollins. The Twins also came up with a four run fifth inning on a walk, two singles and a double.

Rollins, with two hits in three trips, raised his average to .299, and took over the team leadership in batting. A month ago, he was hitting less than .200.

DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit Wood, the Tigers' young rookie right-hander Bill Faul, double-play combination, col-with relief help from Terry lected five of the seven hits Fox, won his second major, off three Boston pitchers.

The Tigers had lost four straight games since Faul won his first start last Sunday with a three-hitter against Washington.

But the Tigers, who were outthit 9-7 Saturday, took advantage of eight Boston walks to snap the losing streak.

Faul had a shutout until the sixth inning when Gary Geiger slammed a homer. After Frank Malone singled in Boston's second run with one out in the eighth inning, manager Bob Scheffing brought in Fox who preserved Faul's win.

L. B. Man Gets Large Brown

Ed Check, of 849 Stevely Ave., and his fishing buddy, Jim McNulty, of 545 Manila Ave., are back in Long Beach after a successful fishing trip to the Sierra Nevada. Check brought back a brown trout that weighed 6 pounds, 3 ounces, the largest fish taken in Grant Lake this year.

Ed got his big fish while trolling a flatfish. Both men caught other nice-size native trout in Grant as well as in Silver Lake and, later, in Crowley Lake.

Most of their fish in Silver were taken on trolled flies. Rush Creek yielded plenty of small fish on wet flies. Ed said that they caught so many fish in Grant that they had to release numbers of fish.

It's delightful to get a report like that from one of the best lakes in the June Lake Loop District. How well do I remember a day back in the late '20s when I caught a limit of trout (then 21 fish) within an hour in a hectic rainstorm! For that reason Grant has always had a big place in my memory.

Ed and Jim stayed at Fern Creek Lodge, situated between Silver and Grant Lake and now operated by Bob and Eleanor De Noon. Ed reported that the runoff is heavier now than the Sierra Nevada is getting some warm weather.

BRIDGEPORT LAKE PRODUCED a big brown that weighed 6½ pounds. Harold Novis of Pasadena caught it while trolling directly in front of the boat landing. Another Los Angeles County angler got one that weighed 5½ pounds.

Benno L. Heune, of Ken's Sporting Goods in Bridgeport, reported that the average for 50 boats last Saturday off Bridgeport Lake's Sandy Point was seven fish per angler. Weights ranged from three-fourths of a pound to 2 pounds.

Coming southward to San Diego County, we find that two lakes will be kept open for a longer period this week on account of the Memorial Day holiday period. Sutherland, which has been producing excellent bass, will be open from May 29 through June 1. San Vicente will be open from May 30 through June 1. It has been good for calfish and large crappie.

A Big Bear Lake Park District plant of 3,000 pounds of trout is being made to augment Department of Fish and Game plants of catchables in preparation for the holiday period. Big Bear has 7,000 acre feet of water and biologists are keeping a constant check on the water to keep it from developing too much algae.

Copper sulphate treatments are made at regular intervals to keep the lake fishable as long as possible this summer.

KEEPING TRACK OF SACRAMENTO, we find that the Assembly Fish and Game Committee has:

Approved a bill giving free fishing permits to mental patients residing in "family-care" homes;

Decided that nonresidents should pay $55—not $35—to hunt deer in California;

Approved a bill permitting counties to redesignate yellow-billed magpies as nonprotected birds for another two years because of crop damage;

Approved a bill to eliminate shipping tags from hunting and fishing licenses. Tags would still be available but would be provided separately and not attached to licenses. It would save the state several thousand dollars.

The Senate Fish and Game Committee has:

Approved a bill to remove the counties' veto power over antlerless or either-sex deer hunts ordered by the Fish and Game Commission at the suggestion of the Department of Fish and Game. This may pass the Senate, but has little chance in the Assembly because the original Busch Act was Assemblywoman Pauline Davis' pet.

Approved a measure to remove the bounty on mountain lions which the state has paid since 1907. This bill is strongly supported by the DFG, but opposed by the California Cattlemen's Association.

NEW BOOKS—Doubleday and Company, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y., has just placed on the market possibly the best volume for divers yet published. It is Owen Lee's "The Complete Illustrated Guide to Snorkel and Deep Diving."

Lee, a professional sailor, lifeguard and salmon fisherman, now turned author, is the only American member of Jacques-Yves Cousteau's French Office of Undersea Research. His book is a guide for beginners and experts alike. It embraces the latest information on naval safety procedures and medical criteria.

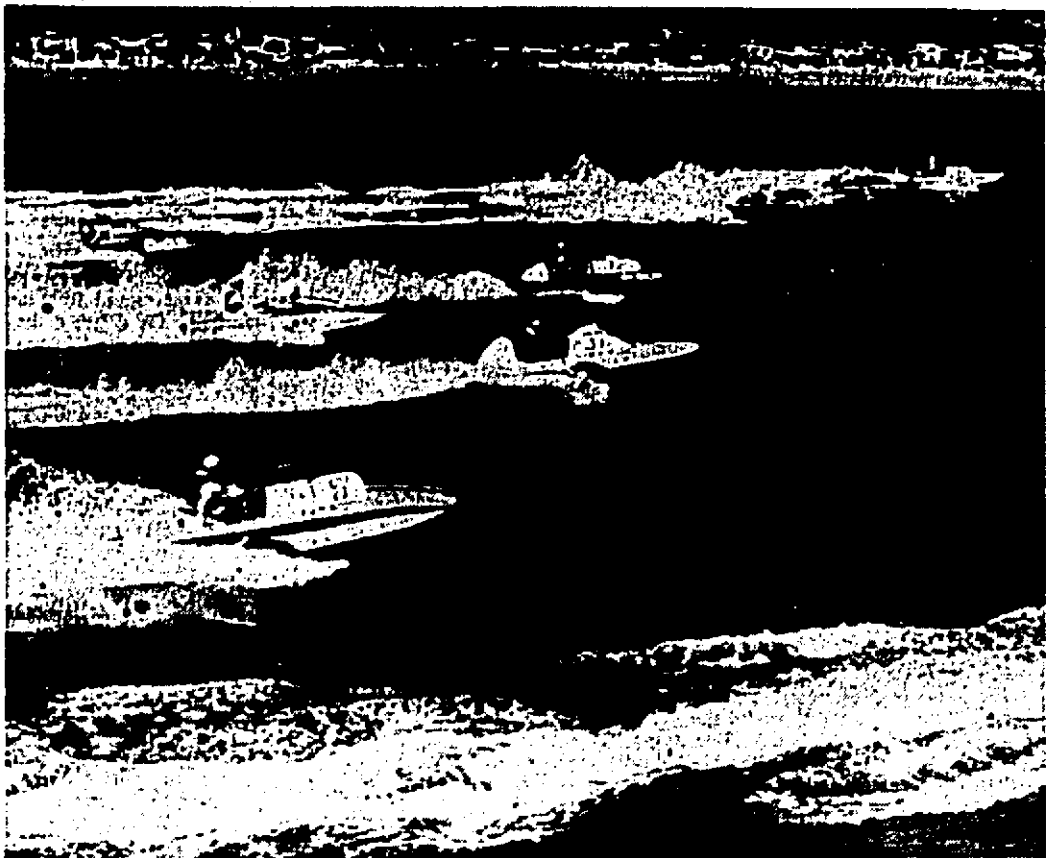

Dover Publications, Inc., 180 Varick St., New York 14, N.Y., is republishing the entire series on North American Birds, by Arthur Cleveland Bent, originally published as bulletins by the Smithsonian Institution and regarded as the most complete reference sources on all those species.

The books available now are "Life Histories of North American Birds of Prey," "Life Histories of North American Wildfowl" and "Life Histories of North American Shore Birds." Each group is in two paperback volumes at $2.35 per volume.

"Rand McNally Road Atlas," 1963 edition has just been released for those planning summer vacation trips. It is available at most book stores at $1.95. The name Rand McNally speaks for itself.

Jr. Legion Play Opens Saturday

By CHUCK MEDICK

The 19th District American Legion baseball program gets under way Saturday.

There have been many changes this year, including the switch to a double-elimination district playoff instead of sudden death, and the Wednesday night doubleheaders at Blair Field.

June 5 inaugurates the Wednesday night sessions at Blair Field. There will be doubleheaders for the first five weeks and all Harbor League teams will get a chance to perform under the lights.

AFTER THE local playoffs, the Western Regional Tournament moves into Blair Field Aug. 18-25 with eight Western states, including Hawaii represented. This marks the largest American Legion tournament ever held in Long Beach.

The district will have four leagues instead of the usual three. They are the Harbor, Pacific, Rio Hondo and Bay leagues. Many of the old leagues such as the Downey Reds and the Downey Blues will not meet this year as they will be performing in different leagues. El Segundo joins the district and will field two teams, the Reds and Blues.

It looks like a good year in all leagues.

Peterson Post has a slight edge in the Harbor League because of so many returning veterans; Gardena looks good in the Pacific League; Montebello and Bellflower may have an edge in the Rio Hondo League, while Hawthorne looks like a standout in the Bay League.

Schedules of all games can be found weekly in Tuesday's J, P-T.

THE Metropolitan Connie Mack League starts its second year in Long Beach Friday with a doubleheader at Blair Field in which both Long Beach teams will see action.

The new Long Beach Blues open festivities Friday at 6:30 p.m., meeting Montevia, while Al Brightman's Santa Pontiac meets Pasadena at 8:30 p.m.

Elegant Avanti Visits Colorful Kernville

By BILL EMERY

One of the most beautiful week-end drives out of Long Beach is at its colorful best right now. And what's more, you can make a circle tour and see the widest variety of scenery with a week end outing to Kernville.

Advanced automobile: the Avanti by Studebaker from Palmer Motors at 3300 Atlantic in Long Beach. This car was a real "crowd stopper" wherever we stopped. Sometimes it was embarrassing when the kids knew more about the car's performance than we, but it was extremely gratifying to hear their unsolicited accolades on the Avanti's high performance, its style and design.

This Avanti was equipped with a Paxton supercharger, the kind of equipment that established this car as the fastest stock car on the highway. We didn't attempt to see if it would even come close to the 172 mph it's famous for, but one thing we do know, the Avanti has tremendous response at any speed and it corners at high speeds like an airplane with little or no passenger sway. A four-place sports car with unique interior appointments including contoured bucket seats, the Avanti is an interesting study in design and exclusive innovations. For every considerate touch that's visible, three more are built in and reveal themselves only in the fact sheet. Safety is built into this car from bumper to bumper. This is truly a car for the discriminating!

TOUR CLOCKWISE

Heading out hiway 99 to 178 takes you to Kernville on the inside of the scenic but twisting final forty miles approaching Lake Isabella. The Avanti took these curves at least ten mph faster, and with comfort, than any vehicle we approached and overcame.

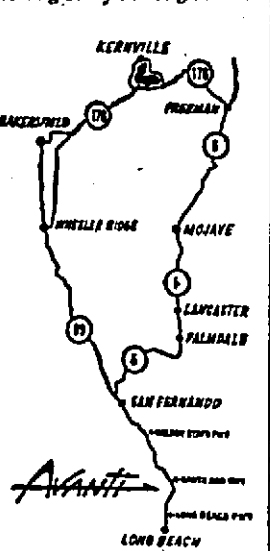

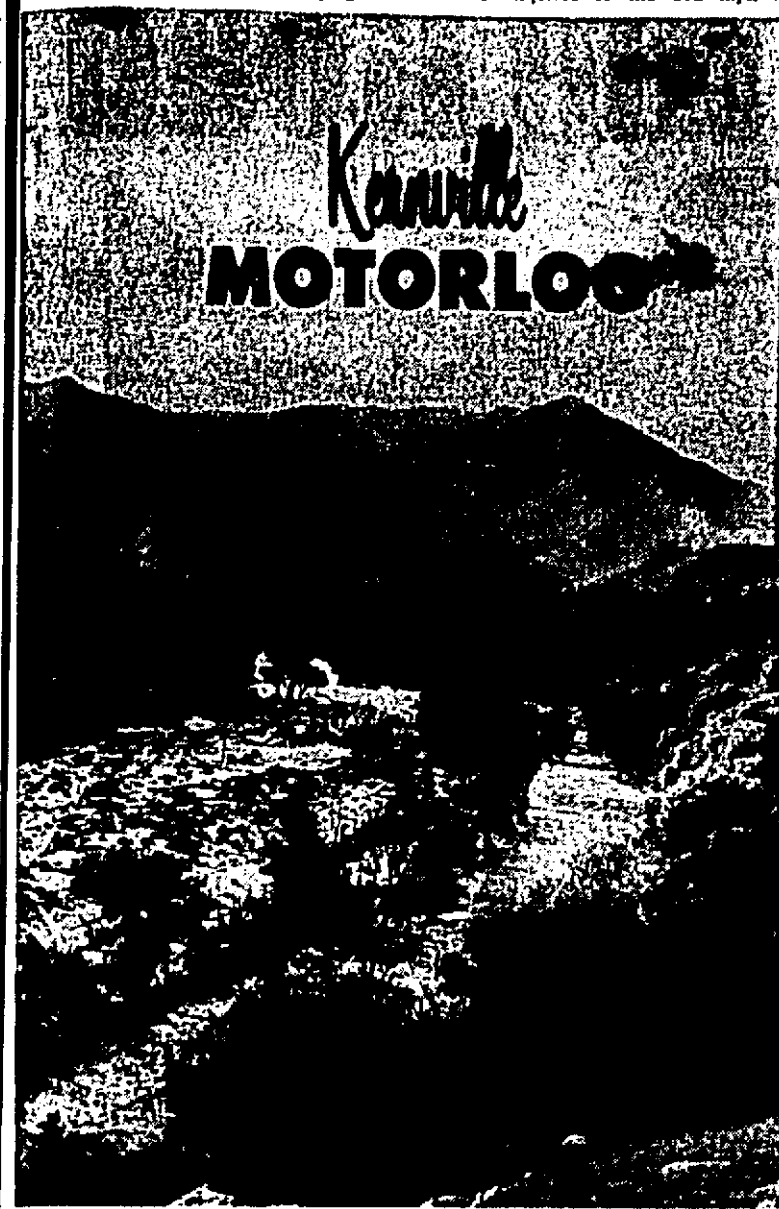

The Lake Isabella project, completed just ten years ago, has the unique distinction of being the largest body of fresh water in Southern California. Backing up the Kern river, the reservoir and river created extra dividends for fishing and recreation.

Recently added to the area is a nine-hole championship golf course (3,500 yards, par 36) with Allen Jones of Glendale as pro manager. Nearby is an airport used by planes as large as DC-3's, a ski area with two tows, horseback riding and pack trips for hunting and fishing, mineral and rock formations for the lapidary enthusiasts, a number of campsites, and probably one of the greatest attractions, river fishing on the Kern.

Jack Roof, game warden, told us trout are planted once and often twice a week thruout the 72 miles of the Kern river and its 14 tributaries and that this area is third largest in the U.S. for pounds of fish caught.

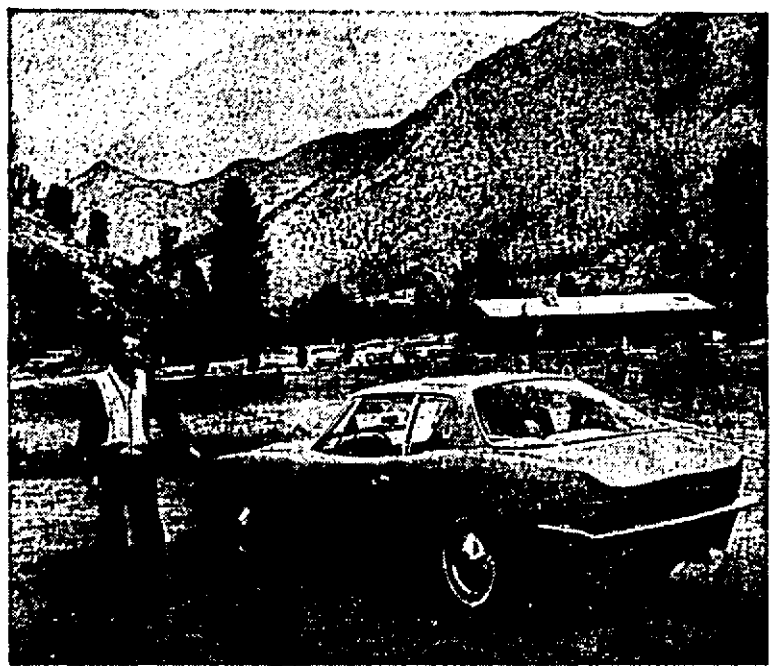

A drive up the Kern is breathtaking this time of year with all the colors. The flowers, shrubs and trees are in full bloom. Our view from the McCambridge Lodge will remain high in our list of fond memories.

Good food is often hard to come by in remote areas. Jack Ewing's restaurant will measure up with the best. The dining room looks much too large for the populated area, yet it was always filled to capacity. This was a most memorable motorlog tour.

AVANTI ATTRACTS CROWD

Famed Jack Ewing's restaurant in Kernville is gathering place for fine cuisine by townsmen, travelers and sportsmen. A warm, friendly atmosphere prevails. The Avanti was an irresistible attraction to anyone entering or leaving this busy landmark on the Kern River.

NEW GOLF COURSE

Allen Jones, pro manager of Kernville's championship 9-hole par 36 country club, takes a close-up look at the Studebaker Avanti. The club will hold an open for company tournament June 8 and 9. Fishing is just now coming into its best.

KERN RIVER VIEW

Picture taken last weekend from the balcony of the McCambridge Lodge shows the Kern River at the top of its banks. Lodge has spacious hospitality room for groups. Some units have housekeeping units.

EDIE ADAMS... A Unique Combination

She's a Bit of a Brain And Bit of a Stripper

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tragedy tempers character. It can also, as in the case of Edie Adams, do the same for talent.

Edie was widowed a year ago in January when Ernie Kovacs died at the wheel of his wrecked station wagon. In the ensuing time, her career has come into full flower.

She has made four movies — "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," "Call Me Bwana," "Under the Yum Yum Tree" and "Love With The Proper Stranger." She has starred in a number of television specials and signed for a bi-weekly series to start next fall. She has appeared in Las Vegas for top money.

SHE HAS worked almost unceasingly and with good reason. Kovacs' death found his financial affairs in a chaotic condition, with immense debts to the Federal government and other creditors. Rather than accept the offer of many star friends who wanted to stage a television spectacular to wipe out the debts, Edie assumed the burden herself.

In the meantime, necessity of hard work has broadened and sharpened her talent. The result is that she is one of the most sought-after attractions in show business today.

She is cautious about her accomplishments. "Financially, everything is fine," she commented. "Artistically—that's another matter. Maybe it's because I have set my goals high. I see things that I have done and I cringe; I know I could have done them much better. But I'll keep trying."

SHE IS A unique combination of cerebral actress ("Why am I doing this?") she asks of directors in scenes) and honey-blond glamour girl.

The glamour side would be enough for most female stars. Edie could earn an excellent living merely by lending her appealing presence to films and night clubs. But it is part of Ernie's legacy that she must participate in the creation of material she performs.

"I don't have the sense of comedy that Ernie had; I wouldn't know how to begin to work with writers," she said. "But I do know music, and I'm going to have the say on which I'll do. There are times when I've been talked out of my own notions on musical matters; those were the times when I went wrong."

EDIE'S LIFE had turned out satisfactorily on a personal level. She weathered a custody suit brought by Kovacs' first wife over the children of that marriage, Betty, 16, and Kippie, 14. They continue to live with their stepmother, as does Edie's own daughter, Mia, 3.

"It has been hardest to explain to Mia why I have had to work so much this past year," she said. "The other two girls are old enough to understand."

"But we manage to find time to be together. With Mia, it's the bathtub. It's been a long time since I took a bath alone."

Next month, Edie will take her first vacation after a solid year of work. She'll fly to Japan and Hong Kong for hotel openings, then return to Hawaii where she'll meet the girls for an island holiday.

Metropolitan Opera's Merrill Confesses All

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Opera star Robert Merrill agreed to be the Fall Guy and play my "20 Questions" Celebrity Interview game.

He was packing to sail for Europe for three months when we met in a midtown office... and I turned on the tape recorder.

Q: Bob, what would be the highest pinnacle you could climb professionally?

A: To make Merrill a European career. Through my records, I'm sort of known everywhere. But people have not seen me, I must go and sing for them in person.

Q: WHICH is the better commercial market?

Q: So why don't you stay in America and not worry about Europe?

Bob's rich laugh, from down in the stomach, rang through the office.

A: It hasn't anything to do with money. If I wanted to sing in Las Vegas, I could make a great deal of money. But I've thrown that aside to launch a career in Europe.

Q: What's the most money on opera star can make?

Bob shot me a suspicious glance.

A: You want me to tell you how much I earn? Is that it? O.K. I'd say, roughly, $50,000 to $75,000 a year.

Q: Have you ever gone on stage just maybe half-intoxicated?

A: Yes! Someone opened this wonderful bottle of 30-year-old scotch backstage and I just tasted it—I had just a little shot. And I walked out and blew my lines!

Q: Are opera stars as wild in their personal lives as movie stars?

A: There's one gal who likes to faint and get her name in the papers. I don't like her.

Q: European?

A: No. American! This prima donna hadn't done too well in two previous performances. We were doing "Traviata." When I started my big duet with her, she just collapsed. We had to pull the curtain. In about 10 minutes, after the pictures had been taken of her and the publicity had gone out—and she heard there was another soprano in the house who could sing the part—she revived very fast!

Q: WOULD it be possible that a star gets to the point where he must almost worship himself?

A: Yes. To get into this business you must like yourself a great deal. You have to be conceited inwardly. When you're on stage you have to think, "Man, I'm really great."

Q: What's been your wildest TV experience?

A: Well, on the Johnny Carson show, George Jessel stepped on my lines and did not let me get to the punch line of this story. When I started singing, I got publicity. There was a very heavy prima-donna who stepped on my toes with her big shoes and hurt me so much I blew my lines. Some of my friends told me to get back at her. Next performance, I should eat a lot of garlic. I did it! I sang right into her face. She looked at me and said, "Oooh, you smell divinely!"

L.B. Firm 'Showcase' of Success

Public in Daily Contact With Wavell Co. Products

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

If ever there is a survey to identify manufacturers of the most ubiquitous, widely seen Long Beach-made products, Wavell Showcase & Fixtures, Inc., will be found near the top of the list.

Mrs. Average Housewife, or her husband, would be amazed if told of the many times either sees or touches a Wavell product in a single year.

Wavell Showcase, of 1395 Coronado Ave., is this month's nomination in a current series of management stories as sponsored by the Industrial Growth and Diversification Subcommittee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

THE WOODWORKING FIRM was founded in 1924 by the late Clifford E. Wavell and Howard Pierce, who set early standards of innovation and craftsmanship for manufacture of department store showcases, fixtures, masts, telephone booths and communications accessories.

The company also established itself as a prominent wartime manufacturer of prefabricated wooden ship superstructures for minesweepers and picket boats.

THE FIRM was called Wavell and Pierce Cabinet Works until about 1946, when Pierce dropped out of the business and the company assumed its present name.

Wavell's creative solution to another wartime production problem firmly entrenched the firm in the production of marine masts and spars.

Faced with possible loss of a $25,000 contract to produce minesweeper masts, Wavell jumped out of bed at 3 a. m. one day and sketched a cumbersome-looking piece of machinery on a piece of wrapping paper.

A FEW DAYS LATER, his colleagues stood mouths agape as they watched his new mast-making machine turning down a 60-foot spar as if it were a table leg, a job that would have taken two men three days by the conventional chopping, planing and finishing method.

Since then the company has maintained Southern California's largest permanent inventory of sitka spruce, a carefully cured and highly prized item among yachtsmen and mast-makers.

Department store showcases and fixtures, however, are the company's main-line production items, according to John Wavell, now 27, who resigned his Air Force commission to assume vice presidency and general management of the company after his father's death in 1961.

JOHN, THEN 25, had a new industrial engineering degree from Stanford University, but no management experience.

SOUTHLAND PROGRESS

THE NEWS, INDEPENDENT, PRESS-TELEGRAM, MAY 24, 1962

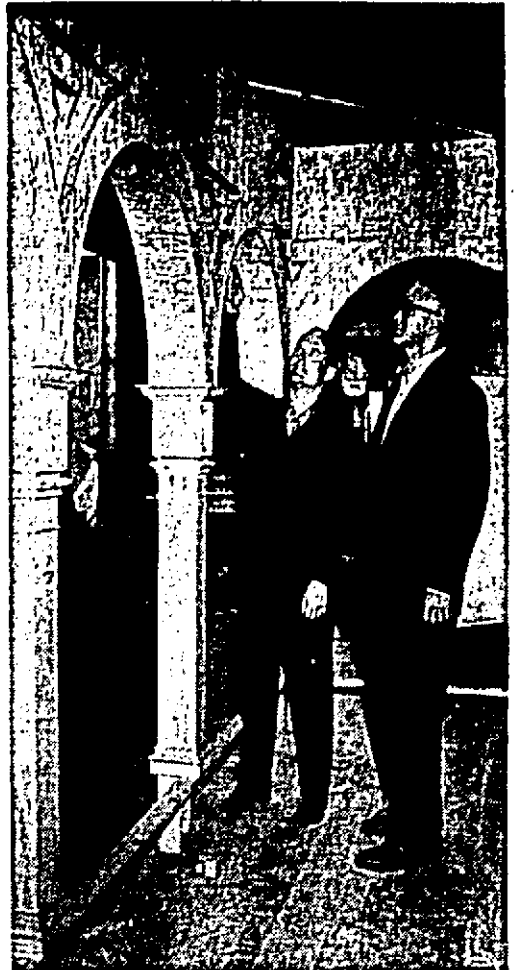

"We were in the middle of a big showcase job for Buffum's Marina, and I'll admit I was scared; but we're doing fine now and I've found that in our case there are more reasons for staying small than for growing big," John states.

"We're strictly custom, and we've got some of the finest craftsmen in the business. During the war we employed up to 80 men, but since 1948 we've been careful to remain at our most efficient operating level. I believe that is one of the primary reasons for our continued success."

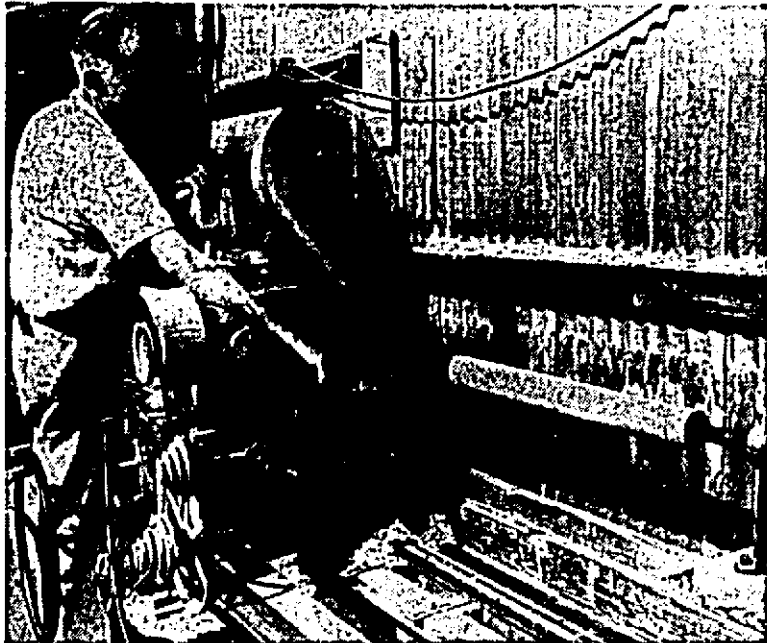

"We figured in every one of Buffum's stores since 1924," Wavell added. In 1962 the bulk of our fixture work was for the new Buffum's store in Pomona."

WITH A HOST of Wavell projects in this area over the years, a list of some likely to be better known to the public includes:

Manufacture and installation of a 200-foot-long walnut and formica bar and back bar at the famous Long Beach Elks Club on Willow Street; showcase manufacture and installations at the Gift Shop in St. Mary's Hospital, Long Beach; fixtures for Buffum's Men's Shop at the new Peninsula Center store being built in Rolling Hills Estates; masts for the vessel 'Columbia' and 'Chicken of the Sea' exhibit at Disneyland and for Hollywood motion picture studios; and interior wooden telephone booths for General Telephone Company of California.

FANCYWORK FOR NEW STORE

HUGE LATHE DEMONSTRATED
John Cooke, foreman at Wavell plant, demonstrates giant lathe capable of turning out masts 85 feet long and 18 inches in diameter. This machine was 'dreamed up' one night by the late Clifford E. Wavell.

DISPLAY CASES BUILT IN LONG BEACH

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Awards were presented to them by the Harbor Area Chapter of the Building Contractors Association.

Award Architectural Scholarships to Youths

Award winners in the fourth annual Architectural Scholarship Competition in Long Beach area high schools are (from left) Don Clark of Jordan High, Sam Davis of Lakewood, and Alan Sakimoto of Long Beach Poly. Awards were presented to them by the Harbor Area Chapter of the Building Contractors Association.

Another feature of the evening's meeting was discussion of California World's Fair, with Loren McCannan of the fair management and Axel Johnson, vice president of Del Webb Corp., as speakers.

THE ANNUAL scholarship competition among the five high schools of the Long Beach Unified School District was held in cooperation with the Dr. Glenn D. Warrick, supervisor of Industrial Arts Education for the school system. Winner of the Workingman's Drawing award was Alan Millikan. Judges were Long Beach City Engineer Jess Gilkerson; Frank Sherlock, Long Beach Department of Planning; and Gerald Adler, general contractor of B.C.A. H. M. Richardson, general contractor and chairman of the Scholarship Program for B.C.A., was in charge of the evening's award program. This was the fourth annual competition sponsored by the Harbor Area Chapter. Fifty dollar awards went to the winners.

3 Realtors Named to County Council

Appointment of three men to represent the Long Beach District Board of Realtors on the Los Angeles Council of Real Estate Boards was announced last week. Named were Arnold Berg, Verne Morrill and Reg Dupuy. The county council is composed of representatives of the boards within the county and meets only upon a special call of the president of the council to consider a subject of interest to all the boards within the county.

Aeronutronic Shares in $19 Million Contract

NEWPORT BEACH—Ford Motor Company's Aeronutronic Division of Newport Beach and the U. S. Air Force Ballistic Systems Division at Norton AFB in San Bernardino have completed negotiations on two contracts calling for manufacture of decoy subsystems to be carried by the U. S. Atlas "F" and the Titan II intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs).

The two production contracts total slightly more than $19 million.

Announcement of the contract was made concurrent with the annual meeting and news conference of the Aviation/Space Writers Association at Dallas, Tex.

Purpose of ICBM decoys is to deceive enemy ICBM defense systems, according to John B. Lawson, Aeronutronic general manager.

"A POTENTIAL enemy's radar would find it difficult if not impossible to tell an ICBM warhead — streaking down on its target—from an accompanying pack of decoys," he explained. "Under such conditions his anti-missiles, using this radar as their eyes, would be useless, unable to tell which was the actual incoming nuclear warhead."

"While it is possible to find a small target and to hit it with an anti-missile, it is something else again to discriminate that target out of a flock of items that appear very much alike to the ICBM defense system's eyes, the tracking radar."

Lawson also pointed out that the decoy subsystem production contracts now mark Aeronutronic as a full-scale aerospace hardware manufacturer. Previously, the division conducted research, development, and only limited production programs.

A leading Long Beach harbor cargo operation got a sizeable boost in business here with the arrival of the nation's largest railroad tank car.

The bank, long known as a commercial banking leader in Northern California, Washington and Oregon, will open its Los Angeles headquarters at 550 South Flower St. in August.

CONTROL TECHNOLOGY, Inc., of Long Beach, a research and systems engineering concern specializing in the fields of computers, feedback control theory, operations research, man-machine relationships, computer aids to management, and automation, has announced appointment of Donald S. Smith Associates of Anaheim as public relations and advertising counsel for the corporation.

The tankers will carry tallow to the port for shipment to the Far East and coconut oil, imported from the Philippines, on the return trip.

AN OFFICIAL of Baker Commodities, Inc., with a terminal on Pier D, said the tankers will result in a 50 per cent increase in Baker's imports (now about 1,500 tons a month) and a 20 per cent increase in exports of tallow (now 60,000 tons a year).

Tallow is the port of Long Beach's ninth ranked export commodity.

Both tallow and coconut oil are used in the manufacture of soap.

The 51.2-foot long tankers are 15 feet tall and nearly 2 1/2 times as big as the present tankers which have a capacity of 8,000 gallons.

THE BIG cars, the largest ever manufactured for the transport of vegetable oils or tallow, are equipped with roller bearings which greatly reduce the drag factor and are about as big as a tanker can go.

The Jumbo tankers are being manufactured in Pennsylvania.

When completed they will make the round-trip from Long Beach to the Rocky Mountain area, specifically Denver, every three weeks to a month.

Curb Noise Causes in 'Donnee' Apartments

The "Donnee," located at 5th Street and Lime Avenue in Long Beach, a 15-unit luxury "own-your-own" apartment, is now under construction by the Tobin Construction Co.

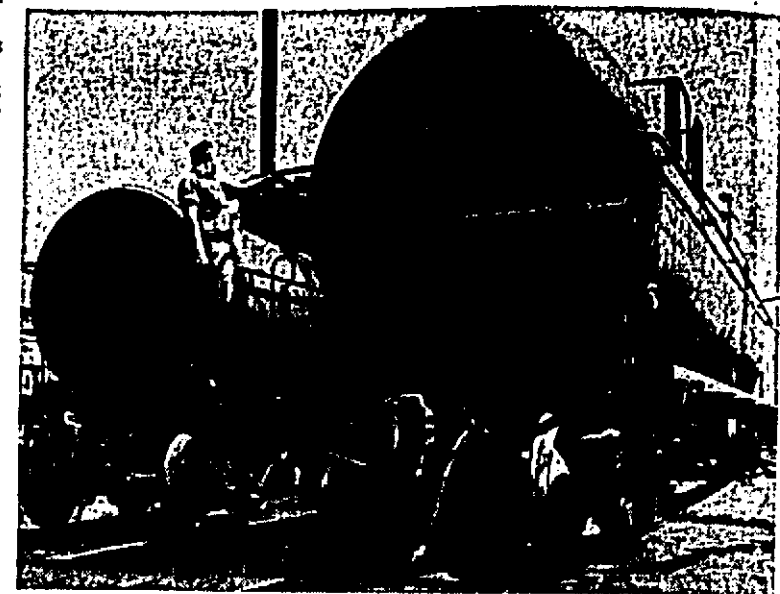

It is utilizing many new concepts in apartment construction that will eliminate many annoying noises which heretofore have been a major part of apartment living.

No two bathrooms will be back to back, which will remove one of the largest noise factors. Triple reinforcements will remove another,

Early purchasers of these one and two-bedroom apartments will be able to coordinate their own color selections in wall-to-wall all-wool carpeting laid on extra heavy padding, the sunproof draperies and the color of ceramic tile in the kitchen and bathrooms.

Jordan & Associates of Beverly Hills are supervising the overall color coordination of the complete building.

Sales personnel will be at the apartment each day starting today from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

NEW NAPLES ISLAND APARTMENT PROJECT FINISHED

Seven Story Portofino Has Boating Facilities

Residents can "sail home" to a new marina high-rise apartment on Naples Island completed this week by Site Development Corp.

The Portofino, a seven-story luxury rental apartment immediately adjacent to Alamillos Bay channel, has permanent slips for from 25 to 30 sail and powerboats as its "front yard."

It is the first rental high-rise apartment in the Southland to include boat slippage facilities for residents, according to Harry Taper, president of Site Development.

The building, designed by Hugh Gibbs, AIA, of Long Beach, has 60 luxury two- and three-bedroom apartments on six floors, plus two 2500-square-foot penthouse apartments.

CONSTRUCTION features include a two-foot-cement foundation, selected by Gibbs in place of pilings because of the proximity of the apartment to the bay. The Class A building is of steel and reinforced concrete construction throughout. Two high-speed elevators carry residents from a first-level garage to their apartments.

All units are of central-hall design and all are carpeted throughout. All-electric "gold medallion" kitchens include ranges, ovens, refrigerators, dishwashers, and washer-dryers. The building is equipped with a master antenna system with television and am/fm radio antenna jacks in each apartment.

ALL APARTMENTS have sliding-glass doors and glass exterior walls and each has a 40-foot balcony overlooking the Bay and Naples Island. Recreation facilities include a spacious sundeck and pool area.

Apartment rentals will start at $375 per month. The Portofino is the first of six high-rise apartments

Colonel Doyle's military history extends over the past 22 years and includes advancement from the rank of private through all the grades to his present rank. He saw combat service in the Asiatic Theater during World War II and in the Korean conflict. He also was on assignment to the United Nations Staff in Korea.

Edison Company Fetes Architects

Two hundred architects, addressed the group on the members of the Producers' Council, Inc., and friends were guests of Southern California Edison Company Tuesday night.

They assembled at Edison's 10-story all-electric office building at 100 Long Beach Blvd. and visited its main points of interest, including the complex electronic data processing equipment which comprises the electric company's new automated billing center.

AFTER DINNER at the Lafayette Hotel, the guests heard a presentation on the electric industry's all-electric building award program by T. L. Van Law, manager of industrial and commercial sales for the Edison Company.

Van Law pointed out that Edison created the new program to recognize electrical excellence in the construction of commercial and industrial buildings just as the Medallion Home Program is a corresponding honor in the residential field.

John H. Mead, retired Edison vice president and longtime Long Beach resident, addressed the group on the company's plans to construct a huge nuclear electric plant at Camp Pendleton, south of San Clemente.

Mead reported that the San Onofre plant, as it will be named, will have a generating capacity of 395,000 kilowatts—about twice the size of any atom plant now existing in the United States.

PRESIDING at the dinner session was William J. Bigger, president of the Producers' Council, Inc.

Other Edison officials hosting the event included A. W. Althouse, president of Associated Southern Investment Company, Edison subsidiary; A. L. Code, Long Beach district manager; and C. M. Campbell, southern division manager.

Producers' Council, Inc., is an affiliate organization of the American Institute of Architects.

Custom Selection of Kitchens Offered Hall of Fame Buyers

Hall of Fame Homes, Costa Mesa, featuring custom selection of kitchens and removable and convertible bedroom and living room walls, are more than half sold out, Dick Murray, sales director of Farrow Realty Corp., announced.

The rapid sales record at Hall of Fame, a development of Henry C. Cox Company, was accomplished in just five months, during which time more than 100 of the customized residences were purchased, Murray said.

"Less than 100 of these two, three, four and five-bedroom homes remain, and choice locations are going rapidly," Murray said.

BIGGEST factors in the rapid sales of the homes, the sales director added, are the custom selection of kitchens and convertible interior walls.

Buyers may choose the island, country, U-shaped or patio view kitchen and have it incorporated into the floor plan of their choice. This selection also includes individualized setting of appliances and sinks to face either inside rooms or outdoor settings.

The convertible walls may be changed by buyers to create one bedroom from two, change panel decor in living room or family room or add an additional bedroom by adding a wall.

All Hall of Fame homes encompass family room, central entry hall and dining room in one and two story

Third Unit Started in Sol Vista Project

POPULAR MODEL

The Americas is one of five home models meeting popular reception from public at International Home Fair, Westminster.

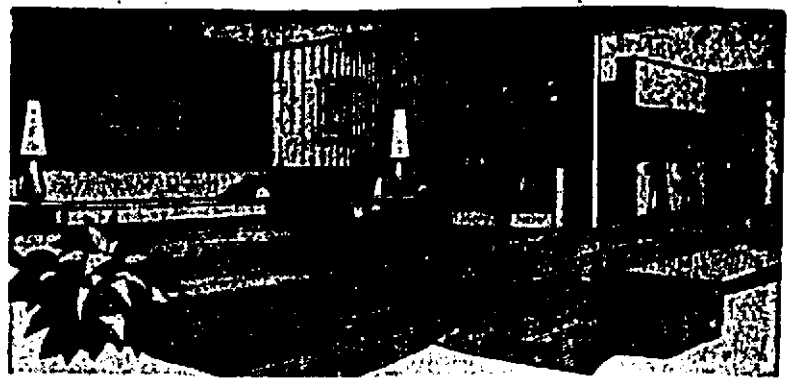

Ground has been broken unit was opened," declared for the third unit of 89 homes at the Sol Vista International Home Fair in Westminster.

The 565 residences in this 160-acre master planned community are priced from $22,895 to $28,300. It will have a school as well as park site and be adjacent to a proposed shopping center.

Caterson and his staff have been phoning a number of families who had not been able to get in the first two units and informing them that the Preliminary Commissioner's Report had arrived.

Sol Vista has initiated a number priority system similar to that used in super markets so reservations will be taken in an orderly manner. Represented are the Scandinavia, the Americas, the Oriental Garden, the South Seas and the Continental.

"WE ARE confident that initial reservations for the new unit will equal, if not exceed, the total of 48 that were taken when the second unit was opened," declared Caterson.

Country Square Homes Attract With Moderate Price and Terms*LARGE HOME FOR $17,740

Here is an interior view of one of the Country Square Homes which are priced from $17,740 with down payments starting from $495.

Attracting crowds of enthusiastic home buyers is Country Square, the Long Beach area's newest subdivision, according to Jack Hanscom of Mesa Realty, exclusive sales agents for the development.

Hanscom added that area homebuyers commented very favorably on the spacious, well planned interiors and the smart exterior designs.

Three and four bedroom homes with two baths make Country Square the large house with the small price. Up to 1600 square feet of living area is offered, and the homes sell from $17,740 with the down payment starting as low as $495.

LOCATED 10 minutes from the Douglas plant, the homes offer many features such as built-in acoustical type ceilings, finest natural cabinets, exposed natural wood beam ceiling, real wood-burning fireplace, gas forced air heating with thermostat controls, large sliding glass doors to patio, combination kitchen-dining area, lifetime aluminum sliding windows, double over-size garage with laundry facilities, full provisions for gas laundry equipment and convenient walk-in bedroom closets.

To reach Country Square from Long Beach, drive east on Carson to Bloomfield and turn right. Or drive out Spring Street to Bloomfield and turn left to furnished models.

Stanton Issues Only 4 Building Permits

Only four building permits for construction totaling $5,270 were issued by the Stanton Building Department during the past week.

Penn Pipe & Supply Co., 8580 Central Ave., was issued permit for construction of a commercial storage building valued at $2,750.

The other permits were issued to Blue Chip Realty, 8141 Katella Ave., sign, $500; Clayton Hodge, 10645 Beach Blvd., radiator repair shop, $1,700; and Richard E. Meyer, 10654 Ramblewood Ave., patio, $320.

Lath and Plaster in Homes

"Builder-developers of Bolsa Park have found that high quality lath and plaster construction of walls and ceilings sells houses," states Ernie Merrill, sales manager for the popular Huntington Beach new home community.

"Lath and plaster construction makes a difference to astute home buyers, and for very good reasons," Merrill continued. "With twice the thickness of substitute materials, lath and plaster provides the durability, quietness, and lasting beauty of solid building."

THE HOMES provide three, four or five bedrooms, two full baths with extra over-tub shower, and family-dining rooms. Living room fireplaces are of brick or Palos Verdes stone, with log lighters.

They are priced from $23,300 to $23,490, with veterans no-down-payment terms, FHA, 30 and 35 year 5 1/4% interest terms with $1200 down, and Cal-Vet financing.

Garden Park's Five-Bedroom Homes Offer Spacious Living*A GARDEN PARK ESTATE

One and two-story luxury homes in Garden Park Estates new '63 unit boast fireplaces styled to the home's decor, and the award-winning two-story homes have, in addition to a charming fireplace in the spacious living room, a second fireplace in the second floor master bedroom.

Unusually spacious, Garden Park Estates two-story luxury homes are designed with five large bedrooms and, in addition to the decorated fireplaces in the gracious living room, there is a second fireplace in the upstairs master bedroom, officials of this walled community at Knott Ave. and Garden Grove Blvd., report.

Two-story elevations in the new '63 unit, as well as one-story homes, are presented in a selection of distinctive exteriors. The one-story, two-bath plans are designed with three and four bedrooms, family rooms or dining rooms and two luxuriously appointed baths.

Features list fireplaces in a wide variety of materials and design (many with raised hearths or mantels), walls of sliding glass to garden-patio areas, luxurious baths with pullman lavatories, imported mosaic tile and colored plumbing fixtures; and appliance-equipped kitchens.

FULL PRICES are from $18,600 to $25,600, the spokesman said, and the dwellings may be purchased on VA terms of nothing down except impounds and closing costs; Cal-Vet; good conventional terms or choice of 30 or 35-year FHA.

Color-coordinated Garden Park Estates kitchens all have built-in wall oven with color-matched range, and range hood with light and fan, hardwood cabinets with raised panel doors, and counters topped with finest ceramic tile.

Drive from Long Beach east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave. and Garden Park Estates.

Torrance Concern Will Reactivate Silicon Plant

Purchase by B. K. K. Mining, Inc., Torrance, of the former Ward-Lee Chemical Corp. property at Dixieland, Calif., 10 miles west of El Centro on Highway 80, was announced recently.

The transaction included eight-plus acres on which there is a three-acre submerged electric furnace which, when rebuilt and reactivated, will convert silica ore to silicon metal, an item appearing on the strategic list.

There also is on the property a 20' x 60' concrete building housing an assay room, office and storeroom.

The B. K. K. Mining Co.,

according to information related to the I. V. D. A. by Paul C. Esch, B. K. K. engineer, contemplates reactivation of the plant sometime in November.

Delay in opening is due to rush work involving a subsidiary company engaged in the operations of a granite quarry in San Diego County.

Regarding the future of the plant, Esch said that they would probably install a vacuum process for crystal growth, a form of silicon used in the inertia guidance components in rockets and space flights. This strategic item sells for $375 to $380 per pound at present.

C of C Political Education Programs Start June 10

Long Beach Liberty Theatre, a new grass-roots political education program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, kicks off its first program June 10 and 11 at two local elementary schools.

The public is invited to attend the meetings June 10 at Birney Elementary School and June 11 at Patrick Henry Elementary School, it was said.

Chairman James Morrison, president of Barnes & Delaney, stated: "Liberty Theatre is a program which emphasizes the spreading of patriotic knowledge through audiovisual methods. A group of the most effective and appropriate films of patriotic importance that are available will be presented."

Liberty Theatre will offer a free series of weekly film programs for the general public which will be held in the same location and on the same evening of each week for the length of the series.

The series will run from eight to 12 weeks.

It's what's inside that counts!

We're all aware of beautiful modern-day structural engineering, but ever stop to think what makes it practical? It's what's inside that makes it practical... the plumbing, the heating, the cooling, the ventilating and the piping equipment. And who is responsible for furnishing, installing and connecting this vital "inside" portion of a building? The mechanical contractor.

The mechanical portions of a building have somewhat the same status as the heart, lungs, brain and digestive systems of a human body. They are the vital organs which enable the framework to function smoothly and efficiently.

And just as the physician is essential to the proper functioning of the human body... so is the mechanical contractor essential to the proper functioning of the mechanical portions of a building. It is he who is technically skilled and trained to know the wheres, whys and hows of today's highly complex mechanical installations. He must know and understand the principles of hydraulics, physics and metallurgy. He is responsible for the installation and servicing of all that machinery and equipment whose constant use and operation is necessary for the safe and healthful occupancy of the structure by its users.

Yes... no one can deny this is a beautiful structure, but as the old saying goes... "Beauty is only skin deep... it's what's inside that counts."

And it's the mechanical contractor that makes it count.

Wherever air, oil, gas, water or any liquid under pressure is piped, there you will find the skills of the P.I.P.E. mechanical contractor and his journeymen pipelitters and plumbers.

Words Different, Meaning Same

... 'Hospitalese' Translated in 17 Languages

By MARY ELLIS

Ich mochte jemand sprechen der meine sprache versteht!

Quiero ver a alguno que hable mi lenguaje!

Ja chcem sie rozmowic w mojem jezyku!

Now don't run for the phone to call the newspaper. Those aren't so many words jumbled by the linotype.

Instead, they're the German, Spanish and Polish way (in that order) to say: I want to see someone who speaks my language!

It's the most oft repeated request among non-English speaking patients admitted at Memorial Hospital.

IRISH COLLEEN Doreen Fox, medical records clerk at hospital, is in strategic position to help carry out International Club's program of service to non-English-speaking patients. When foreign patients are admitted, she notifies hospital employees who are of same nationality. They visit patient, help orient him to hospital surroundings and translate his needs to attendants. A native of Dublin County, Ireland, Miss Fox has been in U. S. five years.

And international city that we are, there are from eight to ten a month!

MOST USUALLY they're emergency cases from aboard ships. Sometimes they're tourists, other times visitors.

Very often they can't speak a word of English. And that's pretty frustrating—even if you're just trying to buy a bag of peanuts.

But when one is desperately ill, can't parleyvoo Americanese, doesn't know how to call for sestru bolnicarku (Yugoslavian for the nurse) or tell someone he's fazom (Hungarian for cold)—well...

"It can be frightening for the patient," says hospital Chaplain Robert Gunter, a stocky, black-haired dedicated Alabamian who, as he says, "can speak only Southern."

Lack of communication can be confusing, says he, for everyone concerned—the patient, the nurse, the doctor, the dietician, the technician or whomever.

RECOGNIZING THE great need, Chaplain Gunter set about breaking down language barriers shortly after he joined the staff three years ago.

Through his efforts, with the help of the hospital's two-year-old International Club and its many foreign employees, Memorial now has a unique two-way communication system for foreign patients and hospital staffers.

Gunter compiled a list of personal, medical and special needs—the things most often asked by patients.

Examples: I want a bath, I want some writing material, I am too hot, I want something for pain, I am hungry, I want to see my doctor, ditto my nurse.

There are 45 in all, including this one: please have someone explain the bedside panel to me... which must be requested often, since ultra-modern Memorial's bedside panel looks about as electronic as a jet airliner's cockpit.

GUNTER AND HIS aides have completed some 15 worksheets, each listing the various needs in a given language. Opposite each is the English translation.

The patient (from Indonesia, Norway, Guam or wherever) looks down the list, finds the request in his own familiar tongue, points to it—and, presto, his needs are translated on the spot.

The hospitalese language guides have been completed in Italian, Spanish, Dutch, Indonesian, French, Polish, German, Latvian, Malayan, Tagalog (Philippines), Norwegian, Soendanees (Guam), Greek, Swedish and Japanese.

In the hopper: Turkish and Hungarian.

And Gunter hasn't had to go far to find his linguists. Memorial's staff of 912 includes 86 foreign-borns representing 19 nationalities who speak 27 different languages.

THE LANGUAGE guides have been such a boon to hospital efficiency—and such a comfort to foreign-born patients—that the 30 members of the hospital's International Club have taken up the cause.

Members, through a doughnut sale at morning coffee break in the employees' cafeteria, have, to date, contributed $120 toward publication of the worksheets into a bound dictionary.

Gunter believe it's the first such publication for any hospital.

While race and nationality conflicts are popping up all over the world—in the South, in Vietnam, in Cuba and Haiti—19 different nationalities are working peacefully side-by-side at international-minded Memorial Hospital.

And, now—even language is becoming less of a barrier.

FROM DIFFERENT SIDES OF WORLD—Chaplain Robert Gunter (left) of Memorial Hospital and Ignacio A. Torre, native of Guam and president of hospital's International Club, speak same language when it comes to "hospitalese." They're pooling efforts to publish unique International Language Guide for non-English-speaking patients. Torre, who works in hospital's admitting and accounting offices, is studying in U. S. on grant from Guam government; after completion of studies will return home "to help my people." He speaks four languages.

AMONG 19 NATIONALITIES represented on staff at Memorial are (from left) Christine and Pauline Latuperissa, sisters from Indonesia, and Soledad Ruiz-Asprin from the Philippines, all pharmacists' assistants. The Latuperissa sisters were born in Indonesia, where their father was an official with the Dutch government. They've lived, also, in Holland and Dutch Guinea; speak English, Indonesian, Dutch, French and German. Active in hospital's International Club, Christine is treasurer, Pauline is membership chairman.

A NATIVE OF PHILIPPINES, Gabino (George) Fontanillo is orderly in central services. He has been corporal in U.S. Army, a wheelman in Merchant Marines; speaks Tagalog and English. # Proving Men Are Good Scouts—and Other Tales

GIRL SCOUTS will honor the "men in their lives," (next to their dads, o' course), when the council pays tribute to the men in scouting—fellas who often go above and beyond the call of duty, even after their own daughters have graduated, to help the good cause. Men will hear their praises sung at a dinner in their honor Wednesday at Cerritos College in Norwalk.

Typical of the affection the little gals feel for their heroes is expressed in accompanying picture of Dr. Francis Flynn (left) and Norb Dean, getting hug of approval from Brownie Sandy Tosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tosh. Francis will be speaker at Wednesday's dinner. Dean of development at LBSC, he has been active in scouting through the interest of his daughter, Nancy, for the past 10 years, including providing transportation for seniors to the Colorado River and being a big promoter of cookie and calendar sales.

Scout men—second best to Dad himself!

Norb is a member of the finance committee for the Greater L. B. Council and has three daughters in scouting, Bonnie, Kerry and Wendy, in addition to a host of other community activities.

About 50 or more men will be specially honored: To name a few—Max Durham, Darryl Neighbors, Lt. Vic Miller of the Lifeguards, Dick Mars, Paul Frizzell and Bob Brimmore (of Bellflower).

your husband happy. It had 26 points in all and was a reprint from a book (I think) by Virgil Damon.

Point No. 1 and again Point No. 26 advised wives not to serve their husbands martinis which, he claimed, acted as a catalytic agent for argumentative trouble. He said, "they make shrews out of nice women and fools out of smart men." Ah, come now, Virg!

MERRY moments on the bayfront last Sunday as Sally and Don Graham bid friends to a christening for their newly acquired Cal-24 sailboat at its dock in front of Faye and Harold Mulhollen's home. The Mulhollens graciously loaned their front yard so the crowd could spill out onto the lawn, as needed, for elbow room as they toasted the new craft. What REALLY got christened was the new ice box, made especially for the Grahams by Ray Smith!

... had a blast and a half

HAD THE usual blast and a half at the annual golfing weekend at Gilman Hot Springs for themselves, did local attorneys and spouses. Sterling Clayton emerged this year's champ, with a low gross of 76, while Penny Shriver won again, to remain the gals champ for the second year.

Saturday some of the wives took pity on the golfers, rented a cart and toted cool refreshments to them on the sunny course. Drivers and purveyors of liquids included Loraine Ackerman, Ruth Grisham, Cynthia Blakey AND Jim Baker. By natural gravitational pull, or because golf was too hard for him that day, he decided to join the cart brigade. Weather good. Banquet on Friday, a luau on Saturday and a weary ride home (that's editorializing, but bet it's true) on Sunday.

AS ED SULLIVAN would say, "It was a rilly, rilly open house—rilly open!" That was when Ida and Herb Buehler had open house at their new, still unfinished house, in Huntington Harbour. The exterior has no doors, only cement floors, to date, and no furniture. The bar was stacked lumber and it was well utilized from 4 to 6 p. m.

Ida and Herb have sold their Naples bayfront home and are "camping" in an apartment until home is finished—hopefully by July 1. Among guests who stood a lot (what else?) enjoyed a lot (what else?) were Dolores and Bob Burt, Alice and Bill Gehrke, Marian Hellerud, John Williams, Marti Olsen, Helen and Phil Hahn and Martha and Joe Scheiblaue.

ON GLORIA It looks good. This is a pix of Mrs. George Deukmejian, wife of our good assemblyman, at a recent Pals Club luncheon in Sacramento. She was a model during a "History of Millinery" hat fashion parade.

Pals is a club composed of wives of members of the State Legislature and constitutional officers. Maybe in on Her It Looks Good self defense, because their husbands are so busy, they meet once a week and every once in a while have a hi-jinks like the hat parade.

HEAVENLY release to get away from the little ones for four days at Warners Hot Springs—and, as any parent knows, heavenly in its own way to get back to the warm-armed hugs and moist kisses of little ones was nice experience for Diane and Art (Duke) Guy.

ONE THING for sure, Vivian Clevenger is making no promises about a definite return date as she jets off for Hawaii today on a "dream come true" trip.

She's been in and out of hospitals for the past two years due to after-effects of an auto accident and hasn't been able to work or pursue her art interests, so this will be the change of scenery she's longing for.

She'll go island hopping (try and locate an old college chum but she isn't sure which island she lives on so this could parlay into an interesting search), visit friends in Honolulu; stay at some of the most famous resorts; be on Kauai for its annual state fair; naturally attend a native luau. Well! No wonder she won't promise a thing about a return date. Who would, under the circumstances?

DARN THE luck, We missed Netha and Vic Eckland, who were in town over last weekend from home near San Francisco, guests of Bobbie and George Boedecker on their yacht, "Jubilado." Vic is public relations director of P&O Lines and is en route to Florida to greet the liner, Oronsay, in addition to being guest speaker for a gang of p.r. officials in the transportation field.

IT WAS a wonderful wrap-up to the California State Division of American Association of University Women, hosted by the Long Beach group, especially because our own Ann (Mrs. Ray W.) Townsend was showered with honors. She retires July 1, after eight years as South Pacific Regional vice president, and this was everyone's chance to give her the recognition she deserves.

Ann was recipient of gifts from local, state and national board level. She received a gorgeous silver tray, lovely silver bowl, traveling case and a money gift so she can buy something special for herself when she goes on an around-the-world tour planned for next year.

Perhaps her biggest thrill was that the state will present a $5,000 fellowship to an African teacher in name of Ann Townsend. She also found out that little Nevada (in population, anyway) is giving a $500 fellowship in her name, too. Her many years couldn't have been more happily recognized from her standpoint.

GYRO CLUB members will be gyrotating toward Monterey, come Memorial Day, to attend district convention. Chuck Chandler, he's district gov. and better be on his way, will go accompanied by Naomi. Others packing the trunks of cars to overflowing with golf clubs, party and sports clothes, and travel paraphernalia (it'll take lots, after all they'll be gone four days!) will be Carl and Mary Brooks (he's new pres. of L. B. chapter), Bea and Gib Millie, Ginny and Bob (he's veep) Hall, Dorothy and Walt Strawinski and Shirley and Bill Gillis—with a maybe for the Gillies to date.

They're planning to go up, a la motorcade style, with well placed exclamation point stops to keep the travel less tedious.

Gyro's Robert Hall, Carl Brooks demonstrate how to pack for trip. Wait'll their wives add theirs!

Rules of a Wise Woman

DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day I sat down and wrote myself a letter. In it were some pertinent rules, and on the outside of the envelope I wrote, "To be opened on the day I go to live with my daughter, heaven forbid." I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for six years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go to live with my oldest daughter. I've opened that letter and I think your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here they are:

1. Give what you can toward your keep. Any budget will stretch just so far.
2. Keep yourself clean and neat.
3. Remember, it is THEIR home. Be specially considerate of HIM. He allowed her to bring you here.
4. Give them privacy at every opportunity.
5. If they want to go away on a vacation, but are hesitant because of you, offer to visit another relative or friend so they will be free to go.
6. Don't offer any advice or express any opinions unless asked.
7. Volunteer information that they might be too embarrassed to ask for, such as arrangements for your burial, hospitalization, etc.

ABBY

These rules were written over 20 years ago. I read them often and am determined to keep them. Sincerely.—WIDOW X

DEAR ABBY: Whoever started that stupid rule of courtesy, stating that ladies should leave an elevator first? I am always annoyed with gentlemen who stand rooted to the floor of an elevator and refuse to get out ahead of women who are in the rear of the elevator, struggling to get out. If those stupid men would just step out of the elevator ahead of the women it would be so much simpler for everyone.—"ANNOYED"

DEAR ANNOYED: "Women and children first" is the rule when abandoning a stricken ship, but common sense should prevail when leaving an elevator.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BENNY: No, I am not a "nut" on the subject, but I still think that anyone who smokes is advertising the fact that he has money to burn.

Yes, Abby will send you a personal reply if you send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your problem.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Raisins: Delicious Product of the Sun

A "mistake" of nature in 1873 led to the booming raisin industry in San Joaquin Valley, which always produces more of the dried, sweet grapes than all the rest of the world combined.

It was just before September grape harvest time in 1873 that an unexpected, unusually hot spell baked the valley and dried all grapes on the vine before growers could pick them.

In those days, few people had heard of raisins, but one dauntless grower packed his "dried grapes" off to a grocer friend in San Francisco, where a ship had just arrived from Peru.

The raisins were labeled "Peruvian delicacies" and sold immediately to people who clamored for more.

TODAY, about a million tons of grapes are harvested in the valley in late summer or early fall to produce 250,000 tons of raisins, for it takes four pounds of grapes to make one of raisins.

The grapes are picked by hand and spread on paper trays between the rows of vines to dry in the sun.

Ninety-four per cent of the raisins are from Thompson seedless grapes, with Muscat, Sultanina and currants making up the rest.

Golden raisins are Thompsons, too, but undergo a sulphur processing to produce the golden color.

ALL RAISINS are checked for moisture, sugar, quality and cleanliness by inspectors from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Raisins are not packaged as they come into the pack-

The Short Cut to Fashion

By MARY ELLIS
L. P. Fashion Editor

And now it's the Little Boy bit.

Sounds like an acting assignment? Actually it's a fashion look, but in a sense there's a relationship.

It's a look inspired by the haircuts of scampish characters in the Broadway musical, "Oliver," a show that makes you want to go out and get your hair cut.

THE SMASH HIT, which set the style for tomboy suits for women this spring, now has inspired the most charming raggle-taggle coil of the season — a short, round, capped crown to frame a wistful and wide-eyed, waifish and worldly face.

It also is described as being "nibbled at the edges like romaine lettuce."

Actually, the hair is cut so there's a tumble of bangs shaking down on the forehead; hair at the sides is swept toward the face, wispy at the edges.

TRUE, IN BOTH hairstyling and fashion, the soft trend seems to predominate this season. But there are strong signs that another borrowing — from the boys trend is bidding for popularity.

LITTLE BOY LOOK . . . created for women by the big boys in fashion and hairstyling threatens to sweep the country. His and her urchinlike cuts (above) were inspired by waifish-looking Oliver, star of smash Broadway hit. Many ladies' fashions (tomboy suit, shirt look, bowler hats) are Oliver-inspired.

Fashion gets into the act with the bowler hat, the white organdie cravat, the shirt look in everything from tailored suits to evening gowns.

IN HAIRSTYLING there's also a revival of the Buster Brown look of 30 years ago — bowl-shaped and short banged, Dutch boy style.

The 1963-ism is feminized, has a softer look with waves over the forehead. It, like the Oliver, calls for soft makeup which is light in color.

Subtle and sophisticated, both are terribly young.

They're even cutting wigs the "Oliver!" way.

WHY GROW OLD?

Extra Pounds Generally Land Where Not Needed

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Extra pounds always seem to land where we least want them. Why can't they be more considerate? Why can't they fill out a bony neck or a small bust? And if they cannot do that, why can't they hide underneath the insteps? But not they cling to the waistline, perch on the hips and pile up on the abdomen.

Of course, every woman has her own individual weight distribution. Some have a small bust and large hips. Some have a large bust and practically no hips. Some have large thighs and others find that all the excess poundage seems to land on the tummy.

As a general rule, any extra pounds land where you least want them! That's life for you, and a gay challenge it gives you. It is gay because you can somewhat control the distribution of your weight with exercise.

OVERLARGE hips are a problem for many but I believe that a protruding abdomen and a thick waistline are more usual figure faults. So today, let me give you an effective exercise for each.

For a protruding abdomen: Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Keep your arms in this position. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen. Straighten your legs (not toward the ceiling) and bring your heels close to the floor but do not touch the floor. Continue bending and straightening the legs. At first, you may have to touch the heels to the floor between bends. Later on, it will not be necessary.

For the waistline: Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms overhead, one arm by each ear. Keep your arms in this position while you rotate your trunk. Make the circles complete and as large as comfortable. Rest. Repeat.

IF YOU would like to have my tested exercises for either the waistline or the abdomen, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6 or 2 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Old Stocks Good For Wallpaper

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

If you have stock certificates that you found in the bottom of an old trunk or in cleaning the attic when Great Aunt Minnie went into the nursing home, don't start planning your trip to Europe.

According to Thomas J. Fagan, resident manager of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, (who has a drawer full) his firm has never found one of these obscure securities of any value at all.

The majority of questionable certificates brought in hopefully to the Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis office have been issued by small companies that have been unsuccessful.

Many stocks issued in the late 20s and early 30s during a rapid growth period when many new companies were started have found their way to the bottom of the drawer.

Some early oil companies in Long Beach and Nevada mining companies were once very popular stocks and now are good for wall-papering only.

For information concerning unlisted stocks of uncertain value, Fagan suggests writing to the state capital where the company was incorporated and ask the corporation commission if the company is still in existence.

"WOMEN, DAY BY DAY, grow more intelligent about the stock market," said Fagan.

Sixty per cent of those attending a series of lectures offered by Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis on investments were women. Among topics included were "How Economics Affect the Market," "How Stocks Are Bought and Sold," and "How to Read the Financial Page."

Many of these women have never invested in the stock market. However, about one third of the accounts of the firm are women investors. Over half of the nation's stockholders are women.

Five or six women attend Paine, Webber daily, out of about 55 persons, to watch the activity on the board. Many friendships have developed with this common interest.

The morning this reporter stopped in, there was a very elegantly dressed grey haired woman in a handsome black hat sitting in the front row avidly watching the changes on the board, eating a strawberry ice cream cone.

Oswald Jacoby Ace Discard Assures Set

Here is a hand that comes from the fertile brain of the late Ely Culbertson.

Ely loved sensational plays, especially one that could be based entirely on sound bridge reasoning.

There are so many ways for South to get to four spades, but probably the best is just to bid it right over the club opening.

West might double, but a pass is more discreet. East probably considers a further bid, but the vulnerability situation should deter him.

There is no problem about the opening lead. East wins the trick with the queen of clubs and continues the suit and right here is where West must produce his sensational play.

West must discard his queen of hearts on the second club and his ace of hearts on the third club.

THIS IS the only way to beat the four spade contract and it is perfectly

It might cost West the second trick of a potential two trick set, but West's only real interest is to set the hand something.

Evelyn Carpenter, 5850 Dunrobin Ave., Lakewood, took a top prize for an oil painting and Edna Padrick, 14716 S. Blaine Ave., Bellflower, won with a collage.

Winners of the Pearl Guenther Award were Mabel Alvarez of Beverly Hills and Verna Elder of Ventura.

Price winners were selected by Curt Opliger, city art coordinator of Los Angeles Department of Municipal Art.

The show will run through June 16. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Fridays; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

TWO EXHIBITIONS close today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., "A University Collects: Notre Dame," and the 39th annual "Spring Juried Exhibition" by Long Beach Art Association.

Opening next Sunday will be "Arts of Southern California, XIII: Painting," and selections from the Museum Collection.

In the interim, some galleries will be closed temporarily for installation of the June shows.

VIRGINIA MULLEN is exhibiting at Magnolia Theater during the current production of "Summer of the 17th Doll." Early this summer the artist will have a one-man exhibit at a La Cienega gallery.

A DISPLAY of work by students at Seal Beach Artists League Art Center will remain hanging until June 3. Students in both private classes and those sponsored by Orange Coast College will exhibit.

Judges will be the teachers, with no teacher judging his own class. Instructors are Dr. Bela Biro, Darwin Duncan, Glen Jones, Derk Smit, Dale Owen, Helen Trescott, Marjorie Vanderlip, Suzanne Ferguson and Richard Johnson.

DICK SWIFT of Long Beach State College art faculty and Esther Lewis of Los Angeles were Southern California winners in the sixth annual Old Testament Art Competition sponsored by the Men's Club of Temple Israel, St. Louis, Mo. Each received an award of merit and an honorarium.

Top prize of $500 went to Glen R. Bradshaw, professor of art at the University of Illinois. There were 300 entries from all parts of the country. Forty-five paintings, twenty-one prints and eight pieces of sculpture were chosen for the show.

A TOTAL OF $4,000 in cash and purchase awards will be given in Los Angeles' 11 annual All-City Outdoor Art Festival this year. More than 2,500 entries are expected. Amateur and professional artists living within a 30-mile radius of Los Angeles City Hall are eligible to compete.

The festival will be held in the Municipal Art Gallery and on the grounds of Barnsdall Park, 4800 Hollywood Blvd., July 13 through July 21. Deadline for entries is midnight, June 24.

DRAWINGS, paintings, fashion illustrations, elementary school arts and crafts, decorative textiles and photographs comprise the annual Student Art Exhibit at Marymount College. The display may be seen through May 31.

Of special interest is a 45-square foot mosaic of a madonna and child, the senior project of Claudia Barrett-Smith, who began the work in October.

Storm Bull

300 Young Pianists Start National Auditions Tuesday

Storm Bull, professor of music and head of the piano division at the University of Colorado, will adjudicate the National Piano Playing Auditions Tuesday through June 12 in the YWCA Auditorium, Sixth Street and Pacific Avenue.

The auditions, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, has been an annual event in Long Beach since 1950 when 18 young pianists were judged on their year's achievements.

Today, the students number approximately 300. They are among 60,000 young pianists in 600 centers throughout the 50 states who take part in the non-competitive auditions.

FOUNDED in 1929, the non-profit guild has made possible cash awards, scholarships, annual report card certificates and membership in the National Fraternity of Musicians.

It sponsored the first Van Cliburn International Piano Competition in Fort Worth, Tex., in September with top award of $10,000 going to Ralph Votapek of Milwaukee. Other famous young guild students include Van Cliburn, John Browning, Ivan Davis and Daniel Pollock.

EULL, member of a famous musical family which included Ole Bull and Edward Grieg, has been acclaimed in Europe and America as a concert pianist. He was one of two private students accepted by the great Hungarian composer-pianist Bela Bartok. Following duty with the U.S. Navy in 1945, he retired from the concert stage to devote his time to teaching, lecturing and research.

LBCC Art Faculty Show of High Quality

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Drawings and paintings by the Art Faculty of Long Beach City College will continue on display at Ruth Bach Library, Bellflower Boulevard at Carson Street, until June 1. The quality of these 13 works helps to account for the high caliber of instruction in this area available through our public school system.

Of the four exhibiting artists, Elsa Warner is probably of the greatest stature. Her works intrigue one into thoughtful viewing, both from a distance and, later, from close up, as they do not release their magic at one glance. These are abstract works which, mysteriously, penetrate space with unknown forms and volumes. Unfortunately, none of the works in the show bears a title, so it is difficult to refer to any one of them specifically.

OF THE THREE Warner oils, I was most drawn to a large vertical one on the left wall as one enters the gallery. There is oil painting, as well as pasted papers which were textured by crumpling, all highly glazed. The palette is dominated by mustard, red-brown, and medium blue giving the effect to me of an enchanted hilly landscape with strange light.

Joseph Donat is also represented by three paintings. His involvement is in the area of decorative composition. The most successful is of black, gray, orange, green and yellow floating blobs which seem to vacillate back and forth delightfully.

JIM CONGELL's best work here is a large ink drawing of seven girls who have the quality of empty-headed dolls (not, surely, CC coeds?) who emerge from marvelous areas of rich wash. He has also, "Crying Girl" whose strong drawing is marred by implausibly caricatured bare feet.

The fourth exhibitor, Donald Dame, shows drawings of bulb plants, geraniums, and weeds for which he is establishing a reputation of excellence through recent local shows.

Best hours for catching this show are Mondays, 6 p.m.; Thursdays, noon until 9 p.m.; and Saturdays from noon to 5 p.m.

Hawaii Beckons Music Critic

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P. T. Music Critic

On Sunday, June 30, 1957, I wrote my first Major & Minor Notes column for the Independent Press-Telegram. In the six years which have followed, I have not missed a single Sunday—not even during vacation time. But now I am needing a "breather." On June 3 I am flying to Hawaii for a much needed rest and change. It will be a time for refreshment and for new ideas for you, my faithful readers. I will have a month away from my desk—and from the concert halls.

During these six years of strenuous effort, I have filled six scrapbooks with my writings. These books represent many hours of time, energy and concentration.

FEW PEOPLE realize the arduous effort involved in covering a concert. The job begins when leaving the house at 7:30 p.m. Two hours of keenest concentration follow the program. At midnight or later one arrives home, and it usually takes one hour to write the review, for if it is a bad concert, the words come slowly; if it is a good concert, there is so much to say. So by the time one is ready for bed it is 2 a.m.

And the end is not yet! At 6 a.m. I must rouse myself to go over my notes and 7 a.m. is the deadline for telephoning in the copy.

IT WOULD be nice if I might spend the rest of the day in bed, but I also am a vocal teacher, and the promising and talented pupils take up most of my day-times.

And so—I am playing "hookey" for the month of June! What of importance have I accomplished during these past six years? I am astounded how many great celebrities of the musical world I have personally interviewed and introduced to my readers through Major & Minor Notes.

Major and Minor Notes

THESE ARE some of the famous ones I have personally interviewed: Singers: Joan Sutherland, John Charles Thomas, Lauritz Melchior, Galli-Curci, Dorothy Kirsten, Rosa Raisa, Leonard Warren, Lily Pons, Mary Costa, Richard Tucker, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, Richard Lewis, Lisa Della Casa, Giorgio Tozzi, Renato Cioni, Sando Konya and Geraint Evans.

Instrumentalists: Piatigorsky, Jascha Heifetz, Josef Szigel, William Primrose, Leonard Pennario; conductors: Zubin Mehta, the late Dr. Bruno Walter, Igor Mar-ketvitch, Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt, Georg Solti, Sir John Barbitrolli, Eugene Ormandy and Erich Leinsdorf.

My reviews of concerts are too many to count. Have I not earned a vacation?

Reducing News As Told By National Figure Authority

Miss Pat Walker Talks about Reducing

I am often asked if I enjoy my work as the National Figure authority for the Stauffer System Salons. The answer is very simple, it is yes.

I like my work because it is so interesting and challenging. It's challenging because every woman has a different figure problem and each woman thinks that her problems are the ones no one can help.

This is because the average woman has tried so many methods of reducing and gone on to many different types of diets only to find she still had her figure problems.

Many women reach the point of thinking that there's nothing else that can be done for her. She thinks this because she has not been exposed to a system such as the Pat Walker Stauffer System.

Can you imagine how gratifying it is to see that same woman in a salon a few short weeks after she starts her treatments and to have her say thank you—thank you for showing me the way to a new figure and in many cases a new way of life.

Over the years we have been responsible for re-making over 5 million women's figures.

Actually there's no guess work to reducing today. Any woman can buy her figure just as she would buy clothes, carpets, furniture or anything else. The only difference is that it is a service and unfortunately it cannot be mailed to her. All she has to do is to pick up the phone and make an appointment for a courtesy treatment and a figure analysis. We offer it to her without obligation.

We pride ourselves in making reducing perfectly painless. We do this by giving wonderful service in pleasant surroundings.

The response of the women here has been so great that even though we had a large salon in Long Beach it has been necessary to open a salon in Lakewood also.

From the analysis we determine where she needs to lose, how long it will take and the exact cost of her correction. From there it is up to her to make her decision of whether she wants to continue to struggle the lonely and frustrating battle of reducing or turn over her problems to us, and let it be our responsibility.

What Others Say:

Here are a few quotations from the hundreds of grateful letters received from women who have taken the Pat Walker's Stauffer System treatments:

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit. I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulky. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. — Mrs. Jackie Stevens, Long Beach.

My husband was all for my going — after all he's like every man who admires a pretty figure. My husband says I'm looking younger and prettier by the day. But what's really great is that I'm losing it where I need to lose it. — Mrs. Catherine Bevent, Long Beach.

I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with her system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked. My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed. — Mrs. Lillian Polak, Long Beach.

So many women think that they have to starve to death or experience painful or strenuous exercise to regain a good figure. Imagine how happy they are when they find that this is not true because relaxation is a part of our program. We have women of all ages who are reducing with us. Also, children. It's a smart mother who recognizes figure problems with her child at an early age and who comes to us to take care of it.

For the convenience of women who work or have baby sitting problems, we remain open in the evenings until 9 o'clock. I want to thank all of the women who write to me letters of gratitude for what we are doing for them, and also, to all of the women who write asking what can be done for their particular problems.

Many people have asked me if the figure problems in Southern California are different from anywhere else? The answer is no. Women are women, no matter where they are from. But each individual case is different and has to be treated as such but with our program the end product is the same perfect figure.

Questions and Answers By Miss Pat Walker

QUESTION: How much does it cost to reduce? Mrs. H.H.
Treatments are $2 per treatment and from a figure analysis we can determine exactly the number of treatments you need to regain your figure.

QUESTION: Everything I try to reduce I look haggard, old and get so nervous. D.G.
With our program you not only lose where you need to lose but you look younger and more vibrant and it does not age you in any sense of the word.

QUESTION: How long does it take to reduce? I get so discouraged when I try on my own. Mrs. P.M.

Every woman is an individual with her own special problems, so therefore one woman needs less than another woman.

QUESTION: My husband says the only answer to reducing is to push yourself away from the table and exercise. L.R.
Cutting your calorie intake and exercising is easier said than done and is a frustrating, never-ending battle. We make reducing pleasant, interesting and enjoyable. Besides, we produce results.

QUESTION: Your ads sound too good to be true? Mrs. B.F.
The people that you read about in our ads are real people who have used our system and are women many of whom you know personally.

ALL THIS WEEK!

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Sharp at Welfare, Good Fare, Too!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L.P.T. Food Editor

Their children are blessed with a lineage of endurance. Their paternal grandparents started from Nova Scotia and never stopped short of Spokane, Wash., while their maternal grandparents matched that record, having taken off from the State of Maine.

Today's Chef of the Week, George M. Logan and his wife met while both were doing graduate work at Washington State University, Pullman, Wash. They have two daughters and one son, Colleen will graduate this year from Long Beach State College; Patricia, from Wilson High, while Mark is a sophomore at Millikan High. Mrs. Logan, who graduated from the University of Puget Sound, presently teaches English.

Head of the Long Beach County Welfare Council, Logan backgrounds his qualifications with a masters degree in sociology from Washington State, and graduate study in social service work at the University of Washington, Seattle. He was born in Spokane.

WITH A basic interest in human problems and their solving, he likens the council to a chamber of commerce. What the chamber is to business, the council is to health, welfare, youth and civic activities. It is composed of 65 private and public agencies, all interested in like endeavors.

Much has been accomplished under Logan's tutelage. The council has been able to get a State Mental Health Clinic and State Alcohol Treatment for Long Beach. It studied hospital necessities before the last bond election was put to a vote; and by its insistence, brought about the passage of a city ordinance calling for better enforcement of charity drives, a reckoning of how the money was spent, etc.

Before coming to Long Beach in 1954, Logan had worked for a time with the Public Welfare Administration at both county level and for the State of Washington, and in both Pasadena and Glendale.

With the advent of World War II, Logan joined the Navy and was assigned to the Naval Welfare Service, Red Cross. Being based for two years at Port Huemene, and a liking for Southern California prompted his locating here.

A MEMBER of the National Association of Social Workers, life, for him, is just one big committee meeting.

He finds a game of tennis the best un-winder in the world—and plays like a madman. Being absolutely concrete about not liking crab grass in his flower beds, he's become expert in the use of concrete.

Unlike most men — he likes casseroles. He never questions them. There are a few foods he thoroughly dislikes—but it's usually because of some youthful association.

OUR "CHEF" enjoys, and will, quite often, whip-up a real sassy foreign dish for supper, but when it comes to breakfast... that meal is completely regulated. One day, it's pancakes—the next, French toast—the next, scrambled eggs (occasionally one may appear "sunny-side-up" or "easy-over"). Come Friday, however, it's time to begin to relax for the weekend, so the menu entree is dry cereal. (One gets a choice, of course.) Saturday is SD-Day (slow down day), and you get the works, eggs, and/or ham, bacon and coffee. Sunday speeds up again. His recipe today is for East Indian Curry.

EAST INDIAN CURRY
3 lbs. breast of lamb
1 large onion, sliced
5 ripe tomatoes, cooked, or one #2½ can
2 cups meat stock, from lamb
1 or more tblsp. curry
3 tblsp. flour
½ cup cream

Simmer lamb until tender. Remove meat from bones and cut into bite size pieces. Cool in its stock, and skim off fat. Cook onion in fat until tender, but not brown. Add tomatoes and simmer until tomatoes are thoroughly cooked. Thicken with flour, diluted in cold water. Add curry and stock. Strain, add meat. Just before serving, add cream. Serve in ring of hot rice. Serves 6-8.

Worrywarts Get a Lift From Jewelry

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK — Worrywarts are causing cheer in the jewelry trade.

Trinkets to help the worrier worry are making the jeweler's cash register ring they ring—the worrier in smiles.

The worry objects include worry beads, fidget stones and worry birds.

THE WORRY BEADS—16 in a circle—help pessimists meditate on their problems. You touch a bead and think of a problem. Then you move on to the next bead—and the next problem.

If you have more than 16 problems, do another lap. Keep going in circles with the beads until you've enervated your worry wells. Make them run dry for the moment, that is.

Worry beads, however are mostly for females. Imagine the worry if a husband took to the beads without letting his wife know—and she found the strange things one night while going through his pockets!

BETTER FOR MALES: The fidget stone. It's a beautiful, smooth piece of jade, suitable for slipping into a pocket. Jade's supposed to be lucky.

The modus operandi for fidget stone carriers: rub the rock in moments of stress.

Don't laugh at worry beads or fidget stones. They've stood the test of time. The ancient Greeks are credited with thinking up worry beads. The fidget stone's been popular in China for centuries.

JEWELER Betty Fleishman, of Marchal's in New York, said the activity in worry trinkets probably stems from the fact that these are worrisome times and people are searching for instant relaxation.

"It's the poor man's psychotherapy—with a sense of humor," she said.

Mrs. Fleishman takes credit for introducing the worry bird. It's an incredible, ridiculous, red-eyed gold bird absolutely incapable of getting off the ground.

He knows he's going to hang—as all charms must.

"His one goal in life is to take on your worries," Mrs. Fleishman said.

The disc he squats on is engraved—"who's worried?" The funny and foolish, scantily-feathered friend convinces you at first look that he's prepared to have your burdens shift to his narrow shoulders. Or laugh at you—and them. Or have you get rid of your rage by chortling at him.

THEN THERE is the "alarm clock" charm for precision worriers. It's a gold band with a string tied around the index finger.

The finger points to a disc which carries the name of a pill you're supposed to take—or a date that's unpleasant to remember.

Another worry charm: a "happy Buddha" in jade. The smiling figure invites you to "touch me for luck." Rub the jade on its tummy and you may just wind up feeling all is well. Who knows?

"The whole trend," Mrs. Fleishman said, "shows that we have troubles—but, we don't intend to stop laughing."

Wins Award

Mrs. Faith Banks, 4155 Cedar Ave., won the Glen Lukens Award in advance ceramics at the University of Southern California. She was one of 11 fine arts students honored with awards at the annual exhibit of student work in the Upstairs Gallery on campus.

MAE CLARKE, A GRAPEFRUIT AND JAMES CAGNEY

Wants to Forget Grapefruit Scene

By VERNON SCOTT
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Remember Mae Clarke?

She is the pretty blonde who was belted in the kisser by a half of grapefruit at the hands of Jimmy Cagney back in 1931 for a picture titled "Public Enemy."

Well, Mae can be seen almost daily in a new daytime television series playing a nurse. But there was a time when Mae's name in Hollywood was almost synonymous with grapefruit.

Things like that happen to people in movietown—even with the great ones. Clark Gable will always be remembered for taking off his shirt in "It Happened One Night" to reveal a bare chest and no undershirt.

George Raft will forever be recalled flipping a 50-cent piece, and Bette Davis can hardly escape being associated with the nervous tapping of a cigaret all the while crying, "Petah!"

and the camaraderie of the crew.

AFTER HER famous grapefruit scene she went on to appear in 80 movies and has some 36 television shows to her credit. But had she known what a furor the grapefruit would cause, Miss Clarke would have skipped "Public Enemy" altogether.

"I hated that scene," she said, reaching back more than 30 years in her memory.

"The grapefruit in the face was dreamed up on the spot. It wasn't even in the script.

WELL, WITH Mae Clarke it's grapefruit.

Mae, who happily admits to being in her 53rd year, denies that she has suffered a trauma about grapefruit, although there is evidence to the contrary.

She has become an excellent painter and one of her works is a still-life including seven different varieties of fruit with one glaring omission—a certain spheroid citrus fruit, yellow in color and larger than an orange. You with it?

"Just the same, I enjoy grapefruit on the breakfast table," said Miss Clarke, a slender, sprightly little actress who chatters about almost any subject without restraint.

As a nurse in ABC-TV's "General Hospital," she is delighted with the steady work

MAE CLARKE
 No Grapefruit

In those days it was fun to put together little gags strictly for projection-room laughs. "I never believed for a minute it would be kept in the film.

"When the picture was released women's clubs all over the country objected to a female being treated like that on the screen. It was so shocking that audiences forget that they were seeing something else for the first time on the screen.

"It showed an unmarried girl (me) having breakfast with a man in his pajamas (Cagney). That was the real shocker. Nowadays a situation like that on the screen is almost commonplace."

Miss Clarke would like to forget the entire episode and have people remember instead that during World War II she was a nurse's aide, and thus eminently qualified for her role in "General Hospital."

Plays Hunch

Robert Q. Lewis, host for NBC's "Play Your Hunch," has formed his own company, Quagga Productions. His primary aim is the packaging of television shows, although Lewis will keep an eye out for likely stage or screen material.

No 'Tonight' Jitters for Johnny Carson

May 26, 1968

JOHNNY CARSON had to re-schedule his "Tonight" show so Ida Lupino (left) and Zsa Zsa Gabor wouldn't be on together. The pair of actresses aren't speaking to each other. Johnny, who would have been caught between, didn't want anyone to be at a loss for words.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Johnny Carson, the nice guy who replaced Jack (The Weeper) Paar on the "Tonight" show, brought his troupe to movietown for a few weeks to give and take with the stars.

Bob Hope, (11:15 p.m. Wednesday, Channel 4), Milton Berle, Kirk Douglas, Edie Adams and Marlon Brando were among his scheduled guests.

Carson himself had a long fling at Hollywood with little success before flying off to New York and stardom. This is perhaps the only thing he has in common with his two predecessors on the show, Paar and Steve Allen.

They, too, bombed the tinsel town before hitting it large in Big-Town-on-the-Hudson.

But that is where most similarities end. Carson's ego is minuscule compared with Paar's and his intellect and proclivity for causes falls somewhat short of Allen's.

STILL, Johnny has racked up higher ratings than either. After eight months on his late-night show, Carson has not fallen victim to the jitters that finally caused both Allen and Paar to flee the man-killing show.

"I enjoy the program," Johnny said over a platter of bacon-and-eggs. "I try not to let the pressure build up by taking a week off every two or three months."

"If you have a bad night on the air you just have to forget about it because you can't go back and do anything to improve it."

"The law of averages is what saves you. Some of the shows are good and some are bad. You just hope for the best and take each day as it comes."

SOME days are worse than others. For instance, Johnny recently arranged to have Zsa Zsa Gabor and Ida Lupino on the same show, only to discover the girls weren't on speaking terms. He had to separate their appearances to eliminate the possibility of a chance meeting backstage as well as on camera.

Granny Clampett Likes Being Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Old Granny Clampett polished off a nooday martini and allowed as how "The Beverly Hillbillies" beats mule-skinning as a way of making a living.

Granny, of course, is Irene Ryan, an actress some 100 years younger than the role she plays in the popular television series. A nominee for an Emmy, she will also serve as a trophy presenter during tonight's ceremonies.

The hillbilly show lifted Irene, a San Francisco girl, from hard-working but obscure character actress to the dazzling heights of stardom on the country's top-rated series.

"A year ago I was a sad gal," Irene admitted.

"I couldn't get a guest shot

downs in Hollywood for years. The secret to finally getting to the top is that an actor has to be 'of' show business, not just 'in' it."

Now what in the devil did she mean by that?

"The difference is this: When your luck is down and work is hard to find you've gotta go along with it. Stay in there. Keep trying. That's being 'of' show biz. The people who get discouraged and take other jobs are just 'in' it. Well, I'm 'of' it."

NEW VISTAS have opened to the diminutive actress, best known in the past for her quivering-lipped portrayal of terrified little maids, nurses and secretaries.

This summer, while the show takes a vacation, Irene will make personal appearances that will bring her more money than she is paid for co-starring on the CBS-TV smash hit.

Such places as Tulsa, Baton Rouge and Battle Creek are in for visits from Granny. Some of her appearances will be with Max Baer Jr. and Donna Douglas, who play the slightly demented young folk in the series.

Pan and Fan Mail

It was wonderful, magnificent, stupendous!

And two hours of it, uninterrupted with NO commercials!

I'm talking about "That Midnight Kiss" Sunday evening on channel 11.

Please pass the word on to Riviera and ask them to please, please, please do it again.

I mean the two hours of NO commercials.

Mrs. Frances J. Heath, Wilmington

If there were no commercials, how did you know Riviera sponsored the movie?

on, carries the mike around, etc.?

Nydia Hatch, Lakewood

La Mirada Ave. and Vine St., Hollywood 28. Write the "Ticket Department," in care of the playhouse. Johnny-on-the-spot Jacobs.

Could you please give me the birth dates of Dick Chamberlain and Vince Edwards?

Theresa De Mello, Artesia

Dr. Kildare was born March 31 and he's 28 years old. Ben Casey was born July 26 and he's 31 years old, although I've noticed in some fan-magazine stories that he's getting younger lately.

CAROL LAWRENCE sings on "The Garry Moore Show" at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2.

In the newspaper recently there was a picture of Richard Egan saying someone called him their "dreamboat."

I think he is the greatest and "dreamboat" is a good title for him.

I have a dozen pictures of him.

I saw "A Summer Place" four times just to watch that dreamboat act.

I will be watching "Empire" re-runs and waiting for "Redigo" to begin.

Vera Olson, Long Beach

Just keep dreaming, Vera, and someday your boat may come in.

What happened to Dorothy Gardiner's show on channel 5?

Mrs. William Powder, Long Beach

After 15 years of working for the station, channel 5 found its new format didn't leave room for Dorothy.

Could you tell me the address of the Steve Allen Television Playhouse? How can we get tickets to see his show? What is Johnny's last name—the gentleman who helps Steve put his clothes

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

I am not sure what makes a professional television viewer. But I suppose it's getting paid to watch TV. Since, in a sense, I am financially compensated for doing what I would be doing for free anyway, I feel a certain obligation.

It is an obligation which I face with hesitancy, although I have met it in the past with a certain amount of modest success.

It is the obligation of predicting the Emmy winners. How the predictions tally with the results can be checked out by you when the Emmy Awards show airs at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 4.

There is one major element that the amateur and the professional television viewer have in common in predicting Emmy winners.

Neither has seen all of the nominated performances. It is a condition, I'm sure, which mutually applies to the 6,000 members of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

It is they who vote the winners.

★ ★ ★
BASED ON MY EXPERIENCE, I would guess that most of the TV Academy members probably watch less television than you and I.

By the time most of them have finished their day's work on their own productions, they've had enough TV without dashing home to turn on their sets.

In addition, most of them are early-to-bedders because they have to beat the rooster up for the next morning's call back to work.

In actual practice, my predictions or your predictions or the TV Academy member's vote must be based on what we've seen.

Thus invoking the "unseen" limitation, I hereby submit my Emmy choices:

Best series actress—Lucille Ball.

Best series actor—Dick Van Dyke.

Best actress in a single performance—Kim Stanley for her role in the "Ben Casey" series as a narcotic-addicted lawyer.

Best actor in a single performance—Joseph Schildkraut for his portrayal of a rabbi in the "Sam Benedict" series.

Best supporting actress—Glenda Farrell for her role as a suffering mother in the "Ben Casey" series.

Best supporting actor—Tim Conway for his portrayal of Ensign Parker in "McHale's Navy."

Best single program of the year—"The Tunnel," a documentary on Berlin.

Best humor program—"The Beverly Hillbillies."

Best dramatic series—"The Defenders."

Best musical program—"The Lively Ones."

Best variety show—"Carol (Burnett) and Co."

Best documentary—"The Tunnel."

Best musical-variety performance—Carol Burnett.

Best children's program—"Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color."

Best public affairs program—"CBS Reports."

SPECIAL

MY THREE SONS—William Frawley dusts off the soft shoes and vocal chords of his vaudeville days when, as Bub, he's the unsuspecting secret prize in Chip's "evening with a star" raffle. Bill Days, Burney Bell, Bob Garson and Jay Moffett (The Sportsmen quartet) back Bub's routine as singing waiters at Mooney's restaurant, ch. 7 at 9 p.m.

WINSTON CHURCHILL—Quentin Reynolds narrates a holiday reprise of "The Finest Hour," in-depth portrait of the humorist, author, sportsman, family man, painter, bricklayer and comic clothing iconoclast. Eleanor Roosevelt's comments are included at 9 p.m., ch. 13.

THE NURSES—Another "adult" theme is probed, this time with the special blessing of the Venerable Disease Education Unit of the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare; the U. S. Public Health Service and the American Social Health Association, at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Diane Baker stars as a former nurse who has contracted V. D. through a single extra-marital incident. The vital need of identifying the carrier and treating both involves the ordeal of telling her husband the facts and accepting the consequences.

SOUTHLAND'S LARGEST BEDDING MANUFACTURER SAYS LOWER PRODUCTION COST TO CUT MATTRESS PRICES!

Progress in the field of quality mattress manufacture has been rapid during this past year, according to Mr. Marion Wyatt, owner of the Acme Mattress Factory in Long Beach. Over $60,000 worth of highly complicated mattress-making machinery has been installed, making this factory one of the best equipped plants in the entire Southland area. One machine, used solely in the making of the increasingly popular King Size sets is valued at over $10,000. "You have to sell a lot of King Size beds to pay for a machine like that," says Mr. Wyatt. Evidently, they do just that—Acme is the leading sales preference in the area, and has sold over 500,000 mattresses since opening the plant at 3415 E. Anaheim St., in 1932.

TREND TO KING SIZE BEDS INDICATED

The standard double-bed is giving way to the larger and more comfortable King Size style, which is seven feet long and six feet wide, actually as wide as conventional beds are long. "Since we are able to build a high quality mattress for an extremely low cost we are selling King Size mattresses at sometimes $100.00 lower than furniture stores are advertising," states an Acme salesman. Although the factory does a large business in contract and custom-made bedding for industry, individuals who want to deal direct with the factory make up a large share of sales.

Number One in Sales Preference in Long Beach Area

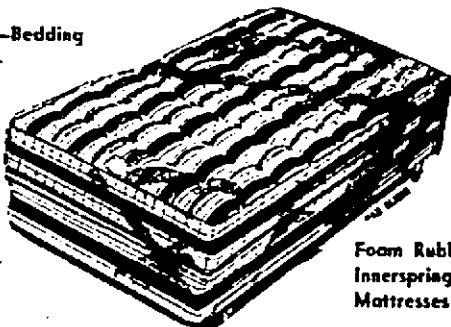

As indicated by a recent survey, (January, 1963), the ACME Mattress Factory presently surpasses all retail furniture, bedding, sales outlets, and discount stores, in addition to all nationally known and widely advertised brands sold by large department stores of both local and national origin. Small wonder. Bigger production savings afforded by Acme's modern factory enables the buyer to purchase direct from the factory at savings of 50% and more from standard retail prices offered by furniture and department stores. Emphasis on high quality from all Acme-made products demand much hand-made production in addition to precision machined products. Special attention is paid to small detail work in every Acme product. ### Custom Made Mattress Trends to Rise This Year

Greater demand for custom bedding, such as that used for Mobile Homes, Trailers, Boats, Campers, and Station Wagons, as well as custom-made mattresses for the home is expected to be increased during the coming months. Special equipment and large factory staff maintain large scale savings on this specialized market according to the Acme Mattress Factory in Long Beach. Round Beds, Horseshoe Beds, and custom-made beds and mattresses of many shapes and sizes are already popular and gaining in popularity. Jayne Mansfield and other Hollywood movie stars are reputed to have purchased heart-shaped beds. "We haven't manufactured any heart-shaped beds so far" says an Acme spokesman, "But we'll make anything the buyer wants." In addition to custom-made bedding and mattresses, the factory has a complete custom re-upholstery department where the buyer can save up to 50% of the cost of new chairs, sofas, or various upholstered products.

NEW IDEAS IN SOFA BEDS, CUSTOM DESIGNED SLEEPERS AND SOFAS

In keeping with latest trends in modern bedding such as dual sleepers, fold-away sofas and convertible beds of all types. Acme's mattress and bedding designers have come up with some of the most exciting designs of the season. One of these most popular items is an Acme sofa-bed converter which converts any standard twin size mattress into a luxurious sofa-bed. Price is just $9.95 with covers and bolsters optional.

OUR COVER

Ten thousand square dancers, you'll have to admit, would add up to a crowd on any floor. That's why seven locations have been selected in Long Beach to accommodate the 10,000 expected for the 10th annual California Square Dance convention next weekend. They'll parade and they'll dance, but mostly they'll dance in their gay costumes, just as the convention chairmen are twirling and

NEXT WEEK

Frank E. Cook, 92, of Long Beach, is one of the last of the old timers hereabouts who trekked westward in a covered wagon. Though only three years old at the time, he can recall some of the details of that memorable trip. He remembers well coming to Southern California in 1882. Next week, in Southland, he tells how he helped to build Willmore City, the town that became Long Beach.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 601 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on ARMSTRONG — D. A., Garden Grove.

D. A.: ARMSTRONG was a celebrated, highly honored Scotch clan name. This family protected the border between Scotland and England for centuries, until hostilities ended between the two countries. In medieval years they built Castles Garry and Iver. Their name meaning is obvious, "strong of arm in battle." The spectacular Armstrong coat-of-arms has a symbolic "arm" clothed in red, grasping a broken green tree trunk, centered on a silver shield. The clan motto "Invictus maneo" translates as "I remain unconquished."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze LOESCHEN. — Mrs. L. P., Artesia.

L. P.: LOESCHEN is an American form of the German surname Loschen. Two sources for this name were found through extensive research. One was "Loschener" meaning "Processor and seller of fine buckskin or deerskin." The other origin was "Loschen-kohl" indicating "Burning-heap," applied to a maker and seller of charcoal.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of CRIST. — Mrs. E. C., Santa Ana.

E. C.: CRIST is a German surname. The origin was an ancestor baptized Christianus, meaning "Christian." This name was simplified to Christian, then to Cristin and Crist. No coat-of-arms is recorded for Crist.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on HEYDENREICH. — J. H., Long Beach.

J. H.: HEYDENREICH originated in Germany. This name, formerly "Heyden-Reich," means "owner of fallow, brush-covered property." The Heydenreich lineage were granted a coat-of-arms, a shield divided into four sections, two black and two gold. In the center is a man wearing a plumed cap, his right hand holding three silver flowers; his left hand gripping an arrow, point up. The sections of the man overlying the black background are colored gold; those over the gold part of the backing are tinted black.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze ASTON. — H. A., Long Beach; C. C., Torrance.

H. A., C. C.: ASTON began as "East-ton," calling attention to the "east farmstead" in 12th century England. William Aston was a proud Yorkshire land owner in 1379. The Astons of Cheshire, descended from Gilbert de Aston who lived from 1150 to 1190, were granted a coat-of-arms. Their shield is divided in half by a chevron, the upper part black, the lower, silver. The Aston motto "Pret d'accomplir" translates from French as "Ready to Achieve."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the meaning of GUARINELLO. — D. S., Long Beach.

D. S.: GUARINELLO is Italian, derived however from the Old French "Guarin," meaning "guardian, watchman." To "Guarin," the Italian nickname ending "ello" was added. The resultant "Guarin-ello" indicated "little guardian."

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of MALONE. — J. T., Westminster.

J. T.: MALONE is from the Gaelic Irish clan name O'Maol-Eoin meanings "sons of the Adherent of St. John." The original Malone home was at Clonmacnoise on the River Shannon. The Malones were created Barons Sunderland in 1785. Their shield is red, decorated with a rampant silver lion between three silver stars. The clan motto "Fidelis ad urnam" means "Faithful unto death." Ancestors include Luke Malone of Dover, N.H., 1667.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on CASTELLANO. — P. C., Garden Grove.

P. C.: CASTELLANO is an unusual Italian name for "man from Castile." This family's ancestor migrated from Spanish Castile into Italy in the early Middle Ages. After his establishment in Italy, he was nicknamed for his place of origin.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please identify GROSS and GROHS. — A. B., Bellflower; A. E. G., Long Beach; L. B., Lomita.

GROSS and GROHS are old German, mainly from "gross" meaning "large and stout." Grohs additionally is from the ancient German "grau" meaning "gray-haired." These are surname evidence of ancestral physical descriptions. The Gross shield from Nurnberg has a green linden tree branch on a green mound centered on a silver background. No shield is accessible for Grohs.

DEAR MISS RULE: Is MARGIOTTA connected with the early Italian artist's name GIOTTO? — F. S., Huntington Beach.

F. S.: MARGIOTTA is basically an Italian surname which traces to a female ancestor called Margarita meaning "pearl." Margarita was shortened to Margi which was eventually enlarged with the nickname ending "otta." GIOTTO is from Angiotto or "little angel."

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on ENGBRETSON — H. H., Long Beach.

H. H.: ENGBRETSON originated in Sweden and Norway. The source, "Ingo-Bretson," is defined as "Son of the divine and shining one."

WHEN JAPAN plays host to the Olympic Games in 1964 chances are good that her band will march to music coordinated by John T. Boudreau, musical director for the Los Angeles Rams, Lakers, Blades, Dodgers and Angels. "I got a letter from the Japanese government recently asking me to come over and act as their adviser," Boudreau said, "but I haven't quite made up my mind."

Should Boudreau accept the job it will be the second time he has directed music for the Olympic Games.

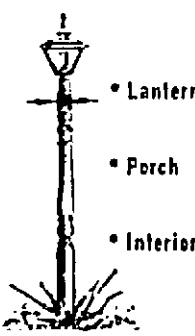

The first time was in 1932 when the Olympics were held in Los Angeles. Boudreau, then a music instructor at his alma mater, USC, did the job so well that it catapulted him into a career as a top-flight band leader, composer and director of half-time entertainment for a half dozen professional sports clubs.

AS A COMPOSER, Boudreau has written more than 100 musical compositions many of them completed during the 25 years he headed

Loyola University's music department.

An associate of Dmitri Tiomkin for the past eight years, Boudreau has coordinated musical scores for numerous pictures including "Around the World in Eighty Days" and "Mutiny on the Bounty" and such TV shows as "The Outlaw."

Currently he's writing a motion picture, which will go into production shortly. "Most of the music is already on the market and the theme song, 'We had the Best Band There,' is doing all right," said Boudreau.

Working with Boudreau and his 43-piece Ram band is a Long Beach girl, Rita Lynch, director of 40 high stepping Ramettes.

"Rita has been with us for six years," said Boudreau, "and she's one of the best."

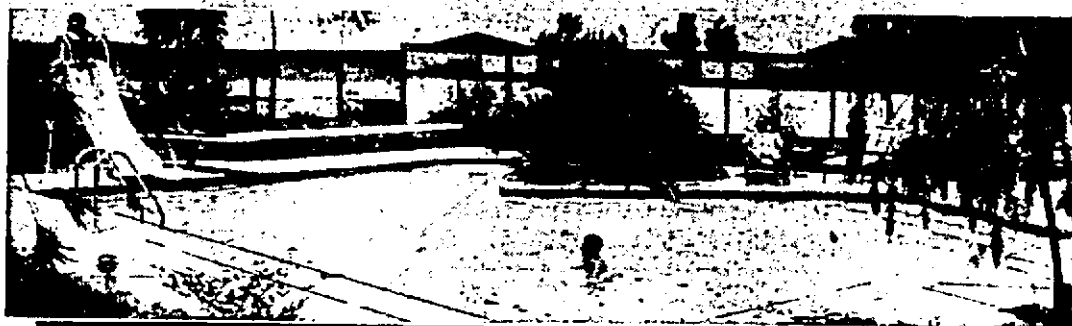

AS MUSICAL director for the Rams since 1946, Boudreau introduced many innovations in half time entertainment which are taken for granted at football games today. He dismisses such achievements with a shrug.

"There are just two things I'm really proud of in my career. One is the fact that our band was the first to play the 'Star Spangled Banner' at football games and the other that, in a small way, I had something to do with the making of a president of the United States.

"Every band plays our national anthem at football games today, but I always thought it a bit strange that it should take a naturalized Canadian like myself to be the first to think of it.

"In 1960, I was musical director for the Democratic Convention and in addition, I was in charge of the demonstration for Kennedy.

"The spontaneous outburst that followed the playing of his name in nomination was actually the result of 30 days of secret meetings on our part to insure perfect timing and coordination."

10,000 square dancers invade
Long Beach next weekend . . .

'Twirl Your Girl!'

By Vera Williams

"DANCE BY the Sea in '63."

That's the slogan for the 10th annual California Square Dance convention May 31-June 2 in the Long Beach Arena, the Municipal Auditorium, the Recreation Center, the Lafayette Hotel, the Breakers International, the Cinderella Ballroom and the National Guard Armory.

Ten thousand dancers are expected.

That's right—10,000 square dancers. They'll come from every part of the state and quite a few other states. Dancers even are expected from foreign countries.

And it will be a swank affair. Square dancing has gone society. Women's full-skirted square dance dresses cost folding money, and the hems of many of the petticoats glitter with sequins. Men wear white shirts and ties. For all the gaiety of square dancing, drinking is strictly taboo. Liquor isn't permitted on the floor and anyone noticeably under the influence is asked to leave.

CONVENTION HOST will be the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs, Inc., formed with five clubs in the immediate Long Beach area in 1949.

Now it has grown to 67 clubs.

Important to square dancing is the caller. This is Travis Snodgrass, a caller and also dance adviser for the state square dance convention.

Members say there are 250,000 square dancers in California — upwards of 25,000 in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

Bill and Jean Munson are president (a couple holds one office in the association) and Bill and May Tickell are general chairman (not chairmen) of this convention. Norm and Joan Holloway are co-chairman. Stan and Clarine Piotrowski are secretary, and Wes and Judy Hicks are treasurer.

THE CONVENTION will open May 31 for an afternoon of square dance workshops and clinics in the Municipal Auditorium and panels in the Lafayette Hotel. Simultaneously, there will be round dance workshops in the Cinderella Ballroom. In the evening there will be square dancing in the Arena and in the Exhibition Hall of the Auditorium. The Convention Hall of the Auditorium and the Municipal Recreation Center will have round dancing.

"Show Time of '63," exhibition group entertainment, is slated for the Concert Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. May 31 and the afternoon and evening of June 1.

A parade is slated for 1:30 p.m. June 1 on Ocean Boulevard from Pacific Coast Club to Pine Avenue, south on Pine around Rainbow Pier to the Arena. State and city officials will have a prominent place in the parade, and there will be bands, floats, and marching units. Floats will be displayed in the municipal parking lot.

A nautical theme will provide atmosphere for the banquet at 6 p.m. June 1 in the Lafayette Hotel grand ballroom. Will Meng will be emcee. Wilma Hastings will direct a fashion show.

THAT NIGHT swirling dancers and callers will take over the Arena. Teen-agers will dance in the Convention Hall, and there will be round dancing in the National Guard Armory. After-parties are slated for both square and round dancers. The grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel will be the scene of a Polynesian party for square dancers; round dancers will have a buffet supper in the National Guard Armory and teen-agers will have a party at the Breakers International.

June 2 will see a wind up round dance party in the Cinderella and "hot hash" sessions in the Auditorium.

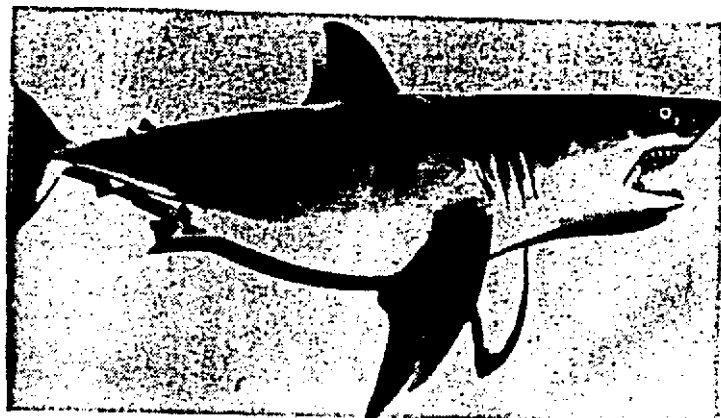

Long Beach will welcome the 13th national square dance convention in July 1964. Upwards of 20,000 dancers are expected then. Bill and May Tickell will be general chairman.

Square dancers go well identified, as badges of Roland Smock indicate here.

Bill and May Tickell [above] share the office of chairman of the square dance convention in Long Beach. Event is expected to attract 10,000 dancers, including out-of-staters as well as California devotees.

Shark Bait!

By Lou Jobst

IT'S A SAFE BET that between now and autumn many Southland swimmers or surfers may spot dorsal fins slicing through the sea—some for the first time.

Their first reaction to spotting a shark is likely to range from transfixed fascination to open panic.

Advice to remain calm and not "get shook" will be about as useful as a shout to a falling man: "Don't worry. You'll be all right."

"No other creature, unless it is the snake, excites in man such a primitive feeling of revulsion and terror as the shark," says shark expert Jules M. Black.

"Men throughout the ages have told and retold all kinds of incredible stories about the shark. The shark has come to epitomize the mystery of the sea and the awe man feels for its vastness."

THESE TALES, many of which are still in circulation, attribute the shark with almost supernatural powers and cunning—he will relentlessly track an intended victim with fanatical determination (remember Captain Hook in "Peter Pan"?), can detect the presence of a drop of human blood in the water at more than one mile away—is virtually indestructible, a pack hunter, voracious and indefatigable.

Generally speaking, these stories are not true. Of the more than 300 varieties of sharks—about 20 of which inhabit Southland waters—only one carcharodon, the white shark, is a known "maneater."

As a group the shark ranges from varieties no larger than the average game fish to the whale-sized basking shark (one weighing 6,200 pounds was recently landed off Newport Beach). And he is generally a docile, dull-witted and often cowardly creature who many seafaring peoples consider the oceanic version of the vulture with the discerning palate of a goat.

SHARKS, scientists have found, will literally eat anything, including gunny sacks of coal, alarm clocks, bundles of old newspapers, tin cans and in one more-or-less unnerving instance—bricks of shark repellent.

As a breed the shark is a traveling stomach—a scavenger who will travel 30,000 miles in a single year to satiate his appetite.

Often his foraging brings him to man, whom he occasionally makes into a meal.

At least one authority, author Thomas Helm, believes the shark may be developing an appetite for mankind.

"It is entirely possible that certain sharks have learned to depend upon the plentiful abundance of human bathers to assuage their appetites while cruising the waters around the United States," says Helm.

THE RECORD doesn't seem to support this theory. In the past 50 years there have been 50—more or less—proven unprovoked attacks by a shark upon man in U.S. waters.

Four persons have been killed by sharks in California since 1959—one as recently as last October off Catalina Island.

Local newspaper accounts carry sensational instances of purported shark attacks:

In 1955, four men and a young woman vanished at sea off Newport Beach. The only clues to their disappearance was an overturned boat and the half-eaten corpse of one man. The outcry was shark attack. However, it is reasonable to believe the quintet drowned and then were attacked by sharks or scavenger fish, quite possibly barracuda.

IN 1952, the Santa Monica charter boat, Spare Time, carrying 12 men, exploded and sank 11 miles offshore. Three men survived. All that was found of the remainder were bloodstained lifejackets. It is likely to suppose the injured men were attacked by sharks, drawn to the scene by blood.

It seems reasonable to assume that injuries have something to do with the attacks because literally hundreds of uninjured persons have fallen from ships into waters where sharks are present and have not been attacked.

An injury was involved in the most recent claim of shark death when a woman fell overboard last fall off Catalina. She was badly cut by the boat's propellers before the sharks launched an attack.

Most expert swimmers and shark authorities warn persons with wounds or cuts to stay out of the water.

WHAT IF YOU are caught in the water in the presence of sharks?

Don't panic, say the experts. Sharks are attracted by sudden movement and might mistake thrashing around for a wounded fish. Set out for shore with even, methodical strokes.

Better yet, stay out of water over your head in the presence of sharks and don't swim at dark or in murky waters.

The shark is naturally cautious and wary if not in a frenzy from the scent of blood.

There are many authenticated cases in which bold skin-divers have literally frightened a nosy shark away by staring him down or banging him on the nose.

Suzanne Theriot, above, of Santa Cruz, lost a leg in a shark attack in 1960.

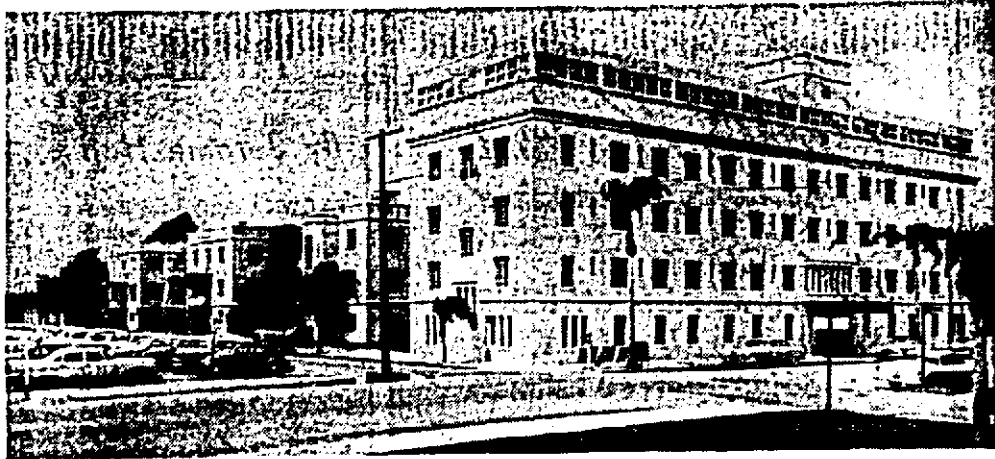

Sand sharks, such as this pair in a San Francisco aquarium, are more formidable looking than they are ferocious. They are among the many varieties of sharks with no proven records of their having launched attacks on mankind.

Seaside, the Hospital That

Didn't Just Happen

Seaside Memorial Hospital as it is today. Los Angeles County is refitting the installation for new uses and will reopen it under a new name, but it will remain in local memory as the first major hospital here.

By Fred B. Clarke, M.D.

LOS ANGELES County will call it "El Cerrito" (Little Hill) when it opens next Jan. 1 for the care of chronic, long-term county patients. But the old building at 1401 Chestnut Ave. will keep right on being "Seaside Hospital" to many of us. It is part of our heritage.

That hospital didn't just happen—it came about through the foresight and hard work of many men over many years.

Dr. A. C. Sellery, a graduate of McGill University in Toronto in 1906, having had a training in surgery, located in Long Beach, a town of about 11,000 population. Since he was a surgeon, he naturally was interested in having a hospital equipped for surgery.

Shortly after arriving in Long Beach, he invited the 10 doctors in the town to his home at 1601 E. 2nd St. to discuss raising of funds for a hospital. Only two doctors (Harvey and Bales) attended. Sellery placed a check for $1,000 on the table and suggested that the two men contribute. There was no response.

ONE WEEK LATER he called a meeting at his office. Drs. Harvey, Bales and Wood attended, and each contributed $200. Some time later, in addition to these three, Drs. Hammond, Hill, Newman, Sweet and Waterman made contributions. After a few months, others contributed; and a large-frame building at the northeast corner of Broadway and Junipero was leased for a period of seven years. This was the first Seaside Hospital—18 beds.

In the meantime $7,000 was raised, and a search for a hospital site began. The corner of Linden Avenue and 10th Street was selected; but a few property owners protested to the City Council and a permit was refused.

A Mr. Townsend, who owned the land on which the Seaside Hospital was built, agreed to deed the site for a hospital and take a percentage interest in the earnings. The first unit consisted of 32 beds at a cost of $11,000.

The hospital was inadequate due to the increase in population, and the first unit of what was to become the largest hospital in Long Beach was completed in 1913, with a capacity of 250 beds and 55 bassinets.

At first the hospital was operated on a partnership basis, but it soon became apparent that a stock company would have to be organized to facilitate the management. Each individual received stock in proportion to his contribution.

AFTER WORLD WAR I the city began a rapid growth, and many doctors came to Long Beach. They were told that in order to have the privilege of using the hospital, they must purchase stock. The amount necessary to be a member of the staff was $2,500. Not all the newcomers had that amount of cash, and smaller amounts were accepted.

Finally, the taxes became so large due to the increased value of the property that it became necessary to organize the hospital on a non-profit basis. This was done with each owner of stock receiving bonds for the amount of stock he owned. Most of these bonds were cashed for about 25 cents on the dollar. At this time the name of the hospital was changed to the Seaside Memorial Hospital.

During the 1920s many doctors located in Long Beach, providing excellent surgical and medical service. All made their contribution to the success of the hospital.

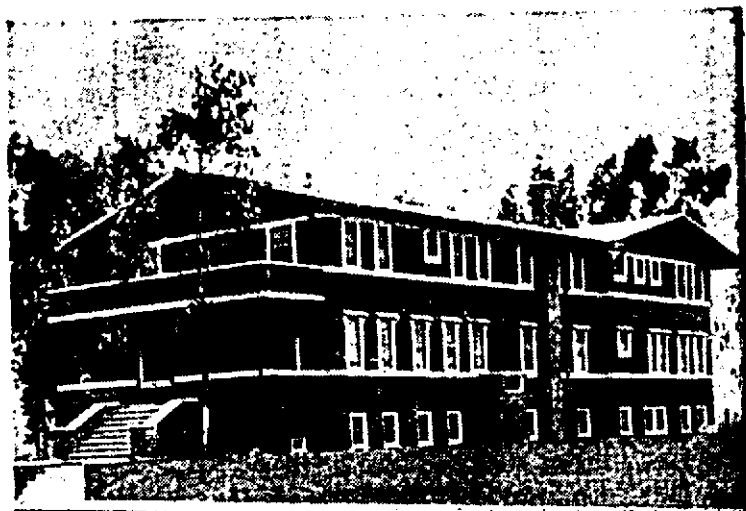

It wasn't long before additional room was needed, and plans to build the "A" wing were drawn up. When the plans were submitted to the staff, there was a great deal of objection to the small size of the rooms. I well remember a statement made by Dr. Sellery: "Yes, the rooms are small, but making them small gives us four additional rooms, which means an additional income of $1,200 each month to pay off interest and the $50,000 which we will have to borrow." Sellery's idea was accepted.

THE NEW UNIT contained 142 beds and was completed in 1929, increasing the number of hospital beds to 392.

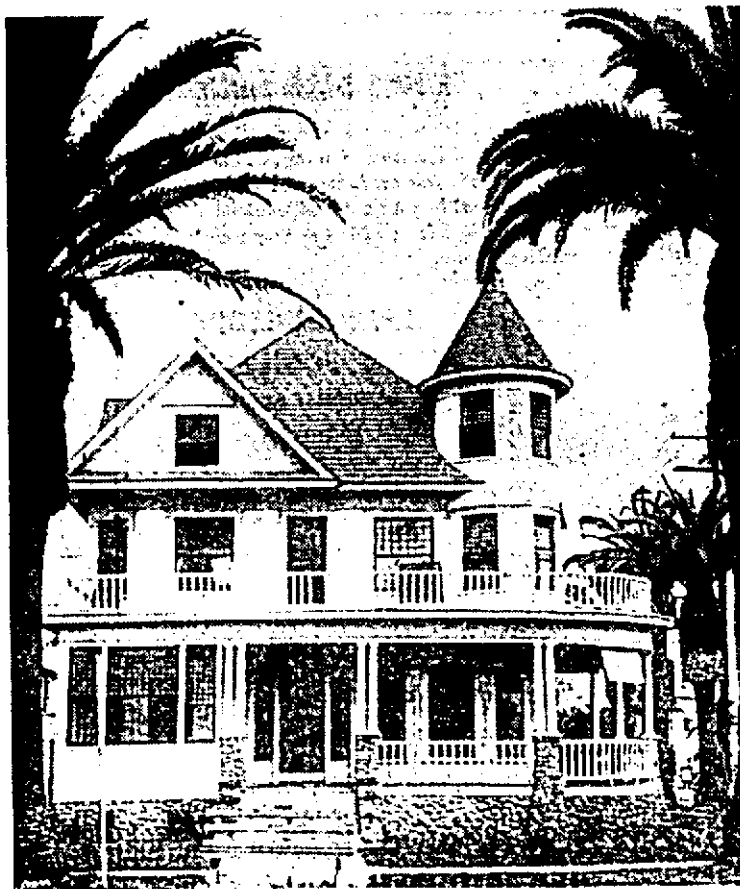

In 1924, deep X ray and radium were being used in the treatment of cancer. The hospital lacked funds to purchase them. Dr. Sellery purchased X-ray equipment for deep therapy (costing $12,000) and 15 mg of radium (costing $15,000)—a total of $27,000 to which he retained ownership but which he made available to any patient in the hospital.

The hospital met two major emergencies. The first was the earthquake in 1933. Within a short time after the shock, 12 bodies were brought to the hospital. Due to lack of room they were wrapped in sheets and placed on the wide concrete walk near the entrance. Many injured were brought in and patients assigned to rooms and floors; and then relatives filled the halls. To add to the trouble, the elevators would not work, and many patients were carried on stretchers to the second, third, and fourth floors. In addition some of the water pipes were broken, and there was trouble in the boilerroom, limiting hot water. For 36 hours there was little rest for the doctors.

Seaside's "D" wing at 14th Street and Magnolia Avenue as it appeared in 1911. Hospital was tribute to work of early group of Long Beach doctors.

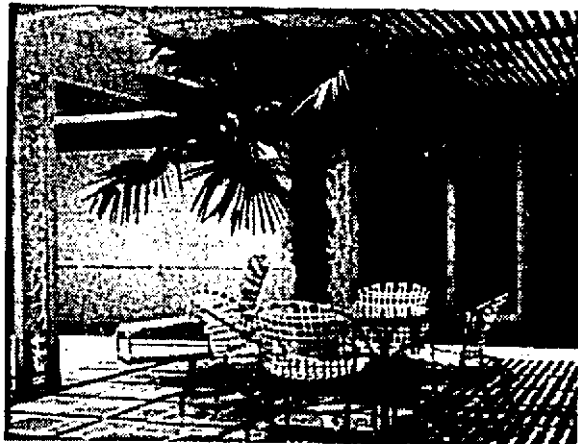

Birth of a hospital: This structure housed the first Seaside activity, located at Broadway and Junipero Avenue. It was an 18-bed institution.

Auto Racing's Revolutionists

By Jerome Hall

DOWN a dusty Long Beach sidestreets there's a tune-up shop where the mechanics can't be disturbed. On the front door hangs a sign telling customers to go away.

Inside they're preparing for the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race at Indianapolis. Not this week's race—next year's.

They're the technicians at Mickey Thompson Enterprises, 1401 Cota Ave. And Thompson and his mechanics have brought the auto racing world to the edge of revolution. What Thompson's Long Beach-built cars do in the big race this week may change the face of racing.

But win, lose or cracked cylinder block, the boyish-looking Long Beach speed merchant already has had more influence on the big time of auto racing than anyone since Fred Offenhauser.

THE CONVENTIONAL off-engine roadsters have held a headlock on the Indianapolis race for decades, but this year Mickey's influence has opened the door to the entry of 15 renegades—hopped-up passenger car-engined machines. Mickey had five of them among the 70 cars competing for the 33 starting positions.

"Mickey's cars have created consternation among the racing fraternity," says a reporter for an Indianapolis newspaper who himself has been captivated by the unusual machines.

All the racing men seem in agreement that Mickey's machines are as advanced in engineering as has been seen at Indianapolis since Peter DePaolo, a Long Beach man, broke the 100-mile-per-hour barrier in a Dusenbergs in 1925.

"I FIGURE we have to do something new every year," says Thompson, who entered the "500" for the first time last year after establishing himself as the world's premier hot-rodder. He is semi-retired from competitive driving now. But he hasn't slowed down. During the course of his usual 18-hour work day he oversees operations at the Long Beach Lions drag strip and often takes a spin over to Riverside Raceway to make a test run in one of his racers.

Mickey's "something new" a year ago was to hop up a Buick engine and put it on the rear of what looked to veteran Indianapolis men more like a go-cart than a "500" machine. But the Thompson machine was in a challenging position when a 25-cent part broke midway through the race, forcing it out.

Said A. J. Watson, known as "the man who builds the Indy winners," after the '62 race: "I can see right now my next car will have to be lighter."

That was the Mickey Thompson influence. He builds his Indianapolis cars with "the exotic metals." He uses magnesium and beryllium and the result is a car that's perhaps only half the weight of the one it's trying to pass on the straightaway.

THE GRIN is a common expression for Mickey these days. He gives the impression he's laughing at the world.

"This is the only race car that has been designed around the wheels," he told a collection of newsmen at a cocktail party before heading for Indianapolis. Mickey had trouble suppressing a laugh as they tilted their ears forward.

"We drew up plans for the wheels, sent them to Fire-

A Kitchen

By Stella George

MANY a modern home intentionally or not is devoted to the kitchen where, of course, brights bats and stoves where there's a place for a neighborly cup of tea or coffee where children turn first when they come into the house where almost every party gravitates and certainly where the lady of the house spends a large part of the day. Recognizing this fact, Mr. and Mrs. James Edmunds, 2734 Hackett St., set about changes in their Lakewood Plaza home that would better conform to the needs of the family. Without making additions, they achieved a new feeling of spaciousness that is of interest to all change-minded householders.

First, walls were removed in order to combine the living room, dining area, and kitchen as one large area. There is a moderate sense of separation where the light carpeting in the living room curves into the grey "brick" tile on the rest of the floor in the kitchen.

ATTRACTIVE shutter doors (which are visible from the living room) hide a service area which includes a large pantry plus laundry facilities. In the center of the kitchen (where there was once a solid wall) is an outsized dining bar which doubles as an excellent work area for food preparation. It is covered with a synthetic material resembling marble, a key to the color scheme of the kitchen which is done in black and white. The stove is recessed in one end of the bar.

Cupboards are white with black handles and hinges and work area around the sink is similar to the bar. There is a built-in desk at the far end of the room with a special file-size drawer for household accounts and business. There is ample room for a small round dining table and four chairs.

The attractive curtains, made by Mrs. Edmunds, are a gay print. Matching padded cornices above add to the custom look.

FURNITURE and accessories combine to lend warmth and charm to the living room.

A long couch is a rich peacock blue-green. Above the couch are two paintings which were done by Mrs. Edmunds. A low, black, Oriental table is in front of the couch. An occasional table across the room has a floor-length felt cloth of avocado hue which blends with the couch. A family treasure is displayed on one wall, very much at home in its modern environment: a clock that was made in the early 1800s. Windows on either side of the fireplace look out into the rear garden. Wallpaper in the entry matches the curtains in the kitchen, another fine custom decorating idea.

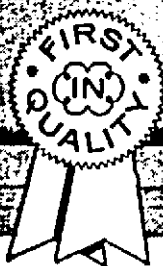

The powder room has been decorated with the same cultured marble used in the kitchen; white and gold vinyl on the floor, and ornate gold fixtures.

BEDROOMS are gay. The master bedroom is done in pale pink and green with cherry furniture; one boy's room has a burlap wall that doubles as a bulletin board; and the third bedroom is pale blue and red. The second bathroom is black, white and orange.

The restrained use of bright colors helps to add to the illusion of space.

The Edmunds' home looks interesting enough from the front exterior, but its interior holds extra charm.

Spy Chaser's Test

Stepping from a hot bath after hard day of spy-chasing in the film, "From Russia, With Love," Sean Connery finds Daniela Bianchi in his bed.

By Betty DeWeese

THE ART of Bondmanship may provide the answer to the Cold War—at least between the sexes.

As the 30,000,000 readers of Ian Fleming's popular spy thrillers already know, James Bond (British Secret Service Agent 007), is at his deadliest with women. His cherished "00" rating, designating his license to kill, applies to the ladies as well. While he might lose a skirmish in the alley, he never fails in milady's boudoir.

In "From Russia, With Love," now being filmed in Technicolor at Pinewood Studios in London, the handsome British agent portrayed by Scottish actor Sean Connery, is facing his greatest test as a lover. After a hard day's spy-chasing through the streets of Istanbul, he enters his hotel room to find a lovely Russian girl in his bed, wearing only a pair of black stockings and a black ribbon around her throat. Bond's dilemma; although he suspects the girl is there to lure him into a death trap, how can he possibly ignore her obvious charms?

This provocative scene is not only the basis for the title of the new James Bond film. It is also the introduction of a new international star—Daniela Bianchi, the 21-year-old Italian actress who was selected by the producers from a field of more than 200 to play the tantalizing young Russian girl who serves herself up to agent Bond, believing that it is the patriotic thing to do.

THE ONLY DAUGHTER of an Italian army officer, Daniela has only appeared in three previous films. But she proved her qualifications for this exceptional screen opportunity in 1960 when, after winning the European elimination contest as Miss Italy, she became the runner-up in the Miss Universe contest in Miami Beach.

Actually, Miss Bianchi's first professional meeting with her co-star, Sean Connery, was staged on an ornate Turkish bed at Pinewood Studios. It was a perfectly proper meeting, in spite of that, because their love-making took place before a full production crew and 14 press photographers on hand for this warmed-up version of the Cold War.

Following their torrid first scene together, Connery and his new leading lady were assigned the next 12 weeks to recreate their thrilling escape through the Iron Curtain countries to the freedom of the West. Next week, the entire company will leave for five weeks of location filming in Istanbul, utilizing the real-life backgrounds of best-selling Fleming novel.

"From Russia, With Love," starring Sean Connery with Daniela Bianchi, Pedro Armendariz, Lotte Lenya and Robert Shaw, is an Eon Production for United Artists release.

He Mines for Precious Water

By James E. Saunders

PIPES ARE their pokes as a group of hardrock men mine in the San Bernardino Mountains area . . . for water!

Men who farm the semi-arid agricultural fringe lands regard water as precious as gold, and these are the men the miners serve.

Abandoning the time-honored method of drilling down into the ground for water, these miners punch holes into a hill or mountain until it flows like a giant fountain.

One of the miners, Flint Brown, has more than 100 mined wells in operation within a radius of 200 miles of San Bernardino, some of them flowing as much as 11,000 gallons per hour.

Most of Brown's efforts are to supplement the meager supply of 1120 to ranchers who work the outlying sections of Southern California. However, he has successfully mined wells that are the only source of water to others who husband the dry land in more remote areas.

"THE METHOD I use may be unusual, but it isn't original," said Brown. "Indians and pioneers often dug holes into the side of hills in search of water. In fact all up and down the slopes of California are caves these people dug looking for water.

"I've often discovered they were right in the locations they chose. Of course, they didn't have modern equipment or the scientific knowhow we possess, and often missed a good pool of water by just a few feet."

Brown told of an instance where he developed a "good well" in an old cave in the San Bernardino Mountains. A cave that had been dug many years ago.

"The cavern was about 600 feet deep and seemed to wind around like a snake hole. The old-timer who dug it must have followed every bit of evidence of moisture he found. It seemed to me that every time he spotted a little water he took off that way.

"I don't know if the poor devil ever got enough water," he continued, "but I was able to drill a well within 100 feet of the mouth of the cave. The last time I checked this well it was producing about 100 gallons of water per minute."

Photos by the Author

Brown and his drilling rig pierce a mountain in quest of water. He is about 70 per cent successful.

Just turn a valve and a mountain flows water . . . that is, after Flint Brown (above) has drilled a mine.

ducting about 100 gallons of water per minute."

BROWN, an ex-cowboy from South Dakota, is familiar with the old-fashioned water well, but believed his system of obtaining water, especially where a hill exists, is more efficient.

"My father owned a large ranch and we had many vertical wells," he said. "We had to pump water up to a tank or watering trough. At least once a year we had to disassemble the pumping mechanisms and overhaul them. It was a back-breaking and time-consuming job, whereas with a horizontal well you don't need a pump. When you want water just turn a valve and the pressure inside the hill or mountain will push the water out."

Brown said several men were using his method of mining water and believed most of them based their operations on his theory, which he describes:

As the earth was forming and the mountains were pushed up, cracks or fissures were made under the surface. As moisture fell, water seeped into the ground and eventually filled these faults. Then the water ran down into the lowlands seeking out and making new underground crevices as the amount of water increased in the mountains. Eventually underground reservoirs were formed.

"IT'S SOMETHING like tapping the mouth of a river before it flows down into the lowlands," said Brown. "I haven't tapped an underground river as yet," he smiled, "but I have hopes."

When engaged to mine a well, Brown said he obtains aerial photos of the ground and sometimes engages a geologist to help choose the right place to drill.

"I then study the lay strata of the land watching for fault lines or cracks in the surface. I also watch for vegetation. If there are fault lines and vegetation there is bound to be water."

Like all miners who search the earth for its hidden treasures, Brown hits what he calls a "dry hole" every now and then, but said his method of mining water is 70 per cent successful.

Clock of Many Faces

parts using only his own skills and some simple machinery.

Dreger was a watchmaker and machinist by trade, and the impressive four-sided clock was his masterpiece.

During the last 20 years of his life the clock stood in front of the Dreger residence at 836 E. Anaheim St., where he watched over it like a doting father.

Dreger's huge timepiece, with its 18 separate clock faces, is a complex piece of machinery.

Keeping perfect time for a dozen major cities of the world, 12 small dials surround a large clock face which indicates local time. The miniature clock faces, each six inches in diameter, tell the exact solar time in Tokyo, New York, Mexico City, Liverpool, Petrograd (Leningrad), Melbourne, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Hong Kong and Rome.

Watchmaker and machinist, the late Andrew Dreger Sr., above, built a handmade clock that is now at Knott's Berry Farm.

By Ruchelle Frank

A MONUMENT to one man's pride in his own careful craftsmanship is a massive electric clock which stands like a many-faced sentry in the Ghost Town Rose Garden at Knott's Berry Farm, a few miles east of Long Beach on Highway 39. It was moved there shortly after the death of Andrew Dreger Sr., a Long Beach man who hand-made every one of the clock's precise

OPPOSITE this "international side" other dials give passersby the day of the week, the date, the month, and even the phase of the moon—as well as the hour in our time zone. A third side is simply one large dial with 16 and 18-inch hands giving the correct local time. Dreger installed no dials in the fourth side which faced his house. ## The MR. CHAIR

MR. CHAIR revives a fine patriarchal tradition: the Special Chair for Father. Mr. Chair's walnut shell is sculptured for broad shoulders and sturdy frames. He swivels, so you can reach for your brandy. He reclines, so you can blow smoke rings at the ceiling. His cushions are fat and foam-filled. His tilt action can be tuned to suit your weight. ## Tin-Can Flowers Make Party Topics

By Lorena Fleissig

TIN-CAN FLOWERS make conversation pieces at a party. Imagination and metal cans of all sizes plus a good tinsnips that fits the hand, will promote examples (see illustration). A round-nose pincer will be a help in curling the ends.

Small empty cans are derimmed by placing them horizontally in the can opener. Narrow strips are cut down to the base of the can. These are bent outward. Again, fine cuts are made in the strip ends and these are curled with the pincers.

The flowers are spray painted in white or colors and then decorations are added. Beads, wire tablet binders, gold cord and glitter make the flowers sparkle.

They are planted in styrofoam balls which are cut in half, then glued to colored cardboard.

The flower stems are the seam portion of the can which is left long for that purpose. Leaves and smaller flowers may be cut from can lids. These flowers are fun to make.

Pineapple Pastries

Pineapple Melba
Cream Tarts

2 (15-ounce) cans pineapple slices
2 (1 1/2-ounce) packages vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
2 cups half cream or milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon rum extract
1 cup whipping cream
1 large baked tart shell (about 4 inches in diameter, 1 1/4 inches deep)
Melba Glaze

Drain pineapple, saving syrup. Blend 1 cup pineapple syrup with pudding mix, thin cream and salt. Cook over moderate heat, stirring, until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat, add rum extract; cover and cool. When pudding is cold, whip cream until stiff. Fold into pudding to set. Spoon Melba Glaze over each tart and top with pineapple slices. Makes 8 large tarts.

TART SHELLS:

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening (that butter, if desired)
4 or 5 tablespoons cold milk or water

Sift flour and salt together into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until in fine pieces. Add just enough liquid to hold dough together. Divide dough into 8 equal-size pieces. Roll each piece to fit fluted tart pans (about 4 inches diameter). Prick surface with tines of a fork. Bake in very hot oven (475 degrees F.) about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool before filling.

MELBA GLAZE:

1 (15-ounce) package frozen raspberries
1/2 cup red currant jelly
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
Pinch salt

Combine all ingredients. Heat, stirring now and then, until berries are defrosted. Cook and stir until mixture thickens and becomes clear. Strain through a sieve, if desired, to remove seeds. Cover and chill before using.

Custard Puffs Supreme

2 (5-ounce) cans pineapple slices
2 (1 1/2-ounce) packages lemon pudding and pie filling mix
1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks, beaten
2 cups water
1 cup whipping cream

Stir undrained pineapple and lemon filling mix together in saucepan. Add sugar, beaten egg yolks and water. Cook, stirring, until mixture boils and thickens. Remove from heat; cover and cool. Beat cream until stiff with salt and lemon peel; fold into cold pudding. Spoon generously into baked shells. Dust with powdered sugar, if desired. Makes 1 dozen large puffs.

CREAM PUFF OR ECLAIR SHELLS:

1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
8 eggs

Heat water and butter together to boiling in heavy saucepan. Add flour, stirring constantly until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball. Remove from heat and cool. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until mixture becomes smooth and velvety. For cream puffs, drop in mounds onto baking sheet, about 3 inches apart. For eclairs, shape with a spatula or back of spoon into fingers about 4 inches long, 1 inch wide. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until puffed and golden brown and shells are dry, about 45 to 50 minutes. Cool slowly, away from drafts. Cut off tops and remove any filaments of soft dough. Fill and replace tops.

Festive Glazed Cheese Cake

PINEAPPLE TOPPING:

1 (5-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1/2 cup pineapple juice or water
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Drain off and set aside 3 tablespoons syrup from crushed pineapple. Blend remaining pineapple and syrup with sugar, cornstarch, salt, lemon juice and peel, and pineapple juice or water. Cook and stir over medium heat until clear and thickened. Quickly blend in beaten egg. Add butter and cook, stirring, a few minutes longer. Remove from heat and set aside while making cheese cake.

CHEESE CAKE BLEND:

2 cups crushed Zwieback crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 (5-ounce) package cream cheese
1 (15-ounce) can pineapple
2 tablespoons reserved syrup from pineapple
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 egg
1 cup sugar

Blend Zwieback crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar and melted butter. Press in bottom of 9-inch spring form pan. Soften cream cheese. Blend in vanilla, pineapple syrup, salt and lemon peel until smooth. Beat eggs until thick. Slowly beat in 1 cup sugar until lemon colored. Continue beating while adding cream cheese mixture in small portions. Beat until smooth. Turn into crumb-lined pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Cool. Spread with pineapple topping. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Remove outer ring and garnish as desired. Makes 12 servings.

When it's time to go a-picnicking—or just to dine out in the back yard—a Picnic Tote-Table is just the thing.

By Bill Meyerrieks

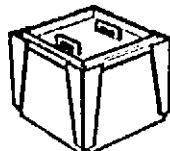

WITH THE weather right and the shady spots beckoning, it's time to spread a blanket and have a picnic—in the hills or just on the back lawn. Today's home shop project is just the ticket to help you enjoy this relaxing pastime.

It's the Picnic Tote-Table, a unique arrangement of a box unit and table frame made primarily of exterior plywood. The good-sized box, 17 inches square by 11 inches deep, serves two functions. It stores the picnic goodies when closed and its hinged sides lower to become four table settings. The frame does double duty, too. This sits over the closed box to hold it firm and protect it, then lifts off to use as the table legs. These legs put the table more than a foot high, away from any chance of friendly ants joining in the fun. An accessory tray sits between the upright handles where the usual picnic accessories can be reached easily by everyone.

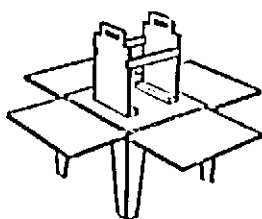

An intriguing part of why you'll want to build and use this handy table is how it will become so adaptable to your leisure fun. Each actual use will bring out another way to store, to use and enjoy. Because of its shape when opened, for instance, a netting over the top will protect the food while the family and friends take time out for a swim or game. Its sides, with one down and three up, form a built-in windbreaker toward the food.

TO ORDER, specify Picnic Tote-Table Plan S-109 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

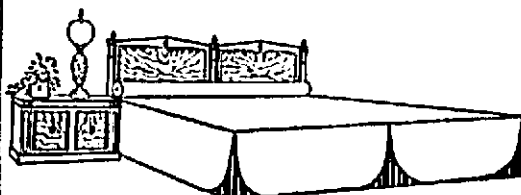

Closed, with food and picnic equipment inside, Tote-Table is compact for carrying and storing in car. Opened, box doors are tables; food and equipment go in the middle.

Ultrasound for Diagnoses?

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

ULTRASOUND promises to play a big role in medical diagnosis in the future, says Dr. Joseph H. Holmes of University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Even now the use of high-frequency sound waves to diagnose disease is in a stage comparable to early X-ray usage, he says.

He adds: "Eventually it will serve to supplement X-ray examinations of many parts of the body and permit visualization of pathological processes and structures not readily visualized by X-ray."

At present, ultrasound is being used successfully to locate cysts, abscesses, foreign bodies, gallstones, diseased muscle, certain cancers and abnormal collections of fluid. The technique also can show the condition of heart valves.

Mass screening of the breast for the presence of tumor is seen as one potential for ultrasound.

The ultrasound technique employs a device called a somatoscope—a combination of radar and sonar. It sends out waves that bounce back from body organs, to depict them on a screen.

THE DEATH RATE among premature newborns can be lowered significantly by a delay in the cutting of the umbilical cord at time of birth.

The report is that of British physicians in the journal Lancet.

A delay in cutting the cord results in more blood traveling through the cord from the placenta (afterbirth), the spongy structure that nourishes the fetus during pregnancy.

Babies that get that extra blood right after delivery are less likely to develop a potentially fatal condition called hyaline membrane disease, the researchers say. The condition is marked by breathing distress.

The researchers recommend a delay of three to five minutes before the cord is cut.

BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS should never be given just to "play it safe," a group of doctors has told the International College of Surgeons. Transfusions can be an unnecessary hazard.

One speaker, Dr. Max M. Simon of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., said there are more deaths in the U.S. annually from blood transfusions than from appendicitis.

Annual death rate from the three major complications of transfusions: 16,500. The three major complications are hepatitis (liver inflammation), overloading the circulation with too much blood and reactions between donated blood and the patient's blood.

The report is in the New York State Journal of Medicine.

USE OF CHEMICALS to remove wrinkles from aging skin has stood the test of time, reports a Florida doctor in Journal of the American Geriatrics Society.

Dr. Perry A. Sperber of Daytona Beach says the process, called chemexfoliation or chemical peeling, sometimes results in the patient looking 10 to 20 years younger. Cosmetic improvement may last for five years or more, he adds.

Dr. Sperber, who has performed 1,500 peeling operations, uses a phenol solution. A few days after the solution is applied to the face, skin begins to peel off. The peeling usually is complete within eight to 12 days after application of the chemical.

The procedure, he says, may not add years to life but it adds life to the years. A psychologic uplift follows the operation, he explains.

A NOTED PHYSICIAN warns of the dangers involved in prescribing a drug over the back fence to a neighbor.

Dr. Helen B. Taussig of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, Baltimore, says in a report in the journal Circulation:

"We must all learn not to clamor for new and more potent drugs. Furthermore, people must learn not to prescribe glibly to one another and not to take drugs over the back fence. What is good for one is not necessarily good for another."

Women should abstain from drugs during pregnancy in an effort to prevent damage to the unborn child, she says.

Men, too, should be cautious about drugs. Medicines may yet be developed that will injure the male germ cell, she explains.

Spirit of the West: 'Why Not?'

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

THE NATION has been tilted westward in the last two decades by "the largest migration in the history of the world" — with results both good and bad—points out Neil Morgan, San Diego newspaperman, in "WESTWARD TILT" (Random House, $6.95).

"The West seethes with the spirit of 'Why not?'" he relates. "It is young and eager, cocky and eternally hopeful."

Morgan, San Diego Evening Tribune columnist whose syndicated column appears in 40 newspapers, surveys the political, social, economic and cultural forces of the 11 Western States. Most of the material he gleaned firsthand on a 40,000-mile tour of the region.

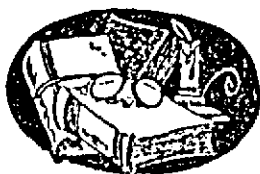

The modern West, he relates, is more urban, more literate, more prosperous and alas, more criminal than the rest of the nation.

Los Angeles has overtaken San Francisco as the great city of the West, he says, and he adds that Seattle is the newest major city in the land.

He quotes Dr. Frank Baxter as saying he once saw three Nobel prize winners push their carts through a Los Angeles supermarket.

James Michener wrote the forward.

YELLOW WOLF, a simple Indian, nephew of Chief Joseph, voices, in "THE LAST

STAND OF THE NEZ PERCE (Twayne, $5) as eloquent an indictment of the white people and of oppression as one will ever read:

"Nobody to help us tell our side. Told it to please themselves. Told much that is not true."

The destruction of the Nez Perce as a people in the shameful Nez Perce war of 1877 is one of the chapters of our history over which gives us no cause to be proud. Harvey Chalmers II records each step in the obliteration of the Nez Perce nation twice—once as straight history, and again from the Indians' side. Yellow Wolf is the Nez Perces' spokesman; he recalls the battles and the brave deeds of his tribesmen against an army more powerful and bent on wresting the Nez Perces' Oregon homeland for land-greedy whites.

Against howitzers and Gatling guns the Nez Perce fought like demons, but they were doomed from the start. Chalmers' book goes a long way to make amends on Yellow Wolf's behalf.

Joseph L. Morrison reminds us that away back before World War I there was a fighting liberal editor in the South who thundered forth on issues both political and social without fear. In "JOSEPHUS DANIELS SAYS . . ." (Univ. of North Carolina Press, $7.50) he tells us of a forerunner of some of the hard-hitting Southern men of intellect and principle who today are helping to pave the way to a new South. Daniels was so far ahead of his times that Wilson chose him for his Cabinet as secretary of the Navy.

AN ANGRY young man who wouldn't despair, but whose anger makes him fight the hunger of Sicily's poor battles for truth, is the "LUKE BENEDICT" (Vanguard, $3.95) whose odyssey is told by Mark Oliver. It is an odyssey that includes a disastrous marriage and a fighting career as an Anglican priest. A fine novel.

MOLLY PICON, queen of the Yiddish stage for half a century and starring this season in her first Broadway role, "Milk and Honey," apparently came naturally by her charm and sparkling wit.

"SO LAUGH A LITTLE" as told to Eth Clifford Rosenberg (Messner, $3) is the old-country humor and philosophy of Molly's grandmother, Sarah Ostrow, who came from Russia and helped raise her from the age of five years and stayed on through Molly's marriage and theatrical success.

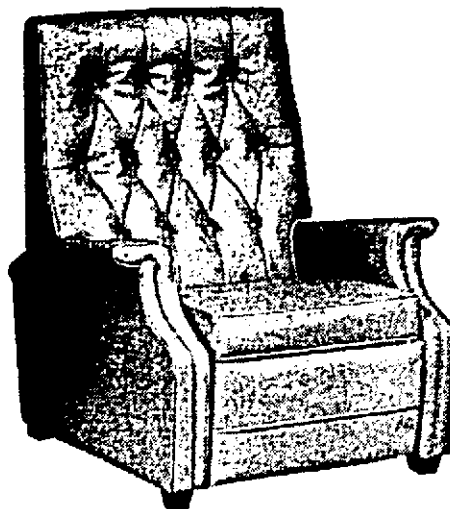

The laughs are there, although the range of readership appeal is necessarily limited.

THE PARADE

Do Your Knees Show?

By Eleanor Avery Price

YOU OBTAIN a little puppy. You cradle him in your arms, let him kiss your face, make a big fuss over him. And he loves every minute of it.

Then one day he is larger. He wants the same constant love, but he puts his feet in his drinking water, runs through dirt, then jumps up against you.

So you read up on obedience training and learn that the approved correction is for you quickly to bring up a knee to strike him in the chest, thus knocking him off balance, then you stand there unconcerned as though nothing had happened. The idea is that he is supposed to think he pulled a boner and you are in no way involved. You repeat the lesson over and over, and you ask all others to give your dog the same treatment so he will learn that jumping up is not a game in which he can indulge with anyone.

YOUR DOG isn't supposed to see the knee come up. But many times he does. He may be a small breed, and the knee may hit him in the face. He is then definitely rebuffed and knows it—make no mistake about it. His security begins to crumble. If he is very sensitive, he may shy away from you, or he may run up to you, squat and puddle, and a discouraging habit is born.

The overly sensitive dog may show his sensitiveness sooner or later. He may shrink away or puddle when you speak crossly or loudly in fear as when you find him chewing on an electric cord. But should you rebuff him with a knee when up until now you have loved him so lavishly? It doesn't seem fair.

If you search for other means of correction, you learn that another method is to grab the dog's front feet and step on his hind toes. This is cruel and almost always makes a dog shy away. Another method is the "strong arm"—bring the palm of your hand up and strike him on the nose hard enough to topple him over backward. Another: rap him sharply across the nose. Another: flip a folded magazine or newspaper in his face. How unkind can one get?

THE MOST humane method is to teach your dog to "Sit." Then when he dashes up to you, you can say, "Sit," and he will keep his feet on the ground. You can gently push him into sitting positions over and over again while you say "Sit." Or you can teach him to "Sit" with no shoving or pushing whatsoever. Walk with him on a leash held in your left hand, stop and instantly pass the index finger of your right hand from the front to a point low over the dog's head. As the dog's eyes follow your finger, his head goes up, and almost always his backside goes down. Say "Sit" as he goes into a sitting position. Repeat until he learns the lesson.

Now and then get down to the dog's level so he can be near your face. He used to kiss you, remember?

Clock of Many Faces

Barton that he intends to correct that oversight

MRS. BARTON remembers well how proud her father was of his clock.

"In fact," she says, "Dad was always working on it," noting that even after it was mounted on its tall pedestal beside the house, her father would sometimes partially dismantle the clock to make adjustments.

"Until just a few weeks before his death at the age of 84, Dad regularly climbed a ladder to inspect the works of his clock and to wash its three glass faces," she recalls. "He always kept the clock running perfectly."

But the machinery of recognition seemed to revolve 10 times more slowly than the hand of Dreger's clock which indicated the month of the year, for the plaque which stands in front of the timepiece has always identified its maker only as "a fine German watchmaker."

Dreger was born in a German village and came to California in 1897, moving to Long Beach seven years later. Shortly thereafter he began building his two-story wood frame apartment house on Anaheim Street where he lived for almost 50 years.

Mrs. Barton says that her father made an earlier version of the big clock, finishing it in time to be exhibited at the 1928 Pacific Southwest Exposition held in Long Beach. As Mrs. Barton remembers it, this smaller timepiece was pendulum driven. But Dreger, anxious to perfect his idea of a multi-faced clock, started on the electric model as soon as the first one was completed—and worked for five years before perfecting his grand work.

Today, thousands of visitors to Knott's Berry Farm have stopped to study the clock's many dials and to compare them with their own watches.

This is Dreger's clock of many faces, soon to receive a plaque with maker's name.

been placed in its round frame.

Since the clock was moved to Knott's, one of its most admiring visitors has been Mrs. Lucile Barton, of 1614 Poppy St., Long Beach, who is a daughter of Dreger. Although the clock bears no nameplate recognizing its maker, Walter Knott, owner of the farm, has assured Mrs.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

COZUMEL Island, a drop of an island in the Caribbean, off the east coast of the Yucatan peninsula, was the first place that Cortez landed in Mexico. And until recently hardly anyone else bothered, with the exception of a few people like Jean Lafitte and Henry Morgan.

Like Yucatan, Cozumel is hot and brushy, and not a tropical paradise. But it seems like it. The image is projected more than a little by the most incredibly colored ocean water between here and wherever else you may find it.

As in other places where the ocean abandons bland blue and seasick green in favor of the rainbow, colors mean reefs. Reefs mean shipwrecks, and shipwrecks mean legends of pirate booty and all that jazz. The odd part is that mostly it is true. Many a hulk lies beneath these waters, and many a serious diver has spent many years here, often fruitfully.

But to the esthetic tourist these reefs mean the bluest, greenest, mauvest, and rosiest of waters, an incredible pattern of colors dived by the day and the light in shifting striations that run from the soft beaches to the horizon.
They trick the eye by the hour and by the mile with endless change, and for this sheer novelty, there is likely

Will you go to Europe this year and make one of these 7 mistakes?

1 GO WITHOUT HOTEL RESERVATIONS?

Every year, thousands arrive in the more popular centers—London, Paris, Rome and Copenhagen, for example—without reservations. If you chance it, too, you'll risk frustration and flat feet finding accommodations.

2 MISS YOUR EXTRA CITIES PRIVILEGES?

The Extra City plan gives you the opportunity of seeing a whole lot of places for the fare to just one. For instance, if you buy an SAS round-trip ticket to Rome, you can drop in on any or all of 19 other cities, and make a grand tour of it without paying a penny extra in fare. You have a wide choice, for SAS serves more cities in Europe than any other transpolar or transatlantic airline.

3 TRY TO SEE AND DO TOO MUCH?

You can fall into this trap very easily, particularly when you start poring over maps which show you how the SAS Extra City plan works. "I wish we had a few more days here" is something almost every American vacationer says at one point or another on his trip. How much should you try to do in two, three, four or five weeks? Read where to find the answer, further on.

4 PASS UP THE GREAT SHOPPING BARGAINS?

You're not sure whether you can bring them home? U.S. customs regulations have changed, but not so drastically as some people seem to think. You are still allowed $100 worth of general purchases duty-free, and since this is based on wholesale values, you can count on up to $125 worth at retail prices. If you wish, you can still bring in a gallon of liquor per person, as part of your total purchases. In addition, you can still mail gift parcels to your friends up to $10 each in value. (And it's still amazing how far your dollars go at the famous Copenhagen Gateway Tax-Free Store.)

5 DO THE SPENDTHRIFT TOUR OF EUROPE?

If you throw caution to the winds, you'll probably have a wonderful time. But don't overlook the possibility of spending comparatively little, and enjoying yourself just as well. There's an ingenious folder called the SAS Travel Planner which shows you at a glance how economical the trip you want can be. And don't forget that the experience of your SAS travel agent can save you money in dozens of ways. It's his business to fit Europe to your budget.

6 LEAVE OUT COPENHAGEN?

Perish the thought! People call it "wonderful, wonderful Copenhagen", "Europe's friendliest city" and "the Paris of the north". Danes retort that Paris is the Copenhagen of the south. Anyway, it's one of the most charming old cities anywhere, with something for everyone. American visitors rave about it. What's more, travel writers (the old hands who've been everywhere, done everything) all say "don't miss it". It's as neat as a pin, with superb restaurants, lively night life and marvelous shopping. Many travelers in the know make it their last stop in Europe, and do all their shopping in Copenhagen's tempting stores.

7 DON'T BOTHER ABOUT A TRAVEL AGENT?

You can do it all yourself. Run around to find out about passports, "shots" and airline reservations. Puzzle out what money you'll need. Write for hotel reservations to places you've never heard of. In a week or two you can have so much paperwork going, you might as well be in the business.

This is the biggest mistake of all. Because if you make your plans with your SAS travel agent, you automatically avoid all the other mistakes. He has all the answers, knows how you can get the biggest value and the most fun for your money.

Here's a suggestion. Mail the coupon and we'll send you a free travel planning kit. With it, you can work out roughly the kind of trip you're interested in. Then take your ideas to your SAS travel agent. He'll look after everything from there on in, and get you off on a wonderful vacation. No mistakes, and nothing to do but enjoy yourself.

"What do the travel ads mean when they say 'see 16 extra cities at no added cost'?"

THE STRUCTURE of airline fares is as complicated as the income tax. Roughly, the airline must drop you in cities they fly over, even if they have to put you on another line.

For example, My round trip ticket, San Francisco to Rome, is $900. I can fly directly there and directly back. Or I can stop at all kinds of places—Rome being the best point to buy your ticket for this.

The ticket is on TWA. I'm flying the polar route to Paris. I want to go to Barcelona but TWA has no stop there. So they write me a ticket on Iberia. From there I go Iberia to Rome. From Rome I can fly to Geneva. To Zurich. To Frankfurt. To Copenhagen. To London. To Shannon. To New York. To Chicago. To Phoenix and Los Angeles.

There are variations of this. You fly on the airline's ticket when they have service between cities. On other lines—on the same ticket—when the original line has no service.

Sometimes you can add a leg for very little. On a round-trip ticket to London last year, I sent my daughter home via Bermuda for an additional $16. Round-the-world passengers going through Bangkok are entitled to fly up to Moscow en route. A good travel agent figures these things out for you.

"I am a 51-year-old woman with a small income, thinking of moving to Mexico. Do you have suggestions? I don't mind a small village. . . ."

THERE'S AN AMERICAN colony at Ajijic, just out of Guadalajara. Another at San Miguel de Allende, near Queretaro. Trouble with small villages is they're not geared to American demands. (The two above are.)

You think of a small village as an American small town. The small Mexican village has no drugstore; no market such as you know—the food is spread on cloths on the street. Housing is pretty primitive.

However, there are fine towns with good climate and cheap prices. People who are living in some of these places are doing it for $200 to $300 for two with good houses.

I would go down—drive your car if you can. Go on a tourist card and try a few towns. Stay in hotels before you decide. Some people take foreign life well. I get homesick after a few months.

"Do you have any ideas for places for retired people in Europe? Cheap enough to live on a small income and warm."

PORTUGAL, south of Lisbon, looked good to me. Warm beach towns with Moorish castles guarding hill and harbor. Houses looked good. I saw one well-furnished with a private beach for $12,000. Probably rents for $100 monthly. Local estimates were $300 a month for two people. For all expenses.

I'd stay within an hour's drive of Lisbon. These country towns are scenic but you want to get into town once in awhile. Again, try a hotel first.

"Is there a way to find out about vacations on ranches or farms?"

YOUR GARDEN

Lilies Are Old Favorites

By A. C. McLeod

Lilies have enjoyed a long and interesting history. Bellingham hybrids (above) are among many varieties.

THERE was a time, several centuries ago, when lilies were valued mainly because their bulbs were considered a valuable source for food. Today, of course, they are one of the most spectacular of all garden subjects. One or two plants will highlight your garden in a way not possible with the general run of ornamentals.

The lily has enjoyed a long and interesting history. There are definite records that lilies were known almost 40 centuries ago. The ancient Greeks praised the lily both as a flower and for its medicinal value. Throughout the ages the lily, more than any other plant, has figured largely in painting sculpture and other forms of art. The Easter lily, Lilium candidum, is possibly one of the best known flowers in the world.

LILIES are not difficult to grow if certain basic rules are followed. Good drainage is one of the most important. While the plants are known as heavy drinkers, they cannot tolerate having wet feet. Land that has a slight slope usually makes an ideal situation for lilies.

Soils of medium texture will prove satisfactory. A sandy loam enriched with plenty of humus is excellent. A well prepared and deep planting area is recommended. The roots often attain a length of from two to three feet, a factor that provides a clue to the proper environment. Shallow soils cannot support healthy root growth, and this will lead to improper development above the ground. Hardpans lying close to the surface should be broken up and replaced, if necessary, with new topsoil.

Be very careful about using manure, either fresh or decomposed. Peat will take its place and minimize the possibility of burning. In addition, it is felt that manures often lead to the development of basal rot. Lily experts disagree on whether an acid or alkaline soil is best. But this seems to be due, in some part, to the fact that certain varieties have an acid preference, others do not. Generally speaking, the addition of humus aids in building up the right kind of growing medium.

FEEDING lily plants is not much different from other subjects. A well balanced food will be found productive. It is interesting to note, however, that during the early stages nitrogen and phosphorous seem most important; later on the plant apparently requires less of this kind of food but more of potash. At any rate, make certain that all three are applied during the season. A deficiency will dwarf the plant, cause the leaves to drop and discolor the flowers.

Be careful about cutting the blooms. The maturing of the bulb for next season depends on the green leaves and stems. If these members are removed with the flowers, then the bulbs will not mature properly. The bulbs may then require a full year to recover. If possible, when cutting the flowers, leave about from 12 to 18 inches of stem.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Feed fuchsias with liquid fish fertilizer and pinch the new shoots back occasionally to make the plants bushier and full of bloom.

Seaside Hospital

THE SECOND emergency was World War II in 1911. There were 28,000 men building ships in the harbor, and more room was needed in the hospital. A decision was reached that the nurses' home should be utilized. The auditorium of the home was changed into a ward of 65 beds, and the floor above had a bed capacity of 38, making the total number of beds 495. In addition, many times it became necessary to put beds in the halls.

During the war, the government gave permission to the Medical Department of Civilian Defense to buy equipment for a blood bank for the Seaside Memorial Hospital. This was the second such blood bank in the State of California.

The taxpayers of Long Beach should be proud of the new Seaside Memorial Hospital (which was built by their money), but they can be proud as well of the first and largest hospital in the city built by the planning and effort of a group of men who had to depend upon their own resources, planning, and hard work.

Dr. Sellery, who died in 1914, was a dictatorial individual. Many did not care for him, but he had the vision and confidence to direct the building of the first Seaside Memorial Hospital.

Plant late blooming rhododendrons this month while you can shop for them in bloom.

Newly planted lawns are especially vulnerable to drought. They must always be damp. Water them regularly if you would enjoy their cool companionship this summer.

Plant citrus and other evergreen fruit trees such as avocados this month before the hottest weather sets in.

Buy pots full of your favorite cooking herbs and place them at strategic points—near the kitchen or near the barbecue area.

PETUNIAS

No rags to riches story could be more dramatic than the success story of the lowly petunia. A few years ago they were a nondescript, single flower on a rather straggly plant, but they have now been improved and are available at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY in several varieties and range in color from white to dark red and purple.

Petunias are usually considered to be annuals but in So. California they are somewhat perennial. When pinched back they bloom again throughout the summer.

They will do well in any soil either in full sun or in light shade. They need little care other than feeding with Ortho-Gro once a month until the blooming season. The only pest that bothers them is the snail, which can be controlled by the use of Lightning Snail ex. They need frequent watering, especially during the hot weather.

Their cut flowers are different, too, in that they continue to develop blooms after they have been cut and brought into the house.

We have a large selection of these colorful plants at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bellflower Blvd.), in Long Beach, ph. HA 5-1362.

By Joe Littlefield

FOR MORE cut flowers and more color in the garden, a number of perennial plants are of interest.

Gloriosa daisies in single and double form flowers, shades of yellow, and bronze, bloom all summer long. The plants grow to around 18 to 24 inches tall. Plant three of them, at least, and you'll have color and cut flowers to spare.

Tulbaghia violacea, "society garlic" with lavender-blue color, bell-like flowers, provide flowers from May into October. The quarter-inch, green-gray foliage has a strong onion-garlic odor when damp. Young foliage may be chopped fine and added to a salad. The husky 18-inch tall plants add some needed blue

Still Mum Time

May is not too late to plant Chrysanthemums. Nurserymen still have young rooted cuttings in plant bands or pots and these can be started on their way toward fall bloom.

One of the easiest and most satisfactory ways to grow new chrysanthemums, however, is to buy blooming plants from your local C.A.N. nursery and enjoy their bloom until it fades. When this happens, simply set the plants out in the garden, cut them back to about six inches and they will form new tops which can be grown for a second bloom in fall.

flower color in the sunny flower bed.

Hybrid gazanias with single daisy-like flowers from white, pink, shades of orange, yellows, to deep mahogany tones, flower throughout most of the year any day there's lots of sun. The blossoms close at night, do not make good cut flowers. Keep plants on dry side, be stingy with fertilizer, and the plants will flower abundantly.

REMOINTANT IRIS, "re-peat bloomers," flower twice a year in spring and late fall. Some blossom several times a year. There are about 14 varieties of remountant iris.

Two most dependable winter blooming perennials are saxifrage and helleborus the lenten rose.

Saxifrage with leaves like water lilies and clusters of cup-shaped pink flowers add a bright touch of winter color in the shade garden or even in sun in milder areas. Overall height of the plants is about a foot. They are good edging plants along a flower bed, walk, or patio and do well in pots, too.

LENTEN ROSE, with single anemone-like flowers in colors of white, pink and shades of rose to deep purplish tones, tolerate lots of cold, but don't like much sun. Plant them where they'll get about an hour of early morning, or late afternoon sun. They'll stand filtered shade and sun off and on throughout the day.

They need a prepared soil, such as pre-moistened peat moss, leaf mold, or compost soil, two parts of it with three parts of soil dug out to make holes for the plants.

Water them as you would azaleas during the summer, feed them about four times, and you'll have mature plants that provide continual new crops of flowers for four months, usually starting to bloom in late December.

JIM HAMMOND
Toys for Youngsters

WOULD YOU like to see your child jump around as happily as a kangaroo who's just been named king
of Australia?

Simply announce that you're taking him to dinner at Clifton's Cafeteria, a giant, palace-like structure at 5006 Pep-
perwood Ave., Lakewood
Center. Manager Jim Hammond and his large staff are child-lovers who give the youngsters bonuses with their
"treasure tray" dinners. The bonuses include candy and small toys chosen from pirate treasure chests. The treasure trays, for children under 12, are 39 cents and 59 cents on Sunday.

Clifton's is equally generous toward adults. Its deluxe dinner, served Sundays
from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., offers a great spread of items for $1.77, complete. Among the entrees are baked ham, chicken, pot roast of beef, roast turkey with cranberry sauce and sea foods. Included is a choice of one of 50 beautiful, delicious salads; whipped potatoes, vegetable of the day, bread or roll and butter, dessert from 30 selections and beverage. Second and third coffee refills are served at the tables by gracious waitresses.
Prime rib au jus, tender and appealing, is 30 cents extra
on that big dinner; for 10
cents extra you can enjoy
rich strawberry shortcake.

The deluxe dinner is so popular—and served so efficiently—that the cafeteria was thronged last Mother's Day with 3,400 patrons. Throughout the week, other interesting values are offered, including a number of $1 dinners,
with entrees changed daily.
Among them are chopped
steak au jus, pork cutlet and baked ham. On Saturdays the feature is fried half-chicken,
$1.20, with salad, potatoes,
roll and beverage.

The BIG RED PUSH in LATIN AMERICA

AND WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

by ED KIESTER

RIO DE JANEIRO.

"Cu-ba! Cu-ba! Cu-ba!"

All around me frenzied demonstrators, clapping, stamping and snake-dancing, howled the name of Fidel Castro's Communist island. Swilling beer and waving banners, they bellowed their support of the first Red bastion in the Western Hemisphere.

Above them on the stage hung a mammoth portrait of their bearded hero (see cover). Around the walls, a strident banner proclaimed in Portuguese: Cuba Não Está Só—"Cuba Is Not Alone."

This was the "International Solidarity with Cuba" rally. A thousand persons—pretty young women, sun-burned men, farmers, professionals, even a self-professed "delegate from Occupied California"—had come from all over the Americas to express their admiration of Castro and their hatred for the U.S.

I watched with disquiet as they performed and paraded. Speaker after speaker harangued them with fiery Marxist catch-phrases. Each ignited an explosion of emotion.

"Revolucionarios!" a speaker would cry, and his listeners would go wild.

"Imperialismo yanqui," the Cuban delegate would

snap, and the crowd would rumble and howl.

At last Francisco Julião, the frizzy-haired, mild-appearing Brazilian congressman who is Castro's No. 1 henchman in Brazil, got up and trumpeted a call for violent revolution. The rally dissolved into a sea of screaming, waving, dancing maniacs. It was as though someone had just scored the winning touchdown in the closing seconds of a Rose Bowl game.

"God!" said another reporter to me. "If only we had a political party to export!"

That is the way an American feels, all too often, in Latin America today. All around him he sees a big Red push to win this continent. All around he sees evidence of a powerful Communist drive that makes Uncle Sam's counter-efforts seem weak and feeble.

He gets a sinking feeling that all Latin America will soon be united into one huge hostile camp, poised like a pistol at Uncle Sam's back and ready to go off at any moment.

Traveling up and down this continent, I heard tale after alarming tale of stepped-up Red pressure and continent-wide gains. Venezuela, I learned, is torn by guerrilla fighting, sabotage and terrorism. Peru has had to put down peasant uprisings and Cuban-directed sabotage. Chile threatens to vote itself Communist in 1964. Central America is under steady propaganda bombardment and danger from Cuba-based landing parties. Brazil—largest, richest, most populous and most strategically located of all Latin nations—is under attack from all directions.

The Red push is spearheaded by local Communists with plentiful aid, guidance and cash from Soviets, Chinese, East Europeans and particularly Cubans. And it is helped by conditions here.

Brazil, for instance, has stinking slums in the cities, appalling poverty in the country, rampant inflation, a disease rate that kills one child in ten before his first birthday, an average income of $300 a year, wealth and property severely concentrated in the hands of a few and a population growth rate that can only be classed as explosive. The Brazilians themselves have called for drastic social revolution.

Yet the Reds are not meeting with unqualified success. The Solidarity with Cuba rally is a case in point. When I attended it, I could delude myself that an invincible Red juggernaut was about to sweep "Yankee imperialism" into the sea. But the rally actually was a first-class dud. The Reds had hoped for a giant demonstration and for the tacit blessing of the left-wing government. Instead, many of the speakers backed out, and the government erected obstacles and delays. On the last night, police cordoned off a huge area around the hall, ostensibly because of an auto accident. To attend, we had to walk a mile.

However, it would be a mistake to think this daunted the Reds. They simply moved ahead on other fronts. Here is a communiqué on the Red war in Latin America today:

Guerrilla warfare: The theme of the Red drive of 1963 is violence; its spearhead the guerrilla. Castro sounded the keynote recently when he said that if he had waited for legitimate means to topple Batista, he would still be in the Sierra Maestra.

Guerrilla fighting already has broken out in Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and the Central American nations. Six training camps are believed operating in backland Brazil.

Lucky accidents have helped Brazil thwart guerrilla activity. First, documents were found on the body of a Cuban diplomat, an air crash victim, pinpointing all guerrilla camps in Brazil. Later, in a routine traffic arrest, police corralled guerrilla leader Chalomir de los Santos Morais as he was running guns to a camp. His arrest uncovered the camp and also revealed that he was stealing funds provided by Cuba.

Propaganda. No one knows how much propaganda the Reds pour into Latin America. But the government of Panama alone intercepts 12 tons a month.

Radio Havana and Prensa Latina, the Cuban news service, led the propaganda onslaught. Radio Havana now broadcasts 88 hours a week to South America. Cuban embassies, where they exist, flood countries with Red posters, leaflets, folders—and Ché Guevara's handbook on guerrilla warfare.

To the Reds, no group is too small or insignificant for attention. Recently, for example, the membership of Brazil's Esperanto clubs, which advocate adoption of a one-world language, were started to receive letters from the Esperanto clubs of Cuba. "Dear friend," the letters read, "please come to Cuba and see what progress we are making in our revolution."

Infiltration: Reds, Castroistas and associates have burrowed into many Latin governments. Some have even attained high position. Of more importance, though, may be infiltration in the lower echelons of government. Many civil servants are conceded to be pro-Red and pro-Castro. And a recent leftist campaign in Brazil aims at winning over the sergeants—who in a showdown would have most control over troops.

Young people: Two-thirds of Latin America's population is under 25, and here is where the Reds have scored their greatest gains. University students comprise the backbone of Red and pro-Castro movements. The University of Caracas has been the Red guerrilla staging area. In Rio the students first offered a meeting hall for the Solidarity rally.

The Reds dangle juicy bait—free scholarships to Russia, China, Czechoslovakia and Poland. One estimate says $4 million in scholarships has gone to Brazilians alone.

Castroism and nationalism: A favorite joke in Latin America today goes: "What is the largest country in the world?" Answer: "Cuba. Its people are in Florida and its government is in Moscow."

The sardonic gag reflects the tarnished image of Fidel Castro, dating from his open embrace of Communism. "We feel cheated," a Chilean newspaperman told me. "We thought he was a home-grown revolutionary and he turned out to be just another puppet."

The occurrence taught the Reds a lesson, too. They still play up Castro, but now they stress his "independence" and soft-pedal his Communist links.

Peasants and workers: In the best tradition of Mao, the Reds have been agitating among Latin peasants. They have organized rural syndicates and even staged small revolutions in which mobs have seized control of plantations. Most of these have taken place in northeastern Brazil, but others have occurred in Chile, Peru and Ecuador. Meanwhile, the Reds continue their traditional drive in trade unions.

So much for the Red offensive. How well are the U.S. and its free-world allies doing against it?

Unhappily, not well. Chief weapon of the U.S. is President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress, a comprehensive cooperative plan to bring about a continent-wide social revolution. But the program is stalled on dead center. Its showcase effort, a $131 million "emergency" plan for northeast Brazil, has been in the works for two years. But when I wanted to visit the region, Alliance officials discouraged me. "You won't see enough to make it worthwhile," one said.

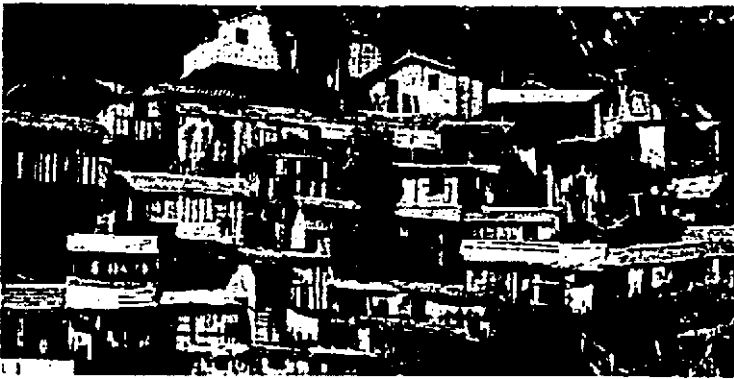

However, the U.S. may be gaining ground in other areas. Officials report students more receptive to U.S. views than in the past, point to a new pro-American enclave at the University of Caracas. And the Latins themselves have scored some successes over the Reds. For instance, Catholic groups have just won control of all the student federations in Chile.

Many think the Latins will determine their own course free of both the Reds and Uncle Sam. And others hope the Reds will lose out because of the Soviet-Chinese ideological split. In this connection, they recall the day the Soviet ambassador, Andrei Fromin, and Brazil's pro-Chinese Francisco Julião met at the Rio airport. In scenes reminiscent of comic opera, each abruptly changed direction and dodged off another way. But around the corner they came face to face again. Then, for 20 minutes, while onlookers tittered, they played hide-and-seek around the building. Finally their planes arrived and each left—still without acknowledging the other's presence.

"Let us hope," said the man who told me the story, "that this is a good sign for Latin America." ■

How to stop an ambush

Latin American soldiers practice antiguerrilla tactics at Fort Gulick, Canal Zone, getting ready for anticipated increase in Red uprisings. Twelve-week course under U.S. Army instructors stresses weapons, demolition, escape and how to win friends among the peasantry. Hand-picked men from 20 Latin nations attend.

How to breed a Communist

Slums like these in Rio de Janeiro provide Reds' best ammunition in their big drive to win Latin America. Shack colonies have sprung up around every major Latin city, are shot through with disease, filth, poverty, crime. More than half of Latins live in squalid housing.

A LESSON I LEARNED FROM LIFE

Actress Mitzi Gaynor relaxes in her Hollywood home. She says that everyone must take a stand in life in order to find true happiness.

BY MITZI GAYNOR

IT IS A SAD FACT OF LIFE that many of us today are totally uncommitted to anything—to a way of life, to a philosophy, to a religion.

We're content to go along with the stream of conformity, accepting someone else's word for a fact, letting George do it.

This attitude is a particular source of concern to me—because a woman with a career is in danger of becoming a vegetable. She doesn't want to offend any segment of the public. She has a "spokesman" for every phase of her activities, professional and personal. She "belongs" to everyone and everything without really being a part of it—if she isn't careful.

I was at a chic cocktail party last year at the home of producer Ross Hunter, when I suddenly awakened to my own conversation. The clichés I was mouthing were those of someone else. I had heard a similar discussion about a political situation the day before and I found myself saying the safe things proposed by someone I trusted. But were these ideas really mine? Had I bothered to learn the facts and interpret them myself? I felt I was floundering.

I listened to the murmur of chitchat around me. I wondered if I were alone in this fearful negligence.

You Have to Belong

You cannot stay "alive" without belonging to something. Civilizations have died for the want of commitment. Individuals wither. You're got to make a decision for a way of life, a set of standards, and refer to those standards regularly—or you will never be a whole person.

So many people I know are afraid to give of themselves. There is no other way to receive anything—contentment, respect, love—than to give of yourself. Philosophers, theologians, psychologists have expounded this by-product of commitment—you can prove it to yourself.

So many people I know are afraid to express themselves. Don't hesitate to speak up, even if it is to admit you know nothing of the subject under discussion.

In our President's book, Profiles in Courage, everyone singled out was a man with a commitment, someone who knew what he stood for, who resisted pressure to alter his standards.

We are all learning to live with pressure, the drive that swallows time. We must take periodic refresher courses, to re-study ourselves, to re-dedicate ourselves.

You will never have peace of mind until you know who you are, what you represent and where you're going—this is a lesson I've already learned from life.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by LENNY KENT

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lenny Kent, a native New Yorker, entered show business when he was 12 by singing and dancing in Bronx clubhouses on weekends. Lenny won several dance contests and might have made it as a hoofer had he not joined Jackie Miles in a comedy duo. Kent spent 6 years with Miles and after the team split up in 1937 wrote a song called Hold Tight which became a best-seller recorded by the Andrews Sisters. Since those early days, Lenny has played all the top nightspots in the nation. He is best known for his quick ad-lib wit and rapid-fire delivery. At the moment Kent is single, lives in Hollywood, hosts various TV shows such as Around Town and many others, on which he tells such jokes as these:

Joseph Kennedy has a new record album out. It's called My Sons—The Government.

President Kennedy says that if one more comedian does an album about him it will be the first case of a President shooting an actor from the balcony.

I like money as well as the next guy, but can you really tell me what's the good of being rich? A man with one watch knows what time it is. A man with two watches is never sure.

I used to wonder why they never have women for after-dinner speakers...but now I know. It's because no woman can wait until after dinner to say what she has to say.

Be kind to your friends...If it weren't for them, you'd be a stranger.

The girl's mother opened the door and spoke gently to the young man: "Doris was sorry to break the date. But the truth is she wasn't feeling very well, so she decided to go out with a young doctor instead."

Some people bring happiness wherever they go. Some, whenever they go.

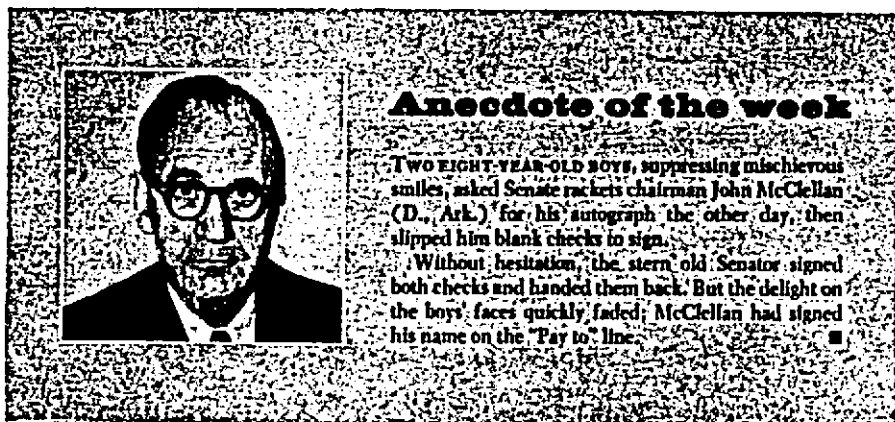

That income tax I had to pay a little while ago was really rough. Some people have a monkey on their back. I think I've got an eagle on mine.

Definition of love: A lot of dame foolishness.

Ever been to Beverly Hills? What a town! They have people out there who make a living just selling maps to all the movie stars' homes. And I've finally discovered who buys all those maps—burglars... Another thing about Beverly Hills. It's the only city on the world where the mailmen carry alligator mailbags.

I haven't heard anything about the Mona Lisa for some time, but that's show business. You don't work for a few weeks and everybody forgets you. It's no wonder the Mona Lisa was so popular while she was here a few months ago. She was the only thing from France that's smiled at us in years.

Everybody has something witty to say about money. For example, they say that you can't take it with you. True enough. But these days where can you go without it?

Anecdote of the week

TWO EIGHT-YEAR-OLD BOYS, suppressing mischievous smiles, asked Senate racketeer chairman John McClellan (D., Ark.) for his autograph the other day, then slipped him blank checks to sign.

Without hesitation, the stern old Senator signed both checks and handed them back. But the delight on the boys' faces quickly faded; McClellan had signed his name on the "Pay to" line.

A stirring article for Memorial Day:

'The price of freedom...'

WASHINGTON, D.C.

JUST AFTER THE NUCLEAR SUBMARINE Thresher was lost, Mrs. Edmond Kaluza, whose son Edmond, Jr., was among the 129 men who went down with the ship, went to her mailbox and found a letter. It was in a vellum envelope with a return address printed in blue, and the postmark read "Washington, D.C." Mrs. Kaluza tore it open.

"Dear Mrs. Kaluza," the letter read. "Mrs. Kennedy and I want to express our very deepest sympathy in the loss of your son aboard the USS Thresher . . .

"It is a sad fact of history that the price of freedom must be paid again and again by our best young men in each generation. Your son has joined the other defenders of this nation who have given their lives for their country. . . ."

That morning, 128 other letters to families of Thresher crew members were arriving at homes all over the U.S. Like Mrs. Kaluza's, each was sent and signed by the President of the United States. For President Kennedy makes a point of writing a personal letter of sympathy to the next of kin of all members of the armed forces lost in action or in training. And in each he sounds the message that servicemen who die in peacetime give their lives for freedom just as much as those who die in war.

This Memorial Day, as we pay tribute to the dead of American wars, this Presidential correspondence, with its message of homage to the casualties of peace, is being revealed for the first time. And with it are many brave and courageous letters written in reply to the Presidential letters of sympathy.

Mrs. Wedemeyer

Capt. Wedemeyer

One of the most inspirational of these letters came recently from Mrs. Henry C. Wedemeyer, Jr., of Poplar Bluff, Mo., whose Air Force career officer husband was killed last November while practicing touch-and-go landings with a C-130 at Seward AFB, Tenn. One month after her husband's death, Mrs. Wedemeyer gave birth to their second child.

"My husband," she wrote the President, "put his love of country above love of life. He was ready and willing to lay down his life for his country. Thus, I can say that he happily made the supreme sacrifice."

"In your inaugural address you said

The White House has made public letters from relatives of persons killed because they represent a sad but heartening reminder of the strong love of country in the American people. This article also serves as a reminder of the hazards of military life in the 1960s. The authors of the letters have in each case given PARADE permission to publish their letters.

words to this effect: 'Ask not what your country can do for you, but, rather, what you can do for your country.' Preparing himself to defend his country was what my husband did, and he did that well."

"I am very proud of my husband and want someday for his 2-year-old son and 10-day-old daughter to know what a fine man he was. Your letter will help me show them when they are old enough to understand."

Mrs. Knighten

Cmdr. Knighten

A similar theme of dedication and love of country was sounded by Mrs. Lenora B. Knighten of Charlotte, N.C., whose husband, a Naval Air Reserve flier, was a "weekend warrior." Lt. Cmdr. Arthur W. Knighten died heroically with eight others when he piloted his crippled aircraft into an ammunition dump near Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, Calif., rather than hit a housing development full of children.

"I have two children, a son, Arthur William, Jr., 12, and a daughter, Nancy Lee, 10," Mrs. Knighten wrote the President after receiving his expression of sympathy. "They both have a sense of patriotism that their father instilled in them long before his death. I think this was evident when Artie went to school and raised the flag just a few hours after he learned of his dad's death."

And Mrs. John F. Hamel, Jr., of Tenaflly, N.J., whose husband died in a helicopter accident near Fort Devens, Mass., wrote:

"My only comfort is that he died doing what he loved most. I was very proud of his being a career Army officer and know he felt deeply the responsibilities he assumed in the service of his country."

"Your letter means a great deal to me, and will, someday, help my three young children to know how meaningful their father's life was."

One of the most difficult letters the President had to write went last summer to Maj. Gen. William F. Train, Jr., the commandant of the Army War College, Carlisle, Pa., when his son, William III, a brilliant young officer, was killed in a mishap in Vietnam.

General Train replied:

"We are so anxious that our nation remember him not just as another casualty of the cold war, nor even as our only son, but rather as a loss to the Army and to the nation, of one of its promising, courageous young officers. We buried him at West Point on 9 July in the hallowed ground of the military academy whose motto of 'duty, honor, country' he lived during his brief life."

Not long ago, the President received one of the most agonizing letters of all. It came from Mrs. Bobbie Lou Pendergrass, of Santa Ana, Calif., whose brother, Spec. 5 James D. McAndrew, had been killed in the helicopter war in Vietnam.

"Please," Mrs. Pendergrass wrote, "I am only a housewife who doesn't even claim to know all about the international situation, but we have felt so bitter over this—can the small number of our boys over in Vietnam possibly be doing enough good to justify the awful number of casualties? It seems to me that if we are going to have our boys there, we should send enough to have a chance—or else stay home."

In reply, the President wrote a two-page letter. In it he traced the whole situation in Vietnam, back through the Eisenhower Administration to its beginnings in French colonialism. He tried to explain why we are there, and expounded a little of his philosophy of why men must die in time of peace.

"If Vietnam should fall," the President wrote, "it will indicate to the people of Southeast Asia that complete Communist domination of their part of the world is almost inevitable. Your brother was in Vietnam because the threat to the Vietnamese people is, in the long run, a threat to the Free World community, and ultimately a threat to us also. For when freedom is destroyed in one country, it is threatened throughout the world. . . ."

"I believe if you can see this as he [James McAndrew] must have seen it, you will believe as he must have believed that he did not die in vain. Forty-five American soldiers [as of March 6, 1963, when the letter was dated], including your brother, have given their lives in Vietnam. In their sacrifice they have earned the eternal gratitude of this nation and other free men throughout the world."

"Sincerely, John F. Kennedy."

EASY DOLLARS. Of all the world's currencies, easiest to counterfeit is the U.S. dollar. That's the opinion of Marcel Sicot, secretary-general of Interpol, the international police organization. This is why most counterfeiters throughout the world concentrate on turning out fake dollars. Most difficult currency to copy is the French banknote.

EUROPE'S WORST. Worst drivers in Europe are the Germans. Last year 14,000 of them were killed. Says the German magazine, Quick: "The German driver is aggressive, ruthless and always thinks he is in the right -- even at the risk of collision."

REVEALING. Know how to tell a man's nationality? Watch him examine an automobile. According to the organizers of the International Auto Show in New York, if a man feels the upholstery first, he's British. If he looks at the engine first, he's German. If he first sounds the horn, he's Italian. And if he starts arguing right off about the price, he's American.

TEMPTING DOMESTICS. The British have launched a plan to revive a declining feature of traditional British life -- the domestic servant. Most Britishers refuse to enter domestic service. Nowadays they consider it beneath them. The result is that currently the largest percentage of the domestics in the United Kingdom is Italian.

Employment agencies are advertising in Scotland and northern England, where there is a high rate of unemployment, for young men and women to enter domestic work. The idea is to give British domestic labor a "new and acceptable image."

HEALTH FOOD. An apple a day does keep the doctor away. More than a thousand students at Michigan State have been munching apples for the past three years with beneficial results. They have fewer colds and altogether fewer respiratory ailments. In fact they enjoy better general health than students who don't eat apples.

ARCHERY LANES. Making a determined bid for a slice of the American recreation dollar are the new automated indoor archery lanes. A dozen such centers have opened throughout the country recently. Archery lanes are laid out like bowling alleys, with automatic moving targets. Equipment manufacturers hope to make the sport as popular as bowling.

BONANZA. Moviegoers in Mexico City generally cannot be charged more than 4 pesos (32 cents) to see any movie. This is one reason why the Mexican motion picture industry is in the doldrums. Another is that the Latin-American market has dried up -- too many revolutions, too much inflation.

He's a one-man 'fire department'

MOHAWK, ORE.

WHEN A PICKUP TRUCK with a siren and flashing red lights is heard racing down the roads of this timber-growing town, people drop everything and give chase. They know it's Ralph Keeney off to another fire—and he might need help.

Mohawk, unincorporated and with only 500 citizens, has no organized fire protection, volunteer or professional. Keeney is all there is—but that's more than enough. With no official standing, no tax money and no training as a fire-fighter (he learned from a fireman friend who helped him build a kitchen once), he's put out some 15 fires in the past few years, saved thousands of dollars in property and won the gratitude of neighbors for miles around.

Fires are a special hazard in forest country. Keeney himself owns a 400-acre tree farm, and it was to protect this investment that, 8 years ago, he purchased his truck, mounted a 200-gallon tank, pump and 500 feet of hose on it and turned it into a fire engine. He used it to put out a few small fires on his property. When the news got around, people began calling him whenever they had fires.

Today Keeney maintains citizens' band two-way radios for emergency calls. They go where he goes, are turned on 24 hours a day. He can also be reached by phone. If he goes on vacation, he turns the truck over to a responsible neighbor to stand the vigil.

WHEN AN ALARM DOES COME, Keeney moves fast. His truck is always close by, its water tank full, its equipment in order. He jams on a steel helmet, swings behind the wheel, starts the siren and lights and roars off. Other cars pull out of driveways in his wake—neighbors anxious to see where the fire is and whether they can help.

Keeney's toughest fight came when a farmhouse caught fire. The farmer and his family were away, and by the time the alarm was sounded, the farmhouse was all but gone. Keeney's quick arrival and determined struggle kept the fire, whipped by the wind, from eating into the surrounding forest.

Another time Keeney spotted a brush fire on the near-by Union Pacific railroad tracks and raced to the scene. Railway workers moved some flatcars so Keeney could get his hose to where the blaze was, and the fire was promptly extinguished. A railroad fire truck had also been summoned to the site—arriving three hours after the fire was out.

"Fire fighting is like first aid," Keeney says. "It's mostly knowing what not to do." Undisturbed by his lack of formal training, he has no desire to expand his "fire department" or put it on a professional basis.

He just plans to go on putting out fires.

—SID ROSS

Walkie-talkie (above) mounted on truck enables Keeney to answer distress calls even when out working on his 400-acre tree farm. This call reported brush fire; Keeney raced to scene (below), quashed the spreading flames.

Shouldering into lumber-jacket, Keeney gets hurried description of a fire on kitchen phone as wife watches.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Only 50¢ A MONTH

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You can find it hard to believe...

...at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.
